Matchmaker Flynn is endeavoring to secure a suitable opponent for Snooks Lacey, clever little colored battler from the West Side, for the opening bout of the evening. Snooks hasn't shown much in Norwich but has made favorable impressions in other rings where he has boxed.

Shyma Five Practice

All those who wish to try out for berths on the Shyma club basketball team have been asked to report at the parish hall this evening at 7:15 o'clock. The candidates reporting will be put through a short practice.

Athletes Still May Flunk

CHICAGO—(AP)—The Illinois High School Athletic association has refused to amend the rule which defines high school athletes as eligible who failed in one course the preceding semester.

Gold Beats Belanger

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 27—(AP)—Marty Gold, Philadelphia flyweight, won the decision from Frenchy Belanger, Canadian champion, in a non-title eight round bout tonight.

FICUCELLO WINS VERDICT OVER AL FRIEDMAN

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 27—(AP)—Ralph Ficucello, Brooklyn heavyweight, tonight won a decision over Al Friedman, Boston, in a ten round feature bout here.

Ficucello and Friedman both weighed 188.

The decision was unpopular, the spectators booing it for several minutes after the finish of the bout. Ficucello received a bad cut on the eye and a bloody nose, while Friedman came out unscathed. The referee's score sheet gave Ficucello 48 points and Friedman 45.

Both men fought at top speed throughout, Friedman landing the first blow in most of the rounds.

There were no knockdowns. In the sixth round Friedman staggered Ficucello with a right to the jaw. Ficucello scored heavily in the infighting with right and left uppercuts.

In the semi-final, Leo (One Punch) Williams, 183, New York, knocked out Tiger Flowers, 175 1-2, Dover, N. H., in the fourth round of a scheduled eight round bout.

Al Rowe, 131 1-2, Philadelphia, outpointed Connie Mello, 134 1-4, Waterbury, in six rounds.

Lou Bogash, 171 1-2, Bridgeport, knocked out Maxie Goldberg, 168, Brooklyn, N. Y., in the second round of a scheduled eight round match.

Big Kid Chocolate, 198, New Haven, formerly of Little Rock, Ark., won on a technical knockout over Dan Risko, 216, Stamford, in the fifth round of a scheduled six rounder.

BULKELEY WINS FROM WINDHAM HIGH TEAM

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON Oct. 27—Bulkeley defeated Windham this afternoon at Mercer field in the playoff of their game that was postponed last Saturday. The score was 13 to 6. By winning Bulkeley created a triple tie for second place in the standing, sharing the runner-up post to Westerly with Stonington and Windham.

Bulkeley took a 7-0 lead in today's game in the second quarter when St. Germain went over for the touchdown while in the fourth period Windham came back with a touchdown but did not convert the extra point. Bulkeley then tallied six more points shortly after on a touchdown by Lathrop to make the final score.

The season has now reached the halfway mark and the standing of conference teams follow:

	W	L	T	Pts.	G's to play
Westerly	3	0	0	6	2
Bulkeley	1	1	1	3	2
Stonington	0	0	3	3	2
Windham	1	2	1	3	1
N. F. A.	1	1	0	2	3
Chapman Tech	0	2	1	1	2

It will be remembered that the standing is worked out on the points basis. Two points are awarded for a victory and one for a tie.

Norwich Town Wildcats Win

The Norwich Town Wildcats completely white-washed the Ice House Gang in Sunday's football game by the score of 70 to 0 at the Norwich Town field. Touchdowns were scored by the following: Lavarge 3, Cummings 4, Murphy 2, Mullins 2, and safeties were scored by Spicer 2. The Norwich Town team played very well as a whole while John Beans was the only big light in the Ice House Gang. Beans, the flashing end, received a big hand from the crowd and all regreeted when he had to be taken out of the game in the last quarter he being badly hurt by Smith, opposing end.

Officials for the game were Kivlin referee, Mara and Jarvis linesmen and Tamals timekeeper. There was a very large crowd of Norwich Town rooters on hand the first time this year. The Norwich Town team issued a challenge to the Laurel Hill Bulldogs. If accepted answer through this paper.

CHOCOLATE KNOCKS OUT DOYLE IN FIRST ROUND

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 27—(AP)—Kid Chocolate, Cuban featherweight, knocked out Mickey Doyle, of Pottsville, Pa., tonight in the first round of a ten round feature bout here. Each weighed 127 pounds.

Chocolate, fighting his second match since returning from a visit to Cuba, finished his man with a right to the chin after two minutes 22 seconds of the opening round. Doyle furnished no opposition, sticking entirely to defense, until the Cuban flash feinted an opening with his left and crashed over the one real punch of the fight.

Eastern Football Briefs

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 27—(AP)—Apparently having found the spark missing so far this season in the crushing of Princeton, 31 to 0, Navy gridders were given a holiday today and were content to limber muscles in the first day of preparation for West Virginia Wesleyan next Saturday.

NEW YORK—Cornell, tough and powerful, loomed on Columbia's horizon today with nothing better for inspiration toward a victory next Saturday than a meager 3-0 victory over Williams last week. So Lou Little's varsity went back to the beginning today, drilling two hours on fundamentals.

PITTSBURGH—Pitt took a day off, first since the season started, and nursed the wounds left in Notre Dame's crushing victory last Saturday. Only two practices will be held before the team leaves Wednesday night for Lincoln and the coming battle with Nebraska.

ITHACA, N. Y.—Coach Gil Dobie buckled his Red Cornell squad down to a lengthy signal drill in the first of a four day drive for the Columbia game. Scrimmages are on the program for the next three days with the final workout in New York Friday.

PRINCETON, N. J.—The downtrodden Tigers, without a major victory so far this season, rested today before starting work on the Chicago assignment for next Saturday. Jack James, sophomore back, was the only regular injured in the loss to Navy, but he will be in shape for Stagg's eleven.

NEW YORK—Chick Meehan started out today to wipe fumbling out of his Violet squad before Carnegie Tech gets here next Saturday. A fumble by Jim Tanguay gave Fordham a chance to score the only touchdown made in the game with the Violets. The varsity worked out against Carnegie formations.

WEST POINT, N. Y.—Army reserves had the practice fields entirely to themselves today as the regulars who tied Yale took a day of rest. The scrubs went through light exercises and signal drill. Some of the bruised regulars may not face South Dakota here Saturday.

BRUEN RESIGNS AS MANAGER OF GARDEN

NEW YORK, Oct. 27—(AP)—Frank J. Bruen voluntarily resigned today as manager and vice president of the Madison Square Garden corporation, it was announced at the Garden. He had filled the post, formerly held by the late Tex Rickard, since June, 1929.

William F. Carey, president, said no effort had been made as yet to find a successor but it is expected that Carey himself will serve as manager of the Garden until one is chosen.

Bruen explained that his reason for resigning was the difficulty of handling the job, together with his duties as general manager of the Miami race track.

Carey, praising Bruen's work at the Garden, said he was sorry to have him leave. Although he never had any connection with boxing, Bruen took over the reins which had been handled by Carey immediately after the death of Rickard and had run the Garden to the corporation's satisfaction since. It was reported, however, as early as last winter, that the press of his racing interests would compel him to resign.

34 GOLF, TENNIS TOURNEYS LURE FLORIDA TRADE

PALM BEACH, Fla.—(AP)—The golf stick and tennis racket will semaphore a more persuasive welcome than ever to this winter's Florida east coast tourist crop.

Up to date no fewer than 34 golf and eight tennis tournaments and featured contests have been announced for the resort cities strung along the Atlantic from Jacksonville to Miami.

In 12 of the programs, champions of both sexes, pros and amateurs, will do battle for international, national, regional and state titles.

Season prospectuses list these events as headliners:

St. Augustine: National amateur championship of golf club champions, February 3-7; ninth annual southeastern tennis championship, March 17-21.

Ormand Beach: Women's South Atlantic golf championship, February 24-28.

Palm Beach: Women's golf championship of Florida, February 16-20; women's tennis championship of Florida, singles and doubles, February 23-28; men's tennis championship of Florida, singles and doubles, March 2-7; southern professional tennis championship, March 10-14.

Miami and Miami Beach: Dixie amateur golf championship, February 23-27; international four ball team championship, March 8-12; La Gorce open golf championship, $15,000, March 19-21.

Among other items are the artists' and writers' annual mid-winter golf tournament at Palm Beach, won last year by Grantland Rice, and the Palm Beach Old Guard tournament, aged and honorable mid-season attraction.

LONE REFEREE TO DECIDE BOXING BOUTS IN PARIS

PARIS—(AP)—A lone referee henceforth will rule over all important boxing bouts staged in France.

This is one of the innovations brought back to Europe by the American promoter, Jeff Dickson, after his two months' visit to the United States.

Dickson has announced his decision to eliminate the three judges who hitherto have turned in their votes to the referee after each bout.

The thrill which the boxing fans get out of the immediate decision, the referee reaching over as soon as the final gong and lifting the victorious battler's fist aloft, is Dickson's reason for the change.

274,000,000 Played Games

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Participants in games in outdoor playgrounds of 945 cities last year numbered 274,000,000. This does not include the millions using athletic fields, golf courses, bathing beaches and similar areas.

OKLAHOMA AGGIES HAVE A 'CARNERA' ON FROSH SQUAD

Don Conners, a freshman fullback at Oklahoma A. and M. college, towers above a teammate, Roy Berry.

STILLWATER, Okla.—(AP)—A "Carnera of the Gridiron" may be tearing up the turf with the Oklahoma A and M. football team next year.

Don Conners, a member of this year's yearling team, weighs 255 pounds in playing condition, is 6 feet 4 inches tall, and can't get his feet into any shoe smaller than 11 1-2. He is believed the biggest fullback in the country.

Conners' waist measures 38 inches, his chest, normal, 51 inches. Take it from Harold James, freshman coach, Conners has the makings of one of the best backs in the game.

Conners is an Osage Indian.

RIGLER CALLS EARNSHAW 'BEST SINCE MATHEWSON'

CLEVELAND—(AP)—George Earnshaw, says Charles Rigler, veteran National league umpire, is the greatest righthander since Christy Mathewson.

Rigler, who was one of the National league umpires in the world's series between Earnshaw's club, the Philadelphia Athletics, and the St. Louis Cardinals, said Earnshaw in addition to his speed had an assortment of curves that equaled anything in the National league.

"In one game," Rigler said, "eight out of ten balls Earnshaw pitched were curves. It was not until the last game that he really cut loose with his speed.

"The sun went down after the first two innings, and the big pitcher actually had the Cards swinging in self protection."

Million From Tourists

DULUTH, Minn.—(AP)—Summer tourists spent approximately $1,000,000 in this head-of-the-lakes region of Minnesota alone during the past season, says the chamber of commerce.

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

The Shelton Looms

Operated by Sidney Blumenthal & Company, Inc. Factories at Shelton, Uncasville and Bridgeport, and at South River, N. J.

Seventy-five years ago, two New York men with a vision went into partnership. They saw the time was ripe for a firm to import things of beauty to the new world from the old. They were men of action as well as of ideas. And so it came about that the firm of I. (saac) and A. (ugust) Blumenthal was founded to import products from Europe.

At that time textile manufacturing in the United States was undeveloped. With the passing years, conditions altered and after the Civil war, there was a marked change in manufacturing possibilities. In 1887, A. and S. Blumenthal, successors to the earlier firm, had a new belief. It was that beautiful things could be produced here instead of importing them. So the firm took a long step ahead and began its career as manufacturers.

The story of the Shelton looms is more than that of one enterprise—it is, in a measure, the story of the progress of textile manufacturing in America.

A yard of ribbon was the first product to come from its looms. These ribbons found such favor that the manufacturing quarters in West Thirtieth street were soon overtaxed, so in 1889 the plant was moved "out of the city." The address was 200-210 West 89th street, New York.

The city and the firm grew together. The McKinley tariff bill making it possible, velvets had been added in 1891 and the demand for them was so great that more space was necessary than was available in West 89th street—now not quite so "out of the city." So the first building of their new plant was built on the banks of the Housatonic river at Shelton, Conn., in 1898. In the belief that concentration of effort was necessary if its velvets were to live up to the ideal of being the choicest, it was decided to discontinue ribbon making and focus both research, manufacturing, and intense market study on velvets. It was in 1899 that the last yard or ribbon came from the looms and the firm was incorporated under its third name—Sidney Blumenthal & Co. Inc.

Upholstery and drapery fabrics were added to millinery and dress velvets. In 1906 plush made of rayon was produced by The Shelton Looms—the first, it is believed, ever made.

Beauty and originality cannot be measured by a yard-stick nor added in a column. To tell the whole story of The Shelton Looms one must at least mention such fabrics as "Kerami," "Waterfall," Brytonia," "Lameera," "Chadwick," "Continental," "Sheltmohr," "LaLoie Silvel," etc. They have contributed to the sum total of beauty in industry.

Artists in texture, in color, and in line bring their knowledge and inspiration to the creation of new fabrics by The Shelton Looms. They anticipate change sin style, in taste, and when the change becomes a fact, they are ready with what the public will want. Experimentation and research go on all the time. The Shelton Looms products were distinguished by honorable mention in the exhibition of the Architectural league, and have often formed part of the industrial exhibits in the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

With the added plant of The Saltex Looms, Incorporated (recently acquired), The Shelton Looms now comprises more than 1,000 wide double-shuttled plush and velvet looms, the largest equipment owned by any one manufacturing company in the United States making pile fabrics. The manufacturing facilities of Sidney Blumenthal & Co., Inc. (the parent corporation) provide a potential productive capacity in money volume that is the largest in the world among makers of its class of textiles.

The corporation does all of its weaving, dyeing and finishing, and also block, screen, and roller printing. It has two spinning plants—one for mohair; the other for silk.

The impressive collection of structures and their aggregate floor space, housing machinery and technical equipment needed for manufacturing processes and personnel activities, comprise a plant of over 70 buildings at Shelton and numerous buildings at South river, N. J., a complete unit at Uncasville, as well as the newly acquired Saltex Looms at Bridgeport. There are well over 125 buildings in this composite group.

The total floor space under roof is well over 30 acres. Every available modern device of electrical, steam, and mechanical apparatus, is utilized. Leadership attained by The Shelton Looms is largely based on new procedures and methods evolved by the company in the creation and manufacture of new and original products.

The corporation has permanent offices in Detroit and San Francisco. It has representatives and salesmen in all trade centers of the United States. It has a staff of art advisors, designers and fashion experts in Europe, as well as America, keeping it constantly abreast of style trends.

The Shelton Looms has one major object: To interpret in the highest and yet the most practical sense the needs of modern business wherever it demands pile fabrics (velvets, plushes, etc.) for whatever purpose.

WESTERLY

BIG CROWD GREETS AL SMITH AT WESTERLY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Oct. 27.—Democratic campaign spell-binder, former candidate for president, and governor of New York state, Alfred E. Smith was a short time Westerly visitor on Monday afternoon. He occupied a private combination observation Pullman car attached to the rear end of the Shoreliner express on the New Haven railroad, scheduled to make the Westerly station stop at 4:38 p. m. There was a group of some 25 or 30 well wishers and democratic sympathizers who gathered at the west end of the station platform when the express drew into the station. The express made but a short station stop as its arrival was delayed until 5 p. m., due to the fact that the Knickerbocker limited express which preceded it was late and did not pass the Westerly station until on the Shoreliner's time, some 20 or more minutes late. This caused the express on which "Al's" car was attached to leave early in an attempt to make up some of its lost time.

The delay in the express arrival and the short stay in Westerly did not lessen the ardor of his well wishers for in response to cheers the rear door of the private car was opened and out stepped the former governor, brown derby and all. Joseph Delaney, of the Westerly democracy, was the first to extend his hand to Mr. Smith, who warmly grasped it and then continued handshaking, including some women visitors, until after his car began rapidly to leave the Westerly station. With a final wave of the brown derby and a goodbye Mr. Smith re-entered his private car.

At the Monday afternoon meeting of the Westerly highway committee a resolution was received and a vote passed in which the Westerly legislators to the Rhode Island general assembly were requested to seek legislation to have Granite street from Grove avenue and Broad street to the Pawcatuck river bridge taken over by the Rhode Island state board of public roads.

A typewriter was apparently the only missing property at Milos' Market, which was broken into and entered either late Sunday night or in the early hours of Monday morning. Entrance to the market was effected in the rear from a skylight in the roof and the intruder used matches to light his way about the place. Nothing else of much value was found missing when a check-up was made and even some pennies in the cash register were untouched.

The thieves in this instance must have been athletically inclined, for the skylight over the sausage manufacturing room is at least 14 feet from the floor, which would be considerable of a drop in the dark.

A pane of glass was removed from it, and the thief or thieves let themselves down to the floor. After a search had revealed nothing of value, the problem of getting out of the place arose.

There is a table in the room and upon this the thief put a stepladder. By climbing to the top of this he could grasp some steampipes under the skylight, and he evidently pulled himself up on them and got out the same way by which he gained entrance.

That the break occurred either last night or early Sunday morning is certain, for Saturday morning William Clarke, one of the clerks, visited the store, and about 8 o'clock the proprietor, Henry Clarke, was in the market. Nothing out of the way was noted by either.

It was when the store was opened this morning that the stepladder was found on the table and it was evident that someone had entered the place.

Officer LeRoy Norman of the Westerly police department was notified and he in turn informed Chief Thomas E. Brown of the break.

Two youths who have been suspected of taking part in recent store breaks in Westerly are now being held in jail, so that in this instance they will have perfect alibis. It appears as though there must be others with itching fingers whom the police have not yet cornered.

H. Rothemich, of Pawtucket, R. I., was a Westerly business caller on Monday.

J. Howard Alger has returned to his home in Pittsburgh, Pa., from a short visit with Westerly relatives.

Thomas Higgins was the Sunday guest from Westerly with friends in Pendleton Hill.

Norwich Fire Chief Taft and party of friends were Westerly visitors on Sunday when they were motor visitors at Watch Hill.

Sergt. Ernest F. Stenhouse, of the Hope Valley barracks of the Rhode Island department of state police, visited on Sunday at his home in Westerly.

Mrs. Louis E. Crandall, of Elmhurst Farm, Lower Pawcatuck, has returned home from a week-end visit with her husband in Newport Naval hospital, Newport, R. I.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Murray have returned to their Westerly home from a visit in Philadelphia, Pa.

Karl A. Reiche, superintendent of schools in Bristol, Conn., was a Westerly motor visitor on Sunday when he called on relatives and friends.

The Misses Helen A. and Theresa G. O'Neil have returned to their Pawcatuck homes from a visit in New York city.

MONTVILLE

JOHN L. DANIELS, 92, DIES AFTER LENGTHY ILLNESS

John L. Daniels, 92, a veteran of the Civil war with company 1, 13th Connecticut volunteers, died early Monday morning at his home on the Oakdale road, Montville, following a long illness. Mr. Daniels, who came here from Waterford, has resided here for a number of years, conducting a small farm up to a few years ago when he was laid up with an injury and has been crippled since then. He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. William Bowker of New London, and by two sons, Mason C. Daniels, of Uncasville and Wallace Daniels, of Oakdale.

WM. S. BOGUE STRICKEN WHILE AT WORK MONDAY

William S. Bogue, 67, who has resided on the Power House road, Uncasville, for the past 15 years, died suddenly Monday morning about 10:30. He collapsed while at work building a three-room cottage on the premises of his son-in-law, Alfred Dufour, of Uncasville. Mr. Bogue was apparently in his usual health until stricken. He was a carpenter, widely known here. His sudden death deeply affected his friends and acquaintances who held him in high esteem. He was born in Hadlyme, Conn., in 1863. He leaves besides his wife, Delia Bogue, three daughters, Mrs. Alfred Dufour, Mrs. Alfred Dixon and Mrs. Joseph McNichols, all of Uncasville and a brother, Alden Bogue, of Waterford. Dr. J. J. Donohue, medical examiner of the town of Montville, was called and pronounced death due to heart trouble. He communicated with Coroner Edward G. McKay of Norwich who gave permission to have the body removed to undertaking parlors in New London.

Montville Trojans Organize

A group of young men is forming a basketball team, to be known as the Montville Trojans. They are planning to challenge teams in nearby towns. They have also made plans to run a series of dances in the Community house at Uncasville. The proceeds of these affairs will be used to purchase the required equipment.

A large number from here attended the exercises that were held at the submarine base in Groton Monday, marking the birthday anniversary of President Theodore Roosevelt.

How to End
RHEUMATISM

New Medicine Drives Rheumatic Poisons from Joints and Muscles

EASES PAIN FIRST DAY

Poisons in the blood settling in the joints and muscles cause rheumatism. You cannot get rid of rheumatic agony till every trace of these dangerous poisons is driven out of your system? That's why external remedies and pain deadening drugs only give temporary relief.

What you need is RU-MA, the new medicine that acts directly on the liver, stomach and blood, and expels through the natural channels of elimination the dangerous poisons that cause rheumatic misery.

No long waiting for your suffering to stop. RU-MA eases pain the first day and is the one rheumatism remedy guaranteed to free muscles and joints from all painful stiffness, swelling and lameness.

Lee and Osgood has so much confidence in RU-MA that they want every rheumatic in town to try it and guarantee money-back if it does not end rheumatism.

NOANK

A meeting of the state candidates will be held in the Odd Fellows' hall in Mystic this (Tuesday) evening for both the republican and democratic candidates. The affair has been arranged by Mystic League of Women Voters. Several from the village will attend the meeting by invitation.

Gurdon Wilcox and son Milton, of Wequetequock, have been visiting local relatives.

Eleven large trucks have been engaged in trucking filling from the town bank in Fishtown to be used in building the new highway. Work on the road is progressing rapidly.

Joseph A. Mackey, of Providence, was a recent caller on friends here.

Mrs. John Tourjee, John Morrison and Fred Rafuse attended the outing of the 8 and 40 and the 40 and 8 at Billings Pond Sunday.

Roy Abate has returned, after a visit in New Haven.

Mrs. Robert Maynard and children are spending a few days in New York.

Miss Elizabeth Daboll has returned from Hartford, where she attended the Teachers' convention.

Andrew Ramstead is home from New York, after spending the week-end with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Park spent Sunday with Providence relatives.

Miss Gertrude Brown, Mrs. Weiss, Eleanor Scaplen, Ruth Merritt, Guerinna Bracci, Betty Brown and Adeline Pozzalici attended the State Guild rally in Westerly Saturday night. At the close of the meeting a supper was served and a social evening spent.

Miss Mary Robertson is having a vacation from her duties at H. H. Park's.

Mr. and Mrs. William Meyer, of New York, spent the week-end at their summer home in the village.

Several members of Washington council, O. U. A. M., attended a meeting of the sublime degree in Westerly Saturday evening.

Charles De Biasi, of Jewett City, has been spending several days at his home on Riverview avenue.

M. O. Troy, of Springfield, spent the week-end at his cottage at Groton Long Point.

Mrs. Annie Wall, of New London, was a guest Sunday of Mrs. Eliza K. Williams.

Miss Dorothy Hahn, of South Hadley, spent the week-end at her summer cottage on Elm street.

Lucio DeBiasi has been spending several days with relatives in New York.

Mrs. Nancy Fitch and grandson, Frank, spent the week-end with relatives in Mystic.

George Snyder, of Essex, was a recent caller on friends in the village.

Ellison Carroll has returned to Pawtucket, R. I., after a visit to Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Andrews.

HOW A BLACK BEAR DELAYED A SUPPER PARTY FOR LEDYARD

Several members of the Aiki club left the village in an Amos-and-Andy open air auto on a recent evening to attend one of Ledyard's chicken pie suppers, which are known all over the country. Driver Carl Ashcraft was at the wheel and four of his pals were ready for the stretch to Ledyard. Overcoats were the style—not a knocker in a carload. A voice came from Red Eldreigh going over the rough country road to hope they had no blow-outs, for there was no spare tire. A few feet ahead a loud voice was heard. "Where am I? In Chicago? Stick them up!" Then the sad news came—a blow-out. H. Bracci, who can change a tire quick as a cat getting a mouse. In ten minutes the tire was all right. So the Amos-and-Andy auto was ready again to make for the chicken pie supper, so as not to get the part that went over the fence last.

About one and one-half miles from the church where the supper was to take place, a large animal was in the middle of the road. It was black and seemed not afraid. Driver Ashcraft called to George Deveau, "Drive that Ledyard ox or cow out of the road, so we can get by!" Deveau got out of the auto to do his stuff and came running back out of wind. "That is no cow—but a black bear!" Everybody gave him the Aiki club laugh. Then they all went and saw the four-legged beast and it was a bear, sure as they are fish in the ocean. How were they to get rid of the bear that would not let them get by! Throwing stones did not move bruin; Red Eldreigh said he might be frozen to death, standing up. That pulled a laugh. For 20 minutes the bear was still doing guard duty, holding up five hungry men. Elbert Palmer, who has a sweet voice and almost makes the eyes of a potato cry, said to the unknown bear, "If you got any heart at all you will let us get by to get our chicken pie!" The bear looked at him with a sad look, then ran into the woods out of sight, so again the party got going and reached the church, where a crowd was enjoying the supper. Getting table No. 3, where a school teacher was in charge, the Aiki members sure did get plenty to eat, with cake and pumpkin pie. A cheer was given for such a great supper. The story of the bear was told to an old-timer, who knows every inch of the woods in Ledyard. He said that is nothing, these days, for animals are hunting for something to eat and will go anywhere. I believe it was a bear. One night I went out in the woods to drive in my cows. It was dark so when I got them in the barn I turned on the lights and found I had a herd of deer. I chased them back to the woods and had to take a lantern and find my cows.

After getting all they could eat the party went across the green to grange hall to have a dance and shake down their supper in a square set. About ten sets were going on at one time. The fellow calling off said, "Swing that pretty girl on the corner!" The orchestra was from Mystic and sure knew their stuff.

Intermission came and Carl Ashcraft showed how the Harvard hop was done in six different ways. George Deveau, who can play any instrument in a batch, played a sweet potato whistler and the piano both at the same time, while Red Eldreigh sang Betty Coed. They received a big hand from the crowd. It was not long until the dancers were shaking a leg when the hands of the clock read 12 and it was time to go home. The members of the party left, praising that chicken pie supper in Ledyard.

Cleveland police said radio broadcasting led to 1,082 arrests there in a year. Two murderers were apprehended before they left the scene.

STONINGTON

Beginning Sunday Nov. 2nd the post-office lobby will be closed at noon. This has been brought about by the misuse of the lobby in the absence of officials, by the hoodlums of the borough.

Girl Scout week is being observed this week by local scouts. Sunday the scouts attended church in uniform. Monday was Mother's day, Tuesday Father's day; Wednesday, Good Turn day, with a meeting of the scouts in Fort Hill at 4 p. m. Plans for Thursday have not been announced; Friday cake sale; Saturday, scouts' own service in Fort Hill.

This (Tuesday) and Friday evenings services will be held in St. Mary's church at 7:30. Saturday, a holy day of obligation, masses will be at 5:30 and 7:30 a. m.

Mr. and Mrs. Leamon Bailey have returned from Maine.

Albert Stickney and family closed their home at Wamphassuc Point and have returned to New York for the winter.

Charles J. Ryan of Washington, D. C., is visiting here with relatives.

William Shackley of New Haven is the guest of his sister Mrs. Antone Bousa.

Supt. of Schools Carl Reichie of Bristol, Conn., visited over the week end with Judge and Mrs. L. D. Fairbrother.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. M. Paff of New York spent the week end here at their summer home on Gold street.

Charles Palmer and Roy Harper are visiting in New York city.

Mrs. Eva Ryon is spending the month in Cranston, R. I.

Local Scouts at Oyster Bay

Clifford Jones, Antone [illegible], John McDonald, Joseph Brannigan, and Joseph Kupidlowski of the Stonington Troop of Boy Scouts were among the scouts who left New London at 6:30 Saturday morning aboard the coast guard destroyer Downes for the pilgrimage to the grave of Theodore Roosevelt, at Oyster Bay, N. Y. All scouts were provided with lumber-jackets. Music was furnished by the 192nd Field Artillery band, aboard the destroyer. The party was made up of 135 Boy Scouts, 20 scout leaders and sojourners and the 28 members of the band.

Harvest Festival

The First Baptist church held its annual harvest festival Sunday. The decorations were of fruit, vegetables and flowers which were distributed after the services to the needy and sick of the borough. The following program was presented by the choir; and guest soloists. Morning service; Woman's Sextette, choir; tenor solo, Theodore Dewhurst; vocal solo, Miss Elsie Main. In the evening; chorus, choir; vocal duet, Mrs. Charles Ryon and Mrs. F. W. Back; vocal solo Ernest Duke; vocal duet, Miss Elsie Maine, and Ralph Maine; violin solo, Charles Ryon; vocal duet, Mrs. Frank Stanton, Ernest Duke.

The World Wide Guild of the church attended the state convention of guilds in Westerly Saturday evening and sang: "All the Way My Savior Leads Me."

Miss Anna Mae Krisnack and Miss Gladys Vennart of Willimantic spent the week end here.

Charles Anderson and Joseph Emerson of Danielson visited here Sunday.

AUTO ON ROOF OF FREIGHT CAR CLUE TO ACCIDENT

PEORIA, Ill., Oct. 27—(AP)—When a Michigan Central freight train pulled into Peoria today part of a wrecked automobile was discovered atop one of the box cars.

A telephone call to Chicago, 150 miles distant and starting point of the train, revealed that a woman motorist, Mrs. Beatrice Boyle, 28, had driven her machine against the car there and had been killed. So terrific was the collision that part of the automobile burst into flames and part landed on the roof of the car.

The crew had been unaware of the accident.

Louisianians stored away $11,000,000 more in savings banks the first six months of 1930 than they did the same period last year.

The Extra Cough Help
Extra In Power And Price

Creomulsion is a super-help for coughs from colds. It is for deep coughs where you dare not risk a weak help. Seven major helps are embodied in it, including the best known to medical science.

The creosote is blended, emulsified and palatable. It is to soothe the membranes and combat the germs. It presents the world's best help for coughs of this kind in a pleasant form.

There are white pine tar, wild cherry bark, menthol, ipecac, etc. All the greatest helps in one, but with no narcotic. Despite all its power and efficiency, it is harmless to a child.

Some coughs call for one help, some another. Nobody can tell. So we combine the best in Creomulsion to be safe.

Creomulsion costs $1.25—a little more than lesser helps. But all druggists guarantee it and return the full price to anyone not satisfied.

It may be too good for your cough. A lesser help might serve. But is it wise to take the risk when coughs are danger signals? Anyway, a cough from a cold which hangs on calls for this super-help. Do the best men know to be sure.

THE BEAUTY OF FINE UPHOLSTERY

The beauty of fine upholstery gives charm and distinction to the interior of the new Ford Town Sedan. In this type, as in the De Luxe Coupe and De Luxe Sedan, you may choose luxurious mohair or fashionable Bedford cord. The rear seat of the Town Sedan has a folding center arm and side arm rests. Driver's seat is adjustable. All appointments are in quiet good taste and body colors are rich and attractive. A dome light, toggle grips, and silk curtains are provided in the rear compartment.

THE sturdiness and reliability of the new Ford, so evident in the customary, every-day uses of a motor car, are revealed also in many unusual tests of stamina and endurance. Over deeply rutted roads, through desert sands and deep snow, it has gone forward to new conquests of time and distance. From every corner of the world come reports of its good performance.

In England, the new Ford won three gold medals, one silver medal, and one bronze medal in the run from London to Exeter. In Peru it won first and third places in the reliability run over the tortuous Amanceas Road. A Mexican general tells how one of the first of the new Fords in that country was driven from Acapulco to Atoyac "over a difficult country where there are no roads at all and the land is strewn with rocks and soft sand. Natives along the way saw their first automobile with positive wonder."

In Java, a new Ford was driven to the top of the Dieng Plateau, one of the highest mountains in Java. Previously the ascent to the old Hindu statues at the summit had been made only by horseback to the rest-house, thence on foot. In Poland a new Ford won the 2000-mile international race from Warsaw to Lemberg to Warsaw.

Two years ago, a new Ford fought its way along rough wagon trails to become the first car in history to cross the Peace River Block from St. John to Hudson Hope, from the Alberta boundary to the western border of the block.

In 1930, the new Ford won the winter race arranged by the Royal Automobile Club of Sweden. This race was over slippery mountain roads. At times the car was half hidden by snow. Frequently the temperature was 20 degrees below zero.

These severe tests show the enduring quality that has been built into the new Ford and its ability to stand up under gruelling driving conditions. Long, hard service will confirm your first impression of quality and increase your pride in its capable performance. The value of simplicity of design, good materials and accuracy in manufacturing is especially apparent after the first twenty-five thousand miles.

EARLY HEAVINESS IN STOCK MARKET WAS RELIEVED BY RISE IN PRICES

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(AP)— The action of the financial markets today lent encouragement to the cause of stabilization.

Stocks disregarded the failure of a brokerage firm, shaking off early heaviness and closing higher. Bonds firmed. Cotton added to last week's gains and although wheat declined the movement was far from violent. Corn improved slightly.

Today's case of insolvency involved a comparatively small house, but the market's serenity in the face of the news was in striking contrast to the bad epidemic of nerves that prevailed a week or two ago. Thus, within a few days, the market has calmly regarded a failure, the omission of an important dividend and a string of unattractive earnings reports.

Prices reacted in the earlier hours, yielding 1 to 5 points under slow selling that was a continuation of the trend evident late Saturday. Since the week end reviews revealed nothing new in the business situation, bears pushed out in some directions, especially the farm implement shares. Both J. I. Case and International Harvester touched new lows, the former breaking more than 8 points. A change in sentiment came with the turn into the final hour and pressure was withdrawn. Prices climbed readily and the previous declines were quickly recovered. Westinghouse made up a 6 point loss while U. S. Steel turned a 3 point decline into a net advance of 1 1-4. Some of the gains ran as high as 4 points.

The feature of the trading was its dullness. Sales totaled only 1,812,050 shares, the smallest turnover in some time and below the volume of some recent Saturdays.

Railroad earnings statements were prominent in the day's news and showed up rather well. Fifty-one carriers reporting for September had net operating income 10.2 per cent in excess of August's, and although the decline from September, 1929, was 17.8 per cent, the comparison was considerably more favorable than in recent months.

Brokerage circles revived the old game of guessing the U. S. Steel corporation's earnings, to be made public after tomorrow's close. Although forecasts of between $1.75 and $2 a share had been fairly unanimous, the company nearly covered its dividend in the first six months, so that the third quarter statement will show something to spare above that $7 requirement. Possibility of a $1 extra, which has been discussed off and on since early in the year, was also the subject of gossip, and notwithstanding the general belief that such a prospect was remote, some covering went forward on the theory that Steel's directors might have a surprise up their sleeves.

Railroad shares were well represented in the net gains. Atchison and Union Pacific rallied 2, Erie and New York Central 1, and Texas Pacific 3. Standard industrials like American Can, General Electric and General Motors were up about a point or two. International Harvester, 3 off at the bottom, finished 1 3-8 higher and Case recovered 3 points of its loss. Radio-Keith-Orpheum was strong with a 2 point advance. Allied Chemical, Air Reduction and Electric Autolite gained 4. Radio, heavy all day, was off 3-8, which was also the net decline in Standard Oil of New Jersey.

The drop in wheat, reflecting a bearish Argentine estimate and a disappointing increase in the visible supply, ranged from 5-8 to about a cent. Corn's half cent improvement was in response to a bullish private crop estimate and an unfavorable weather forecast. Cotton closed 40 cents to 80 cents a bale higher.

Continental exchanges eased, sterling sagging approximately 1-8 of a cent. The Canadian dollar moved upward to the neighborhood of the gold point.

Money was plentiful in the call market and available at 1 1-4 per cent, outside, although the official rate held at 2.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 27—(AP)—The upward trend of bonds which developed last week after several weeks of liquidation was resumed in today's session to the accompaniment of the smallest volume of business in a fortnight.

The better grade obligations of domestic corporations in favor with institutional buyers were firm and United States governments were generally higher. While some wide changes occurred among medium grade rails and industrials, price movement of prime issues was generally narrow reflecting the dullness of trading.

The buoyancy of Latin American issues under the leadership of Brazilians again was the principal feature of the foreign bond trading. As sharp as was the almost unprecedented break in these bonds a month ago, the rally the past 10 days has enabled many of them to recover the largest portion of their loss.

Reports of a counter revolutionary movement in Brazil were followed quickly by government announcement that they had been quelled and Brazilians rallied sharply. Brazil 6 1-2s advanced 2 points. Rio De Janeiro 6 1-2s, 3 1-2, and Rio Grande Do Sul issues soared 2 to 10 points. Compared with a 1930 low of 47 1-2 Rio Grande Do Sul 7s of 1966 closed at 70 3-8, a net gain of 10 3-8 for the day. Issues of Sao Paulo were mixed. Argentine bonds were firm, and there were some rather wide gains in Bolivian, Chilean, Colombian, Peruvian and Uruguayan obligations.

Coincident with the new steps taken by the Cuban government to help stabilize the sugar industry, the Cuba 4 1-2s rallied 4 3-4 points to a new 1930 high. The 5 1-2s were steady. Continental European bonds were fractionally higher. Greek 6s reacted about 2 points.

Rails moved more quietly than in several weeks. Prime issues were fractionally higher but bonds with a lower rating continued to drift irregularly downward on a small turnover. Chicago and Eastern Illinois 5s, Illinois Central first 4s, M. K. and T. first 4s, Missouri-Pacific 5s, F 1977, and Western Pacific first 5s, gained more than a point. Norfolk Southern 5s A and Southern Railway general 4s both touched new lows for the year, while Illinois Central 4s, International Great Northern 6s, Erie 5s of 1975, and Central Pacific Shore Line 4s, also sagged.

Utilities were generally steady. American Telephone debenture 5s and American Foreign Power 5s firmed. Ohio Public Service 7 1-2 reacted 2 and Postal Telegraph 5s lost 1.

Widest changes among industrials were on the downside. Oil companies' issues were under pressure. Weakness was displayed by California Petroleum 5s, Colon Oil 6s, Fisk Rubber 8s, Houston Oil 5 1-2s, Pure Oil 5 1-2s, and Skelly 5 1-2s. Union Oil of California 5, a warrant issue, was strong and B. F. Goodrich 6s, and Goodyear 5s rose a point.

Liberty 4th 4 1-4s duplicated the year's high in active trading. Other issues held an upward trend.

Offering will be made tomorrow of a $1,250,000, 5 1-2 per cent note issue by the Pennsylvania Greyhound Lines, Inc.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(AP)— Curb stocks moved uncertainly in a quiet session today, but developed a firm tone in the late trading.

The market sagged during the morning, in sympathy with the big board, but losses in the main were narrow. Deere was a soft spot, dropping 3 points in sympathy with farm implements on the big board, but it rallied to close off only 1 1-4. Electric Bond and Share sold off a point, then rebounded to close net 1 3-8 higher. The day's total sales aggregated only 470,100 shares.

The utilities generally closed firm, although a few of the less active issues were lower, including Electric Share Holdings and Electric Power Associates A, down 2 5-8 and 1 5-8, respectively. Brazilian Traction was an exception to the improved tone of the more active issues, closing off about a point. American Gas and Electric, Middle-West Utilities and Consolidated Gas of Baltimore gained a point each.

Natural gas stocks also pointed upward. Memphis sold up 1 3-4 and Natural Fuel Gas 1 1-2. Duquesne mounted 1-2. Oils, however, were still unsettled by the failure of petroleum prices to stabilize. Standard of Indiana and Vacuum gained fractionally, and Cities Service closed steady, but Gulf lost a point and Humble sagged 1-2.

A feature of the investment trusts was improvement in the Prince and Whitely issues, on publication of the earnings statement by the new management, indicating a liquidating value of $37 for the preferred and $3.51 per share of common. The preferred rallied 1 3-4 to 17 1-4, and the common 1-2 to 1 7-8. Goldman Sachs and United Founders advanced minor fractions, and others were quiet.

Industrials were largely neglected. Babcock and Wilcox gained 4, and Royal Typewriter and Bigelow Hartford, 2 in a few small transactions.

NEW BUNGALOW TO BE ERECTED ON LINDEN PARKWAY FOR J. F. MARCH

The contract for a new semi-bungalow house of Colonial design for J. F. March on Linden Parkway has been let to a Plainfield contractor and work will start very soon. The house will be 24x46 feet and will be finished in clapboards and shingles. The interior will be in hardwood and hard finish plaster. There will be a large fireplace in the living room. There is also a two-car garage to be built to conform to the construction of the house.

This permit for the March house is one of four permits granted by Fire Marshal Henry R. Taft during the past week. The other permits are for garages and alterations to a present garage. With the coming of the cold weather there is an apparent slackening of building in the city, the majority of the contractors having finished all but a few small jobs.

During the past week the new house for Harry Diachyshyn at the corner of Elmwood avenue and Broadway was completed by Contractor P. F. Sweeney and the house is now being occupied.

In the rear of 208 Broadway the new dwelling that has been erected by a local contractor is practically complete and ready for occupation.

The permits issued during the past week were:

To Ernest J. Ouelett to erect a two-car frame garage at 10 Gilmore street for himself. The garage will be of frame construction with stone and concrete foundation. The garage will be 18x20 feet. The estimated cost is $300.

To Victoria LaBlanc to build a frame addition to the present frame garage at 15 Boswell avenue. The garage when completed will be 18x28 feet. The estimated cost is $150.

To J. F. March to build a house of the semi-bungalow type and of old colonial architecture on Linden Parkway. The bungalow will be 24x46 feet and will have seven rooms and bath. The exterior finish will be in clapboards and shingles with composition shingles on the roof. The interior will be in hard finish plaster and hardwood floors and trim. It will be heated by steam and the piping will be of brass. The estimated cost is $5,000.

To J. F. March to erect a two-car frame garage in the rear of his new house on Linden Parkway. The garage will be 18x20 feet with concrete foundation. The exterior finish will be in keeping with that of the house. The estimated cost is $300.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—(AP)— Relief from anxiety about Argentine rust damage, together with suggestions that the Argentine wheat surplus would be hugely increased, pulled wheat prices down late today. Clearing weather reported in Argentina led to late selling of wheat here, and so too, did a forecast that the surplus of new and old wheat in Argentina this season would aggregate 239,000,000 bushels compared with only 109,000,000 bushels last season. Under such circumstances 2,163,000 bushels decrease of the U. S. wheat visible supply total was virtually ignored.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled 3-8a1c a bushel lower than Saturday's finish. Corn closed 3-8a-3-4c advanced, oats 1-8 off to 1-8c up, and provisions unchanged to 17c down.

Provisions were responsive to downturns in the value of hogs.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(AP)— Two New York cotton exchange memberships were sold at auction today. The membership of Clinton Logan was sold to Richard Harris for $19,100, and that of Mike H. Thomas was sold to Leigh M. Pearsall for $19,000. The sale of $19,000 was an increase of $1500 from the last sale privately made.

R. C. A.-Victor plants at Camden, N. J., are reported producing 8700 radio sets daily, of which about 300 are for export. Plants at present are employing 25,800 persons and it was said there has been no indication of a let down in demand from dealers and distributors.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

During the past week there were eight sales of real estate in Norwich exactly the same number as during the corresponding week in 1930. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $25,363 and $18,750.

In New London the real estate sales for the past week totaled four, a decrease of five sales from the same week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $32,800 and $64,583.

NEW LONDON

Work is now progressing on the second story of the Allyn Gallery of Art which is being built at a cost of $400,000 on the Allyn property at Williams street and Mohegan avenue.

The building is of colonial design and is being built entirely of granite. It is 50 by 100 feet and will be two stories high. The front entrance will be enhanced by granite steps leading up to the facade with four giant pillars to support the portico. These will be fashioned in Ionic design suggestive of the old Greek temples.

The roof will be entirely of glass of which more than 6,000 square feet will be required. The glass is being made by a special process of casting the glass with the wire netting which will support the glass and make it impenetrable. The purpose of having a glass roof is to flood the interior with natural light.

On the first floor is to be located a large library, director's room, and administrative offices. Eight sections in which the many works of art will be displayed are to be located on the second floor. A large auditorium will be provided for in the basement.

The excavation work has been completed in preparation for the construction of the ground floor of a new church which is to be built for the Seventh Day Adventists on the west side of Colman street just north of Dedden street. Work on the foundation is to start next week.

The new church is to be 30 by 60 feet in dimension and will be of stone construction. The plans of the congregation now provide for the erection of an upper story next year. The ground floor will have light on three sides due to the layout of the ground.

Plans provide for a school room 20 by 28 feet, a heater room and two wash rooms on the ground floor. The upper floor, when completed, will have an auditorium with a seating capacity of 350.

Building Permits

Omer Payette, garage, 139 Cedar Grove avenue, $400.

R. Grippo, alterations, 87 Jefferson avenue, $75.

Roman Potkay, addition, 38 Eastern avenue, $150.

Michael Bonanno, frame building, 72 Walbach street, $100.

Norberto Beljucel, inclose porch, 55 Sherman street, $200.

Alex Majewski, frame house, Ledyard street and Norwood avenue, $5,000.

Number of permits for the week, 7; estimated cost of buildings, $5,975.

RADIATORS ARE VITAL TO DECORATIVE PLANS

The radiator is a feature that is often overlooked in the decorative scheme of a room. Sometimes it stands out so prominently that it completely spoils the symmetry of the room and the harmony of the furnishings. If, however, it is painted to match the walls or the woodwork, or hidden beneath an attractive cover, it will blend into the background and seem a part of the wall instead of a separate and conspicuous unit.

Bronzed and silvered radiators can easily be repainted with flat paint or enamel. They should first be wiped with gasoline to remove dust and dirt, as the paint will last longer and look better if the surface is clean. Refinishing with flat paint will require two coats. For an enamel finish you will need two coats of flat paint or enamel undercoating, and a third coat of enamel.

If your walls are sponge-stippled or glazed in two colors, a matching pattern will be the best possible camouflage for the radiators. Both of these finishes are very simple to apply. Sponge stippling is done with a deep sea wool sponge, cut flat on one side. The radiator is first painted with two coats of flat paint of the same color as the wall background, using an ordinary paint brush. Then the second color is tamped on with the flat side of the sponge. These stipples or blotches should have no definite outline, as the charm of the finish lies in the irregularity of the pattern.

For a glazed or blended finish, the second coat of background color should be thicker than the first, and stippled with a stubby brush while still wet. When dry, the radiator is ready for the glaze coat. This consists of a clear glazing liquid which has been colored with paint to match the wall. It is wiped off with a piece of soft cheesecloth immediately after application, enough of the paint being left in the curves of the radiator, and to a lesser degree, on the surface, to give an "antiqued" appearance. Gray, green or ivory blended with raw sienna, van dyke brown, or burnt umber are effective combinations.

If you want something more elaborate, you can have a polychrome finish in three or more colors, such as blue and shell pink or brown and two shades of green, blended over a cream background. The first combination is suitable for a dainty bedroom while the second will lend itself more appropriately to the living room or dining room. In applying this vari-colored finish, a separate container and a separate brush should be used for each color.

In a wood-paneled room, the radiator may be brought into perfect harmony with the walls by applying a stain-in-varnish finish. If this finish is to cover bronze or aluminum paint, it will require an undercoat of flat paint.

All of these treatments are as practical and decorative for metal radiator covers as they are for the radiator itself.

HOW WINTER KILL MAY BE AVOIDED

When your lawn appears spotted in the spring and your perennials fail to grow vigorously, they probably have suffered from winter killing. This is particularly true if the lawn goes into the winter in a weakened condition due to a hot, dry summer and a lack of available plant food.

Most people think it is the freezing of the plants above the surface of the soil that does the damage, but this is not the case. It is the alternate freezing and thawing of the soil itself which causes an expansion and contraction of the soil and breaks the roots of the plant, especially those with small, weak root systems. This movement of the soil caused by freezing and thawing, is commonly called "heaving."

A balanced plant food applied on established and new lawns and around perennials in the fall develops strong, vigorous root systems that will help prevent winter killing.

BUILD FIREPLACE TO BLEND WITH HOUSE

With the approach of crisp fall weather, home owners look forward with considerable pleasure to lighting up the crackling logs in the fireplace, and prospective home builders dream of the time when they, too, can enjoy the cheer and comfort of a hearthside of their own.

The inviting appearance of a fireplace is in itself a sufficient reason for retaining it in the decorative scheme of the home and, if properly and scientifically constructed, warmth as well as beauty can be obtained.

If efficient operation is desired the fireplace should be built around a metal form heating unit which provides four grilles opening out into the room. Two near the floor draw in the cold air which is warmed while passing through metal chambers and ejected into the room again through the upper grilles. This constant circulation of air keeps the room comfortably warm—a condition which is not usual when temperature is dependent upon the main fireplace opening which loses much of the heat up the chimney.

The fireplace should be designed as an architectural part of the room and should blend with the rest of the interior. A perfectly simple fireplace and mantel may be fitting for one type of dwelling while a more elaborate one would suit another. Either tile or common brick might be used for hearth and facings.

COLORLESS GARDEN SPOTS

Make notes of the places in your garden that lack autumn and winter color. Write now for an early fall delivery of berry-bearing shrubs, trees and vines with interesting and colorful twigs and foliage. European cranberrybush (Viburnum opulus), dogwoods in variety, willows, birch, mountain-ash, bittersweet vines, and the winged euonymus, are a few members of the substantial garden family that furnish interest in the bleakest of winter gardens.

NEW HOME OF P. J. McNERNEY

The above picture is of the new home of Patrick J. McNerney on McKinley avenue extension. The house is very attractive and is of the early American architecture. It has the wide colonial clapboards and green blinds. There is a colonial porch over the front entrance and a sun parlor on the south side of the building. The interior is finished in hardwood and plaster.

BRIGHT PAPER ADDS LIFE TO SUNROOM

If questioned on the subject most families would admit that their leisure time is spent largely in the sunroom. The brightness and gay color usually found there offer an invitation and cheer that make it the most popular place to read or sew or to rest for a few moments in the midst of a busy day.

It isn't alone the sunshine that streams through the many windows that gives the sunroom this charm. It is also the habit of most decorators to fill the sunroom with gay color, grass rugs and painted furniture, gay upholstery materials and brilliant hues in the lamp shades.

However, the most vital feature in the decorative scheme is the wallpaper that brings all the flowers of a summer garden indoors for your pleasure. The walls give a splendid opportunity to use gay color attractively, and wallpaper designers, realizing the popularity of color, have offered to the public a bewildering number of lovely floral patterns of all types and shades.

Gay wallpaper strikes the keynote of cheer and warmth in many sunrooms and it adds so much to the charm of the room that the other furnishings may be comparatively simple.

FALL-PLANTED BULBS NEED NOURISHMENT

Often we plant bulbs which just don't seem to develop properly in the spring. In most cases, the reason is the lack of a good supply of balanced plant food in the fall and early in the spring.

Bulbs, as you know, make a slight root growth in the fall, and if they have an available supply of plant food at that time, they develop a stronger root system. The most important reason, however, for giving your bulbs a good supply of plant food in the fall is to have an available supply of plant food ready when growth starts early in the spring.

Bulbs start to grow so early that it is impossible to work the soil so as to give them a supply of plant food in the spring when growth is started. If plant food is applied when the bulbs are planted in the fall, it will be available for this early spring growth which is very important.

This fall when you plant your bulbs, mix a little balanced plant food with your soil in the bottom of the trench.

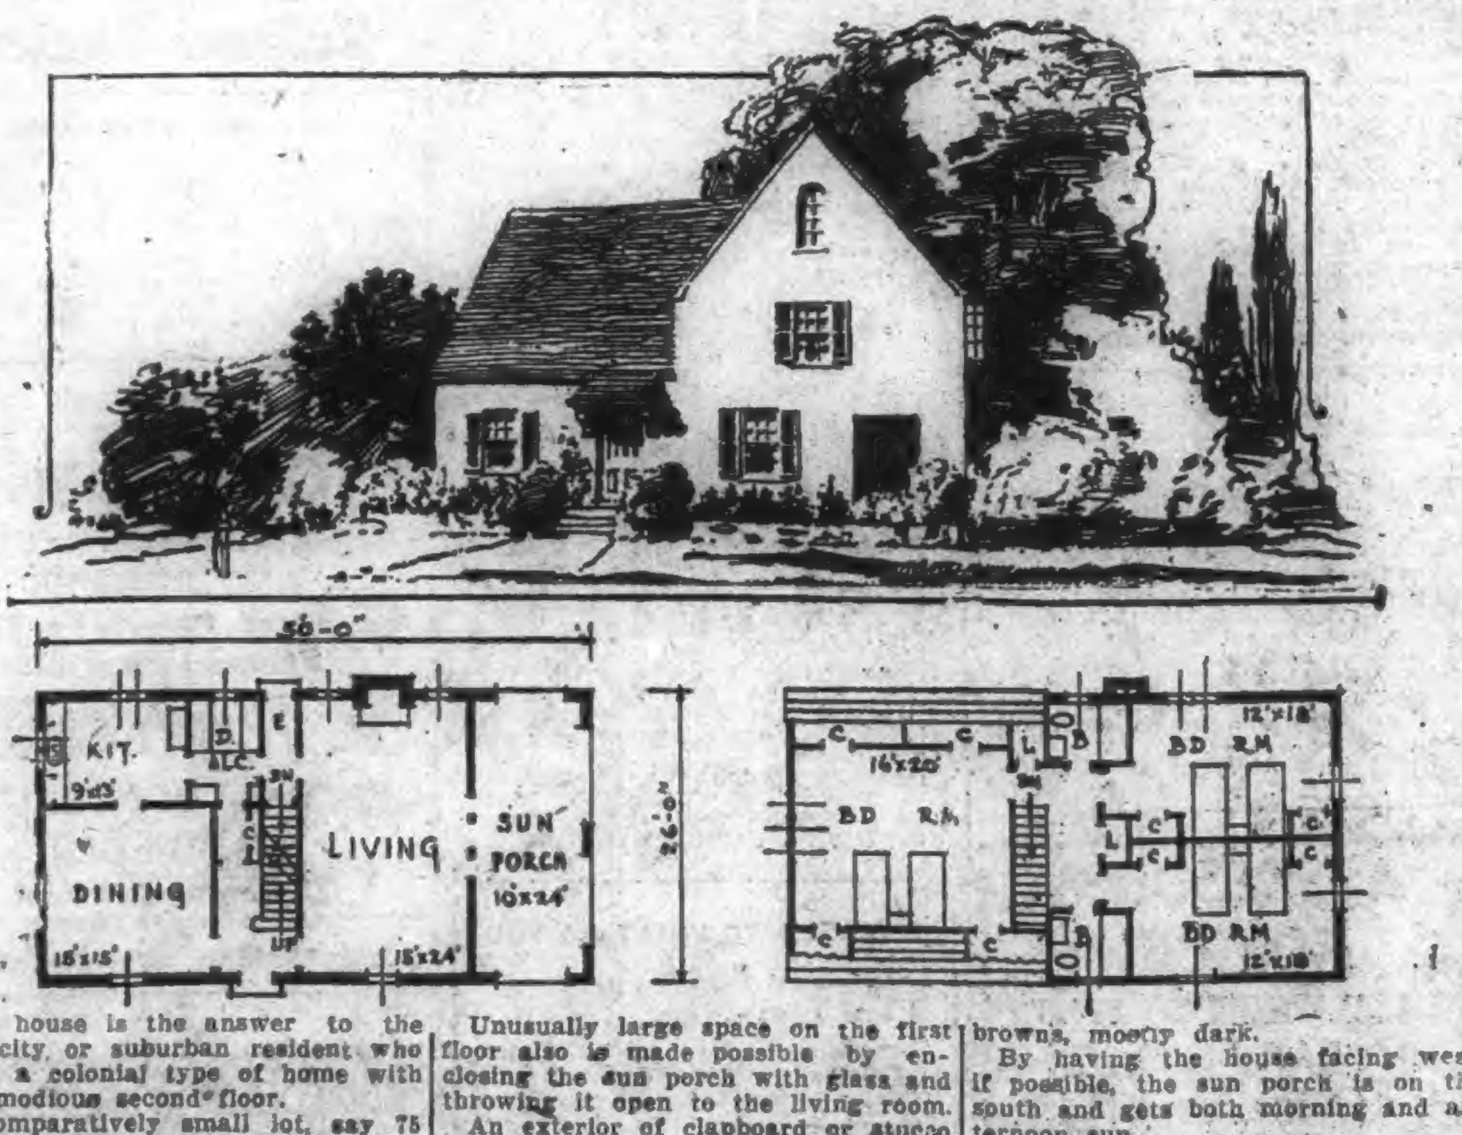
BUILDING COSTS LOWEST IN YEARS

At a recent meeting in New York of the Eastern Supply association, an organization of wholesale plumbing and heating supply concerns, it was developed that the low price of building material, low interest rates and general unemployment, present the most favorable conditions which have obtained for many years for building construction.

The general public is not fully aware of the opportunity which exists for modernizing old homes at small cost and constructing new houses at much less expense than will be possible in a short time hence.

There are a vast number of owners of old houses who do not enjoy modern comfort and health-promoting conveniences which could be purchased and installed at small expense under present conditions, and who sacrifice in rentals more than the cost of these additions.

SEVEN ROOMS FIT SNUGLY IN COLONIAL PLAN



This house is the answer to the small city or suburban resident who wishes a colonial type of home with a commodious second floor.

A comparatively small lot, say 75 by 150 feet, is required, yet by building out over the side porch three large bedrooms and two baths are included in the second floor plan.

The large gable end fronting the street likewise makes the house plan more interesting generally.

Unusually large space on the first floor also is made possible by enclosing the sun porch with glass and throwing it open to the living room.

An exterior of clapboard or stucco may be used, with white window trim and other woodwork. The shutters should be dark green, and to lend a touch of color, the shades chosen would be appropriate in light orange-yellow.

The roof is shingled in variegated browns, mostly dark.

By having the house facing west, if possible, the sun porch is on the south and gets both morning and afternoon sun.

The extreme rear end of the lot is recommended as probably the best place for a garage.

Construction costs, although varying in different localities and with materials chosen, probably would run between $10,000 and $12,000.

HIDDEN SPOTS IN HOME NEED PAINT

Many of the most inconspicuous places about the house are as much in need of paint protection as the more prominent features. Neglected spots often prove costly in the long run, although proper painting would have prevented all sorts of repairs. Back steps, for example, are often neglected because of their obscure location, yet they are subjected to harder wear than the front steps. The butcher, the baker, the ice-man and other trades people are not as light steppers as those who arrive leisurely at the front door.

Cellar steps and doors are other woodwork features that demand careful and frequent painting if they are to endure. While paint protects these surfaces from rough usage, it also causes them to fit more gracefully into the setting and, in the case of the steps, to prevent accidents.

In remodeling or building, the horse of the stair treads should be painted as well as the under sides, since these spots cannot be reached with the paint brush when the stairs are in place. The valleys, gutters, drain pipes and interior metal surfaces that are often overlooked, should be kept in condition with paint.

THE LOGICAL WAY TO GET MORE HEAT

If a room in an American home isn't warm enough, extra sections can be added to the radiators. It is a comparatively easy matter for the heating contractor to add sections to a radiator. If the radiator is in a recess where it is impossible to expand it horizontally, a radiator of a different type may be substituted and the number of square feet of radiation may be increased by having a higher radiator or by having a radiator with more tubes.

The home-owner who is thinking of increasing the radiation in his home should by all means have this work done in the fall and not postpone the job until cold weather sets in. Not only will such postponement cause inconvenience to the family in that the heating plant will be shut down at the time when it is needed, but winter is the time when most heating contractors are busy with repair jobs and then every job has to wait its turn.

Whether the boiler will be able to take care of added radiation is a matter which only an experienced and competent heating contractor can determine. If the boiler as it stands is not adequate, there are efficiency devices which may be added to increase its capacity.

BUILT-IN CABINETS ARE HIGHLY USEFUL

The housewife is ever searching for extra closet room in her domain, the kitchen, and by the use of appropriately placed built-in metal cabinets small appliances can always be in a handy place, saving her many unnecessary steps.

Cabinets for a waffle iron or an egg-beater could be built in near the preparing table of the kitchen and perhaps the electric iron cabinet near the built-in ironing board. An electric toaster would be exceptionally well-placed in a cabinet built in the wall of the breakfast nook.

Metal cabinets can be made to harmonize with the metal fittings of the kitchen, such as door handles and hinges, and also give the room a pleasing look of cleanliness and compactness.

FREE FIRE-POT COILS OF LIME DEPOSIT

The home-owner who wishes to be assured of the maximum supply of hot water in the bathroom and kitchen at minimum expense during the heating season should satisfy himself that the fire-pot heater or coil for domestic water heating in his boiler or furnace is free of lime.

Lime is the enemy of the coil for the heating of the domestic water supply. Were it not for the lime in the water, the home-owner who is careful in his firing methods might use the same coil for the life of his heating plant which in the case of a radiator heating system means virtually for the life of the house.

The lime content of the water differs in various parts of the country. Where there is a high percentage of lime in the water fire-pot heaters have to be replaced at least once a year and sometimes two or three times a year. Where there is comparatively little lime in the water a good heater or coil properly installed will give many years of satisfaction.

Many home-owners after they begin firing their boilers in the fall wonder why they are not getting as much hot water as they did the previous year. The explanation lies in the lime deposits in the coil. For this reason it is advisable for every home-owner to have a plumbing contractor or competent radiator heating engineer inspect the coil or fire-pot heater before the firing season starts.

There are other reasons why an inspection of the fire-pot heater may save trouble later in the heating season. Many coils installed years ago were made out of several pieces of pipe joined by elbows. These are not as efficient as the newer coils and heaters and they are likely to leak at the joints. It is advisable to replace them before they start to leak. A coil, particularly those located near the fuel bed, is likely to get some hard knocks with the poker, and should be inspected for this reason as well.

Many improvements have been made in the fire-pot heaters and coils in recent years. There is a generator type of heater with a five-finger construction which is especially recommended for boilers fired with hard coal, cake and gas. There is a fine pin type of heater made, so that it can be set vertically into the fire-pot of a boiler or furnace fired with soft coal.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Bobby's Courage Deserts Him

E'en when there is no danger near,
The unknown doth engender fear.
—Old Mother Nature.

Bobby Coon is no coward. Bobby doesn't go looking for trouble, but when trouble happens to come his way, Bobby isn't one to step aside. I know of no one who will fight with more courage than will Bobby Coon. No, Bobby is no coward. Still, Bobby isn't one to take foolish and needless risks.

Bobby knew now that Jimmy Skunk was going over to Farmer Brown's house every night to get a dinner. He had watched Jimmy cross Farmer Brown's dooryard, but he couldn't see just where Jimmy went. When finally Jimmy returned, he was licking his lips. By this, Bobby Coon knew that somewhere over by Farmer Brown's house Jimmy had found a good dinner. For three nights Bobby kept watch from an apple tree on the edge of the Old Orchard and saw Jimmy Skunk disappear over by Farmer Brown's house. On the fourth night he saw Bowser the Hound and Flip the Terrier go off with Farmer Brown's Boy. He knew then that the way was clear for a while; so he promptly shuffled over in the direction Jimmy Skunk had taken. At last he came to the doorstep leading to the kitchen. He shuffled along past this, for he could still smell the tracks of Jimmy Skunk. He then came to the door to the shed back of the kitchen. The door was closed. It was clear that Jimmy Skunk had not made use of either the kitchen door or the shed door, if he had gone into Farmer Brown's house. However, Bobby didn't for a minute believe that he had gone into that house.

Bobby shuffled along for a few steps further and then he paused. Right in front of him was a round hole. It was a doorway. It opened into that shed. Yes, sir, it did so. It had been made so that Black Pussy could pass in and out when she wanted to. Bobby sniffed at the edge of it. Then he cocked his head to one side and listened.

There was a noise coming from inside. It wasn't a loud noise. It was the noise made by some one eating. Bobby's nose told him that Jimmy Skunk had gone inside. The sounds he heard told him that Jimmy was still in there and that Jimmy was eating.

Bobby sat down and eyed that hole. He wanted—oh, how he wanted—to put his head inside. Common sense, however, told him that this would be a foolish thing to do until he knew more about it. So Bobby sat there and listened. Presently the sounds he heard made his mouth water. Yes, sir, he felt a little trickle of water in his mouth and it all came from listening to those sounds. His mouth was watering for the good things that he knew Jimmy Skunk was eating. It was all Bobby could do to keep from going right in there and demanding a share.

But common sense kept whispering to him. "It's a strange place in there," whispered Common Sense. "You don't know what dangers may be waiting there. It may be all right for Jimmy Skunk, but not all right for you at all."

"But I want some of those goodies in there," complained Bobby.

"What good are goodies if you lose your life or become a prisoner?" whispered Common Sense.

So Bobby continued to sit outside and tried to muster up courage enough to go in. Three times he poked his nose inside and then hastily withdrew it. His courage was not quite equal to it. At last he heard Jimmy Skunk coming toward that entrance. Bobby turned and hastily shuffled away around the corner. Then, when he was sure that Jimmy Skunk was well on his way home Bobby once more approached that little entrance into the shed of Farmer Brown's house. "I'm going right in there," he declared to himself. But when he reached the entrance, he dared do no more than poke his nose inside.

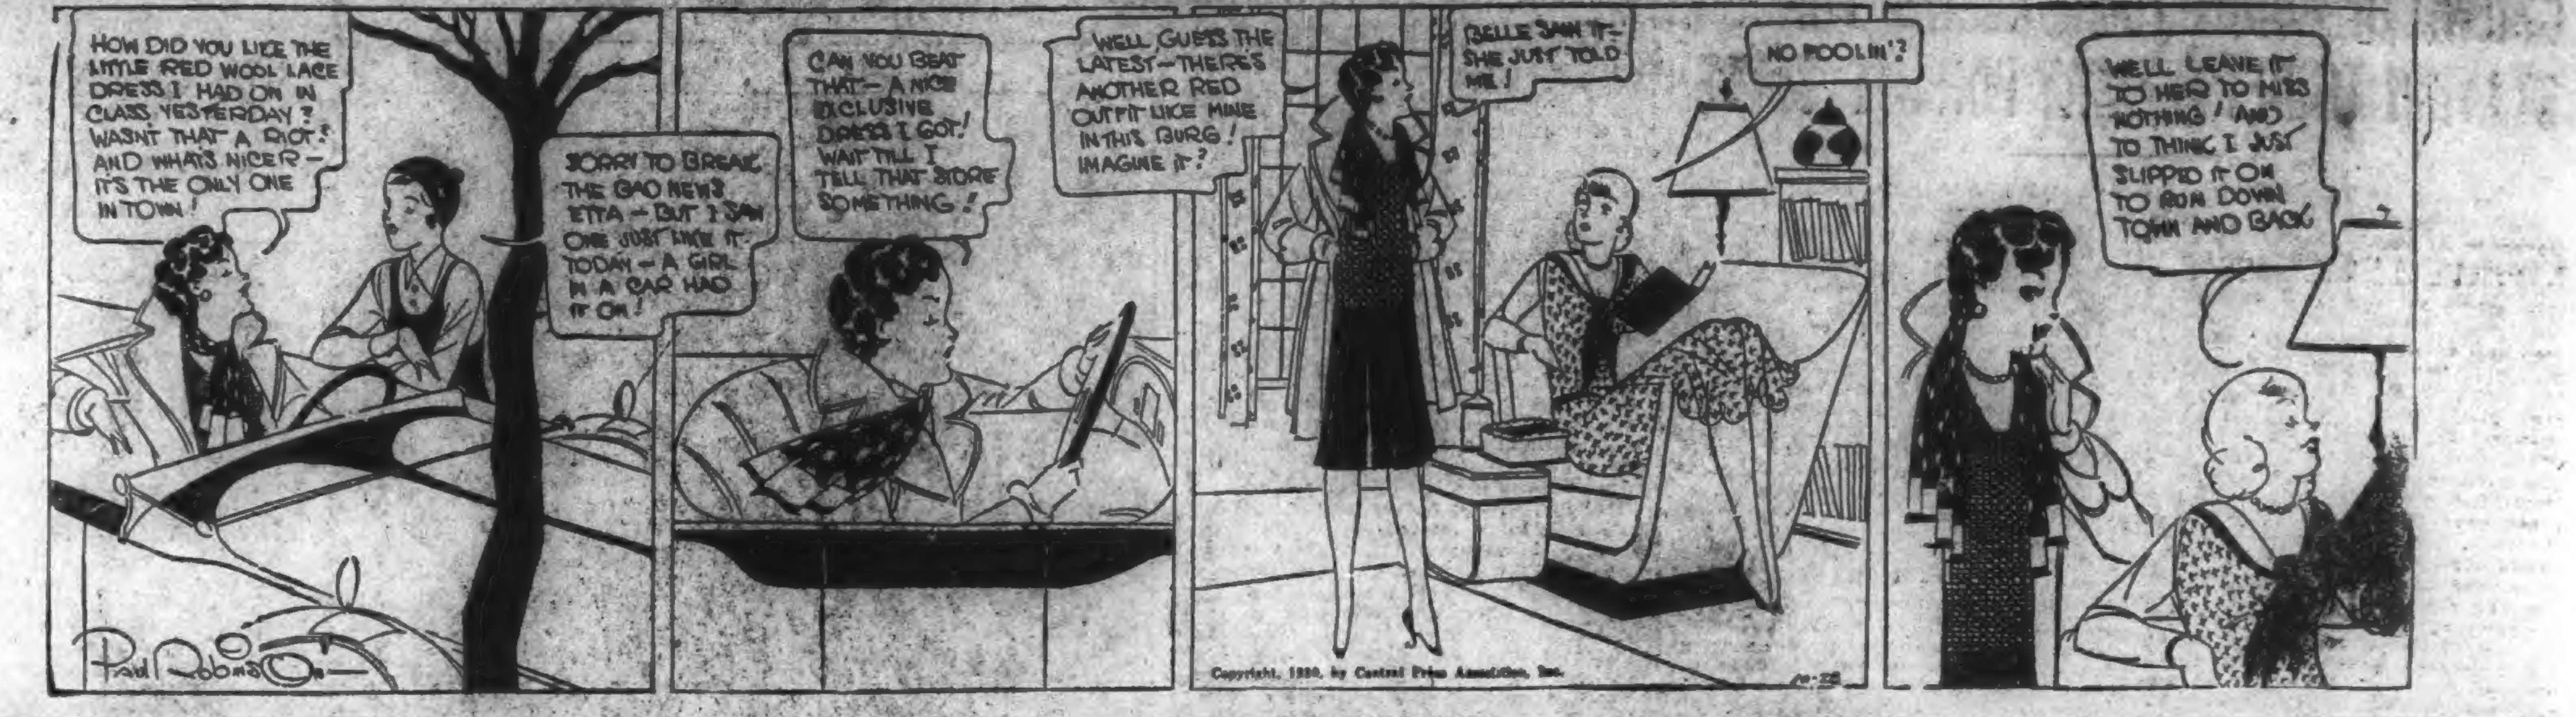
ETTA KETT Just Her Size! —By PAUL ROBINSON



HOW DID YOU LIKE THE LITTLE RED WOOL LACE DRESS I HAD ON IN CLASS YESTERDAY? WASN'T THAT A RIOT? AND WHAT'S NICER— IT'S THE ONLY ONE IN TOWN!
SORRY TO BREAK THE SAD NEWS ETTA — BUT I SAW ONE JUST LIKE IT TODAY — A GIRL IN A CAR HAD IT ON!
CAN YOU BEAT THAT— A NICE EXCLUSIVE DRESS I GOT! WAIT TILL I TELL THAT STORE SOMETHING!
WELL GUESS THE LATEST—THERE'S ANOTHER RED OUTFIT LIKE MINE IN THIS BURG! IMAGINE IT?
BELLE SAW IT— SHE JUST TOLD ME!
NO FOOLIN'?
WELL LEAVE IT TO HER TO MISS NOTHING! AND TO THINK I JUST SLIPPED IT ON TO RUN DOWN TOWN AND BACK

CROWD OF ABOUT 2,000 AT NEW LONDON STATION TO GET A WORD WITH AL. SMITH

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 27.— Former Governor Al Smith of New York was a passenger on the train arriving in New London from New Haven at 4:04 this afternoon and was greeted at the union station by at least 2000 men and women. The train overstayed its station time by five minutes and although Mr. Smith stood on the rear platform he made no formal speech. What he did say was to the effect that he would be on the air this evening and those who were interested would listen in to his address over the radio, sponsored by the Providence station. He shook hands with many of those who crowded around the platform of the train, remarking that it was reminiscent of his campaign for president two years ago. He told the assemblage that he had presented a brown derby to Dr. Wilbur L. Cross, democratic candidate for governor of Connecticut, while the train stopped in New Haven.

AFTER SISTER'S FUNERAL MRS. AGNES STOECKEL EXPIRES

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 27.—After attending the funeral of her sister, Mrs. Mary C. Angus of 11 Fremont street, who died Friday, Mrs. Agnes Stoeckel, of Brooklyn, N. Y., wife of Paul V. Stoeckel, a former resident of New London, became hysterical, returning from the burial plot in St. Mary's cemetery with the result that Mrs. Stoeckel, who was suffering from a weakened condition of the heart, suffered a collapse and almost immediately following being stricken, collapsed. A hurry call was sent for physicians, but before one arrived Mrs. Stoeckel had expired from heart trouble, as was determined by Medical Examiner Charles Kaufman. Mrs. Stoeckel is survived by three brothers, Joseph, James and Jeremiah Hynes, of New York.

Mrs. James Black and infant son, 33 Cottage street, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged over the week end.

NAVY DAY OBSERVANCE IN NEW LONDON MONDAY

Today was Navy day in New London and the observance of the national holiday as regards the federal service is recognized, was by the docking of two submarines of the O type at the municipal pier and two destroyers of the coast guard being anchored in the harbor. The submarines and destroyers were decorated in naval regalia, the display of the typical varied colored flags and the visitation of men and women to the moored submarines characterized the observance at the municipal pier. Boats were not operated to the base as planned and the only visitors being received there were those that made the trip by automobile.

Capt. Charles E. Ross, of Granite street, has returned home, having spent several months in Nova Scotia.

Mrs. Chester T. Blanchard, of Colman street, is entertaining Mr. and Mrs. William Forbes, of Boothbay Harbor, Me.

An automobile driven by Isadore Lefine, 70 Connecticut avenue, hit Miss Catherine Donohue, of Division street, this afternoon, at the corner of Bank and Hobron streets. Miss Donohue was knocked down, but apparently she sustained only minor injuries.

Hit-And-Run-Driver

Adrian Murray, Jefferson avenue, reported to the police this evening that he had been the victim of a hit and run driver and requested that the driver complained against be arrested on a charge of evasion of responsibility. Murray said that he parked his car in front of his residence and while he was absent the auto was hit by a car, whose driver speeded away. Murray said that the colliding auto carried Connecticut markers L—1514 and that inquiry of the state motor vehicle department revealed that the machine is owned by Arthur G. Strickland, 25 Bank street. Sergeant Patrick Murphy was assigned to make an investigation of the accident.

Fire Breaks Out Again

The fire in the woods adjacent to Bank street which resulted in the calling out of the New London and Waterford fire departments Sunday afternoon, started anew this afternoon, in spite of the fact that members of the New London department were kept on duty at the location of the blaze throughout the night. This afternoon the fire assumed serious proportions and within the course of an hour an acreage of about 15 was being devastated by the fire. Clouds of smoke arose over the area and because of the endangered residences between Bank street and the rear of Colman street, especially that section of the city bordering on Bates' woods being endangered, the efforts of the fire-fighters were concentrated in that area. However, with no water to be thrown upon the burning underbrush, but little progress was made and dense clouds of smoke enveloped the country-side. The absence of the water was the result of the supply in the city's reservoir being made low because of the drought.

An automobile driven by E. L. Neistat, 32 Tilley street, and a car operated by Frank Nunes, 109 Golden street, collided late last night on the Hartford turnpike and in that section of Waterford known as Flat Rock. Both automobiles were damaged and the occupants suffered injuries, but none of them more serious than bruises and contusions. Both drivers were arrested by State Police Officers William E. MacKenzie and Donald Brown charged with reckless driving. The automobile Neistat was driving, a Dodge, was headed west and was traveling at a high rate of speed. When the car driven by Nunes and headed in the opposite direction approached and at a rapid speed, they side-swiped, with the result that the mud-guards, fenders and body of each car were smashed or disfigured.

WESLEY BEATS ANNA AYERS AND STEALS HER AUTO

Anna Ayers, colored residing at 17 Hill street, this afternoon went to police headquarters and made complaint against George Wesley, also a Negro and residing on Main street, the woman alleging that Wesley brutally beat her Sunday afternoon and then stole her automobile. The woman's statement of the beating was corroborated by the discoloration of both eyes and several bruises about her head and face. The state police and the police throughout the state have been requested to keep a lookout for the Negro, who is in a Hudson brougham, which carries Connecticut registration, L-5448.

The Ayers woman said that she was performing household duties about 1 o'clock when Wesley entered and in a short time he engaged in a heated quarrel. After a verbal dispute of several minutes, Wesley attacked the woman, beating her by powerful blows. When the woman was almost helpless Wesley left and entering her automobile speeded away. The Ayers woman delayed making a complaint at police headquarters until this afternoon for she said that she awaited the arrival of her brother from Norfolk before doing so, for Wesley had threatened to kill her if she asked for his arrest. However, this afternoon the woman requested Wesley's arrest on two charges, assault and theft of automobile. Wesley has a long police record for he has been arrested many times charged with various offenses.

JOSEPH MAYER BOUND OVER— IN JAIL IN DEFAULT OF BOND

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 27—Joseph Mayer, 30, residing at 20 Tilley street employed until Saturday as deck hand on the tug Chaser, of the Merritt-Chapman-Scott Wrecking company, Pequot avenue, was in the police court this morning on a charge of theft. Probable cause was found and Mayer was held for trial at the next term of the superior court. In default of a surety on his bond of $1000, Mayer was committed to jail.

Mayer was arrested Saturday night by Detective Sergeant John Cavanaugh after an official of the wrecking company had made complaint that Mayer and the engineer of the tug, John Vaughn, had been robbed. The investigation showed that a thief had entered the locker and had stolen $93, together with a bank book issued by the Fidelity Bank of New York, showing a deposit of $290 and a second bank book issued by the National Bank & Trust company of Mamaroneck, N. Y., showing a balance of $6000. Vaughan's overcoat was also missing, as were Mayer's coat and a new pair of shoes. With the investigation continuing until Friday suspicion pointed to Mayer as the thief for he and Vaughn were known to have been the only persons aboard the tug. Saturday Vaughn and Mayer entered a rowboat and started to drag the river bottom in the vicinity of the tug and after several hours work the grapple pulled up a burlap bag in which were the two coats, Mayer's shoes and Vaughan's pocketbook, which contained $13 and a small amount of change and the bank book. Mayer was questioned at length and when accused of the theft, he finally confessed, stating that he needed money and decided upon the plan to rob the engineer and to deposit all of the loot in the bag and hurl it into the river. He said that he placed his coat and shoes in the bag with the belief that if the latter was recovered no suspicion would attach to him.

Walter Robbins, 54 Cutler street, a mechanic, was charged with driving while under the influence of liquor. The case was continued to Nov. 17th and the accused provided a surety on his bond of $100.

H. J. Pettie, Waterford, was charged with violation of the city's traffic laws, in parking his automobile in such a manner as to block a driveway on Bank street. He failed to appear in court and his bond of $2 was declared forfeited.

Alfred R. Johnson, of Mystic, was charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law in failing to stop at an automatic danger signal, corner of Bank street and Montauk avenue. He was fined $5 and costs.

Daniel Fraser, Waterford farm worker, was charged with intoxication and was given suspension of judgment.

John Burgess, charged with vagrancy and intoxication, was sentenced to 30 days in jail but execution of the sentence was suspended.

Luke Croghen, of New York: Louis Gaetano, 11 Pequot avenue; John Littlefield, fishing boat Hattie M.; Arthur Pacci, 21 Smith street; Mrs. Emma Jones, Niantic; Mrs. Leonard Williams and infant daughter, Waterford; Mrs. Mason Manning, 48 Granite street; Henry Britts, 183 Montauk avenue, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged over the week-end. Gaetano was asphyxiated by inhalation of gas fumes while working on a gasoline engine at Mystic last Friday. Pacci was burned about the face and head Friday afternoon when the pick-axe he was wielding in a trench on Montauk avenue created a spark by coming in contact with a stone and ignited gas that was escaping from a main, the gas causing a volume of flame to fill the pit and envelop Pacci. Britts, a chief petty officer, sustained a gunshot wound, being shot accidentally by a companion, Charles Tourtelotte, while hunting in the woods of East Lyme last Friday.

FUNERAL

Mrs. John E. Angus

The funeral of Mrs. Mary C. Angus, wife of John E. Angus, of 11 Fremont street, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church and was attended by a large assemblage of mourners. A mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. James Roach. The bearers were members of the New London police department, Patrolmen Frank Linehan, Thomas Cavanaugh, Louis Wheeler, George McCaskey, Dennis Cavanaugh and Joseph Sullivan. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Second Twin Daughter Dies

Barbara Hale, infant twin daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wells Hale, of Meridian street, Groton, died Sunday at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, eight days after the death of the other baby. The funeral was held this afternoon at the home of the parents, Rev. George R. Atha, pastor of Groton Heights Baptist church, officiating. Burial was in Colonel Ledyard cemetery, Groton.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Elisha Newbury

Mrs. Maggie P. Newbury, of advanced years and widow of Elisha Newbury, of 41 Ocean avenue, died today at Lawrence-Memorial hospital after a lingering illness. She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Mary E. Bollea, of Brooklyn, N. Y. She was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church and had resided in New London many years. Mrs. Newbury's youngest daughter, Mrs. Percy Fox, and the latter's husband died in 1929, within three days of each other, from pneumonia, leaving three children. Since the death of Mr. and Mrs. Fox, Mrs. Newbury has had charge of their children.

LeBlanc—Melanson

Anthony LeBlanc, Norwich, and Miss Evelyn Melanson, of Fishers Island, were married this morning at Our Lady of Grace church, Fishers Island.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the reinstatement of the drivers' licenses of Tarpley Johnson and William S. Price, submarine base, and Raymond Bailey, 11 Brewer street.

Nathan Hochman, proprietor of a North Bank street baker shop, early today reported to the police that while driving on Main street at 3 o'clock he saw a Negro hurl a stone through a plate glass window of the store of S. Itzkovitz. The Negro, Hochman said, fled through Hill street.

Drove Without License

George Ramsey, Mago Point, Waterford, who was arrested in East Lyme Sunday, charged with driving without a license, was in East Lyme justice court Sunday afternoon and was fined $5 and costs.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Hillcrest Theatre

About a year ago the first Moran and Mack picture, "Why Bring That Up," was driving audiences into frenzies of glee all over the country.

Now comes the Two Black Crows' second all-talking offering, "Anybody's War," based on the novel by Charles E. Mack, leader of the Crow team.

"Anybody's War" traces the hilariously funny adventures of the two blackface comedians from the little town of Buford, Tennessee, to the battlefields of France and back again.

"Anybody's War" will be at the Hillcrest on Tuesday and Wednesday with 2 shows each night.

On Thursday, Manager Schwartz has booked Jack Oakie in "Let's Go Native," with Jeanette MacDonald.

Palace Theatre

A double-feature bill which is thrilling and amusing will be presented at the Palace theatre tomorrow where it will be shown for three days. The bill includes a sophisticated comedy drama, "Ladies Must Play" with Dorothy Sebastian, Neil Hamilton, John Holland and Natalie Moorhead, and "One Night at Susies," with Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Billie Dove, Helen Ware, Tully Marshall and many others.

"One Night at Susie's" is a drama which is stark in its reality and sincerity and reveals Miss Dove as a powerful dramatic actress. The story is not essentially of the underworld, but of Susie's care and love for a youth, son of a former gangster, whom she has reared and started on the straight path. The role is admirably played by Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.

The love story involves a dancer in a theatre, Billie Dove, whom young Fairbanks has fallen in love with while working at the theatre as the press agent.

"Ladies Must Play" the co-feature on this program, has all the elements that go to make up popular motion pictures. It has an abundance of light comedy and brilliant dialogue and an excellent cast of screen favorites. Briefly the story tells of a stenographer whose ambition is to marry a millionaire. Her employer undertakes to introduce her to several wealthy friends. The girl meets with great success in her venture only to discover that when she can get what she wants she doesn't want it after all.

The Palace will present Clara Bow in her latest vehicle, "Her Wedding Night," a comedy in which the star is supported by a great cast, for the last times today.

Broadway Theatre.

Ramon Novarro's much heralded flair for opera singing will be put to screen use for the first time in his newest musical picture, "Call of the Flesh," which will open a three days' engagement Wednesday at Warner's Broadway theatre with a cast which includes Dorothy Jordan, Ernest Torrence, Nance O'Neil, Renee Adoree, Mathilde Comont and Russell Hopton.

The story, an original by Dorothy Farnum, provides Novarro with the role of a Spanish singer whose operatic success is tempered by the complications which result as the outcome of two love affairs.

"Call of the Flesh" is a highly colorful and romantic narrative of the rise of a music hall singer to the rank of the foremost opera star. Miss Adoree has the role of a dancer while the featured feminine part is played by Dorothy Jordan who makes her third appearance opposite Novarro in this vehicle.

Report has it that this picture tops all of Novarro's previous talking and singing efforts, being equipped with a particularly entertaining plot, interesting characterizations and picturesque locales, which include interiors of cathedrals, a reproduction of the Madrid opera house and scenes of provincial Spanish towns. The final scenes are done in technicolor.

Meisle, Contralto in Series.

Kathryn Meisle, leading contralto of the Chicago, San Francisco and Los Angeles Opera companies, who is to be the artist for the fourth concert of the Slater hall series, is now definitely established as "one of the world's great contraltos." Eminent cities all over the country have acclaimed her in the most extravagant terms and likened her glorious voice to that of the greatest divas of all time. Her voice is that rare and fortunate quality known as a natural contralto. It is a voice of great power, of velvety richness and deep tones, of remarkable flexibility, which she uses with unerring judgement and fine control.

Miss Meisle will sing on Friday, February 6th, her concert following the one by Heifetz, Meader and the New York String Quartette.

The seat sale for the series opens today at 9 a. m., at the Cranston company's store.

C. E. SOCIETY NOTES LARGER ATTENDANCE

The Christian Endeavor meeting Sunday evening at the Third Baptist church was conducted by Miss Elinor Howard, the subject being Making America Christians. The topic was the cause of a general discussion by the members. Two duets were rendered by members of the society. Due to the great interest shown by the leaders, the attendance at the meetings of late has increased.

From money raised by the C. E. society, a new electric light has been installed at the rear entrance to the church and it is also intended to have two more placed at the front entrance. The society will hold a Halloween social on Friday evening.

CONCLUDES SPECIAL SERMON ON PERPLEXING PROBLEMS

On Sunday morning, Oct. 26, at St. Andrew's Episcopal church, the rector, Rev. E. J. Norris, before taking up the concluding subject of the special course on Perplexing Problems, announced that a little later he intended to take other perplexing problems for Sunday morning meditations. The subject Sunday was "The Prosperity of the Wicked—The Problem of Believing, Personality and Immortality."

"The subject we now consider is the problem of Providence. Does God care? Scripture declares there is One Who is ever mindful of His children. If ever a man were justified in such a belief that man was Joseph. Is it to be doubted but that God was behind all the strange happenings of Joseph's life? Do we believe that there is an over-ruling Providence at work in the world? A fuller acceptation of this truth would help many a weary, baffled Christian in the hour of need. The world is vast, we grant, but the love of God is vaster.

"Man's needs are many, but God is still capable of dealing with them. We may not understand all life's mysteries. He understands the meaning of life's strange mixture of joy and sorrow, of triumph and tears. Through all is the golden thread of His loving purpose. We may doubt and ask the question, 'Are we the sport of fate?' The sceptical may agree with this, but not the Christian. The Christian knows that he is in the pledged personal care of his Father, who upholds everything. The belief in an over-ruling Providence is needed to explain many of our experiences. Can you remember that trying occasion some years ago when a difficult problem was yours to solve? As you look back now you cannot quite understand how you made that decision. Now you cannot understand that peculiar impulse that impelled you towards your goal. But now you understand that so much rested on that decision, and the result is very definite.

"But as with Joseph, some of the tragical occurrences of your life have become the turning points for that ultimate good. We must surely now affirm as we gaze at these perplexing problems—bravely looking them in the face—surely God is great; yes, great enough to concern Himself with the most trivial thing that concerns His children's welfare.

"So the believer may go through life with a brave heart and confident step, assured of Divine guidance. Clouds may threaten, but the sun will shine; sorrows and trying anxieties of life rush to drown the soul, but they cannot overwhelm hope. The Christian's cares are God's, for he is in God's care. So it matters not if the journey of life is rough; there is a Hand that is guiding, an Arm sustaining. Finally the Christian will understand that life's combinations of discipline are God's angelic ministrants, and the opposing obstacles will be found to have been stepping stones to those glorious heights where the redeemed ones work in fellowship with God."

Held Halloween Party

A Halloween party was held Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard David Seed, on Baker avenue, in honor of their daughter, Miss Florence Seed, with 15 of her friends present. Many games were played and dancing was enjoyed. Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Seed. The home was prettily decorated with the Halloween colors of black and orange. The party broke up at a late hour, all present voting Miss Seed an ideal hostess.

Horace Woolley, of Fifth street, spent the week-end at Fishers Island.

Registration For Classes.

Registration day for the sewing and cooking classes of the United Workers which will begin next Saturday will be this (Tuesday) afternoon at 3.30 at 9 Washington street. Mrs. W. C. McKean and the club work committee will be there to welcome both old and new members. Pupils between the ages of 8 and 14 inclusive may enroll.

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATES DECLARE STATE GOVERNMENT HIGHLY EFFICIENT

Answering a democratic charge that the republican administration has neglected the care of tubercular patients in the state of Connecticut, City Attorney Charles W. Cassidy, republican candidate for election as state senator from this district, in addressing a largely attended rally and smoker Monday evening at the Totokett Mill club house in Occum, said that since 1915, the republican administrations in this state have spent eleven millions of dollars on the construction and maintenance of sanatoria and in the care and treatment of tubercular patients. "Does that look like neglect?" he asked.

George M. Charbonneau, chairman of the republican town committee, presided at the rally and Judge John H. Barnes was the first speaker. Judge Barnes spoke principally on the national issues and spoke of the splendid work accomplished by the republicans in passing the tariff bill which is so necessary in order to protect American industry and the wages of the American working man. Judge Barnes also spoke of the splendid record of the republican administrations in Connecticut.

Fred Knowles, candidate for election to the house of representatives from the town of Norwich, was introduced as the next speaker. Mr. Knowles in his address said:

"The republican party of the town of Norwich, in placing me before you as a candidate for representative at the coming election, has done something which some in the fifth district have always said it would never do and that is to take a working man out of the mill and place him on its ticket. This year it has done so. I wish to state that I am more interested in labor matters at the present time than I ever was before and if the voters see fit to elect me as one of their representatives you can rest assured that all labor matters which come up will receive my best attention.

"Now we all know that times are bad, very bad; conditions are so that one does not know which way to turn. Manufacturers are running their plants, some one day, some a day and a half and some three days a week and lots of them have gone to the wall. All this makes it mighty hard for us working people. Now I suppose a lot of you or all of you have been told who is the cause of this depression. Just ask the first democrat you meet and he will tell you right away without hesitation, 'why the republican party, of course!' But don't you believe it for the republican party has no more to do with unemployment and business depression than the man in the moon. This situation is an unfortunate one which exists all over the world at the present time. In foreign countries you will find that conditions are much worse than they are in this country.

"How do we stand in taking care of our tubercular patients? Why, to hear the democrats talk, we are doing hardly anything for our patients, just letting them die. But let me say this, Connecticut is one of the leading states in taking care of tubercular patients. Whenever the time comes they add more buildings to our sanatoria and what more can they do? The way the democrats talk they must want the republicans to say to the contractors: 'Build us a few more hospitals, in reserve, as we are expecting a rush of 50,000 more patients.'"

Republican Government Efficient

Chairman Charbonneau then introduced Josiah Greenstein, also a candidate for election to the state house of representatives from Norwich. Mr. Greenstein said:

"In my humble opinion, in this campaign, there really is no outstanding issue which might be of importance to the voters of Connecticut except the question of whether the voters will return to office an experienced and tried republican administration or whether the voters will elect to office a new and inexperienced democratic administration.

"As you undoubtedly know, the republicans have been in control of the state of Connecticut, by the will of the people, for about 15 years and I think you will agree with me when I say that they have performed their work faithfully and have kept their promises to give the state honest and efficient government.

"During all of these years, did any of you gentlemen ever hear it said by democratic leaders or any one else of prominence that the republican administration was not competent, or that it was lax or negligent in its duty to the people of the state or that it was not progressive and not keeping pace with new and changing conditions or that the administration was dishonest?

"Of course, you did not, because there was no basis or foundation for any such complaints, but you do hear many charges and accusations made against the republican administration at this time. The democratic party in this state has, for a number of years past, been disrupted and disorganized and unable to hold its own in the face of the high class government administered by the republicans and, in this campaign, the democrats, having discovered by some miracle that there is an unemployment situation and a business depression confronting us, have suddenly come to life and endeavor to place the blame for all this on the republican party.

"Of course, gentlemen, you know that these conditions are entirely beyond the control of the republican party and that it is absurd to charge them to the party. But it simply goes to show to what extremes the democrats will go in an attempt to drag themselves from their position of obscurity to head the great state of Connecticut.

"From our neighboring state of New York, which is now and has been controlled by democrats for about as long a time as our own state has been controlled by republicans, there has recently drifted across our borders the unsavory odor of corruption and graft, involving judges of the courts and politicians of prominence. We should be thankful that no such corruption exists in our state under republican administration.

"The democrats, in their campaign propaganda, intimate that the rural roads in the state are in a deplorable condition and that all of the funds available are being spent on the trunk lines or main roads. It occurs to me that even if that were true it shows good judgment on the part of the administration. The trunk lines, connecting the various cities and towns of the state and connecting with trunk lines of our neighboring states, encourage and influence trade and commerce by the better means of transportation and help our state to grow and prosper. It helps not only mercantile establishments but also the farmer who is obliged to transport his produce to the city. If we were to attempt to make first class roads out of rural roads at the same time it would cost millions and millions of dollars and cause higher taxes and I am heartily in favor of the policy of the administration regarding this subject which is to condition the rural roads under the 'pay as you go policy.'"

Discusses Democratic Claims

The final speaker was Attorney Charles W. Cassidy, candidate for election as state senator from this district. "In this campaign the democrats are trying to raise issues on three subjects," said Mr. Cassidy. "These issues are the dirt roads programme, the care of the tubercular and the old age pension bill.

"The dirt road issues can be dismissed at once for both the republican party and democratic party are in favor of making the rural roads passable to the main arteries of traffic throughout the year. The backbone of this movement is the Connecticut Rural Road Improvement association. In this district, there are three of these associations, one in Norwich, one in Preston and one in Ledyard.

"These three associations are studying this matter carefully and I will look to them for their advice and guidance on any bill that may be presented on this subject.

"The next issue is the care of the tubercular. The democrats say the republican administrations have neglected the tubercular. Now what are the facts? The state of Connecticut spends more money per capita for the care and treatment of the tubercular than any state in the United States. Does that look like neglect? If it is, how about the other 47 states that do not spend as much? Since 1915, the republican administrations in this state have spent eleven millions of dollars on the construction and maintenance of sanitoria and in the care and treatment of tubercular patients.

"There is now ready for occupancy a building at the Shelton sanitarium which will provide 100 beds for the tubercular. This December, there will be opened at the Meriden State sanitarium, another building which will provide 100 more beds, and the state board of finance and control has recommended for the coming two years the erection of more buildings to provide at least 200 more beds and two of these buildings will be at Uncas-on-Thames. Does that look like neglect?

"Now as to the old age pension bill, I have a copy of the proposed bill in my pocket and the underlying principle of the bill is excellent. But in order to have this bill, we must have money to pay the pensions. Therefore, two questions arise. First, how much will it cost? Secondly, how will we raise the money? No one can estimate exactly how much it will cost, but it will probably cost from ten millions to fifteen millions of dollars a year. Now how are we to raise this money?

"The democratic nominee for state senator from this district says we will raise it the same way as we raise money to pay the judges' pensions and the school teachers' pensions.

"There is no law in our state giving any judge a pension, so we can not raise the money that way, as we do not have to raise any money to pay pensions that do not exist.

"As to the school teachers, there is a law in this state called the retirement system for teachers. By this law, each and every teacher must pay five per cent of his or her salary to the state retirement fund, and any pension that he or she may receive is based on the money that is paid into this fund. So under this system, the recipient of the pension must first pay money to the state, before receiving any pension.

"Now, I will ask the democratic nominee for state senator if he believes and means that the state shall take away a portion of the wages of every person so that when they become 65 years old they may receive a small pension?"

RELEASED UNDER BONDS ON MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE

John G. Lukasczwicz of No. 23 Carpenter street, this city, whose machine hit and fatally injured Matti Hytti of No. 122 Dunham street, Oct. 21, was arrested Monday morning on a manslaughter charge. Later he was released on bonds of $2,500 pending a hearing in the city court this (Tuesday) morning. Hytti died at the W. W. Backus hospital early Saturday morning and his funeral took place Monday.

Hytti was hit on West Thames street, when, it is understood, he stepped in front of the machine driven by Lukasczwicz, and was a patient at the hospital until he died early Saturday morning. It is probable that the case will be continued this (Tuesday) morning, pending a finding by Coroner Edward G. McKay, who is investigating the accident.

PAYS FINE ON CHARGE OF LETTING MINOR DRIVE

In the police court Monday morning, Nicholas Fatibene of North Franklin was found guilty of motor law violation in allowing his 14-year-old son to drive an automobile. The court imposed a fine of $10 and costs, amounting to $20.40, which was paid. Fatibene was arrested in the city Sunday afternoon by State Policeman Dygert, who observed the boy driving the machine with his father alongside him in the seat.

RAINFALL ON SATURDAY MORE THAN QUARTER INCH

Saturday's rainfall was the fifth which the city has had this month, according to the records of the city water department, which show a total precipitation in October to date of 1.77 inches. A year ago in October the rainfall was 2.01 inches.

The rainfall on Saturday, which was general over Connecticut with resultant discomfort to those attending football games, gave .29 of an inch here and the day before there had been slight showers which gave .19 of an inch. Previously in the month there had been .93 of an inch on the 15th, .05 of an inch on the 16th and .21 of an inch on the 18th.

SUIT FOR $400 OVER BOWLING ALLEY SALE

In a suit brought in the common pleas court here James M. Fillmore, Jr., of Putnam, seeks damages of $400 from Calvin L. Swan, of this city. According to the complaint the suit is brought to collect a $300 claim which Fillmore makes against Swan on account of the sale of Fillmore's interest in a billiard parlor and bowling alley in Norwich in January, 1926. The plaintiff alleges that there was an agreement that Swan was to pay Fillmore $300 whenever Swan sold the billiard parlor and bowling alley, and that although Swan sold this property in January, 1926, he has not paid the $300 to Fillmore.

FINED $100 ON CHARGE OF EVADING RESPONSIBILITY

At the Monday morning session of the city court Archie Tait, Yantic auto repairman, was fined $100 and costs on a charge of evading responsibility. He pleaded guilty to the charge and a second charge, reckless driving, was nolled.

Tait's machine figured in a collision with a machine owned by George Hoffberg of Hartford last Thursday night on Town street, near Harland corner. Tait left the scene of the crash and later appeared at police headquarters to report the accident. There was a warrant out for his arrest and he was arrested when he showed up at headquarters. Constable Lucius A. Fenton conducted the investigation.

METHODIST PASTOR SPEAKS BEFORE CONTACT CLUB

The speaker Monday noon at the weekly meeting of the Norwich Contact club at the Wauregan hotel was Rev. Joseph Cooper, pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church. President Ernest O. Rodier conducted the meeting, Frederick Geer presided at the piano and Alex Pasnik was the song leader. Rev. Mr. Cooper spoke on the topic, Spiritual Values of Life.

BOY FINED FOR USING SLINGSHOT IN THEATRE

Adam Matulewicz, 17, of No. 132 High street, was fined $10 and costs in the city court Monday morning on a charge of breach of the peace. The youth admitted the charge which was shooting small metal clips from a slingshot in the Strand theatre Sunday night to the annoyance of patrons. He said that other boys had been engaged in the same practice.

Continuance To Dec. 6

Charged with reckless driving, Marcus J. Burns was presented in the city court Monday morning. The case was continued until December 6th. Burns was arrested Saturday afternoon, following an accident on North Main street, near Roath street. His machine collided with a New London machine.

By Telephone To Australia.

Telephone users in this city may now call points in Australia, over wire and radio links covering a distance of about 14,000 miles. Commercial telephone service was today inaugurated by the American Telephone & Telegraph company between all points in North America and various points in Australia.

The circuit employed in this service is by far the longest ever established for regular commercial telephone service. It consists principally of two radio links, one across the Atlantic ocean and the other between England an Australia. With the wire lines involved the circuit between New York and Sydney, Australia, is more than 14,000 miles long.

Quarantine Chief To Speak

Lee A. Strong, chief of the United States plant quarantine and control administration, will make the principal address before the seventh annual conference of entomologists working in Connecticut, which meets Friday in the old senate chamber in Hartford. Insect troubles of Connecticut is the subject of the day's conference. Conditions of control and spread of the corn borer, the Japanese beetle, and the gipsy and satin moths will be discussed by the men in charge of the respective quarantines: L. H. Worthley, H. N. Bartley, C. H. Hadley and A. F. Burgess.

Mail and other goods are carried in trailers attached to auto buses in Sweden.

Miss Greta Faulkner was awarded a prize for the prettiest costume which was that of a Spanish senorita, Miss Edna Wilcock dressed as a farmer boy was awarded the prize for the funniest dress.

A delightful luncheon was served by Misses Dorothy Fox and Esther Haley.

Those present were Edna and Evelyn Wilcock, Lois and Dorothy Bradlaw, Francis Busch, Helen Nichols, Gertrude Seddon, Elsie Chase, Ruth Philipp, Greta Faulkner, Alice Hinchliffe, Constance, James and Margaret Geigenmiller, Lorna and Bobby Charon Marie Heibel, Dorothy Fox, Esther Haley and Mr. and Mrs. Freddy Charon.

The decorations were Halloween streamers and novelties and were very effective and charming.

THREE COUNTS AGAINST WILLIMANTIC TAXI DRIVER

As the aftermath of an automobile collision on Norwich avenue, Taftville Saturday evening, Eddie Allbozck of Brick Top road, Willimantic, a taxi driver, was arrested early Monday evening by Willimantic police at the request of Constable Louis Paquette of Taftville. The Willimantic man was released under bonds to await trial in the city court this (Tuesday) morning to answer to three charges of violation of the motor vehicle laws. They are driving the machine while under the influence of liquor, reckless driving and the failure to await the appearance of an officer.

A 7-passenger Cadillac car, driven by Allbozck and traveling southerly on Norwich avenue, Taftville, collided with a Chrysler sedan, operated by Earl Corcoran of 30 South A street, Taftville, which was going in the opposite direction, about 6:15 o'clock Saturday evening near the black bridge over the Shetucket river. The latter machine is owned by the driver's father, Mortimer Corcoran. As a result of the collision the Corcoran machine was badly damaged, having one wheel taken off, its headlights demolished, rear-end smashed, running board stove in.

According to Constable Paquette, who conducted an investigation, the Willimantic driver produced his insurance papers at the time of the collision, but did not accede to the request to show his registration, then disappearing. Failing to find the Willimantic driver at his home in Willimantic after several attempts, Constable Paquette appealed to the Willimantic authorities to apprehend the man. Allbozck did not return to his home until Monday evening, the constable said, when he was taken into custody by the Thread City police and turned over to the Taftville officer.

When forest fires developed in Wisconsin, Governor Walter J. Kohler made an inspection trip in an airplane over the blazing region.

OIL SHALE LAND CHARGES DESCRIBED AS NONSENSE

Secretary Wilson and Former Secretary Work of the Interior Department Sustain President Hoover's Denunciation of Charges Made by Ralph S. Kelley—President Hoover Described the Charges as "Fabrications" Without "Merit or Substance"—Asserted That the Charges Were Made in the Midst of a Political Campaign in "An Attempt to Charge Odious Oil Scandals to This Administration"

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—(AP)—President Hoover and the two officials who as secretary of the interior had supervision of the government's oil shale lands spoke their minds today in unanimous denunciation of the charges by Ralph S. Kelley, that there had been irregularities in disposing of the lands.

The president described the charges as "fabrications" without "merit or substance" in discussing the matter at his regular press conference.

A little later the department of justice, which has investigated the allegations of the former Denver land office official, made public letters by Secretary Wilbur and former Secretary of the Interior Work. Both asserted they had no knowledge of irregularities and Wilbur described the affair as "nonsense."

President Hoover interpolated his remarks with forceful accents. He asserted that the charges were made in the midst of a political campaign in "an attempt to charge odious oil scandals to this administration" and said that Kelley could have determined their falsity by referring to his own office records.

At the same time the president said the newspaper which published Kelley's charges apparently had made no effort to test their truthfulness. The president did not mention the paper by name.

"As a piece of journalism it may well be that the newspaper involved was misled," Mr. Hoover said. "It certainly does not represent the practice of better American journalism. As a piece of politics it is certainly far below the ideals of political partisanship held by substantial men in that party."

"I hope that the American people realize," he said, "that when reckless, baseless and infamous charges in the face of responsible denial with no attempt at verification, are supported by political agencies and are broadcast, reflecting upon the probity of public men such as Secretary Wilbur, the ultimate result can only be damage to public service as a whole."

Kelley, after making his charges, submitted his resignation from the land office but it was refused and he was suspended pending their investigation. The department of justice after a study has declared them unfounded.

President Hoover said that out of 8,000,000 acres of government holdings of such lands, the administration had approved old title claims for some 43,000 acres arising under the mineral law prior to 1920.

"Under my orders no leases or titles have been passed under the new law," the president said.

He added that of these oil claims, Kelley had approved about 20,000 acres, the courts ordered about 16,000 acres and about 7,000 acres came up on appeal to the heads of the department for decision, only part of which Kelley had opposed on technical grounds. Further, the president said, these lands instead of being worth billions, can be bought from private owners for a few dollars per acre.

Painstaking investigation by Attorney General Mitchell and Seth Richardson, an assistant attorney general, of the "records upon every statement and innuendo made by Kelley," was said by the president to have proved them "baseless, without merit or substance."

Pointing out that Kelly had been called from Denver to Washington during the summer for about six weeks, Mr. Hoover said he had given no hint then of his charges but at that time was negotiating for their publication.

AVERY TO SUCCEED WHEELER ON SUPREME COURT BENCH

BRIDGEPORT, Oct. 28—(AP)—Chief Justice George W. Wheeler today retired from the supreme court of errors after serving 20 years as a member of Connecticut's highest court. He will be succeeded by Justice William Maltbie of Grandby who became associate justice in 1925. When the court opened its October session here today, Judge Christopher L. Avery who was elevated from the superior court to the supreme court bench to fill the vacancy created by the retirement of Chief Justice Wheeler, sat with it. Forty-two cases were scheduled to be argued at this session.

Chief Justice Wheeler's retirement was formally scheduled for Dec. 1, when he attains the retirement age of 70. He decided however, to advance his retirement to today because of the likelihood that some of the cases which will be argued during the October session may not be decided until after Dec. 1. He was elevated to the supreme court bench Sept. 10, 1910, and became chief justice in 1920. Prior to 1910 he served on the superior court bench for 17 years.

SAVAGES ON WARPATH IN CENTRAL FORMOSA

TOYKO, Oct. 28—(AP)—Fifteen hundred or more head hunting savages were on the warpath tonight in Central Formosa barely a fortnight after announcement from Formosa of the successful completion of Japan's 35 year campaign to subdue the Aborigines.

The savages attacked Musha Village and unconfirmed reports said they killed 190 Japanese and 70 peaceable Formosans.

A Japanese punitive expedition of 700 soldiers and policemen attacked Aborigine mountain fastnesses today. Reinforced by artillery, the Japanese were expected to force their way into Musha tomorrow.

DECREASE REPORTED IN REV. FREIGHT LOADINGS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28—(AP)—Revenue freight loadings for the week ended Oct. 18 were reported today by the American Railway Association as having totalled 931,085 cars.

This was a decrease of 23,789 cars below the preceding week and 254,479 below the same week last year. Miscellaneous freight loadings for the week aggregated 376,038 cars, a decrease of 110,953 under the same week last year.

OBITUARY

Mrs. James Robert McKee

GREENWICH, Oct. 28—(AP)—Mrs. James Robert McKee, daughter of former President Benjamin Harrison and for many years prominent in club and charity circles in New York and Indianapolis, died early today in her home here. She was 69 years old.

She had lived here for the last seven years. In February she underwent an operation in New York, and had been in poor health since. Funeral services will be held at the home Thursday, with burial in Indianapolis.

Mrs. McKee was, before her marriage, Miss Mary Scott Harrison, only daughter of the former president and his first wife. For many years, she was known as one of the belles of Washington society, and, during the greater portion of her father's administration, lived in the white house. During her mother's illness and after her death she was recognized as mistress of the executive mansion.

REGULAR DIVIDENDS VOTED BY THE U. S. STEEL CORP.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—(AP)— The United Sttes Steel Corp. today reported net profit for the three months ended Sept. 30 equal to $2.06 per common share, against $3.02 in the preceding quarter, and $5.57 in the September quarter of 1929.

Net profit for the period, after all charges and taxes, totalled $24,195,162, against $32,126,717 in the preceding three month period, and $51,575,350 in the like period of last year.

Total earnings for the period, after federal taxes but before depreciation and interest and other charges, were $37,995,399, against $47,061,304 in the previous period, and $72,099,666 in the same period of 1929.

Regular dividends of $1.75 a share were declared on the common and preferred stocks. A year ago an extra payment of $1 in addition to the regular disbursement was ordered, and Wall street brokerage circles had recently been discussing the possibility of a similar extra at this time, although there was no general inclination to expect it, in view of the corporation's conservative financial policy.

NEW PRESIDENT HARTFORD SEMINARY FOUNDATION

HARTFORD, Oct. 28.— (AP) —Rev. Dr. Robbins Walcott Barstow, formerly pastor of the First Congregational church at Madison, Wis., was inaugurated here today as second president of the Hartford Seminary foundation.

The inaugural exercises were attended by distinguished representatives of more than 50 other theological seminaries, universities and colleges in all parts of the United States. These joined with the faculties and trustees of the seminary foundation in an academic procession in which the brilliant colors of numerous American and foreign universities were in evidence.

LEGISLATOR PLEADED NOT GUILTY OF LARCENY

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 28—(AP)—The state of Virginia today brought to trial a member of its general assembly, on charges of embezzlement and grand larceny of $37,976.40 from an orphanage of which he was treasurer.

The defendant, James P. Jones, of Richmond, former treasurer of the Virginia Methodist orphanage, pleaded not guilty before Judge John L. Ingram in Hustings court after motions to quash the indictments against him failed.

Jones, also a former treasurer of the anti-saloon league of Virginia, went to trial on an indictment charging embezzlement on thirteen counts totaling $4,944.55.

PRESIDENT OF BANK WAS SHOT BY ROBBERS

CHICAGO, Oct. 28—(AP)—Because he failed to raise his hands quickly enough, Courtney R. Merrill, vice president of the Union State bank of South Chicago, was shot and probably fatally wounded tonight by two robbers who held him up as he was getting in his automobile to go home.

Merrill, shot through the abdomen, was taken to a South Chicago hospital and was in such a critical condition that he was unable to make a statement. It was not learned how much money the robbers obtained, but it was revealed that Merrill, one night each week, made deposit collections from neighborhood storekeepers and police therefore suspected that this was the loot the gunmen sought.

GEM BROKER ROBBED OF $40,000 IN DIAMONDS

ZION CITY, Ill., Oct. 28—(AP)—Max Plan, a diamond broker of Chicago, reported tonight that he had been held up and robbed of $40,000 in diamonds in Sheridan road near the Wisconsin-Illinois line late today. He had been driving to Milwaukee.

Breach In British Conservative Party

Petition Submitted by 44 Members Demands Resignation of Former Premier Baldwin As Leader

LONDON, Oct. 28—(AP)—A petition demanding the resignation of former Premier Stanley Baldwin as leader of the conservative party was submitted by 44 conservative members of parliament tonight to the party's chief whip.

Mr. Baldwin's qualities as leader were attacked only yesterday by Lord Beaverbrook, one of the original organizers of the empire free trade campaign, who said "We have nothing to hope for from Mr. Baldwin."

The resolution announced tonight read: "We, the subjoined members of the house of commons, submit that a change of leadership is essential to the national interest."

The rejection of a party leader by so large a proportion of his followers at the very opening of a new parliamentary session is believed to be unprecedented in British political history.

Mr. Baldwin is to address a full party meeting on Thursday, answering critics of his leadership, and it had been predicted that a vote of confidence in him would be passed.

What will happen now appears to be unpredicted. Mr. Baldwin, who became prime minister in 1923 and again in 1924, has been under steady fire for weks from the influential Daily Express and Daily Mail, controlled by Lord Beaverbrook and Lord Rothermere, respectively.

FISHING SCHOONERS TO RACE OFF HALIFAX NOV. 8

HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 28—(AP)—The international schooner races for the Dennis cup, which will bring together the Bluenose of Lunenburg and Gertrude L. Thebaud of Gloucester, Mass., will be held this fall and the first of the series of three will start off Halifax, on Novemeber 8, an announcement today said.

The announcement was made after a second meeting of the cup's board of trustees, which yesterday decided that because of the expense involved, it would be advisable to postpone the series until next year. Today's meeting was called after messages came from Gloucester asking the trustees to reconsider.

Parades in Every City and Village in Italy Marked Eighth [illegible] ersary of Fascism

RO[illegible] t. 28—(AP)—Italy today sho[illegible] world the "youthful st[illegible] to which Premier Mussolini [illegible] in an address in which he [illegible] in the eight anniversary of [illegible] m.

[illegible] e blackshirt militia stirred to patriotism all over the country by the Duce's words "unmasking a warlike Europe" marched in every city and village. Moving columns gave an inkling of what Mussolini meant yesterday when he promised that two years hence the tenth anniversary of the fascist march on Rome would witness the greatest military concentration there in 3,000 years.

Scores of fighting planes droned over the capital this afternoon while the chief of state and his ministers elsewhere officially opened hundreds of public works which fascism has built to give employment and to develop the country's economic strength.

The vatican participated. Cardinal Sincero, standing beside the Duce, blessed a military banner which Mussolini presented to a group of war wounded. It was the first time a prince of the church has in such public manner identified himself with fascism.

AGREEMENT REACHED BY ALL FACTIONS IN BRAZIL

Vargas Definitely Chosen For Provisional President—All the Revolutionary Chieftains Are in Rio De Janeiro Except Vargas—It is Understood That Vargas Will Head a Triumphal Entry of Southern Revolutionary Soldiers Into the Capital

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 28—(AP)—Getulio Vargas, leading figure in the Brazilian revolution which began Oct. 3, was chosen definitely this afternoon for the provisional president of Brazil.

For several days the indication was that Vargas would succeed Washington Luis, ousted by a movement of military and naval leaders last Friday, but the difinite decision was made this afternoon at a meeting of southern revolutionary representatives with the military-naval Junta.

Vargas is now the only important rebel leader not in the capital. Captain Juarez Tavora arrived by airplane late today from the north and was given a wild welcome.

The captain, who organized and conducted the revolutien in nine northern states, was reported a few days ago to be suspicious of the Rio Junta but said he was willing to cooperate when he learned that Vargas would take the presidency.

Thousands crowded the avenues as the northern chieftain motored to his hotel, and sirens and whistles were tooted in welcome.

Vargas has ordered a special train made ready by the Central railroad and will soon come north, it is understood, leading a triumphal entry of southern revolutionary soldiers into the capital.

Rio was quiet today, following the military police mutiny of yesterday in which more than 100 casualties were reported, and the policing of the banking district was taken over by sailors. A decree of the Junta today permitted all banks to do business except the discontinuing of foreign bills, which is left to the Banco Do Brasil.

The offices of the American consul-general and commercial attache, located in the Anoite building, of which several floors were sacked by rioters Friday, have been moved to the American embassy. The former offices were not touched by the mob but the building has been closed to all tenants pending insurance adjustments.

The deposed president, Washington Luis, is still held incomunicado at Fortress Copacabana.

BRITISH PARLIAMENT OPENED BY KING GEORGE

LONDON, Oct. 28.— (AP) — King George read from a throne in the house of lords today his first address ever prepared by labor ministers to deal with the problems of the British empire.

In the shadows behind the bar, which separated him from the colorful actors in the royal pageant, stood the laborite prime minister, Ramsay MacDonald who, with his colleagues, put the words of the royal pronouncement into the monarch's mouth.

The king opened parliament with Queen Mary at his side, with the ceremonies of which London through the centuries never has tired. In the clear resonant voice familiar before his long illness he intoned his speech.

The serious business of parliament began in debates based on the government's program as announced in the kign's speech. In the commons H. C. Charleton, a former locomotive engineer, moved the motion relating to the royal address, and W. B. Taylor, a former saddler, seconded it.

Its important provisions called for legislation to deal with unemployment, agriculture, electoral reform, trades union disputes, town planning, preservation of rural amenities, taxation of land and the raising of the age at which juveniles might leave school.

It was a heavy program for what it expected to be a stormy parliament session.

STEPS IN BAY STATE TO STIMULATE EMPLOYMENT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28. — (AP) — Formation by Governor Frank G. Allen, of Massachusetts, of a state employment committee to take immediate steps to stimulate employment in that state was reported today to the president's emergency committee for employment.

The announcement was made by long distance telephone by James J. Phelan, who has been selected as chairman. The committee is made up of 39 prominent members who have been carefully selected to represent the state geographically.

G. O. P. ATTACKED BY FORMER GOV. ALFRED E. SMITH OF N. Y.

BOSTON, Oct. 28.—(AP) —Alfred E. Smith, former governor of New York, arraigned the republican party for making a log rolling tariff for the benefit of its campaign contributors in the face of unemployment and distress and for dodging the prohibition issue in a speech at the Boston Arena here tonight.

A crowd of 15,000 inside and thousands more outside the doors cheered the 1928 democratic presidential candidate ironic comparison of republican campaign promises and actual accomplishments on these two issues.

$20,000 ALIENATION OF AFFECTIONS SUIT FILED

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 28.—(AP)— Mrs. Irene T. Partridge, of Hamden, today brought a $20,000 alienation of affections suit in superior court naming Virginia Chapman, daughter of J. O. Chapman, assistant superintendent of freight traffic at Waterbury, as defendant.

Mrs. Partridge, the mother of two children, charged that Miss Chapman has pursued her husband, Frank J. Partridge, an official of the Crane Valve company of Bridgeport, for more than a year, telephoning him and writing him letters at regular intervals when she did not see him.

4,089,207 PERSONS ELIGIBLE TO VOTE IN NEW YORK STATE

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 28—(AP)—Secretary of State Edward J. Flynn announced tonight that 4,089,207 persons have registered and are eligible to vote in New York state at the election next Tuesday.

The total is 82,157 above that of last year, but 796,069 under the registration for 1928, which was a presidential as well as a gubernatorial year.

The New York city registration this year, Mr. Flynn announced, was 1,568,020. Last year it was 1,553,025, and in 1928 it was 2,029,514.

STRIKE OF 126,000 BERLIN METAL WORKERS ENDS TODAY

BERLIN, Oct. 28—(AP)—A strike of 126,000 Berlin metal workers over wage cuts recommended in Chancellor Bruening's economy program ended tonight. Representatives of employers and the employes agreed that the men should return to their jobs tomorrow at the old wage scale pending final adjustment by a board of arbitration.

WOMEN EXPECTED TO HELP RELIEVE UNEMPLOYMENT

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—(AP)— This period of united effort to give jobs to those who need them is like a time of war, Col. Arthur Woods chairman of the president's emergency committee on employment, today told Women's club leaders from six states.

"This is war time now," he said "and the common enemy is great suffering. It is making an assault upon our people."

The women of the nation, he added may do their part now for President Hoover as they did when he was food administrator.

"When Mr. Hoover wanted a job done in his program for conservation of food, the people who put it across were the women," Colonel Woods said. "Now, the president expects equal results. If the women understand the problem, they can put it across again.

"There are lots of things to be done around our homes, and if we have them done now we will create work and give employment to those who need it. There is nothing wrong with this country. There is plenty of work and plenty of jobs."

BANKER YOCUM'S WIFE TO PAY RANSOM FOR HIS RELEASE

GALVA, Ill., Oct. 28.— (AP)— One little corner of the veil of mystery that has shrouded the disappearance of Earl Yocum, wealthy banker, was lifted today, revealing the certainty that he was kidnaped and being held for ransom.

Mrs. Yocum, who has elected to try single-handed to bring about her husband's return, confirmed the common belief that he was seized by abductors Saturday night and was being held as hostage. The details she kept strictly to herself, presumably fearing harm to the banker if she did not follow the instructions of the kidnapers.

"The amount of ransom is known only to myself. I have not and will not take any other person into my confidence," she told reporters. "I am handling the situation myself the best I know how.

"I do not know when he will be released and I have nothing to say regarding any arrangements for his release.

"I have not said I would pay the ransom and will not say now." And there the whole case rested

ELECTIONS TO BE HELD IN CUBA SATURDAY

HAVANA, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Cuba has entered the last week of one of the most hectic electoral periods in its history as a republic.

The senatorial and congressional elections scheduled to be held Saturday will climax months of uncertainty and political maneuvering.

As a precaution against possible disturbances, parades and political meetings of all kinds have been forbidden until November 21; groups are not allowed to form in the streets. Bridges and trains are being closely watched and military supervisors have been ordered to their posts until after the elections.

Troops are garrisoned at strategic points, particularly in Matanzas and Santa Clara provinces.

SUES FOR RETURN OF HIS WAGES FROM WIFE

NORWALK, Oct. 28—(AP)—After giving his wife his wages weekly since they were first married, John C Harper, Bell Island chauffeur, now wants his money back.

Damages of $5,000 are asked in an action which he has brought against Kathryn Harper of New York city claiming that she deposited and invested the wages in her own name.

STAND OF CONGRESSIONAL CANDIDATES ON DRY LAW

SUPERIOR COURT HOLDS VERY SHORT SESSION

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 28.—Other than announcements relative to the permanent or temporary disposition of cases there was no business at the superior court session convened here this morning with Judge Newell S. Jennings on the bench. Judge Jennings excused the jury panel with thanks for the term.

The case of James F. Carmody vs. William C. Raill has been settled, it was announced. Two other jury cases pending, Elizabeth Marsden vs. Alfred J. Bousquet and Violet Baldwin vs. Alfred J. Bousquet, were put off the calendar for the term. The case of Alfred Baldwin vs. Alfred J. Bousquet, a court case, was also put off the calendar. The case of Gregory Swelki vs. Byron M. Lewis, was ordered continued with the stipulation that counsel for the plaintiff pay the counsel for the defendant $10, covering witness fees and expenses incurred in the postponement. Attorney A. G. Bill of Danielson, representing the defendant, stated to the court that he would not press a request for immediate trial. Attorney Harvey, for the plaintiff, said that his client was not in condition at this time to appear in court. Court was then adjourned until next Monday morning in this city, when a short calendar session will be held.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Rose T. Witte

Mrs. Rose T. Witte died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Margaret Horton, in North Scituate, R. I., this morning. She was born in the Bronx, N. Y., Feb. 20, 1867, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Prince. Besides her husband, she is survived by one son, Fred C. Witte, of North Scituate; one daughter, Mrs. Margaret Horton, also of North Scituate; a brother, Charles Prince, of New Jersey; and three sisters, Mrs. Anna Hill, Mrs. Louise Sawyer and Mrs. Ricka Rohl, of New York. She was a former resident of South Coventry.

Superior Court Decisions

Judge Newell S. Jennings of the Windham county superior court today handed down decisions in the cases of Dr. Samuel J. Turcotte, appeal for modification of alimony, and of Winkleman Brothers of New York city vs. Abraham Butleman of this city. In the Turcotte case, in which a reduction of the alimony of $25 weekly to be paid his former wife, Ann Turcotte, and $10 weekly to the support of their child, was sought, Judge Jennings denied the application.

A decision in favor of Butleman, the defendant, was given in the Winkleman Brothers vs. A. Butleman case. The action was over the purchase a few years ago of ten cloth coats at a cost of $385, which the defendant found to be of inferior quality upon arrival of the merchandise in this city and subsequently returned the coats. The New York concern sought to collect for the coats.

Drought at Windham School

A reply that action through a town meeting is the only possible permanent cure for the shortage of water at the Windham Center grammar school, has been made by the town school committee to residents of the village seeking better water conditions at the school. At the request of 35 petitioners, the committee, which has had the water problem at this school under consideration since the drought became felt, has made definite reply in the nature of a resolution. The petitioners are notified that there is no money available in the present school budget for an additional well at the school, but if an appropriation is made for that specific purpose at a town meeting and if the committee is authorized to have the work done, the project will be carried forward promptly to completion.

Since the construction of the school water has been secured from a spring on land of Alfred Harvey at the rate of $100 annually. At present the supply is so low that toilets cannot be flushed, this having to be done by the janitor, and the pressure is low in the drinking bubblers.

Rev. Harry S. McCready of Kingston, R. I., former pastor of the First Congregational church, addressed his former associates of the Willimantic Rotary club at the weekly luncheon-meeting held in the Nathan Hale hotel this noon on the subject of "Values." Lending freely of the inspiration which is one of his outstanding characteristics, Rev. Mr McCready brought a beautiful message of the values of health, knowledge and wealth, and denounced the general belief of intrinsic value in power. The speaker was introduced by Walter S. Jordan. Program Chairman Nelson A. Daniels announced that next week the speaker will be A. L. T. Cummings of Portland, Me., who will speak on "Why Rotary?" The following week the regular Tuesday meeting will be omitted as the club will journey to Norwich Wednesday evening to attend the eastern Connecticut inter-city club meeting to be held at the inn. Guests of the meeting were: Carl W. Oman and Charles A. Wheeler and Rotarians Myles E. Standish of Norwich and Chester Meneely of Troy, N. Y.

Supreme Master Workman Herbert Bishop and several of the grand lodge officers and their wives from New Haven were guests at a meeting and entertainment of Willimantic lodge, No. 11, Ancient Order of United Workmen, held in the Al-Pierre Tabarin Monday night with Mrs. Gladys Potter in charge. Guests from the Parkville and Nathan Hale lodges of Hartford and Wadsworth lodge of New Haven were also present, a number of these making interesting remarks. Vocal solos were by Roger Kelting of Hartford and Joseph Bernet of this city and instrumental music was by the Troubadours of this city.

FUNERAL

Hiram A. Phillips

Services for Hiram A. Phillips were held at the home in Andover at 2 o'clock this afternoon with Rev. Wallace I. Woodin officiating. Burial is to take place in the Woodlawn cemetery, Boston, Mass., Wednesday. Arrangements are in charge of Avery and VanZandt.

STOMACH UPSET

Get at the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets help arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, people rarely suffer from indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Try Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain. All druggists. 15c, 30c and 60c. Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like.

The trustees of the Hale donation held their annual meeting in the Nathan Hale hotel today with seven members present. John Talcott of Talcottville was elected president; Curtis Dean of South Coventry, treasurer, and Rev. Charles G. Johnson, also of South Coventry, secretary. The donation was founded in 1804 by Sarah Hale, wife of Captain John Hale, a brother of Nathan Hale, with the purpose of furnishing a library in South Coventry for the clergymen of Tolland county and to assist the young men in the preparation for the ministry.

Wilbur L. Cross of New Haven, democratic candidate for governor, will have a busy time of it next Friday when he is scheduled to deliver four speeches in this section. He will speak in Stafford Springs at 3 o'clock; at Spring Hill, in the Mansfield town hall, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon; in the town hall here at 7:30 o'clock, and in Putnam at 9:30 o'clock. The arrangements to have him speak in Stafford Springs were made only this morning by Archibald W. Buchanan, Sr., of Mansfield. The hour of the Mansfield rally was advanced from 3 to 4 o'clock in order to accommodate this revised schedule. Dean Cross is a native of the town of Mansfield and is a graduate of Old Natchaug in the town of Windham.

Frank Sheedy, 42, of Mansfield Center, is a patient in St. Joseph's hospital suffering from several fractured ribs and a broken clavicle sustained in a fall from a bridge in Mansfield which he was engaged in repairing Monday.

At a whist given by Gold Star auxiliary in V. F. W. hall Monday evening with 19 tables in play, prizes were awarded to the following: First, Miss Mary Shrisbac and Henry Hornberger; second, Mrs. J. A. McCarthy and Winfield Andrews, and third, Mrs. Lucy Champlin and Stephen Palmer. Mrs. Linnie Fairbanks was in charge of arrangements.

Slightly less than one-half of the approximate 4,000 property tax lists in the town of Windham have been filed to date with the board of assessors, George E. Gifford, Alphonse L. Gelinas and M. E. Lincoln. The time limit for filing expires next Saturday, after which an assessment of 10 per cent will be made on all lists unfiled.

George T. Platt, 61, of Andover, is suffering from a fracture of the leg and a fractured rib sustained when he was struck by a car on the highway in Andover late Monday afternoon. The name of the driver could not be ascertained. An investigation is being conducted by State Policeman Henry Zehrer of the Stafford Springs barracks.

Major Joseph R. Morrison of the 16th Infantry, C. N. G., attended the school of instruction for field and staff officers of the regiment, held tonight at the state armory in Hartford.

A delightful Halloween party, including vaudeville numbers, was given in V. F. W. hall tonight by the auxiliary to Gold Star post No. 1724, with Mrs. Marcelline English, president, as chairlady of the committee of arrangements. The hall was attractively decorated for the occasion.

Mrs. Morris B. Smith and son James have returned to their home in Elyria, Ohio, after spending several months with Postmaster and Mrs. Frank M. Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Crane have just returned from an automobile trip into Vermont and New York states.

Mr. and Mrs. Gurdon C. R. Rathbun have been entertaining her brother, Lawrence Fox of Chicago, and his nephew, Gorton Fitchie of Elgin, Ill.

Mrs. Frederick C. Cummings has returned from a short visit with her daughter, Miss Carolyn Cummings, in New York city.

Mrs. O. P. Smith had as guests today Mr. and Mrs. Ben Smith of Southington.

Dr. and Mrs. James E. Keirans returned to Northampton, Mass., Monday, after spending a week with his mother, Mrs. Margaret Keirans.

Officer Pierre Marrotte was called to a home on Pleasant street about 8 o'clock this morning to get a burglar. Investigation disclosed that the "burglar" was a relatively small animal but a none the less unpleasant intruder known as a pole-cat. Bound to "get his cat," the officer ventured forward. He received the odorous spray characteristic of the species, but managed to bag the animal, much to the praise of several people attracted to the scene.

Stafford Springs

The assessors are having a busy session this week, receiving and aiding in making up lists of taxable property. Saturday will be the last day for filing lists.

Several identified with Stafford Springs Congregational church are to attend the 63rd annual meeting of Congregational churches in Connecticut, at Willimantic, Nov. 4 and 5.

Another Firm Quits

The store occupied by Rosen & Newman in the Hotkowski building on Main street has been vacated. The industrial depression, which is the worst ever experienced in Stafford Springs, is responsible for many vacant stores in the borough.

The Whiton store on East Main street is being painted and remodeled.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Clark and daughter Jean have returned to Edgewood, R. I., after spending several days with Mrs. Clark's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Carl Converse.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Philip Jarvis, of Springfield, were recent visitors with borough relatives.

Centenary Banquet

The Centenary banquet of the Methodist church is to be held this (Wednesday) evening at 6:30. Ministers and officers of the church and their guests will be present. It is expected that many former ministers and members of their families will attend.

Henry Festl, of Staffordville, is employed by Archie M. Sanger in Stafford Springs.

OBITUARY

James Williams

The body of James Williams, of Blackstone, Mass., was brought to Stafford Springs Monday for burial in St. Edward's cemetery. Mr. Williams was well known here, where he was a resident for a number of years. He is survived by his widow, a son and a daughter, all of Blackstone.

Omer Foucher, A. Fontanella, Danny Greene, Tommy Mullins, Attilio Frasinelli and Roberta Kaddy, all of Stafford Springs, will assist in the presentation of the minstrel show to be given at South Willington next week under the direction of Gardiner Hall.

Peter J. Brown has sold his interest in his business to Clarence Glazier. Mr. Glazier has already taken possession.

Mrs. Carrie B. McLaughlin has had her house on Highland terrace renovated and painted.

HERE ARE THOSE AMAZING "PEP UP" SALTS

So Many People Are Asking About

They are ordinary JAD Salts, and thousands of people tell wonderful tales about them. Everywhere you go, people are taking them and singing their praises; especially folks who have to work hard or long hours, and those who know they shouldn't drink alcoholic beverages, yet do.

Fat or overweight people take them to reduce moisture weight in the body and to end that puffy feeling most overweight people have.

What they do is this: Clear up the Systematic Poisoning that makes you feel so miserable most of the time. Clean out those mean, intestinal poisons that often go to the kidneys and form pus and trouble. 30 minutes after taking, you feel those poisons go. No more dull headaches, no more dragging yourself around "half-sick" most of the time. You "pep-up" and pack a new wallop in a hurry.

You take a spoonful in a glass of water a half hour before breakfast, a sparkling, wonderful drink. For these salts are a product of citrous fruits and grapes, with just the right touch of lithia to make them marvelous to take.

So that nobody will be fooled in buying them, you get your money back if they don't make you feel finer, more vigorous and interested in life than ever before. Get at any drug store simply by asking for ordinary JAD Salts. You'll be glad that you did.

Too much ACID

Many people, two hours after eating, suffer indigestion as they call it. It is usually excess acid. Correct it with an alkali. The best way, the quick, harmless and efficient way, is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained for 50 years the standard with physicians. One spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in stomach acids, and at once. The symptoms disappear in five minutes.

You will never use crude methods when you know this better method. And you will never suffer from excess acid when you prove out this easy relief. Please do that—for your own sake—now.

Be sure to get the genuine, prescribed by doctors for conditions due to excess acid. It is always a liquid; it cannot be made in tablet form. Look for the name Phillips' and the word genuine in red.

GLEAMY WHITE TEETH AND A SWEET BREATH

DANIELSON

FARMERS MAY HELP UNEMPLOYMENT SITUATION

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 28—From quarters where there is interest in helping the unemployed in this territory there came the suggestion today that there are possibly farmers or owners of woodlands who might want to hire men for the winter season. This idea has to do with the possibility that there may be odd jobs to be done about farms between now and the end of the cold weather season. Chopping wood, clearing brush, husking corn and the like are among things that some of the unemployed men can do. The difficulty at once seen, however, is how to find out whether such employes are needed on any farms in the territory. All who would like work, it is realized, are unsuitable for general farm work, but there are many men that could make themselves useful along the lines mentioned and would be glad to have such work at nominal compensation. The whole idea is along the line of "give a job if you can."

Subscriptions For New Paper Large

Returns received up to tonight establish that The Bulletin's new paper, The Sunday Record, will be in the hands of practically all of the dealers regularly handling The Bulletin in this territory when the first issue of the new publication appears next Sunday. Subscriptions from individuals continue to come in day by day to dealers in this territory. In view of the fact that the Sunday Record is to sell for five cents and includes the majority of features that make Sunday papers popular, its circulation success here is assured from the start. Arrangements for delivery service are complete. It also will be on sale at news stands here.

Traffic Lights For Danielson

One of the possibilities for the spring of next year in Danielson is the installation of traffic control lights through the business section. It has been talked of for a year past and with the constant increase in traffic the installation becomes more and more of a necessity.

An essential requirement before the work can be undertaken is to obtain the permission of the state highway commissioner. That this may be possible is indicated by the fact that similar privileges have been granted on sections of trunk lines running through towns and cities of Connecticut.

Mrs. Joseph Bouquet has returned here from Hartford, where she spent Sunday and Monday with her daughter, Miss Claire Bouquet, a patient at the Hartford hospital. Miss Bouquet has successfully undergone a surgical operation, the third to which she has been submitted, and it is believed the final one. She will be able to return to her home here in about ten days.

The annual tag day of the Civic federation has been postponed to a later date, possibly until spring, it was stated today. This event was scheduled for last Saturday, but because of the severe storm prevailing at the time and the handicap it would place on the effort it was decided to postpone it.

Many Requests For Aid

These are trying days for members of the board of selectmen. They are beseiged constantly by applicants for aid from the town. Mention of this is made in order that it may be stated that all applicants and their status is thoroughly checked before any aid is granted. It is established that there are those not entitled to any assistance who try to get it. This makes it necessary for the officials to go carefully into the circumstances of all who come to them for assistance, and they are doing just that. The unscrupulous, the grafters, are being carefully weeded out from the worthy poor.

The evening school, at the high school building is now open and the work planned for the remainder of the fall and winter season is under way. Any who have contemplated entering and have not done so as yet may register at the present time and be assigned to classes.

A group of executives of the Southern New England Telephone company took time while on an inspection trip through this territory to view the building in course of construction for the A. T. and T. company on the West Side, opposite Day street. Steady progress is being made on the construction work, but it likely will be after the first of the year before it is in use.

Coroner Arthur G. Bill has started his inquest relative to the death of William Lambert, who died of injuries received in an automobile accident at Moosup on a Sunday night several weeks ago. The coroner said today that he was unable to forecast when his inquiry into the affair will be completed.

Up to this afternoon no report had been received by Coroner A. G. Bill from the state laboratory on the chemical analysis of the stomach content of Francis Socquet of Dyer street, whose sudden death the past week resulted in the coroner ordering an autopsy that disclosed a perforation of the young man's stomach at a point where a gastric ulcer had formed. The coroner has not as yet undertaken an inquest in this case, and likely will not do so until the reports referred to have been received.

County Agent Raymond E. Wing is conducting a constructive campaign, among various others, setting forth how potatoes may be grown profitably in this area by working along the lines of the 300 Bushel club. He points out some of the successes achieved by county farmers during the past growing season by following detailed instructions with the objective of obtaining 300 bushels per acre. Adelard Laframboise of Brooklyn had the highest average with 357.7 bushels per acre. William C. Child of Woodstock was second with 355.6 bushels per acre. These two men followed the four-point program fairly closely, distance between rows and hills being the main deviation from the program. The first point is to use certified seed, the second to use 2,000 pounds of 5-10-5 fertilizer, or its equivalent, per acre. The third point is as to the time of year for planting, May 5-25, and the spacing of hills and rows. The fourth point has to do with thorough spraying.

The crop production by those following the program has been remarkably good. Next spring, it is anticipated, there will be additional members in the 300 Bushel club.

Edward Drydol, Hartford, operator of a car that crashed into a truck engaged on highway construction work at Wauregan yesterday, injuring Miss Estella Grajinsky, Norwich, who was riding with him, was presented in the town court of Plainfield this morning. The original charge of reckless driving was changed to speeding and Drydol fined $10 and costs.

The high point of interest in the final campaigning being conducted here in advance of next Tuesday's election still centers around the candidacies of Sheriff Charles A. Gates, republican, Willimantic, for re-election and Senator Napoleon J. Fournier, democrat, Moosup, who aspires to the place. Both parties are hustling in the interest of their candidates. Republican workers here discount the claim of democratic hustlers that Fournier has a chance to carry Killingly. Still the democrats are insistent that they have a good chance of doing that thing. That's a reason republicans are urging the appearance of the full party strength at the polls next Tuesday. Should the republicans carry Killingly for sheriff it will help all through the country.

Mrs. Clarence Potter is visiting for a time with Mrs. Clare N. Turner of Broad street.

If your list of taxable property in Killingly is not filed by Saturday, Nov. 1, you will be subject to a 10 per cent. penalty. Assessors in session daily, town hall building.—Adv.

Announcement is made that the Danielson team has withdrawn from the Eastern Connecticut Soccer league because of lack of patronage. The team was doing well, too, having lost only one game out of six played.

Tonight members of the Girls' Friendly society of St. Alban's parish were at New London as guests of girls of the society of St. James' church there. A dinner was served.

This afternoon members of the Ladies' Prayer league met with Mrs. W. J. Craig of Winter street.

Supt. George B. Guild of the Crystal Water company is engaged in making a periodical checkup of the water services in the territory served by the company.

Plans for transporting voters from their homes or places of employment at next Tuesday's election are being next Tuesday's election are being worked out by party leaders here. A large number of machines will be engaged in this work.

JEWETT CITY

F. WAYLAND POTTER FINDS MANY CHANGES IN BOROUGH

Mr. and Mrs. F. Wayland Potter, of Camden, N. J., were callers in the borough Tuesday. Mr. Potter is the son of the late Nathan Perry Potter, postmaster of Jewett City during the Civil war, having been appointed in 1861. Wayland Potter, now 71, moved away from here in 1867. While calling on some of the older residents, he recalled incidents connected with the village history of more than a half century ago. The visitor actually rounded up a few boyhood friends who had skated with him on the one-time Jack Fanning pond, where the Finn block now stands. Only a few old landmarks here and there, he said, looked familiar.

Heavy Voting Predicted

The registrars have prepared a list of the voters of the town of Griswold and the sheets, which show a roster of 1,350 names, have been posted in conspicuous places about the town. This town, right now, is preparing to poll the largest vote in its history. Some of the old time party leaders are predicting that there will be some little splitting of the ticket, in which case the legal methods are of interest. One may vote a split ticket, that is, may vote for any candidate whose name appears in one party column and for any candidate whose name appears in any other party column by placing a cross-mark "X" in the voting space at the left of the name of each candidate for whom one desires to vote, or by placing a cross-mark "X" in the circle at the head of any party column and a cross-mark "X" in the voting space at the left of the name of any candidate for whom it is desired to vote in any other column; and one may also write, in the space in the "blank column" designated for the office the name of any person not printed on a ballot for whom one desires to vote for such office.

An elector who wishes to vote the entire republican or democratic ticket with the single exception of John Doe, may place an X in the circle at the head of the party column, and an X in the voting space at the left of the name of any candidate for whom it is desired to vote in any other column.

Methodist church notes for the week include the Junior Epworth league meeting, this (Wednesday) afternoon at 3:30. Mid-week prayer meeting at the home of Mrs. Dora Johnson, of Tracy avenue. The Woman's Foreign Missionary society is to be entertained at the home of Mrs. Alice Anthony, Thursday afternoon, at 2:30.

OBITUARY

George Starbuck

Frank S. Pollock, a former resident of Quincy, Mass., and Everett H. Hiscox, received notification Tuesday of the recent death of a friend, George Starbuck, who at the time of his death earlier in the month was postmaster at Sagamore, Mass. Mr. Starbuck was for many years a railway postal clerk, running between Boston and Provincetown and later on the Shore Line between Boston and New York. While preparing for transfer to the trunk line run, he performed the feat of learning the distribution for New York city station delivery in 15 days, and he had never visited the city. This meant becoming so familiar with the millions of possible addresses within the many postal districts of the metropolis, that knowledge of the station in which they would receive delivery must be instantly available. All this, together with a long list of hotels, banks, clubs, firms, theatres and business blocks, which may be mailed without street or number, and must be assorted to their postal station.

The Stove-Pipe Club is still discussing the world's series. The answer to the local controversy, relative to some of the outstanding features, comes from a leading magazine and closes the argument about the hits in the final game: "Get these figures, and get 'em right. Never has a world's series seen them before and never may again. Here they are: Two home runs—Dykes and Simmons; five two-baggers—one for Dykes, one for Cochrane, one for Jimmy Foxx, and two for good old Bing Miller; again nary a single. Study the box score all winter and you won't find one. When A's players hit the ball, they like plenty of exercise."

A delegation from the borough was in New London at 4:04 Monday afternoon to get a glimpse of Al Smith when he went through the Whaling City bound for Providence. As the home town boys passed along and shook hands with the distinguished politician, it is learned that he didn't say a thing about this thriving Quinebaug borough, which probably slipped his mind for the moment.

Polish Citizens' Rally

At a democratic rally of the Polish citizens Thursday evening, to be held in the Polish Corporation hall, there will be a number of addresses by local and outside speakers.

Miss Doris Riendeau entertained the R. B. club at the home of Mrs. Levi Dugas Monday evening. The bridge prizes were taken by Misses Josephine Ambot and Mary Laizer. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Mrs. Alex McNicol and Mrs. Andrew McNicol attended the concert given by Paderewski in Providence, Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Tripp and sons, Arthur, Rollin and Hermon, have been spending several days in New York.

Roy Perry has a fine miniature golf course which he has constructed near his home for the pleasure of himself and his friends.

GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS INSPECT SITE FOR NEW PUTMAN POSTOFFICE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Oct. 28.—Agents of the United States postoffice department are in this city making inspections of building tracts which have been submitted by owners as sites for the location of the proposed Putnam postoffice building. The federal inspectors arrived in Putnam yesterday and began their tour of inspection at once. They were accompanied by Postmaster A. Macdonald, Walter N. King, president of the chamber of commerce, and Earl C. Rogers, landlord of the Putnam Inn, and prominent citizens interested in the proposed government building project, for which a fund of $119,000 is now available.

The agents spent several hours today examining possible sites, but at the conclusion of their work tonight no single prospective site had been accepted and they planned to continue examinations of property Wednesday.

The visitation of the government inspectors is the first movement of the postoffice department to be made in this city in nearly two years. Early in the spring an increase in the Putnam federal building fund amounting to $33,500, was included in a supplemental estimate calling for $28,639,450 for the public buildings programme of the government, submitted to congress by President Hoover. Following close on the heels of the submittance of the bill was the announcement that the treasury department of the United States was seeking proposals for the sale or donation to the United States of the plot of land in the city, suitable for the erection of a new postoffice building. The proposals were opened on Aug. 13 at the office of the supervising architect in Washington. Several attractive sites were submitted. The next step taken was the announcement that the federal site inspectors would be in Putnam on or about Sept. 30, at which time they would inspect location, size, and other features of each site submitted. Until their arrival here yesterday the matter has been dormant.

Judging from the manner in which the postoffice proposition is receiving governmental consideration, the situation has reached a point where the government desires to go forward with its plans.

Sites are quite plentiful. The response of property owners to the government's call was amazing and it now appears that a definite location will be secured soon and further plans shaped.

The Putnam postoffice situation has been a matter of public and government discussion for nearly 20 years. At frequent intervals during that course of time various details entering into preparation of plans for the building have bobbed up, together with other situations that managed to prevent progress. The acquiring by the government in 1911 or 1912 of the Hammond property at the corner of Grove and South Main streets, at a price of $8,500, was the first indication that Putnam would have a new federal building. The matter became more definite in appearance when in 1914, after funds had been appropriated by congress for this purpose, an order to clear the land was received from Washington. The whole thing was thwarted in March, 1914, when public opposition to the building being located in the south end of the city developed and was evidenced with the sending of a petition of remonstrance to Washington. The paper contained the names of 1,000 signers.

BIG REPUBLICAN RALLY IN PUTNAM TONIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Oct. 28.—The political spotlight will be turned on the republicans Wednesday evening when a delegation of party candidates and state leaders under the leadership of Miss Katherine Byrne, vice-chairman of the state central committee, visit Odd Fellows hall on Pomfret street, to address what is believed will be the largest political rally to be staged in this part of the county during the campaign. While Miss Byrne will be the principal speaker, the platform will be graced by many other republicans of state-wide and local prominence. John A. Danaher, United States assistant district attorney, will speak as will George J. Grady, corporation counsel of New Haven and well-known Connecticut lawyer, and Luther M. Keith of Putnam, state tree warden and chief of the landscaping bureau of the state highway department.

The programme will open at 8 o'clock and at the conclusion of the speaking programme a luncheon will be served by members of the Putnam women's republican organization. The public has been cordially invited to attend.

Hundreds of Putnam people maintained a close watch during the forenoon and early afternoon hours for a glimpse of the airship "Neponsett," which was scheduled to visit the city today during its good-will flight over towns of northeastern Connecticut. The tour was postponed this morning when unfavorable weather conditions prevailed over New Bedford, Mass., where the home base of the baby dirigible is located. Alexander Gilman, vice-president of the Putnam Airport Corp., said this afternoon the flight may be negotiated Wednesday if weather conditions are favorable.

Announcement in The Bulletin this morning of the proposed flight of the Neponsett was incentive for a group of interested people going to the airport, hoping to get first-hand views of how aircraft of this type land.

Miss Katherine Byrne, republican state central committee vice-chairman, resident of this city and prominent Putnam business woman, was heard in a political address broadcast last Saturday evening at 6:30 o'clock over the facilities of Station WTIC, Hartford. In her inspiring message Miss Byrne spoke of the efforts of the republican party in providing adequate hospitalization facilities for tubercular patients.

It won't be long before Judge M. H. Geissler's city court will be definitely crossed off the jail lists of the united order of knights of the road. Again this morning three members of the clan were disappointed when the best they could draw was 12 and 15-day sentences.

No official announcement has been made as yet by the Connecticut Light and Power company as to the naming of a successor to the late Ralph E. Thurston, who, until his sudden death, was superintendent of power distribution in the Eastern Connecticut district. Mr. Thurston's duties are being discharged by members of his staff who will direct the work until his successor is named.

Contractors in charge of the water system reconstruction work started operations today on the excavation to be done on Front and Pomfret streets, preparatory to the laying of new water mains along this route. Late this afternoon the men had opened a trench line extending from Bugbee square to Livery street. Traffic passing along this route was thrown into confusion by the torn up condition of the street and necessitated police attention. The plan is to lay the Front street mains before starting work on the sections that will run along Pomfret street to tie up with a main at the Memorial bridge. In this way the quick movement of fire apparatus from the Central station in Union square will not be hampered in case of a fire in the north end of the city.

Peter Dumas of Marshall street, son of Street Superintendent Frederick Dumas, left yesterday for Brooklyn, N. Y., where he will enter a veterans' hospital for treatment.

The local democratic organization has established its campaign headquarters in the centrally located Bartlett building on Main street, which was formerly occupied by the W. J. Bartlett store. The campaign workers are holding regular meetings at the headquarters at which election day plans are being shaped.

The sample copies of the ballots to be used on election day are now being distributed by party leaders among the electors. The ballots this year are considerably wider than those of past elections, being made so by the addition of the ticket of the communist party. No county or local electors are candidates for office on the communist or socialist ticket, which also appears upon the ballot.

Miss Marjorie C. Bradford, assistant clerk of courts, said today that papers in the libel suit instituted against the Hartford Courant company by Trenor A. Rice of Willimantic, were received for filing in the superior court this week. Notice of the institution of the suit was served on the defendant last Wednesday. Rice claims damages to the extent of $25,000.

A military representative of the United States property and disbursing officer of the war department was in this city yesterday for the purpose of making the annual property inventory of the headquarters company, 43rd division, C. N. G.

Several babies were examined by the Red Cross and state health department nurses conducting the well child conference held this afternoon at the Red Cross rooms at 10, Ballou street.

Mrs. W. J. Bartlett, democratic candidate for state senator from the 28th district, will visit Ashford Wednesday in the interests of her campaign. Ashford is the home town of Senator Walter C. Brown, Mrs. Bartlett's republican opponent.

Favoring rural road improvement, Pomfret citizens have formed a chapter of the Connecticut Rural Road Improvement association. E. N. Searls is president. The Pomfret chapter will join in the movement to convert 10,000 miles of Connecticut dirt roads into hard surfaced routes.

Chinese feed bean cakes, made of the meal of soy beans, to milk cows to increase milk producting capacity.

NO. GROSVENORDALE

The Webster-Putnam Shortline bus figured in an accident at the sharp curve near the St. Joseph's parochial school Monday afternoon when it collided with a sedan driven by Albert Collin, boss painter for the Grosvenordale company. The bus which was traveling north toward the village, met Collin's car in the curve and was unable to avoid colliding. Little damage was done to the bus, which was driven by Mr. Jewel, but the front of the sedan was completely smashed. No one suffered any injuries.

Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Hamel with their family motored to Keene, N. H., where they spent the week end with their son, Tencrede Hamel and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Josephat Blanchette left Sunday evening by motor for Canada, after receiving news of the death of a relative there.

Donat Laroche, Paul Laroche and Romeo Lebeau have returned from a motor trip to Canada.

Alvin Lachapelle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adelard Lachapelle, is a patient at Webster District hospital, where he was taken Sunday evening and operated on Monday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Mederic Seney and sons, Charles and Normand, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Marion and son, Normand, of Putnam, motored to Central Falls, R. I. Sunday and called on relatives.

Edward René, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hector Rene, went, Saturday, to Canada where he will spend some time with relatives.

Henry Hebert of Grosvenordale, and Miss Angelina Blanchard spent the week end in Worcester, guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Loiselle and daughter, Cecile, formerly of this village.

Holy Name So. Communion

About one hundred members of the Holy Name society marched in a body to the eight o'clock mass in St. Joseph's church Sunday where they received communion, it being the feast of Christ, the King. A special sermon was delivered by the pastor, Rev. J. Mathieu, who also celebrated the mass. The singing was by the children's choir.

Mr. and Mrs. George Lachapelle spent Sunday in Worcester.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Johnson, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Johnson and son, Chester, went Monday to Springfield on a business errand.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Swedish Lutheran church served a harvest supper in the church parlors Saturday in spite of bad weather the supper was well attended. Agent J. F. Reardon addressed the gathering and an entertainment was provided by the Community Glee club.

Mr. and Mrs. Leary, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dillon and children, of Middletown, were week end guests of Mrs. Dillon's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Prince.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Lachance, of Putnam, were visitors Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Adelard Lachapelle.

John Blake and George Whitney went on a fishing trip Sunday.

The Children of Mary sodality of St. Joseph's church will receive their monthly holy communion next Sunday morning at the eight o'clock mass.

Herminegille Beauregard, formerly of this town, continues seriously ill at the home of his son, in Southbridge.

Miss Medoro Therrien of Boston is visiting her father, Z. Therrien.

Miss Anna Barrette accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Meagher of Dudley on a business trip to Worcester Friday.

Miss Irene Johnson entertained the sewing club Friday evening. The club had as guests Miss Wyla Dawson and Miss Mary Cassells. A light lunch was served and Halloween favors were presented each girl.

The auxiliary to the American Legion will hold its dance and masquerade at the Community house. Prizes will be awarded for the best costumes. Miss Anna Barrette is in charge of the affair.

Arthur Lachapelle is substituting for his brother, Alvin, at the Provost-Lachapelle store in Attawaugan.

The Community baseball league dance at the Community house proved a success. The proceeds will be added to the fund for injured players. Two hundred were in attendance at the dance.

Mrs. Ludger Bernard and son, Henry, motored to New Bedford at the week end and were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lariviere.

Miss Anne Svenning of Bristol was the guest of her brother, John Svenning and family at the week end.

Louis Pelletier was taken to St. Vincent's hospital, Worcester, Monday night by his son. He will remain for observation and possibly a surgical operation.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cassells with their family motored to Springfield where they visited their daughter, Miss Margaret Cassels, a student at Bay Path institute.

Mrs. Adelard Lachapelle and sons, Arthur and Raymond, and Mrs. George Lachapelle motored to Webster Monday evening and visited Alvin Lachapelle, a patient at the Webster District hospital.

Junior high schools of California have a total enrollment of 87,886 compared to a high school enrollment of 370,009.

NO TIME FOR A CHANGE

Another week and the voters will have determined who they want for the state officials, members of congress and legislature and other offices for which they have a chance to vote this year

It is the advice of Congressman J. Q. Tilson, floor leader of the republicans in the house of representatives at Washington, that it is a poor time to change horses while crossing the stream. It is old advice but it is as sound as it is old, and there are reasons for believing that the voters are thoroughly impressed by it.

The importance of giving the president a congress that will stand by the administration's policies, and the republican platform, and contribute to a constructive programme must be apparent. One democratic leader, J. M. Cox, a former candidate for president, promises that the tariff will be repealed if the democrats are elected. Knowing the importance of the tariff to its industries, such a promise furnishes the best of reasons for Connecticut to insure republican success. This district should insure the return of Congressman Freeman by a greater majority than ever, and every district in the state has similar reasons for the same action. It is certainly not a time for a change.

The excellent stewardship which has been given by the state government also furnishes convincing reason for insisting upon the continuance of the safe, sound and effective policies which have brought such commendable results. The same good reasons for continuing this type of government were never more apparent. In the republican nominees headed by Ernest E. Rogers there are men of experience and ability, men who know their state, its needs, and can be relied upon to supply them. It is not a time for a change.

Sheriff Bradford knows New London county. New London county knows Sheriff Bradford. That gives assurance that his reelection will be to the advantage of the towns of this county and it is only natural that there should be an enthusiastic desire for his continuation in the office. It is a time when there should not be a change.

This senatorial district and the town of Norwich cannot fail to recognize the importance of sending republican senators and representatives to a legislature that is certain to be republican. The advantage in so doing is fully apparent, as disclosed by past experiences. Capable men have been nominated and their election will be to the benefit of the town and district.

RESPIRATORS FOR HOSPITALS

While individuals and organizations invariably need no suggestions in determining objects for which they wish to have any special gift used, there are times when the expression "I wish I had known about that" is heard. It indicates a desire to help, secure if not actually provide things which are actually needed. It evidences an interest along philanthropic lines which is most commendable and it is unfortunate that the means is not oftener furnished of bringing together such needs and those willing to supply them.

In the city of Philadelphia it was recently disclosed that not a hospital in that medical center was equipped with a respirator, "mechanical lungs," that would serve adults. The need for one had to be met by borrowing a machine from another city.

That case served to enlighten various ones in the Quaker city that there was an opportunity for supplying such equipment. It was quickly recognized by two of the large public utilities of that city, an electric company and a gas company. They not only ordered one of the machines, but arranged for the placing of one in ten hospitals of that city to treat cases of shock, drowning, asphyxiation and to be used in cases of poliomyelitis and other diseases where chest muscles are not able to carry on without such artificial assistance.

It is a modern method of maintaining respiration which has resulted in the saving of many lives. It is equipment that might reasonably awaken the interest of individuals and organizations desirous of contributing to public welfare and the saving of life. The opportunity of providing such a machine for the local hospital may well be kept in mind if a worthy object is being sought.

THE TREATY IN EFFECT

The London treaty, now in effect, is properly regarded as another step in the right direction. It doesn't, or at least it is hoped that it doesn't, represent the attainment of a goal beyond which there is no expectation of further progress. In fact, there is no more reason to expect that it is final any more than the Washington treaty was final.

That important agreement was the beginning. The London pact shows additional attainment in the same general direction and through the good effects and study of these accomplishments there is ground for the belief that the time will come in the not distant future when these and other countries will be ready to make another general advance.

It is perhaps well that such efforts should go along the lines that are being followed. Slow but sure is productive of lasting results and preferable to rushing into something hastily which has to be abandoned later.

With the naval policies of the several countries established so far as a building limit is concerned there is removed the competitive feature in naval construction. It has been determined what can be done in the way of construction and such steps as the several nations take in that direction need cause no concern among the others. Certainly it doesn't call upon them to outdistance them.

With such an understanding it is inevitable that there should be an improvement in the relationship between nations, an improvement which should have such an effect upon those not included that will make them desirous of doing likewise.

VOTING MACHINE DEMONSTRATION

There are 590 in this town who have been made voters this fall. It is to be expected that they will not only want to but will go to the polls and vote next month. It would not be surprising if they had more or less knowledge of how to use the voting machines, but for their benefit and the benefit of any others who may not be quite clear about the use of the machines, or the machines which are in use here, the registrars of voters have arranged for a demonstration of a machine in the city court room, the voting place of the central district, the next three afternoons and evenings, including todya.

If there is any doubt in the mind of any voter as to how he should operate the machine when voting November 4 he should take advantage of this opportunity to remove it. Look the machines over, try them, see others try them, get the explanation of the demonstrator and be convinced that you will have no difficulty when the time comes to actually cast your vote

The simplicity cannot fail to impress. The certainty of the count in accordance with the way the vote is cast is most assuring and anyone who sees the machine demonstrated and actually tests it out can have no doubt about being able to use it just as easily as, and much more quickly than, a paper ballot.

Confusion exists chiefly in the imagination and it is quickly dispelled by getting an advance explanation on all points about which there is any question.

Having provided ample time for the voters to see and ask questions, the registrars are doing their part. All that is needed is for the voters who need instructions on the use of the machine to do their part.

DESPERATE POLITICAL TRICK

After an exhaustive investigation by the department of justice of charges made by R. S. Kelley of the field force of the department of the interior that the shale oil lands were being awarded illegally, it is disclosed that they are without foundation and the report reveals Mr. Kelley in anything but an enviable position.

It is not surprising that the president has followed up the result of the inquiry by denouncing the whole affair as an attempt to fasten an odious oil scandal upon the administration for the harmful political effect it would have. The charges were timed for such an effect and but for the prompt manner in which they were answered and put under investigation they might have helped. As it is they serve only to discredit those who have had a part therein and to act as a boomerang in the political arena.

Everything may go in war and politics, but in this instance the claims were too easily disproved. An attack was made upon a department head who enjoys the highest confidence. He has inherited no taint from predecessors and the whole affair is certain to have just the opposite effect from that intended. It reveals a desperation in the political battle underway which had not been supposed to be necessary. The effect of the recoil upon those involved should be long and lasting.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man on the corner says: Does the port of missing men list both the good and the bad?

There's a charm about the song of the steam pipes this time of the year which the radio doesn't furnish.

These are the days when political charges are as numerous as the flies and most of them quite as easily swatted.

Think of the mayor of Boston urging the president to spend a billion on the Mississippi river when Boston harbor needs so much development.

When New York, like other cities, is endeavoring to obtain funds by which to reduce unemployment, another boost in salaries for Tammany officeholders is put into effect.

GETTING AN EYEFUL

"Oh!" exclaimed Sue Lathrop, as part of the dust cloud, which a stiff breeze off the lake swirled around the corner, landed in her left eye. It was 1.30 by her tiny wrist watch and she was due at Rosemary Baker's luncheon at 1.45. Closing her damaged eye she peered up Sheridan road with her good one. Thank goodness, the bus for which she had been waiting eons, as it seemed, was tooling along at last. Fishing for the speck in her eye would have to be postponed for the time being. Blinking uncertainly Sue boarded the bus and slid into a vacant seat.

"Like a breath of spring," said T. Hastings Trew poetically to himself after an approving appraisal of the navy blue tailleur, tricky white beret turban, cross-fox scarf and navy oxfords in the seat across from his own. His beatific mood was short lived.

"I've just got to get the horrid thing out," said Sue inaudibly. All attempts to capture the speck in her eye with the aid of handkerchief and vanity mirror proving futile, she redoubled her effort as the bus drew nearer her destination. Across the aisle T. Hastings Trew first grew nervous—then irritable—then desperate. Suddenly he rose from his seat.

"Stop it!" was the peremptory order which Sue, scarcely believing her ears, heard hissed from the lips of the good-looking but quite evidently deranged young man who was standing in the aisle of the bus unmistakably glaring at her.

"S-top the bus?" asked Sue, startled into making an involuntary motion toward the bell button.

"Your eye! Stop gouging your eye!" was the irate reply of the young man, his eyebrows fiercely drawn. "Don't you know that eyes are too valuable to be mistreated in such fashion?"

"It's my eye," retorted Sue.

"I don't care a prune whose eye it is," sputtered T. Hastings. "It's not going to be destroyed right under my nose."

"If you'd stayed in your seat," snapped Sue, too angry to wipe away a bigtear which at that moment started to roll down her cheek—the damaged eye hurt cruelly—"it wouldn't be right under your nose."

"Anyway, girls," concluded Sue, after convulsing her luncheon companions with an exaggerated account of her bus ride, "even if he is an escaped lunatic he's too utterly stunning for words—tall and brown with the whitest teeth." A dreamy note had crept into her voice. "Even if I never see him again or know his name I'll never forget his—" the dreamy note changd to an excited squeal. "Why, I must have his name somewhere. He was holding out a card when I rang the bell and—here it is," producing a crumpled card from the depths of her handbag. "T. Hastings Trew, ophthalmologist," she read aloud.

"It's all over, girls," groaned Rosemary. "The great bus mystery is solved. Just an impecunious eye-doctor trying to snare a patient."

"I'll wager Doc Trew is going to have at least one patient," remarked Rosemary.

"Why, whatever do you mean?" asked Sue, stuffing the card, at which she had been gazing abstractedly, back into her bag.

"Your eye is still inflamed, darling," replied Rosemary.

"Huh!" chuckled Judge Lathrop as his neighbor across the hall from his office told of his experience on the way down town. "Might have been my Sue, the little spitfire. Sounds just like her."

T. Hastings Trew hemmed. "I'd no intention of mentioning it, judge, but the young lady who took exception to my nose being in the aisle was the one who posed for that photograph on your desk."

"Hmmm!" hmmed the judge. "You're sure of that?"

T. Hastings withdrew his eyes unwillingly from the photograph in question. "I haven't studied that picture for months to no purpose, sir. I feel certain I'd know the original if I met her in—in heaven," he wound up feverently.

Judge Lathrop, intercepting a yearning glance directed at his daughter's picture, arrived at a momentous decision. "I wish you'd do me a favor, Trew; come out to dinner with me tonight and have a look at that eye of Sue's. I'd feel a lot better about it. Trifles of that sort have been known to develop into something serious. Am I right?"

"Absolutely!" agreed T. Hastings Trew earnestly.—Chicago News.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 — With great pleasure the Bystander had opportunity to renew auld acquaintance with those now famous disarmament twins, the two Hughs, Ambassador Hugh Gibson and Minister Hugh Wilson.

They were mobilized in Washington to concoct American notions a la Hoover for presentation to what both hoped and believed was to be the last meeting of the League of Nations preparatory commission on disarmament.

The twins were located in the office of Ted Marriner, chief of the western European division. That's where all the diplomatic folk called home from European posts for conference make their temporary headquarters.

"How do you like having the two Hughs living with you this way?" the Bystander asked Marriner.

"Oh, fine," he said. "But it's like living in a union station, they have so many callers."

Veteran Disarmers

Anyway, the Bystander accused Ambassador Hugh of being the most veteran disarmament negotiator of all time. It is a fact too.

He began that business with the original Washington naval treaty pow-wow and has had a finger in every disarmament pie since that time up to and including the London conference.

If there is anything about that kind of diplomatic negotiating Hugh Gibson does not now know, he's hopeless. Probably he could pass a reasonably good examination in the deep stuff of fleet strategy, although he may not know starboard from port.

"But why not include Hugh Wilson?" said Ambassador Hugh. "He's been disarming just as much as I have."

Which also is true. Wilson began with the Washington show and has figured in all subsequent arms conferences one way or another.

"All right," said the Bystander to Gibson. "I'll include Hugh Wilson, but I hear gossip to the effect that you have personal reasons for being a disarmament expert. Is it true that you got lammed on the head by an excitable Cuban down in Havana years ago and have therefore been working for disarmament ever since?"

"You bet," was Ambassador Hugh's prompt comeback—"for disarmament of the other fellow."

Tomorrow's Man

And also it is true that a little fuss down in Cuba where he was a very energetic young diplomatic secretary back in 1912 had a lot to do with Gibson's transfer to Belgium, where he was stationed when the World War started.

Just think what that meant to him! He was on the job—oh, very, very much on the job—when the eyes of the world were focused on that American legation in Belgium. He played a part, unavailingly, in the tragic story of Edith Cavell.

He has been places and seen things, has Ambassador Hugh.

And with it all he has the habit of looking forward eagerly to tomorrow and whatever it may bring. He gets a lot of zest just out of living.

YOUR HEALTH

"Understanding The Child"

By James L. McCartney, M. D., Chief of the Division of Mental Hygiene State Department of Health, Albany.

(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

Parents as a general rule are anxious to do the best they know how in the care and upbringing of the children with whom they are privileged to be entrusted, but, unfortunately, many parents do not understand their children, and constantly mishandle them, often with dire results, creating irreparable, emotional ruin that stigmatizes the child for the rest of his or her life. There are a number of faults that are common to all children, and on which we may generalize with licence, although as a general rule it is impossible to interpret the child's action from any set rule. Just as all human beings vary in themselves, so all combinations of people, who make up a family vary, so it is dangerous to generalize when interpreting the the many situations which grow within this very important association of parent and child. These situations produce a thousand and one different types of personalities which grown people reveal as a result of the experiences of childhood.

Parents frequently show their misunderstanding by the way they overstimulate their children's pride. One of the most stupid things that a parent does to his child is to exhibit him for the entertainment of fond friends. The worst way to prepare a child for self-respect is to show him off to ostensibly admiring relatives.

The relation of mutual respect can exist between parent and child as long as the child's individuality is considered and his judgment respected. Once assumed that a child may cease to be a child and become a person able to think, decide, choose and act for himself, there is no insuperable difficulty in determining when a child's judgment is entitled to a hearing, provided of course by way of preliminary that parents are ready to put away the pet superstition of parental infallibility. Nothing is so calculated to win a child's respect as parental admission of fallibility generally, and of some error of thought and speech in particular.

One rarely hears or learns of a child who feels that his parents fail to love him, but one often comes upon children, normal beings rather than those afflicted with the feeling of persecution, who deeply lament the fact that their parents do not treat them with the reverence owing from normal, wholesome beings, one to another. It is this that more than anything else makes some children impatient of the very name, children.

From the first day of a little child's life his mother is the person who is most intimately connected with him. He depends on her for all his earthly comforts, and it is only after quite a time that the father seems to appear on his horizon at all, and when he does, it is as a person of infinite importance who is much admired, greatly envied and perhaps a little feared. He seems, somehow, more loose and more detached than the mother. A great deal of the household seems to revolve around him. Very frequently, the boy and girl both feel that the father is someone to be imitated, revered and respected and quite naturally they desire to possess some of the power which apparently is so easily his. Thus it is important for the father to realize that he has an important, and in many respects, even a greater responsibility than the mother in the building of the child's character.

The normal family environment is a happy situation in which there is neither too much nor too little affection between the children and their parents, and a feeling of mutual respect. In such an environment the children are practically assured mental health, for they are understood.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Chelsea Courier

Mr. Editor: In looking over The Bulletin I noticed your column of a century past. It happens that I have in my possession a paper which antedates even that period. The paper is called The Chelsea Courier and is from the first edition published by Thomas Hubbard, Nov. 30, 1796. In one corner I find the name, Champlin Vail, but the first name is badly blurred and I cannot be sure I am correct. The name of Vail is quite plain. The paper is very well preserved and seems to have a wax finish. Among the items I find a copy of the amnesty proclamation by George Washington with his signature and that of Timothy Pickering secretary of state.

Before this publication was issued there was an earlier one known as The Packet, which was published in Norwich Town just below Meeting House rocks, but I only know this from hearsay. No doubt you can easily verify this, if necessary. My informant was Henry Wagner, of West Town street. The type in The Courier is much like that seen on the tombstones in the old cemetery in Norwich Town which I have seen myself.

Stories That Recall Others

Policeman Perfect

Two small boys—cousins—each living in a different part of the city were discussing the policemen on their individual beats. One said the policeman always said "good morning" to everybody, instead of "Good morning, judge!"

"Well he ain't got nothin' on our policeman," boasted the other. "Our policeman tells everybody to do anything within reason, but don't do nothin' that will make him get up early to go to court."

Mother Lands a Knockout

Mother, 35, was bemoaning the fact that things were not the same as in the old days.

"You wouldn't want to give up the radio, telephone, automobile and electricity and go back to coal oil lamps, mule carts and bustles, would you, mother?" chirped her pert daughter.

"No, I don't think I would—but we still have one thing we used to have in the old days."

"What's that?"

"Smart Alecks!"

Science Has Solved The Laxative Problem

Banish Constipation this easy way.

All you need is a little box of pleasant-tasting pieces of chewing gum, called "Feen-a-mint"—the modern chewing gum laxative. For Feen-a-mint has solved the laxative problem in millions of homes. The secret of Feen-a-mint's success is uniform "internal distribution" which scientists now know is essential to real efficiency in any laxative.

Because you chew Feen-a-mint it is effective in milder doses than ordinary laxatives. For the effectives of a laxative is not so much dependent upon the quantity swallowed as upon the thoroughness of its distribution throughout the alimentary tract.

While you chew this delicious bit of gum the tasteless laxative it contains is gradually released and mixed with the saliva. Thus it is carried to the intestinal tract smoothly, evenly without shock to the system or the distressing after-effects so common with old-fashioned laxatives. Each particle of the laxative in Feen-a-mint works with utmost efficiency, gently encouraging the intestinal muscles to resume the activity so necessary for healthful elimination.

The action of Feen-a-mint is thorough, gentle, dependable. With the proper dosage it is not necessary to increase the amount of Feen-a-mint you take nor to switch to another laxative for a change. Feen-a-mint is harmless and contains no habit-forming drugs. Truly the health laxative. Ask for a package at any drug store.

POETRY

The Last Leaf

I saw him once before,
As he passed by the door,
And again
The pavement stones resound,
As he totters o'er the ground
With his cane.

They say that in his prime,
Ere the pruning knife of Time
Cut him down,
Not a better man was found
By the Crier on his round
Through the town.

But now he walks the streets,
And he looks at all he meets
Sad and wan,
And he shakes his feeble head,
That it seems as if he said,
"They are gone."

The mossy marbles rest
On the lips that he has prest
In their bloom,
And the names he loved to hear
Have been carved for many a year
On the tomb.

My grandmamma has said—
Poor old lady, she is dead
Long ago—
That he had a Roman nose,
And his cheek was like a rose
In the snow.

But now his nose is thin
And it rests upon his chin
Like a staff,
And a crook is in his back
And a melancholy crack
In his laugh.

I know it is a sin
For men to sit and grin
At him here;
But the old three-cornered hat,
And the breeches, and all that,
Are so queer!

And if I should live to be
The last leaf upon the tree
In the spring,
Let them smile, as I do now,
At the old, forsaken bough
Where I cling.

—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Requiem

Mellow the days are as peaches;
Nights with a citrous tang;
Yellow the leaves of the beeches;
Heavy the seed pods hang;
Willow and poplar shiver
At Something that bides in the haze
Hovering over the river
And fields of harvested maize.

Wind in the dry wood crackles;
Bittersweet berries are bright;
Noisily swallows and grackles
Are drilling their squadrons for flight.
Hushed is the cicada's droning;
Songless are warbler and wren;
Faint is the wood dove's moaning—
The world is dying again.

—Carl S. Adams in Cincinnati Enquirer.

Some time ago a section foreman was severely criticised by the roadmaster for the careless handling of track material by his men.
"For instance," said he, "a few days ago one of your men was seen to thoughtlessly throw a spike into the weeds. Don't you realise they cost money?"
"I know they do," returned the foreman, "I had my men spend three days looking for that spike."—R. R. Magazine.

WEDDINGS

Church—Quallins

Frederick P. Church of Foxboro, Mass., formerly a resident of the West Side section of this city, and Miss Rose Quallins of Brockton, Mass., were united in marriage on Oct. 3 last, in St. Paul's Episcopal church, Brockton, by Rev. David B. Matthews. Only members of the immediate families attended the ceremony. The bride has been a teacher in Brockton. The newly married couple are to reside in Foxboro where the bridegroom has a position with the Foxboro company. He is the son of the late Frank R. Church, formerly in the cigar and coal business in Norwich.

Allen—Clark

The marriage of Miss Violet A. Clark, foster daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Patten, of West Hartford, and Charles Louis Allen, Jr., of Norwich, took place Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Patten. Rev. T. M. Hodgdon performed the ceremony in the presence of a large number of guests. The house was decorated with pines, palms and chrysanthemums. R. D. Arnold played the wedding marches and "O Promise Me."

The bride, who was given in marriage by Mr. Patten, wore a gown of white crepe made in princess style and trimmed with pearl. Her veil, which was of old lace, an heirloom, was caught with orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Ruth Patten of Sterling, Mass., who was maid of honor, wore a gown of orchid silk crepe with bead trimming of tulle and slippers to match. She carried yellow chrysanthemums tied with orchid ribbon. Garfield Clark of Brattleboro, Vt., cousin of the bride, carried the ring on a silver tray. Winifred Clark was the flower girl. She wore a frock of coral silk and carried a basket of roses.

Walter Fisher of Norwich was Mr. Allen's best man. The ushers were R. H. Patten and John Caprano, of Worcester, Mass.

Guests were present from Norwich, Brattleboro, Rochester, N. Y., Worcester and Newark, N. J. After the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Allen left by motor for an unannounced wedding trip. They will reside in Norwich.

A surprise birthday party for Mrs. F. DiCarlo of 14 Church street was given Satuday evening at Mrs. DiCarlo's home by Miss Elena Yuliani of New London. Supper was served, followed by music and dancing. An orchestra from New London played and Mrs. DiCarlo received many gifts.

Those present included Mr. and Mrs. L. Zuliani, Mr. and Mrs. G. Sargent, Mrs. Pennella, Mrs. Mariani, Mr and Mrs. F. Pedace, Mr. and Mrs. R. Belli, Mr. and Mrs. T. Skane, Mr. T. Sargent, Mr. V. Zuliani and the Misses Elena and Madeline Yuliani, Marion Pedace, Marietta Mariani and Elizabeth Skane.

22 ORGANIZATIONS TO PARTICIPATE IN NORWICH ARMISTICE DAY PARADE

At a meeting of the Armistice day observance committee of Fletcher Post, No. 4, American Legion, Tuesday evening, it was decided that the post hire the Roma band to head the American Legion men and women in the Armistice day parade. To date 22 organizations have signified their intentions of participating, either by parading or by entering floats in the procession. As the committee is now at work drawing up the parade formation it is desired that any organizations which plan to participate, and which have not yet notified the committee do so at once, so that they may be assigned proper positions in the formation.

The committee has been notified by the Norwich Merchants bureau that the bureau has voted to enter a float in the procession representing the Victory medal. The Business and Professional Woman's club will also have a float entered in the parade.

It is understood that Captain Wilson Brown, commandant of the U. S. submarine base at Groton, will send a detachment of naval men provided the committee furnishes transportation from and back to the base. An effort will be made to secure the use of some of the larger trucks in the city to transport the sailors.

There will be five divisions in the parade, it was learned Tuesday evening, and Captain Meredith Lee, parade marshal, will issue parade orders in the near future for the information of the various organizations participating. Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, pastor of the United Congregational church, will offer the prayer at the exercises at Chelsea parade, Walter T. Clark, commander of Fletcher post, will give the address of welcome, and the speaker of the day will be Rev. John J. Reilly, curate at St. Patrick's church. A speakers' platform will be erected at Chelsea parade for the exercises. L. O. Hawkins and the East Great Plain Ranch have volunteered the use of their saddle horses for the parade marshal, aides, etc.

It had been hoped that the U. S. Coast Guard academy at New London would be represented in the parade but due to the fact that the coast guard will participate in the celebration at Stonington, that day, under the auspices of Harvey post, A. L. of that place, the guardsmen will be unable to come here for the local procession.

Arrangements are well underway for the dance to be held at the armory, Armistice night. The dance is to be free, open to the general public and it was announced Tuesday evening that Brennan's orchestra has been hired to provide the dance programme.

JUSTICE CURRY DIES AFTER BRIEF ILLNESS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 28.—Justice William T. Curry, a leading citizen of the town of Lebanon, died at his home in Goshen, Lebanon, at 1 o'clock this afternoon following a brief illness. He was born in Holman, England, May 28, 1866, and is survived by three children, William G. Curry of Springfield, Mass., Archie Robert Curry of Chicopee, Mass., and Mrs. Stanton E. Briggs of this city; three sisters, Mrs. Benjamin Simpson of Springfield, Mrs. James Meish of Chicopee Falls, and Mrs. F. Simpson of Montreal, Canada; one brother, George Curry of Indianapolis, Ind., and 12 grandchildren.

Mr. Curry received his early education in Montreal, Canada, enlisting in the Canadian active militia on June 10, 1884. He was honorably discharged on Feb. 10, 1887, and then came to this country, locating in Chicopee Falls, Mass., where he was employed by the Vitra Bicycle Co. He remained with that concern for 11 years, resigning to take up a residence in Lebanon. During the 25 years that he had been a resident of the town he was a member of the Goshen Congregational church, of which he was treasurer for 18 years. He was in the state legislature in 1917, serving on the important committee on banks as an active member. He was town health officer for eight years.

Justice Curry was a member of Nemrod Grotto of Norwich and of Wooster lodge No. 10, A. F. & A. M., of Colchester, serving the lodge as secretary for 20 years. He was a past regent of the Royal Arcanum and held membership in Wooster chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, the American Mechanics of Lebanon, Lebanon grange and the Men's club. On Nov. 8, 1888, he was united in marriage with Sarah B. Grant of Chicopee Falls, who died Oct. 16, 1918.

NEEDLEWORK GUILD SHOWS MUCH WORK IN YEAR

Between 800 and 850 articles made by Needlework guild members were displayed at the guild's annual meeting which was held Tuesday afternoon in the front parlor of the Wauregan hotel. Study Club Held Meeting.

The study club of the Church of the Good Shepherd (Universalist) held its regular meeting Monday evening at the home of Villa Bussey, 22 Hawthorne street. After the study hour refreshments were served and a social time was enjoyed. The next meeting is to be held Nov. 10, at the home of Mrs. A. N. Foster, Crescent street.

CONGREGATIONAL MEETING BY COUNTY ASSOCIATION

The New London Association of Congregational Churches and Ministers held its semi-annual meeting Tuesday at Park Congregational church, with an attendance of about 100 clergymen and delegates from the 29 churches from which the association draws its membership. At 10 o'clock in the morning Rev. Charles H. Ricketts of this city, moderator, called the meeting to order and the roll call followed.

Rev. Fred R. Bunker, recently returned from Africa, was scheduled to address the gathering, but was unable to be present. Rev. J. Beveridge Lee, read two letters from Rev. Mr. Bunker explaining the increased work among the African missions and the improvement that has taken place during recent years.

Rev. Roderick Scott, dean of Fukien Christian university at Foochow, spoke on the Chinese Christians and the Unfinished Revolution. He gave a description of conditions in China. Prof. Henry A. Tirrell, principal of the Norwich Free Academy, also addressed the meeting. Rev. Wilfred N. Wilton, recently appointed pastor of the First Congregational church, Norwich, was received into membership.

Offer from Rev. Reynolds

Luncheon was served at the Hugh H. Osgood Memorial parish house by the women of the church. The afternoon programme opened at 2 o'clock with Rev. Mr. Ricketts, the moderator, presiding. The principal business transacted was a discussion of a recent offer of Rev. William J. Reynolds of Lisbon to dispose of, annually, at half price, the stock in The Pilgrim Gardens which he owns, the balance of the money to be added to the Christmas found for disabled clergymen, and clergymen's widows. At a recent meeting Rev. J. Beveridge Lee, D. D., of New London Rev. A. H. Abbott and Rev. Theodore M. Shipherd, D. D., of this city, were named a committee to take the generous offer under consideration with a view to making plans for the best method of carying out the idea.

They reported at the meeting Tuesday, suggesting that the committee be enlarged by the appointment of five laymen, the chair to make the appointments. The laymen added to the committee are William G. Park of Hanover, Herbert L. Yerrington of Norwich Town, Kellogg Hall of Preston, Philip A. Johnson and Arthur L. Peale of this city.

The devotional service was led by Rev. John D. Waldron, pastor of the Franklin church and there was an interesting adderss by Rev. Sherrod Soule, D. D., superintendent of the Missionary society of Connecticut. In his address, which was on the topic A Saint With Eye Single, Rev. Dr. Soule spoke of Harland Page, well known evangelist of years ago who spent his early life in North Coventry. Rev. Joseph E. Pennepacker of New Haven delivered an address on The Church in the Countryside, following which adjournment was taken.

NORWICH TROOPS OBSERVING GIRL SCOUT WEEK

This week Girl Scouts all over the United States are celebrating Girl Scout week and are endeavoring to bring to the attention of the public the ways in which girls can be of service to their community and country.

When Sir Robert Baden-Powell founded the Boy Scout movement in England, it proved too attractive and too well adapted to youth to make it possible to limit its great opportunities to boys alone. A girls' organization known in England as the Girl Guides, developed and flourished with equal success.

Mrs. Julliette Low, an American visitor in England, realized the tremendous future of the movement for her own country, and, with the active and friendly cooperation of the Baden-Powells, she founded the Girl Guides in America, enrolling the first patrols in Savannah, Georgia in March 1912. They were re-christened Girl Scouts in a very few months, however, as that name was more appropriate in America.

In 1915, national headquarters were established in Washington, D. C., but the following year they were moved to New York and the methods and standards of what was to be a nation wide organization became established on a broad practical basis. Each succeeding year has shown a larger and more enthusiastic body of girls and young women, learning in the happiest way, how to combine patriotism, outdoor activities, skill in every branch of domestic science and high standards of community service.

The leaders are as enthusiastic as the girls, and together have their games and various forms of training that encourage team work and fair play. For the instruction of the leaders, national training schools are being established all over the country and schools and churches everywhere are co-operating eagerly with this recreational movement.

The Girl Scouts of today find that there can be much joy in learning the best ways to live, to play and to help others.

There is indoor wisdom, too, that awaits Girl Scouts for it has ever been the woman's work to direct a household and to maintain a happy, efficient spirit there.

During the Great war, the Girl Scouts and Girl Guides of all countries gave a splendid account of themselves and many are the stories that will be handed on of the quick-minded Girl Scouts who served the needs of their countries.

Norwich has eight troops of Girl Scouts and two Brownie troops (girls from six to ten years) and all have special programmes for the week.

The Norwich Girl Scouts have planned many activities for this, "Their Week." While every week is a Girl Scout week—this week, which is set aside in a special manner, and embracing Mrs. Juliette Low's birthday, Friday, Oct. 31, is especially interesting.

A Girl Scout is cheerful.—Mrs. Low, founder of the Girl Scout movement in America is being honored this week. All troops of the city have enjoyed Halloween parties and in their pretty costumes have made a gay and colorful picture. The kings, queens, ghosts, spooks etc., have played games and have had refreshments appropriate to the occasion.

A Girl Scout is helpful.—Many of the older girls will do a community service by helping make dressings for the Backus hospital Wednesday afternoon.

A Girl Scout is a friend to all and a sister to every other Girl Scout.—In honor of Mrs. Low's birthday the girls are to plant a Douglas spruce tree, Friday, Oct. 31, at 4:15 p. m. at Chelsea parade, with appropriate exercises. All interested persons will be most welcome. It is the hope of the scouts that this tree will be a tradition. Each Christmas the tree will be decorated and the scouts will sing their Christmas carols around it.

A Girl Scout is loyal.—November 11th, Armistice day, the Girl Scouts will participate in the Armistice day parade. On the evening of Nov. 11 the girls will give a very interesting programme for the entertainment of the Norwich Woman's City club.

The leader's association is most active. In the near future they are to ask the co-operation of the Norwich public by attending a bridge and tea. It is hoped, by those in charge, that the bridge will be a social as well as a financial success.

SUPT. CHAS. M. WATT ATTENDS GARDENERS' CONVENTION

C. M. Watt, of Branford house, Groton, superintendent for Henry B. Plant, has returned from Washington, D. C., where he was one of 500 delegates from the United States and Canada at the annual convention of the National Association of Gardeners.

Mr. Watt continues to promote the International Peace Garden proposed by the National Association of Gardeners. This is a proposed park-like garden to be laid out on the border between the United States and Canada. It will comprise about 1,200 acres and will illustrate the trees and plants of North America and as far as possible of the countries from which the population of the United States is derived. There will be woods and lakes and conservatories and entrance gates on each side to cost about $50,000 each. The whole expense may be 7,000,000, which it is hoped, will be raised mostly by collection of from five to 25 cents from the children and adults of both countries. The Connecticut gardeners believe that the development of this park will bring an increase in tourist travel through this section.

ART ASSOCIATION COMMITTEE PLANS NOVEMBER MEETING

A ta meeting of the programme committee of the Norwich Art association held Tuesday evening at the home of the chairman, Miss Blancce Wilber, 174 Elizabeth street, the final arrangements for the November meeting were discussed. As this is to be an open meeting with a dance recital by Vira Mirova, in Oriental and Occidental dances, it was decided to change the usual mode of procedure for admission of members upon presentation of membership cards. For this meeting they will be required to present their paid-up membership cards at a special booth for exchange for regular admission tickets.

The committee also completed arrangements for the series of monthly lectures which will make a well balanced programm, comprising such topics as: Art in Relation to You, the Charm of French Cathedrals, Art and Industry, and Art in the Schools.

The members of the committee are Miss Blanche Wilber, chairman; Miss Nancy Lucas, Miss Faith Leavens, Miss Hannah Crowell, Miss Margaret Triplett, Joseph C. Worth and Jean Kieffer.

PRETTY LINEN SHOWER FOR MRS. HERBERT DAIGLE

A very pretty linen shower was given Monday for Mrs. Herbert Daigle, the former Miss Mabel Corkey, by the girls in the office of the Robert Gair Co., at Uncasville. A dainty buffet lunch was served by the girls. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts. Those present were: Mrs. Daigle, Muriel Holdridge, Jennie Long, Mae Hanley, Phyllis Brewer, Marian Chapman, Agnes Brown, Mary Chappell, Alice Quinn, Eleanor Gadbois, Louise Graham, Helen Dwyer, Marian von Ulm, Myra Hatfield, Margaret Brewer, Evelyn Caron, Myrtice Coman, Helen Malone, Kathryn Murphy and Annie Bulkeley.

CHARITY CARD PARTY HELD BY MRS. MARTIN E. MULLEN

A charity card party at which there were 21 tables was given Monday evening by Mrs. Mullen wife of Dr. Martin E. Mullen, at her home, 121 Lafayette street, Norwich. There were very effective Halloween decorations and favors, and lunch was served. The scorers were Misses Genevieve Dembinski, Pauline Curran and Natalie Dembinski.

Prizes were won by Mrs. E. W. Yerrington, Miss Augusta Thome, Miss Agnes Dougherty, Hermen Fontaine, Conrad Pepin and Frank Mathieu.

The affair proved very successful and the substantial sum realized was given by Mrs. Mullen to Rev. Frederick R. S. DesSureault, to aid the needy in the village of Taftville.

Very generous donations were received from business men in Norwich and other friends toward making the party a success.

Raising Sunken Scow

Workmen of the Meritt-Chapman Scott corporation, of New London began on Tuesday the work of raising a large mud scow which sank Monday morning in about 12 feet of water off Stoddard's wharf in the Thames river. The scow is one of those used to carry away the material that is dredged from the bottom of the channel here. The boat sunk when it got out of the channel onto some rocks.

John Joseph Keefe

John Joseph Keefe, 66, died suddenly shortly before 9 o'clock Tuesday morning at his home, No. 84 Franklin street. Mr. Keefe, shortly before his death, complained of pains about his heart and went back to bed where he was found dead by his wife. Dr. C. C. Gildersleeve, medical examiner, conducted an investigation and pronounced death due to heart trouble.

Mr. Keefe was apparently in his usual good health Monday evening when he visited the bedside of his son-in-law, George Tryon, who is seriously ill at his home, No. 85 Franklin street.

Mr. Keefe was born in Baltic, April 30, 1864, and was the son of Patrick and Margaret Keefe. He resided in Baltic for a number of years and also lived at various times at River Point, R. I., Taftville, Jewett City and Montville. At St. John's church, Montville, Sept. 15, 1891, he was united in marriage with Hannah Keating. He was a member of St. Patrick's parish and was employed as a second hand in the mule room of the Ponemah mills, at Taftville. Surviving Mr. Keefe are his wife, a daughter, Mrs. George Tryon, of this city, two grandchildren, George and Madeline Tryon and a brother, Morris Keefe of Taftville.

No Superior Court Session

There is to be no superior court session at New London this week because Judge Christopher L. Avery who is presiding at this term is to be engaged in filling in on the supreme court bench. This means also that there will be short calendar session on Friday, nor will uncontested divorces be heard then.

Conn. Mother
Knew Best

WISE mothers find the things that keep children contented, happy, well. Most of them have learned they can depend on one thing to restore a youngster's good nature when he's cross, fretful, feverish.

The experiences of Mrs. E. Roberts, 38 Prospect Ave., Hartford, is a typical one. She says: "I have used California Fig Syrup with both my boys practically all their lives for colds and upsets. Whenever they're the least bit constipated or restless I give them a little. It has them comfortable, happy, well in a jiffy. Their splendid condition proves I knew best when I decided to use this wonderful preparation with them."

Physicians endorse the use of pure vegetable California Fig Syrup when bad breath, coated tongue, dullness, feverishness, listlessness, etc., show a child's bowels are in need of help. Weak stomach and bowels are toned by its gentle aid; appetite increased; digestion and assimilation are so assisted that weak, undernourished children quickly improve in vigor, strength and energy.

The genuine always bears the word California. So look for it when buying. All drugstores have it.

POLISH CITIZENS TO PUT STRONG BASKETBALL TEAM IN FIELD THIS SEASON

The newly organized Polish Citizens basketball team will hold its first practice of the season this evening at 8 o'clock at Pulaski hall. The team, which is composed of many members of the New London county baseball champs that the Cits produced the past summer, will only have a short workout tonight, the session being devoted largely to acquainting the players with each other's style.

The Cits will play all home games at Pulaski hall, which has been transformed into a basketball court by the erection of baskets and placing wire screens over the windows. There will be a seating capacity of about 600. George Eizinski, who managed the successful baseball team, will also handle the reins of the court team.

Among those expected to put in an appearance tonight are Steffy Cimikoski, Lloyd Jarvis, Jerry Peltier, Pete Finn, Lemieux, Tony West, Charley Lamory, and others.

The playing date each week for home games has not been announced, but it will be either Friday evening or Sunday afternoon. The latter arrangement would provide the fans with their only amusement on the Sabbath and without doubt would be conducive to large crowds.

It is also planned by the Cits to put a girls' team in the field this year. Although preliminary plans are still in the making, it is hoped to have the lassies play the preliminary games for the big team. Girls' basketball has always paid in Norwich and no doubt this would also help the attendance. Miss Ksiazek, star of the Y girls' team last year, will be placed in charge of the team.

BOOTH WILL POSITIVELY PLAY AGAINST DARTMOUTH

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 28—(AP)—From out of a huddle of Yale's board of strategy today came definite announcement that Albie Booth will play against Dartmouth Saturday.

Dr. Leonard Sanford, the team's physician, changed his wording of a statement issued yesterday, and said that the under-sized quarterback is in good condition and that he will appear in the Eli lineup against the Hanover Indians.

Booth ran the first team in a two hour signal drill today, and showed no effects of the smearing he got in the Army game. He seemed to have lost none of his fire and speed.

One important change was evident in the first team backfield. "Dud" Parker, whose kicking against the cadets was a revelation, replaced Austen and teamed up with Booth, Dunn and Crowley. Parker is a sophomore and was a star on the 1929 freshmen team.

Wilbur, another sophomore, was in at left tackle again, and seems to have the edge on the veteran Hall for the job. Barres, end, had another day of rest.

Harold F. Woodcock, graduate manager of the Yale A. A., denied reports that Army has been dropped from the schedule for next year because of the alleged concerted attack upon Booth. He said the 1931 schedule has been completed and that the cadets would have their usual place on it.

JEWEL ENS WILL PILOT PIRATES AGAIN IN 1931

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 28—(AP)—Jewel Ens, who was beset with injuries among his players during his first full year as manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, fifth place finishers in the National standings of 1930, will pilot the team again in 1931.

Uncertainty which had existed among the club's followers as to whether Ens would be tendered another contract was dispelled today when the management announced he had signed for another year. Terms of the new contract were not given out.

"We have confidence that Ens will keep the Pirates in the flag race next year," Sam Dreyfuss, vice president of the Pirates, said in discussing the contract. "We had a fine team this year, but it was unfortunate. The squad for next season ought to be even better. French and Swetonic should be better pitchers and we look for much help from Charley Wood, the new left hander. Moreover, some of the new players may measure up."

Ens, whose playing days were given largely to the minor leagues, has been with the Pirates since 1921 as player, coach and manager. He was secured from Syracuse of the International league and served as a utility player until he was made a coach. He succeeded Donie Bush as manager late in the 1929 season.

STRIBLING AGREES TO MEET SHARKEY IN JAN.

ATLANTA, Oct. 28—(AP)—The Constitution says that W. L. "Young" Stribling, heavyweight contender, has agreed to meet Jack Sharkey, Boston heavyweight, here in January and that Sharkey has been guaranteed $50,000 by the Atlanta Baseball and Amusement Co.

The promoters already have booked a Stribling-De Kuh bout here on Armistice day.

Stribling, the Constitution says, has agreed to a percentage cut.

Sharkey recently expressed himself as eager to meet the Georgia fighter, and an offer of $50,000 to Stribling for a bout in New York was made at that time. "Pa" Stribling, father-manager of the fighter, did not accept.

The offer to Sharkey's manager was telegraphed tonight, with a request for an answer as soon as possible.

Stribling is in the east, preparing for a fight booked Friday in Boston.

The telegram to Johnny Buckley, Sharkey's manager, said the $50,000 guarantee would be deposited in a bank as soon as his acceptance is received. The offer carried a privilege of 25 per cent of the gate.

DAVE SHADE FIGHTS DRAW WITH HOOD

LONDON, Oct. 28—(AP)—Dave Shade, California boxer, and Jack Hood, British welterweight champion, fought furiously through twelve rounds to a draw at Albert hall tonight.

The American was slow in getting started and Hood appeared to have a good advantage during the first half of the bout. Shade, however, rallied in the seventh round, dropping the Britisher for a count of eight, and continued to hold the upper hand until the end. Only his great power to assimilate punishment saved Hood in the closing rounds as Shade had him in difficulties in nearly every frame without being able to score a knockout.

MEXICAN PRESIDENT'S SON FIGHTS 3-ROUND BOUT

ATCHISON, Kans., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Fernando Ortiz Rubio, 18-year-old son of the president of Mexico, fought a three-round no-decision bout here tonight with Bus Glaser, St. Joseph, Mo., welterweight.

The bout, witnessed by 900 persons, was the feature of an intramural card at St. Benedict's college, where Fernando and his brother, Guillermo, are students.

Each of the fighters weighed 145 pounds.

FAMOUS JOCKEY OF THE EARLY 90'S DIES

NEW YORK, Oct. 28—(AP)—The American turf lost a picturesque figure today in the death of Edward H. (Snapper) Garrison, king of the jockeys when he was at the height of his career in the 90's.

He died this morning in the Swedish hospital, Brooklyn, after a heart attack. He was 62 years old and his connection with racing, which dates back to the early 80's as an apprentice rider, was maintained up to the time of his death.

The man who made the "Garrison Finish" a byword on the turf everywhere was the highest-salaried jockey in the business in his prime, receiving as much as $23,500 for a season's contract work in 1894. He became famous against great competition, rival riders of his day including McLoughlin, Fitzpatrick, Isaac Murphy, Andy Hamilton and Isaac Lewis. He rode the winners of nearly all the big stake events, east and west. In the $60,000 American Derby at the World's fair in 1893 at Chicago Garrison rode Boundless, an outsider at 15 to 1, to victory after a delay of nearly two hours at the post.

The "Garrison Finish" became a slogan in 1886 when Garrison came from nowhere with an outsider, Dutch Roller, owned by James R. Keene, to win the Great Eastern handicap at the old Sheepshead Bay track in Brooklyn. It stuck with him along with his nickname "Snapper."

Garrison was born in New Haven in 1868. He was developed at Hartford, Conn., by "Father Bill" Daly, who is still alive, and rode for him for many seasons. It was in the Futurity of 1889 that Garrison was beaten by Jockey Das, who rode Chaos, defeating St. Carlo, ridden by the "Snapper."

At that time, the finish of the Futurity was directly in front of the paddock at Sheepshead Bay, and just before reaching the finish Garrison eased up St. Carlo, believing he had the race won. Day brought Chaos up on the inside to win by a head. Day was a protege of Garrison.

After Garrison quit the saddle on the flat he took up steeplechasing, but after a few bad falls decided to retire from the saddle for good. In recent years Garrison had been connected with racing as an official at Keeney Park, Florida.

In an interview with The Associated Press last winter at his home in Miami, Garrison told of some his memorable races. The match in 1894 in which he lost on Tenney to the Negro Ike Murphy, on Salvator; the time he won the famous Suburban with Tammany in a three-horse nose-to-nose finish in 1892; of the year, 1887, when he raced his own stable and won $62,000, including 12 straight on Eolian.

Garrison regarded Tammany as the greatest horse he ever rode, perhaps greater than the renowned Man O' War. He considered Tod Sloan the greatest jockey of all time, Laverne Fator the finest of modern riders. Fator, he remarked, was a stronger finisher than Earle Sande.

DARTMOUTH HAS TROUBLE DIAGNOSING YALE PLAYS

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 28—(AP)—The Darthmouth varsity football team today experienced much trouble diagnosing and stopping the Yale plays put on by the scrubs. Head Coach Jackson Cannell, however, was not discouraged for he excused his regulars after putting them through a drill to perfect several new plays.

The Green was not forced to use much of its running attack against Harvard last week and, because of the muddy field, several of the new offensive weapons will be tried out against the Elis on Saturday.

Len Clark, regular halfback, as well as Stan Yudicky, veteran end will probably not play in the bowl. Cannell has several experienced replacements for both. Arnie Frigard will start in Clark's berth and Forrest Branch will hold down the right end post. Cannell expects the Yale game to be close and ordered Shep Wolff to polish up his kicking, after warning this back that his boots would probably be an important factor in the Green attack. Cannell said his squad would be worked but lightly this week to prevent his players from growing stale, a condition which in, his opinion, has often prevented Dartmouth from hanging up its first victory over Yale.

MALLOY IS SUSPENDED BY ST. LOUIS COMMISSION

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Mique Malloy, Chicago boxing promoter, who promoted three of St. Louis' largest boxing programs from a box office standpoint, was indefinitely suspended today by Seneca Taylor, boxing commissioner. Taylor said Malloy had failed to meet obligations in several bouts here. Malloy promoted both of Primo Carnera's St. Louis appearances.

The suspension automatically becomes effective in every state under the jurisdiction of the National Boxing commission.

Malloy, in a long distance telephone conversation with Taylor said the obligations the commission has accused him of not paying are "disputed bills." He said he was overcharged in some of the bills.

Western Football Briefs

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 28.—(AP)—A somewhat crippled Army football squad was gathered today to hear a discussion and analysis of the mistakes it made against Yale. Carlmark, King, Fields, Bowman and Humber were unable to drill. Preparations for the North Dakota game will begin tomorrow.

NEW YORK—Columbia turned out a stronger and more hopeful team today to prepare for the Cornell game. Joe Stanczyk, plunging fullback, and Sherwood, tackle, returned to practice and it was announced that Moss, 200-pound lineman who was injured the first week, would be in uniform tomorrow.

PRINCETON—Two "old grads" of widely different stations, addressed the Princeton team today as preparations for the Chicago game began. One was John Grier Hibben, president of the university, the other "Biffy" Lea, '96, one of the Tigers' most famous ends and father of Langdon, who holds that post on the current team.

NEW YORK—New York university set a hot pace today in its preparations for the Carnegie Tech game. A 45-minute scrimmage against the freshmen featured the long drill.

PITTSBURGH—Carnegie Tech had the first of four hard sessions in preparation for the N. Y. U. game, scrimmaging a half hour against the Scrubs.

SYRACUSE—Coach Vic Hanson of Syracuse is worried about the outcome of the Brown game, he admitted today, because his powerful line will be outweighed. However, he gave the Orange only a light drill after Monday's scrimmage.

ANNAPOLIS—With a comparatively easy game against West Virginia Wesleyan ahead and a show of strength against Princeton behind, Bill Ingram spent today smoothing out the rough spots in the Navy's play. Interference was stressed in a dummy scrimmage.

PITTSBURGH—Stiff and sore from the game with Notre Dame, the Pitt team completed half of its preparation for meeting Nebraska today. One more drill is on schedule before the Panthers leave for the west.

PHILADELPHIA — Pennsylvania, with all her football crew in shape, went through a light drill today polishing up plays that will be used for the first time in Saturday's intersectional battle with the Kansas Jayhawkers. A short scrimmage, the only one of the week, is on the program tomorrow.

BITGOOD ASSISTS IN COACHING OF AGGIES

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Oct. 28—Three alumni who have been members of former Connecticut Aggie football elevens were on the field here this afternoon helping Coach Sumner A. Dole drill the squad. Corwin Hawkins of Hartford, captain and tackle on the 1929 team; John Stangle of East Hartford, guard on the 1929 team and Paul Bitgood of Norwich, guard on the undefeated 1925 team; spent the afternoon giving the squad some pointers on how to combat the jinx which has prevented the Aggies from winning a single football game this season.

Hawkins, Stangle and Bitgood worked with the men in the line in an effort to add a little more speed and precision to this department.

These men went into conference with Coach Dole this evening and discussed the football situation with a view to improving plays and turning the football tide which has kept the Aggies on the small end of the scores in every one of the four games played this season.

KENTUCKY HORSES PROVE SUPERIOR IN FOX HUNT

CRAB ORCHARD, Ky., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Kentucky horses were outstanding in the National Fox Hunters association horse show here this afternoon, taking seven first prizes and four second places.

The horses of L. B. Shouse, Sr., Lexington, won two firsts and three seconds while the horses of Mrs. C. Kendall McDowell won two first prizes as did the horses of her husband and J. E. Kittrell's entries won one first and one second.

The only non-Kentucky horse to win first prize was Bootlegger owned by Henry Dickinson, Jr., Nashville, Tenn.

The National Fox Hunters association challenge cup went to Sportsman, owned and ridden by C. Kendall McDowell, Lexington. He was awarded the big silver trophy by Mr. Dickinson who won the 1929 ring at the Nashville show. The cup must be won three times for permanent possession.

Engle Released to Ft. Worth

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 28.— (AP) — Charles Engle, infielder, was released outright today by the Pittsburgh Pirates to the Fort Worth club of the Texas league. Engle was secured from Memphis in the 1929 draft and he has played second base, third base and shortstop for the Buccaneers.

LITTLE DIFFERENCE IN TEAMS IN INTERSECTIONAL GAMES THIS YEAR

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—(AP)—A checkup today on the returns from intersectional football games played so far this season revealed the east, south and far west with winning average of .500 or better.

The east has won 17 and lost 11; the far west's record is two victories and one defeat; and the south has 10 wins and 10 losses to show for its intersectional warfare to date.

Largely because they have been unable to hold their own with southern adversaries, the middle western standard bearers have 19 defeats as compared with 16 victories. The midwest has done well in its conflicts with the east, having broken even numerically and won the more important games. But has only two victories and eight defeats in its warfare with the south.

The south, on the other hand, has won only two out of ten from the east, several of the smaller teams of the south having been sent out of their class in such cases as Furman vs. Army and Hampden-Sidney vs. Cornell.

The southwest, although represented by powerful teams, has only one major victory and three defeats to show for its outside activity, principally because the southwesterners chose to tackle such teams as Notre Dame and Purdue. Southern Methodist retaliated last Saturday by stopping Indiana in conclusive fashion.

The Rocky Mountain and Pacific coast regions, constituting the far western section, scored when Oregon beat Drake and Colorado university trimmed Missouri, but Nebraska turned back Montana State.

Some of the most notable victories of all were those turned in by Notre Dame, for the middle west, over one team from the southwest and three from the east. Also noteworthy were the victories of Northwestern over Tulane, Vanderbilt over Minnesota and Georgia over Yale.

Several games have ended in ties, among them the Stanford-Minnesota and Chicago-Mississippi affairs.

HARVARD SQUAD HAS SCRIMMAGE WITH SCRUBS

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Head Coach Arnold Horween put most of his Harvard varsity squad through a 45-minute offensive scrimmage with the scrubs here today, to smooth out the Crimson's running attack. The varsity held the ball most of the session and was able to score several times.

Captain Ben Ticknor, Barry Wood and Bernie White, though in uniform, did not participate in the contact work. All, however, will be able to start Saturday against William and Mary. Fred Richards, regular tackle, was reported physically unfit for Saturday's game.

KIECKHEFER NOT TO PLAY FOR TITLE THIS YEAR

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.— (AP) —Augie Kieckhefer, of Chicago, eight times holder of the world's three-cushion billiard championship, will not engage in title competition this season because of illness.

Kieckhefer underwent an operation for a throat ailment at Milwaukee Saturday and his health will not permit him to return to action for several months at least.

Mexican Poloists Win

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 28.—(AP)—The Rainbow polo team of San Angelo, Texas, lost the first game of a three-game series to the Mexican civilian team, Anahuac, 8 to 5 at the Polo Club of Mexico today. The second game of the series is scheduled for Thursday and the third for Saturday, when President Ortiz Rubio will present a silver cup donated by the Bank of Mexico to the winners.

Harness Driver Collapses

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Frank Snyder, veteran horse trainer, collapsed in the seat of his sulky while driving a colt around the state fair grounds track here this afternoon and died of heart disease before aid reached him.

PROCEEDS OF HIGH SCHOOL GAME GOES TO CHARITY

FITCHBURG, Mass., Oct. 28.—(AP)—The athletic control board of Fitchburg high school today announced the gate receipts of the Fitchburg High-Bristol, R. I., High football game here Nov. 15, would be used to purchase Christmas dinners for the needy poor of the city.

The plan of the school authorities has received the support of civic and welfare organizations.

MOOSEHEART JUNIORS HELD ANNIVERSARY PROGRAMME

Mooseheart Junior Legion, No. 92, celebrated the birthday anniversary of James J. Davis, the founder of Mooseheart, with an entertainment put on at the Moose home Sunday afternoon entirely by members of the junior legion. The meeting was called to order by the president, Raymond Watters. The governess announced favorable action upon one application for membership and Donald William Emback, four-months old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Emback of High street, was duly initiated.

After the meeting the following programme was carried out:

Recitation and tableau, Your Flag and My Flag, Gladys Wilson, Edward Caughey, Charles Watters, Louise Leone and Millie Tabacco; playlet, The Bewitched Cornfield, by corn fairies,—Arlene Caughey, Dorothy Emback, Dorothy Becknan and Rita Hoelck, Irene Becknan; pumpkin elves, Edmund Becknan, Edward Caughey, Charles Watters, Junior Watters; scarecrows, James Cormire and John Watters; tableau—The Little Newsboy,—Edward Caughey and Lorenzo Hathaway; the birthdays by Monday—Louise Leone; Tuesday—Mary Connell; Wednesday—Rita Cayen; Thursday—Victoria Mallard; Friday—Mildred Tabacco; Saturday—Mildred Hoelck; Sunday—Mildred Carter; tableau,—The Flower (Flour) Girls, Arlene Caughey and Mildred Carter; tableau—In Disgrace, Mildred Hoelck, teacher, Gladys Wilson In Disgrace and Arlene Caughey and Dorothy Emback, Dorothy and Irene Becknan; Edmund Becknan and Peter Diaglani; tableau—The Seven Ages of Man by the youngest member of the Jr. Legion, Donald W. Emback as the infant, Junior Watters as the schoolboy, the lover, Thomas Fogarty, soldier, Lorenzo Hathaway, judge, Marianne Malconi, the old old man, George Emback; tableau—Goodness, Justice, Service and Kindness, by Mildred Hoelck, Mildred Carter, Rita Cayen, Peter Diaginnia, Mildred Tabacco and Arlene Caughey; 9 o'clock at Mooseheart with Arlene Caughey and Edmund Becknan as the children.

Margaret Comire, senior regent of Women of Mooseheart Legion recited the 9 o'clock service and Past Regents Emma Beaver, Rose Carter, Minnie Smith, Teresa Waters and the senior regent sang Mooseheart the Happiest. A feature of the entertainment was a drill by eight of the smallest children in the Junior Legion, with Charles Watters captain, Edmund Becknan and Alfred Jonash as color bearers and Arlene Caughey as the leader. All the children are under ten years of age, and they received hearty applause for the perfection of their work.

Past Regent Emma Beaver was the speaker of the day. She told about the different ways the children are educated at Mooseheart. At Mooseheart, when the girls graduate they all make their own dresses and each one tries to make hers a little cheaper than the others. Each child is taught one especial trade, the trade which it prefers. She then spoke to the mothers and said that we mothers should try to live so we will be an example to our children and to do nothing that we would not want our children to do.

The closing number was a musical selection played by Arthur and Alfred Watters of Attleboro, Mass., on Hawaiian guitars. Refreshments were served by Past Regent Minnie Smith, Senior Regent Margaret Comire and Mrs. Georgia Tomanio.

THREE TEAMS TIE FOR PINOCHLE LEAGUE LEAD

Play in the City League Pinochle club was continued Tuesday night at the Eagles' home with three teams going into a tie for first place as the result of the night's play. These were the Duwells, Icy Hot and Thermos teams. Both the Duwells and the Thermos had a game to their credit by forfeit as the Foresters team was not on hand to play and it was voted at a special meeting of the executive committee that on account of the Foresters not being able to play on Tuesday, the regular league night, their place would be taken by the Swedish organization, which was represented at the league meeting by Rudolph Johnson.

Play, next Tuesday evening, which is election night, will be at the Lafayette club.

The following were the results Tuesday night:

First half—West Side Independents, 27760 vs. Eagles, 26290; Icy Hot, 25,990 vs. Young Men's Italian club, 22,110; Thermos, 29610 vs. Lafayette club, 24360; Duwells (won by forfeit), 28000 vs. Foresters, 22000.

Second half—Lafayette, 26280 vs. Duwells, 26130; Icy Hot, 25770 vs. West End Independents, 24440; Young Men's Italian club, 29350 vs. Eagles, 23440; Thermos (won by forfeit) 28,000 vs. Foresters, 22000.

The standing is as follows:

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Duwells	3	1	.750
Icy Hot	3	1	.750
Thermos	3	1	.750
Y. M. Italian club	2	2	.500

WHEN THAMES RIVER DREDGING WAS BEING DONE IN 1830

About this time, when the dredging of the Thames river below Norwich is in progress, there is interest in the following document found by a Norwich citizen. David Tracy, who signs the communication was father-in-law of the late Henry Allen, Norwich undertaker:

Norwich, Feby. 18th, 1830.

Sir

It is hoped and confidently expected by the citizens of Norwich and vicinity that Congress at its present session will make an appropriation for the improvement of the navigation of the River Thames. In such an event it may be thought propper to appoint an agent to superentend in carrying the object into effect, if that should be the case, I would take the liberty to recommend Capt. Charles F. Lester as a propper person for that office. Capt. Lester is a Gentleman of strict integrety and in my opinion well qualified to discharge that trust—and one who would give general satisfaction to the citizens of Norwich.

Capt. Lester has ever been a consistant and undeviateing Republican, and is a firm friend and supporter of the present Administration.

With due consideration I am Sir yours &c

DAVID TRACY.

CONVENTION REPORT MADE TO WOMAN'S CRUSADE

The regular October meeting of the Woman's Crusade was held Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the mother's room of the Central Baptist church, with Mrs. Robert McNeely presiding in the absence of the president, Mrs. Nathan Gilman, who was attending a meeting of the Jewish council in New Haven. The devotional service was led by Mrs. David A. Pitt, the central thought being the W. C. T. U. motto, "In the name of our God we will set up our banners." Special mention was made of the present political situation in Massachusetts.

The program of the afternoon consisted of the reports of the various committees appointed for entertaining the W. C. T. U. state convention which met in Norwich last week. A vote of appreciation was given the Wesleyan guild of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church for their cordial co-operation in helping provide for the visiting delegates

A message from Mrs. Mary A. Welles of Hartford, the state president, expressed much pleasure and satisfaction in the arrangements of the local committees for the comfort of the convention visitors. The beauty and comfort of Norwich inn, enjoyed by a large number of the delegates, called forth great praise. The reception, preceding the banquet, held in the spacious social rooms of the inn, according to Mrs. Welles, gave especial pleasure to the visitors, many expressing their intention of returning to the inn at some future time.

Mrs. Charles A. Hagberg gave a complete report for the committee on registration and finance. According to the report the treasurer, Mrs. Robert McNeely, the treasury of the Crusade, enlarged by gifts from friends and members, contains sufficient funds to cover all local expenses connected with the convention.

The official delegates appointed to represent the Crusade at the convention were Mrs. Gilman, Mrs. Alvin D. Lewis and Mrs. Frank Tyler. Of these, Mrs. Lewis gave a racy report of the various sessions as the closing feature of the afternoon's program. The program committee requested that Mrs. Gilman and Mrs. Tyler give their reports at the November meeting of the Crusade.

After the Mizpah benediction the meeting was adjourned.

MENTAL HYGIENE TEACHING FOR PUBLIC HEALTH NURSING

The public health nursing department of the United Workers maintained their customary activity and usefulness during September. A summary for the month shows as follows: Patients under care September 1, 1524; new patients in September, 120; patients readmitted, 10; total under care in September, 1,654, Patients discharged in September, 110; under case Oct. 1, 1,544; visits made, 1,259; attendance at chest clinic, 41; attendance at Rock Nook clinics, 198; attendance at well babies' conference, 147.

Under arrangements made by Miss Kate MacKenzie, superintendent of the nursing organization, and the board of the United Workers, a tentative program of progressive work in mental hygiene has been provided for which will include probably three months' intensive training under direction of the staff of the Norwich mental hygiene clinic, 15 lectures on children's work by Dr. Charles W. Stephenson. A course in clinical psychiatry for the nurses by Dr. Robert J. Carson and lectures and discussions on kindred subjects by Mrs. Helen Kimmel and Miss Nancy Tomlinson.

The Iowa board of review estimates $9,000,000 must be raised by property tax this year to meet general state expenses.

YOUTH SUSPECTED OF BURGLARY GIVEN SENTENCE FOR VAGRANCY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Oct. 28—Deputy Judge Billings B. Fairbrother of Stonington town court was on the bench Tuesday in the regular session of the town court in the absence of Judge William A. Wilcox, confined to his Pawcatuck home by illness. William V. Burke, 30, of 407 Lincoln avenue, Buffalo, N. Y., who was apprehended by Pawcatuck Police Patrolman Simeon R. Shortman several days ago while living in an old foundation near the Pawcatuck river and turned over to Westerly police authorities for a checkup on recent Westerly store breaks, and later turned back to Connecticut state police for continued investigation was before the town court on complaint of Prosecutor Henry P. Hommacher, charged with vagrancy. Acting Judge Fairbrother named Dr. James H. Weeks as his guardian ad litem and with a waiving of the reading of the complaint a plea of guilty was entered.

Prosecutor Hammacher informed the court that a small jail sentence would at present time be an act of charity as the accused was without relatives, traveling from one place to another and recently sleeping in quarters not fit for a human being. He said that considerable suspicion had rested upon the shoulders of the defendant and to permit a thorough check-up by Connecticut and New York police authorities he would recommend a ten to fifteen days' term. At the suggestion of the prosecutor, Judge Fairbrother imposed a 15-day sentence with costs taxed at $10.45. A mittimus was issued and Burke was taken to Franklin street jail, New London, by State Police Officer Clarence G. Hoxie, who had agreed with the guardian that should a clear bill of health be found for the young man he would have him obtain regular employment for the winter in the town of Lebanon.

Trial of two civil cases, Wilfred E. Brown of Mystic vs. National Surety and Loan, Inc. by Frank Arrigoni and Son, Inc. of Middletown, Conn., and the Wilcox Fertilizer Co. of Mystic, Robert C. Fenner, president and Stacey K. Beebe, New York city, secretary and treasurer, vs. Verne E. Dewey, Pleasant Valley, Groton, occupied the remainder of the morning court session and through the noon hour. At the conclusion in the former case Judge Fairbrother declared that the court would take the papers and file its decision with the clerk in ten days. In the latter case court also took the papers with the announcement that they would render decision in the due course of business.

The Brown-Arrigoni case involved the loaning of a truck trailer by the plaintiff to the respondent on May 14, 1927 for which a bill of $400 was put in and against which was an undisputed counter claim of $176.18. Judge Carl E. Anderson of the Middletown court appeared for the respondents and Attorney Benjamin H. Hewitt of Groton for the plaintiff. The testimony showed that the plaintiff had taken the trailer upon request to Middletown for the use of the Arrigoni company and it had never been returned. Besides the plaintiff, Myron Hanson testified to delivery of trailer in Middletown in the spring of 1927, in the employ of Brown. For the respondent Chelso Arrigoni, vice president and general manager of the company took the stand to testify that the truck was used for only 6 or 7 days in connection with the use of trucks in hauling long loads and a practice had been made of paying 25 cents per hour for trailer along with the added amount for truck hire.

In the action, Wilcox Fertilizer Co., vs. Verne E. Dewey, Attorney Benjamin H. Hewitt appeared for the Wilcox Co. and Judge Harry Borgan of Groton represented Dewey. Suit was brought for $270.97 on which there had been a payment on account of $115. Dewey testified that as an agent he had been allowed special commissions by J. Waterman Wilcox whom the defense claimed had no standing as a company officer.

On Tuesday republican headquarters for the coming election were opened in the store at the north end of the Potter-Langworthy building on High street, formerly occupied by the Duff-Lowry shoe store.

The October monthly meeting of the Westerly Women's Republican club was held on Monday evening in the council chamber of the town hall.

Routine business was disposed of, and plans made for winter activities, which will include a bridge and whist shortly after election.

FUNERAL

Edward Murray

At his late Ashway, R. I., home on Monday morning at 8:30 o'clock on Maxson street were conducted the funeral services for Edward Murray which were followed at 9 o'clock by a high mass of requiem at the Immaculate Conception church, Westerly. Rev. J. B. Capesius read the mass and committal service at St. Michael's new cemetery.

The bearers were Frank and Patrick Collins, Joseph McGowan and Thomas Lenihan, representing Narragansett council, K. of C., and Ernest Thorp and James Lynch representing the local union of United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners.

The prohibition was lifted in Rhode Island on all outdoor fires on Tuesday morning, in effect during the recent dry weather which was followed by rains, according to an announcement by Commissioner of Agriculture Harry R. Lewis. All fire wardens in the state have been notified, and they may now issue permits for outdoor fires at their discretion.

The S. D. B. Society of the Pawcatuck Seventh-day Baptist church entertained on Monday evening the members of the Women's Aid society and the church congregation.

OBITUARY

Ralph H. Undrum

On Tuesday morning occurred the death of Ralph H. Undrum, aged 15 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ole Undrum of 55 Beach street, at the Westerly hospital. He had been ill since the latter part of August, but was taken to the hospital for treatment only about ten days ago.

He was a student at the Westerly high school last year, and would have been a member of the sophomore class had he returned this fall. His parents are the only surviving relatives.

On Wednesday evening will be held the annual meeting of the Westerly chapter of the Red Cross in the council chambers of the town hall. The election of officers will be held and plans will be made for the annual roll call next month and for raising funds for carrying on the work of the chapter in Westerly.

The meeting will be an exceedingly important one and all members are urged to be present. The work of the Red Cross in Westerly has been steadily increasing and greater demands are being made upon its resources than ever before. The work of planning for the future and providing the necessary funds to carry on its activities should be of vital interest to all concerned. They are urged by the president, Henry L. Burdick, to give their support to the cause by attending the meeting.

A reception to the newly appointed superintendent of Stonington public schools was tendered on Tuesday evening in honor of William H. Noyes by the Pawcatuck Teachers' club, at the West Broad Street school.

The reception was held from 8 until 10 o'clock, with a varied program of entertainment. Mrs. Joel P. Sherman entertained with a group of vocal selections, and the Danny Crandall orchestra furnished music.

Members of the school committee, and the officers of the Teachers' club were among those in the receiving line, including, Mrs. Carl Crandall, Mrs. Walter Reith, Mrs. Linton Brown, Miss Josephine Dickinson, Judge and Mrs. L. D. Fairbrother, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Platt and Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Hillard.

MYSTIC

Members of Fanny Ledyard chapter, D. A. R., have been reminded that articles for a box to be sent to Hillside school, Marlboro, Mass., are to be brought to the meeting in Masonic temple Wednesday, Nov. 5. This is the school to which the chapter sent a box last year and is a year-round school for boys of moderate or no means. They live as one big family, thus the boys get as much family influence and atmosphere as is possible in a family of 75. They receive a thorough grade school education and they earn some of their living by work around the dormitory and around the farm. The boys are from second to eighth grade pupils. This school has no endowment and is supported by friends of the school and boys. Articles wanted for the box are clothing such as stockings, mittens, ties, sweaters, etc., games, toys, books and magazines for boys. The school has a small library of about 100 books besides an educational library of about 50 books and as the boys are great readers, they need historical, geographical and books of fiction for the use of boys from 8 to 15. The box is in charge of Mrs. C. C. McGaughey, chairman of the patriotic education committee.

Forty-six members and friends were present at the social given in the Old Mystic M. E. parish house Monday evening. Following a short business session the following program was carried out: Selection, by orchestra; reading, Georgianna Colver; piano solo, Catherine Keeney; reading, Mrs. Nancy Desley; vocal solo, Loretta Tinker; reading, Amos Gallup; saxophone solo, Lyle Davis; reading, Capt. Truman Jewell; piano solo, Ruth Keeney; remarks, C. E. Tinker; vocal solo, Capt. Jewell; selection, by orchestra. The orchestra was composed of Mrs. Inez Tinker, piano; Lyle Davis, saxophonist; Albert Keeney, violinist. Doughnuts, cheese and coffee were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Eckman and son, Rudolph, Jr., left Tuesday morning for Miami, Florida, to spend the winter.

Mrs. E. V. Whiting has been confined to her home for the past week, ill with a severe cold.

Mrs. Henry H. Wheeler of Newark, N. J., is visiting Peter Flynn and family.

Helen Starkey chapter of St. Mark's Episcopal church will meet this (Wednesday) afternoon in the parish house.

William Achmeyer was a recent guest of his parents in New Haven.

The Country club will meet Thursday evening, the following committee being in charge: Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Harrison, Dr. and Mrs. G. S. Allyn, Miss Kariska Gates and Charles O. Reynolds.

Special Three Days' Devotion

A Triduum will be held at St. Patrick's church Friday, Saturday and Sunday at 7:30 p. m. Saturday, a holy day of obligation, the feast of All Saints, masses will be at 5:30 and 8 a. m. The weekly instructions for the children will be held at the church directly following the 8 o'clock mass Saturday.

Mrs. William Swiebert of Forest Hills, L. I., has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Smith.

Herbert Davis of New York was a recent guest of local relatives.

Mrs. Clara Morin is visiting New Bedford friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Adrian O'Neil have returned to New York after a short visit with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Clarke are on a motor trip to Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Coles of Norwich were in Mystic Sunday to visit the latter's aunt, Mrs. Jane Chapman, who is ill.

Delegates To Norwich Meeting

Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Smith were delegates from the Second Congregational church in New London of which they are members, to the New London County Association of Congregational Ministers and Churches, held in Norwich Tuesday.

Friends in the village have received cards from Dr. and Mrs. George Dunham, who left a week ago for their winter home in St. Petersburg, Fla., stating that they had a fine trip all the way down.

Mrs. W. L. Main and Miss Hazel I. Main were in New London Monday to call on Mrs. Sarah Darrow, who is ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Startz and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Snow visited Roy Springs and family in New London Monday evening.

Emil Wydler has moved with his family from Groton to an apartment in Mystic.

Mrs. Edgar Dewey of Noank spent Monday with Mrs. Jane Chapman.

Mrs. W. Ray Lewis and son, Carlton Gracey, of New London, called on the former's aunt, Mrs. Celia Whiting, Monday.

At Round Table Meeting

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Smith of Fair Acres attended the Norwich Round Table meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Amanda M. Fisher, Miss Fisher and Miss Mary G. Henderson being hostesses.

Miss Gladys Holt spent Tuesday with Norwich friends.

To Broadcast Denison Paper

D. A. R. members and others will listen Thursday afternoon at 2:45, when a paper written by Miss M. Adelaide Randall of Groton will be read. The subject will be the George Denison House, the home of Mrs. Ann Borodell Denison Gates and the paper will be given over station WTIC, Hartford. A short time ago the Denison family came to this beautiful homestead and a society was organized and officers elected to keep this home in repair, etc., from generation to generation.

Mrs. Mary S. Briggs has returned to Old Mystic after spending several days with Mrs. Esther Copp Smith.

The committee for St. Mark's whist is composed of Mrs. George Denekee, Miss Edna Wheeler, Mrs. E. P. S. Spencer, Mrs. D. Brown and Mrs. Harry Prentice.

Report From Convention

The meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held with Mrs. Mary S. Brown Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. W. H. Lamb, the president, presided and Mrs. C. E. Newbury, director of Evangelistic work, led the devotional exercises. During the business session reports of the temperance pageant, given at the Baptist state convention held in New London a short time ago, were given and various members gave their impressions of the State W. C. T. U. convention held in Norwich. Three papers were read, on "Saloons or No Saloons," "The Return of Beer" and "The Will of the People." The meeting closed with the W. C. T. U. benediction.

Ledyard group of the Farm bureau met with Mrs. William Campbell Tuesday, reblocking old hats and making new ones. Miss Ruth T. Russell of Norwich, home demonstration agent, gave instructions and several hats were finished. There was a covered dish dinner.

The October meeting of the B. Y. P. U. of the Baptist church, Old Mystic, will be held Tuesday evening with Miss Dorothy Beckwith. At the Sunday school session Sunday, there was an attendance of 59 and a collection of $5.05.

Odell D. Tompkins returns today from a short trip to his home in Mt. Vernon, N. Y., to his summer home on Pequot avenue.

The first meeting of the Men's Bible class of the Union Baptist church will be held this (Monday) evening at 7:30 in the vestry. Rev. George P. Jones will give a talk on his recent trip to the south. At the Sunday morning services at this church Clifford J. Desley and Mrs. Fannie Travena sang a duet.

Went to Long Point Social

The Young People of the Congregational church held a Halloween social at the cottage of Mrs. Eugene Jones at Groton Long Point, Saturday evening. It had been planned to hold it at Lantern Hill, but they decided differently. Games were played and sweet cider and doughnuts were served. Those attending were Rev. and Mrs. W. G. Fagan, Misses Marian Brown, Helen Haas, Margaret and Anna Ripple, Eleanor Maine and Charles Barstow, Kenneth Fribance, Wendell Comrie, Raymond Berry and Billy Fagan.

MONTVILLE

MINT VENDING MACHINE STOLEN FROM CARTER'S STORE

A mint vending machine was apparently the only missing property that was stolen from Carter's store on the Uncasville-Palmertown road at Pequot, between late Sunday evening and early Monday morning. Entrance was effected through the front window which was nailed up by the proprietor a few weeks ago; it is thought that the thieves were well acquainted with the place, as the nails were taken out before they made the break. It is believed that the theft is the work of boys and would have required more than one boy as the machine is heavy. It is valued at $100. When a check-up was made by the owner nothing else of much value was found missing although there was a large stock of cigarettes, candy and cigars in the place.

POLISH SPEAKER COMING FOR DEMOCRATIC RALLY

Announcement was made Monday by Louis LaBounty, Jr., chairman of the democratic town committee, that he has secured the services of a Polish speaker from New Britain to address the Polish citizens of the town, at the democratic rally to be held in Montville Community house, Uncasville, this (Wednesday) evening. Other speakers will include John J. Hennon, A. T. Miner, A. W. Lillibridge, William C. Fox, Joseph Wellington and W. J. Fitzgerald.

Union Services Planned

The following program has been arranged by the committee from the [illegible] of Montville for union services during the winter: Nov. 9th—Montville Center Congregational church; preacher, Rev. Otis Lee Monson.

Dec. 14th—Mohegan church; Welbert preacher.

Jan. 11th — Uncasville Methodist Episcopal church; pageant, Rev. H. E. Alcott.

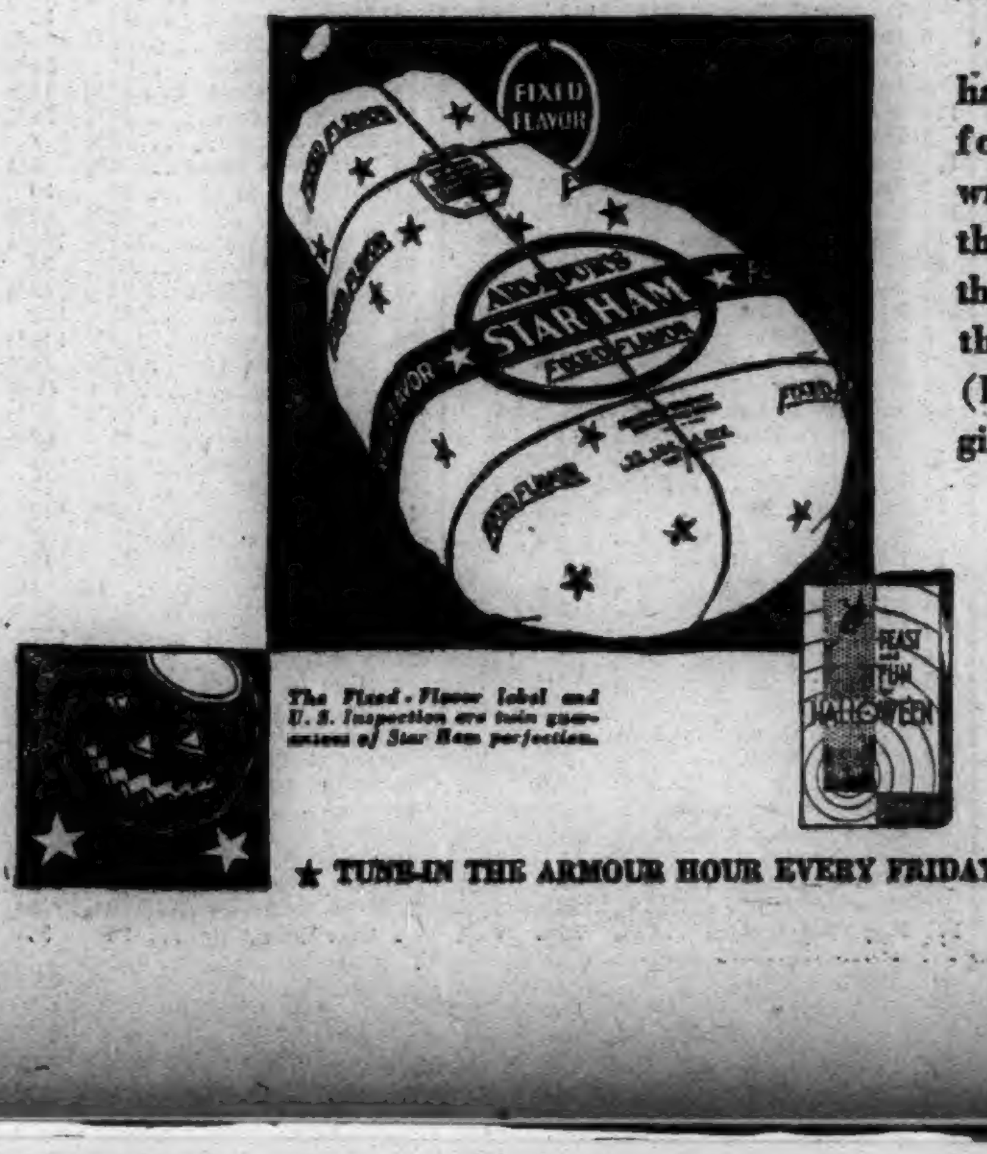
for HALLOWE'EN
Armour's
new Fixed Flavor
Star Ham

A HALLOWE'EN FEAST with a Hallowe'en flavor. Spicily-seasoned Fixed-Flavor Star Ham basted with cider, served with cider gravy. . . . What a dinner that is! . . . as Hallowe'en-ish as a jack-o'-lantern.

Then, when witches and goblins gather for the evening party, serve tender, pink slices of cold ham or dainty ham sandwiches.

Your Armour dealer will give you a recipe-leaflet showing how to bake Fixed-Flavor Star Ham in cider. It is entitled "Feast and Fun for Hallowe'en." It contains other delicious ham recipes, a Hallowe'en dinner menu, and novel suggestions for the Hallowe'en decorations and party.



The Fixed-Flavor label and U. S. Inspection are twin guarantees of Star Ham perfection.

Your Armour dealer also has a Fixed-Flavor Star Ham for you in a bright, new wrapper — a ham that has the deep-woods fragrance, the tenderness and tastiness that only the "double-f" (Fixed-Flavor) process can give.

Don't fail to ask your dealer for your copy of "Feast and Fun for Hallowe'en."

CONSIDERABLE STRENGTH DISPLAYED IN NEW YORK STOCK MARKET YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 28—(AP)—Security and commodity markets maintained their recent firmness today; in fact, considerable strength was evident in certain directions, notably wheat, cotton and the copper shares. Bonds again advanced.

Until the late trading, stocks rose with an unobtrusiveness that was heartening to those who have been hoping for a gradual improvement rather than an abrupt turn. Although profit taking and short selling in the last hour claimed a substantial part of the 1 to 6 point rise, the market declared its firm under tone and receded as slowly as it had risen. Closing quotations were irregularly higher. Sales totaled 2,016,200 shares.

Directors of U. S. Steel failed to declare the extra dividend which would have been welcomed by the reviving bull faction, but the corporation's earnings statement—an outstanding item in a day of rather important news—was probably better than had been anticipated. It showed third quarter profit equal to $2.06 a share against the most optimistic forecasts of $2, swelling the year's earnings to date to a total safely above the full dividend requirements.

Arrival in New York of two producers of copper in the Belgian Congo, who are ready to co-operate in the world wide production curtailment program that is seen as a major need for the industry, was the signal for the rally in the stocks of the jaded red metal companies. Kennecott, American Smelting and Anaconda rose 1 to 2 points, and were especially strong in the final dealings when the rest of the market was easing off.

Further cuts in crude oil and gasoline prices and a batch of unfavorable earnings statements were rather dampening, although the petroleum shares were quiet. Studebaker's income last quarter was equal to 20 cents a share against $1.24 a year ago; nevertheless, the corporation declared the regular dividends.

The weekly condition statement of the federal reserve member banks revealed a significant decline of $116,000,000 in loans on securities, the item which Wall street is watching most carefully. The decline in collateral borrowings this month amounts to $341,000,000, making the total only $222,000,000 higher than it was a year ago. Commercial loans, unable to develop much of a trend, turned downward, showing a drop of $32,000,000. The gain reported a week ago, it was recalled, was contrary to the seasonal movement, but this week's statement indicated that the demand for credit is exceedingly slow.

Member banks continue to add to their investments, which means a helping hand to bonds. Further expansion of these holdings is indicated in the embarrassment of riches with which the call money market is plagued. Funds were available today at the ridiculously low rate of 1 per cent. There was, however, no change in the official charge, 2 per cent.

Railroad equities reflected the generally better September income statement and there was enough demand for Atchison, New York Central, Norfolk and Western and Pere Marquette to lift them 2 to 4 points. Utilities and industrial specialties developed considerable buoyancy before the rally ran into stock. Eastman Kodak was notably heavy, dropping 8 points, but Ingersoll Rand, United Aircraft, Worthington Pump, Case and Columbian Carbon were strong.

Bethlehem Steel had a sinking spell prompted by an unofficial estimate of earnings, but recovered when the company let it be known that the dividend would not be affected. U. S. Steel climbed a point to 154, its best price in some time, before re-acting. It closed with a fractional loss. There were small declines in General Electric, Westinghouse, Radio, Air Reduction and Allied Chemical. Standard Oil of New Jersey, American Telephone, National Power and Light, Sears Roebuck, National Biscuit and Studebaker were up a fraction to about a point at the close. American Can and General Motors finished steady.

The advance in cotton reached the impressive proportions of $1.80 to $2.75 a bale, pointing to the success of efforts at stabilization. It was reported in trade circles that a prominent automobile manufacturer was buying low grade cotton in the south.

Wheat gained 1 1-2 cents as the export demand improved, and corn was up nearly a cent on the average, reflecting small receipts and a better cash market.

The expected shipment of gold to Montreal took place to the extent of $4,000,000, on continued firmness of the Canadian dollar. The Spanish peseta rallied further.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 28—(AP)—The upward movement in bonds gained momentum today and all sections of the list reflected the improved demand. Activity was moderate, although the volume increased sharply from the very quiet session yesterday.

One and two point advances were liberally sprinkled throughout the domestic list. The demand for railroad issues bore some resemblance to the bullish tone which characterized their movements through the summer. Liberty first 4 1-4s reached a new high for the year. U. S. governments generally were firm. Foreign obligations were buoyant.

Conditions were considered favorable to an advance in the bond market as call money held at 2 per cent and loaned outside at 1 per cent. The stock market was firm and there was virtually no competition from new financing.

The inquiry for railroad bonds was the best in several weeks, extending to both prime and second grade obligations. Large gains were made by Chesapeake and Ohio general 4 1-2s, Burlington 4 1-2s, St. Paul 5s, Chicago and Northwestern 5s, Illinois Central 4s, of 1955, Pennsylvania general 5s, Southern Railway 5s and 4s, and Wabash Railway 5s D. Several of these issues have been mentioned in connection with the annual revision of the New York list of investments legal for savings banks. Decreased earnings have placed their standing in jeopardy and have resulted in sharp declines.

Utilities and industrials both reflected the greater interest of investors. Best grade utility issues whose quoted value has been only slightly impaired moved quietly but there were some sharp advances elsewhere in the group, notably Brooklyn Edison 5s A, Denver Gas and Electric 5s, International Hydro Electric 6s, International Telephone debenture 4 1-2s, Ohio Public Service 7 1-2s A, and Utah Power and Light 5 1-2s.

Bonds of oil, rubber and steel companies led the advance of industrials, rising a point or more in many instances. Stock privilege issues were generally higher.

Strength of German governments stood out in the foreign section together with the continued buoyancy of Latin American bonds led by Brazilian obligations. German 5 1-2s rallied 1 1-4 and the 7s gained 3-8 in a large turnover.

Gains of 1 to 4 points were again common among South American bonds which have been helped by the cessation of hostilities in Brazil. Bogota City 8s rose 11 points. Colombia, Chilean, Argentine and Peruvian issues participated in the advance although there were some soft spots here and there.

Offering will be made tomorrow of a $2,503,000 5 3-4 per cent issue of Wayne county, Mich., which includes the city of Detroit.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Scoring a brisk rally in the late dealings, prices for wheat and corn today finished at a substantial net advance. Assertions of rust damage to the Argentine wheat crop had considerable market influence, and so likewise did enlargement of wheat export business from North America. There was also a renewal of talk that the Wickersham committee which meets on November 5 would recommend legalizing 4.40 per cent beer.

Closing quotations on wheat were firm at virtually the day's top level, 1 1-8a1 1-2c a bushel higher than yesterday. Corn closed 5-8a1 1-2c up, oats unchanged to 1-4c advance, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 25c.

Despite setbacks in hog values, provisions reflected the upturns of cereals.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Trans-America corporation announced today formation of Bank America company with headquarters in San Francisco, to take over the investment banking business of America Investment company and National Bankitaly company, former investment banking subsidiaries of the Bank of America of California, and the Bank of Italy, which are being merged November 1. The merged banks will begin operations November 3 as the American National Trust and Savings association, which, with an affiliated bank of the same name under state chapter, will have 438 branches in 239 cities.

American Investors, Inc., is offering to common stockholders the privilege of exchanging five shares for one $3 preferred share to an aggregate number of 70,000 preferred shares. The statement said the action will provide cash dividends to a limited number of holders of common stock who desire cash income.

Treasury Balance

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28—(AP)—Treasury receipts for October 25 were $4,779,197.86; expenditures $10,215,872.93; balance $225,954,588.21.

THE CURB MARKET

CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—(AP)—The curb market recorded a narrow and irregular advance in light trading today. The day's turnover aggregated only 433,100 shares.

A better tone in the oils was a conspicuous development of the day, although it appeared to be due to an over-sold condition in these shares rather than improvement in the industry, for further cuts in crude oil and gasoline prices were announced.

Standard of Indiana, however, was in good demand, closing at 41, up 3-4. In less active trading, Standard of Ohio advanced 3 points. Humble sold up more than a point, but was up only 3-8 at the finish. Gulf and Indian Territory A gained about a point. Cities Service was steady.

The few copper shares now traded in this market were also firmer, reflecting the prospects of a world production curtailment agreement, brightened by the arrival in New York of heads of the Katanga mine in the Belgian Congo. Noranda rose about 2 points in active trading, and Newmont advanced fractionally.

Utilities were mixed. Insull Utility Investment and Electric Power and Light warrants sold up nearly 3. United Light A, Utilities Power and Light, and Middle-West sold up about a point. Electric Bond and Share, however, after recording a momentary advance of 3-4, closed off 5-8. Some of the natural gas stocks were strong. Dixie rose 2, and Natural Fuel 1.

The industrials and specialties were dull. Mead Johnson rose a fraction in response to a good earnings statement.

Deer and Anglo Chilean Nitrate gained 2 points. Driver Harris lost 2. Aluminum company advanced 3 in a small turnover. Montgomery Ward class A stock, which had not been traded for some time, appeared in a few odd lot transactions, closing at 102 1-2, off 5 1-2 from the last day in which it was active.

Norwich Produce Market

Furnished by Bureau of Markets
Conn. Dept. of Agriculture

The market was practically unchanged this morning and most produce continued to sell slowly. Potatoes, onions, cabbage and apples were liberal while other products were generally light. Turnip offerings were adequate and low priced with both native and Canadian stock represented on the market. The following from the Connecticut Market Bulletin concerning the shipped in product will be of interest.

Canadian turnips, or rutabages, make up an important part of the supply on local markets. Already receipts of these have been quite liberal, more than 27 carloads having been received up to date by the four largest market. Ontario furnished 19 of these cars and Prince Edward Island the balance. The prospective crop in Ontario, the principal turnip growing province, is expected to be light, due to dry summer weather. Receivers of Canadian turnips on local markets are paying about 75 cents per bushel at present. This price is divided roughly as follows: 12 1-2c duty, 47 cents freight and 15 1-2 cents shippers' net return. Sales to retailers range from 85 cents to $1.00 per bushel. Stock from Ontario sold at 10 cents to 15 cents per bushel less than that paid for Prince Edward Island stock.

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

The Eastern Machinery Company, New Haven.

The Eastern Machinery company, whose main office and plant is in New Haven, was incorporated under the laws of the state of Connecticut in 1895, and purchased the plant and business of the D. Frisbie company who had been manufacturing friction driven, hydraulic and hand power elevators from about 1880.

In addition to bringing the production of elevators for freight service to point where owners enjoy maximum service at minimum cost of up-keep, the company has developed, specialized in and earned a reputation for the manufacture of automatic electric elevators for every service.

Many of the company's installations are serving in hospitals, hotels, colleges, banks, apartment houses, department stores and other buildings where quietness, ease of operation and safety are requisites.

This company has largely increased its capacity for production by addition of floor space in a substantial building and installation of up to date machinery equipment.

Every man in the organization is ambitious to have buyers get the best possible service, over the longest possible time, for minimum cost of upkeep.

Employees, both in the plant and outside on installations, inspections and repairs are competent mechanics who are proud of doing good work.

Officers of the company are: Frederick B. Farnsworth, president and treasurer; Paul B. Farnsworth, (Yale, 19, who has been with the company ten years) secretary.

Factory and main office at New Haven; branch offices at Bridgeport, Hartford and Waterbury.

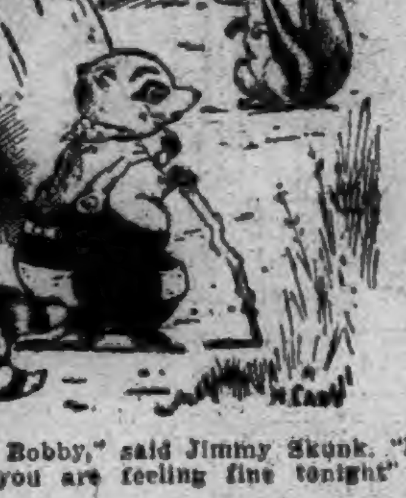
BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Bobby Coon Grows Bold

Who never ventures shouldn't whine
If he has naught on which to dine.
—Bobby Coon.

Jimmy Skunk was having a feast every night and Bobby Coon knew it. He knew just where Jimmy was getting that feast. He knew that it was inside the shed at Farmer Brown's house. Just what the feast was Bobby didn't know, because he hadn't been in there; but that it was something good he knew from the way in which Jimmy Skunk smacked his lips.



"Hello, Bobby," said Jimmy Skunk. "I hope you are feeling fine tonight"

There were two reasons why Bobby had not been in. One was that he was afraid of the unknown. He didn't know what might be inside there or who might be inside there, and so his courage was not equal to so bold a venture. The other reason was that Jimmy Skunk was in there and Bobby had a most wholesome respect for Jimmy and his little bag of scent. He knew that Jimmy probably considered that his particular feast in there and that he might resent having any one try to share it. So for several nights Bobby was sitting on the outside, while Jimmy was eating on the inside.

Then one night Bobby, getting impatient, got over to Farmer Brown's house before Jimmy Skunk did. Bobby's nose told him that Jimmy was not yet there. When he ventured to poke his nose just inside, it told him that there was a good dinner in there. Bobby hesitated, pushed his head wholly inside, drew back, pushed his head in again, drew back a second time, and then, mustering up all his courage, he went inside. It was a rather tight squeeze to get through that round doorway; but he got through and then he sat for a moment with eyes and ears and nose all alert for the least hint of danger. Slowly Bobby took a step forward; then another step. His nose was tickled with the smell of good things. He shivered all over. He reached forward and then took a hasty mouthful. A moment later he had forgotten everything in his greed to get all of that dinner as quickly as he could. He might have been out in the Green Forest for all the thought he gave to his surroundings. He had but one thought, and that was to fill his stomach with the good things before him. When he had finished all that was on the plate to the very last crumb, he turned to the saucer of milk and drank that. Then, with a little sigh of happiness, he turned and walked straight out through that round doorway. It was a tighter fit than it had been when he came in. Once outside, he made straight for home. On the way he met Jimmy Skunk.

"Hello, Bobby," said Jimmy Skunk. "I hope you are feeling fine tonight."

"Never felt finer in my life," replied Bobby. "I hope you are feeling the same."

"I shall be feeling that way when I have eaten a certain dinner I know is waiting for me," replied Jimmy Skunk.

"I hope you'll enjoy it," said Bobby, and began to shuffle along back toward the Green Forest.

As for Jimmy Skunk he continued on his way to Farmer Brown's house. Perhaps you can guess how Jimmy felt when he discovered that empty plate and the empty milk dish. Even then, he didn't suspect what had happened. It wasn't until he was nosing about here and there that he picked up the scent of Bobby Coon. Then he guessed where that dinner had gone.

"He stole my dinner!" eclaimed Jimmy. "That's what he did, he stole my dinner! If he tries that again, I'll teach him a lesson he'll never forget."

Small, Red Pimples on Face and Arms. Healed by Cuticura.

"About a year ago pimples began breaking out on my face and arms. They were small and red and festered over. At night my arms itched something terrible, and when I scratched it caused eruptions. The pimples were scattered and disfigured my face somewhat. I lost some sleep on account of the trouble, which lasted about eight months.

"I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment, then purchased more, and after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) John Schieres, Jr., 147 Railroad Ave., Dunkirk, N. Y.

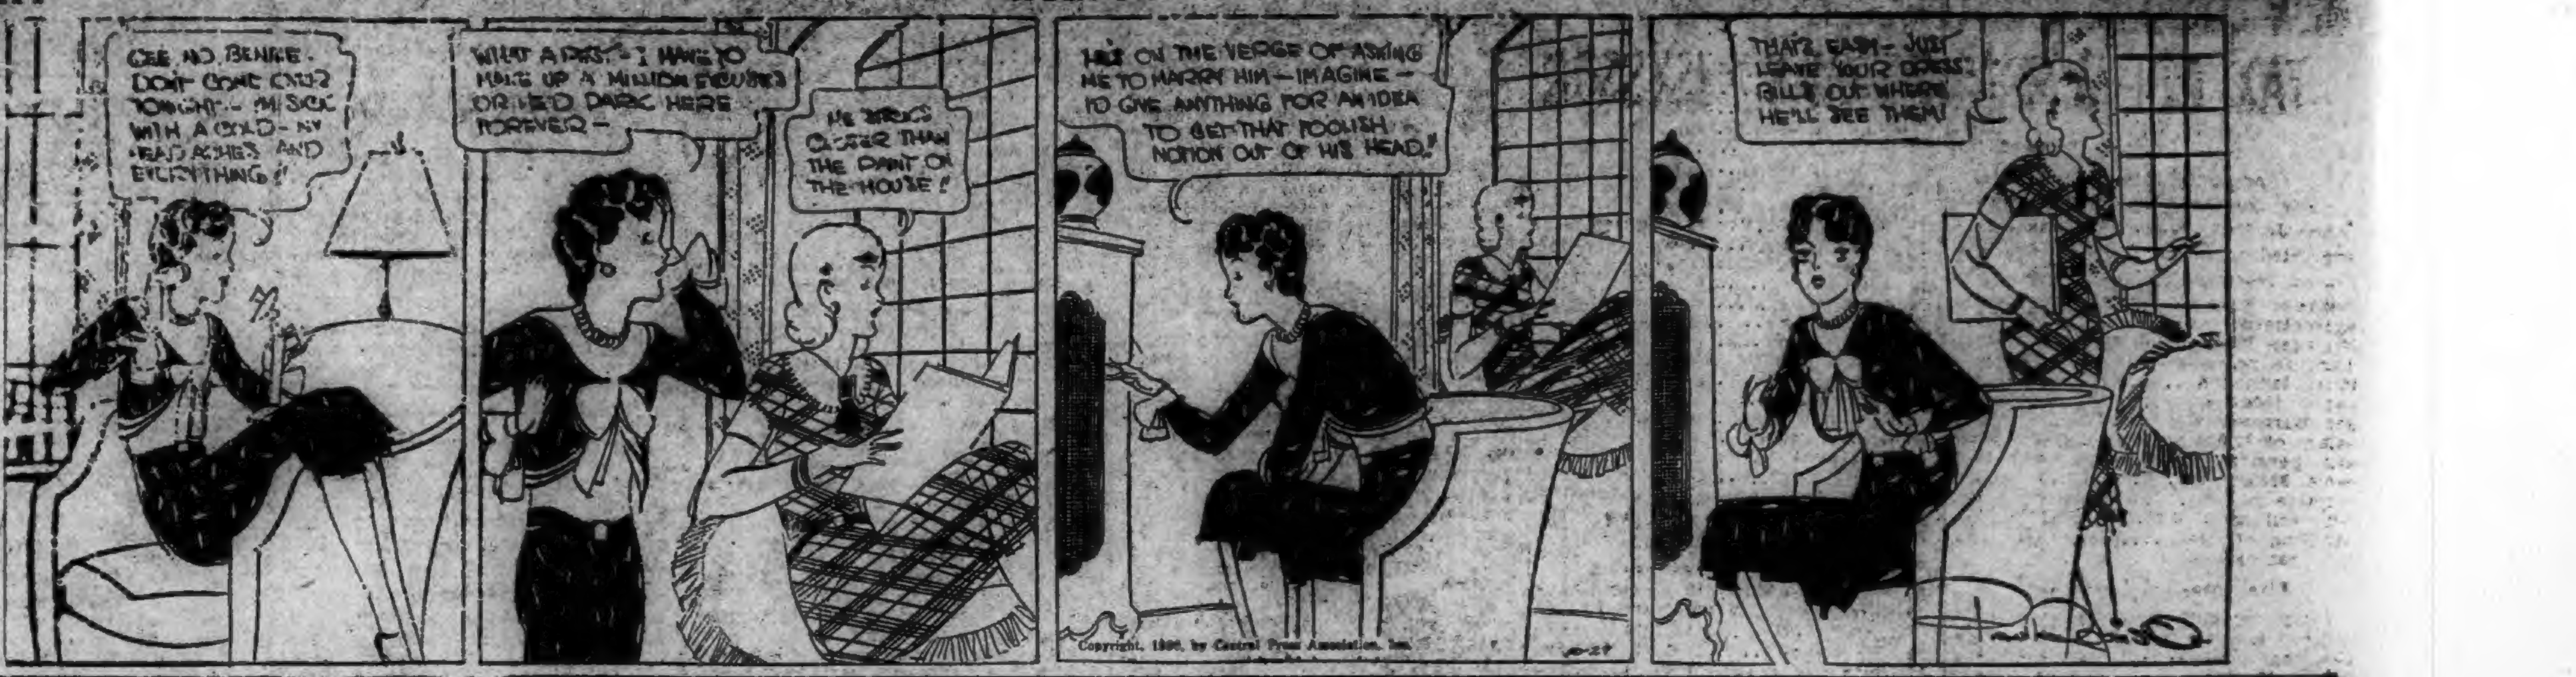
ETTA KETT A Sure Cure —By PAUL ROBINSON



GEE, NO, BENNIE - DON'T COME OVER TONIGHT - I'M SICK WITH A COLD - MY HEAD ACHES AND EVERYTHING!
WHAT A PEST - I HAVE TO MAKE UP A MILLION EXCUSES OR HE'D PARK HERE FOREVER -
HE STICKS CLOSER THAN THE PAINT ON THE HOUSE!
HE'S ON THE VERGE OF ASKING ME TO MARRY HIM - IMAGINE - I'D GIVE ANYTHING FOR AN IDEA TO GET THAT FOOLISH NOTION OUT OF HIS HEAD!
THAT'S EASY - JUST LEAVE YOUR DRESS BILLS OUT WHERE HE'LL SEE THEM!

NEW LONDON CITY MANAGER NAMES TAX. COL. J. H. MANWARING ASSESSOR

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 28.—Tax Collector J. Hull Manwaring was today appointed assessor, to fill the vacancy caused recently by the retirement of Assessor Frederick C. Burrows. The appointment was announced by City Manager William A. Holt. Mr. Manwaring's present salary is $2,000 and it is planned to increase his compensation $500 per year. Former Assessor Burrows was paid an annual salary of $3,000 and by his retirement and pension Mr. Burrows will receive $1500 annually. If the salary increase is given Mr. Manwaring the city will save $1,000 yearly by the handling of the assessors' duties by Mr. Manwaring.

Five Intoxication Arrests

Early tonight five prisoners were locked up at police headquarters awaiting presentation before Judge Daniel M. Cronin tomorrow. One of the inebriates is a Salem farm-hand and he evidently is headed for jail, for it will be the second time that he will have been before court in as many days. The man, who is 56, and has been arrested 27 times, was before the court Monday after having been found the night before drunk on Golden street. He promised to go to his work so he was given suspension of judgment. He was about the streets early Monday night and a member of the department gave him 25 cents to pay his fare to Salem and even put him on a bus. The man did not go to his work for he was arrested this afternoon on Main street by Patrolman Harold Goldberg. Although arrested many times, his arrests Sunday and today are but the third this year. He was arrested Jan. 21 last and at that time was committed to the Norwich State inebriate farm at Preston.

A laborer, 50, was arrested on Main street this afternoon by Patrolman Goldberg.

A laborer, 37, employed at Fishers Island, was arrested on Atlantic street by Patrolman Dennis Murphy.

A fisherman residing in Groton was arrested on Main street this afternoon by Patrolman Harold Goldberg.

The fifth victim of booze is a woman, 34, colored, and resident of Hempstead street. She was arrested on John street this afternoon by Patrolman Dennis Murphy and with a load that would weigh down a five-ton truck. She has been arrested 12 times, five of which arrests were for frequenting a disorderly house.

Too Free With Rifle

A resident of Colman street tonight made complaint to the police because of the acts of a youth residing on Faire Harbour place. The youth has a .22 calibre rifle and this afternoon he was in the vicinity of Colman street, discharging the firearm with wanton recklessness, for the bullets came dangerously close to entering the homes of residents. The identity of the youth is known and his parents will be instructed to see that the boy refrains from discharging the rifle in the city limits.

Fought Fire At Allyn's Point

One of the city's pumpers was used today in assisting in subduing the fire that caused $10,000 damage to the New Haven railroad's hoisting tower at Allyn's Point. Assistance was requested of the New London department and Chief Thomas Shipman and the Nameaug Engine company's pumper responded.

Many streets here tonight, especially in the southern part of the city, were enveloped in smoke as a result of the smouldering of the big fire that prevailed in the woods adjacent to Bank street and extending to Bates' wood Sunday and yesterday. The smoke was most prevalent on Bank street, Jefferson, Ocean and Montauk avenues.

Voting Machine Demonstration

In order that the several hundred new voters may be thoroughly familiar with the operation of the voting machine when they vote at the state election next Tuesday a voting machine has been erected in the lobby of the municipal building and instructors will be there Thursday and Friday from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., Friday night from 6 until 9 o'clock, a demonstration will be given at the Harbor school.

ELEVEN DRIVERS EXPLAIN BEFORE STATE INSPECTOR

Inspector Philip E. Devnew, of the state motor vehicle department, today conducted automobile hearings at the county court house when 11 drivers were presented. James F. Romano, 18 Belden court, reckless driving, suffered the indefinite suspension of his license. He is a former taxicab driver and several weeks ago the car he was driving was wrecked in Waterford, when it collided with another auto. John W. Flynn, 8 Harrison street, reckless driving, license returned; Max J. Race, 294 Willetts avenue, improper markers, allowed to keep license; Larry Bove, 577 Bank street, overloading, allowed to keep license; Boleslaw R. Sefcik, 324 Main street, driving while under the influence of liquor, taken under consideration; Leo MacIntyre, Danielson, operating while under the influence of liquor, license suspended indefinitely; Lawrence L. Pratt, Railroad avenue, Essex, reckless driving, license indefinitely suspended; J. Howard Barnes, Miner avenue, Waterford, driving while under the influence of liquor, application for new license approved; Truman L. Bennett, Jr., Stonington, improper markers, allowed to keep license; Joseph H. Hunt, Newport, R. I., overloading, allowed to keep license; Stuart Long, Westbrook, driving while license is under suspension, to approve application for license when insurance certificate is received.

Leniency Unappreciated

In the police court today but two cases were tried. In both instances Judge Daniel M. Cronin imposed jail sentences for the men were old offenders. One of them, besides being shown leniency, did not appreciate the act of the court and the other case was one of aggravation, so that both offenders were shut up in the anticipation that they will profit by their confinement and conduct themselves with sobriety in the future. One of the men went to the residence of his sister last night. He had been drinking, also was ugly which resulted in a quarrel. The man lost his temper and started wrecking the interior of the house. He was arrested by Patrolmen Harold Goldberg and Louis Wheeler. When presented in court the accused was charged with breach of the peace and intoxication. After Judge Cronin had listened to testimony, a sentence of 30 days previously imposed, but at which time the man was placed on probation, was put into effect. Besides this penalty, Judge Cronin sentenced him to six months in jail, so that he will serve seven months before he again enjoys liberty. The other man was a North Bank street laborer, whose labor for a long time has been to struggle with booze. He was in court on a charge of intoxication yesterday and was given a suspended sentence of 30 days in jail. He was found intoxicated last night and arrested by Patrolman Goldberg, so that when tried this morning the sentence imposed yesterday was put in effect, together with an additional sentence of 30 days.

WEDDING

Goldberg—Zemel

James Goldberg, Bayonet street, and Miss Anna Zemel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Zemel, 546 Main street, were married Sunday night in Odd Fellows' hall, the ceremony being performed by Rabbi David Traub in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends. After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Goldberg will reside on Bayonet street.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Gleason have returned to their home on Brainard street, having spent several weeks in Washington, D. C., and Florida.

Mrs. F. J. Francis, of Connecticut avenue, is a surgical patient at Lena hospital.

Fitch D. Crandall and Herbert O. Crandall have sold a house and lot on Ledyard street to Mary E. Murphy.

Hibbard N. Alexander today began auditing the city's books for the fiscal year. The audit will occupy several weeks. Mr. Alexander was appointed by the city council two weeks ago to make the audit.

Fined For Speeding

Frank Nunes, 109 Golden street, was in Waterford town court yesterday afternoon, charged with speeding and was fined $5 and costs. Nunes was driving on the Hartford turnpike Sunday night and the car collided with one driven by E. L. Neistat, 33 Tilley street. Both automobiles were wrecked and the occupants sustained bruises and contusions. Nunes and Neistat were arrested by State Police Officers William E. MacKenzie and Donald Brown, charged with reckless driving, but yesterday the complaint against Nunes was amended to that of speeding and the charge against Neistat was nolled.

Miss Evelyn Mills, of 125 Thames street, Groton; Roland Choznowski, 29 New street; Mrs. Robert Rome, 328 Montauk avenue; Lawrence O'Connell, 63 Lewis street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

An automobile driven by Edward J. Smith, of 8 Broad street, Stonington, hit Charles Blount, colored, of 28 Hill street, last evening on Main street, corner of Shapley street. Blount was knocked down and is now a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, suffering from a possible fracture of several ribs. Blount was hit when he walked from the sidewalk and in front of the auto, which was not being driven at a high rate of speed. Witnesses of the accident exonerated Smith.

FUNERALS

Mrs. May I. Estey

The funeral of Mrs. May I. Estey was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence of her mother, Mrs. Nancy E. Beebe, on Vauxhall street extension and was attended by many mourners. The services were conducted by Rev. Charles E. Spaulding, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church. The bearers were Lee B. Beebe, George Hurlburt, Claude Kenyon, Joseph Doten, Wilson Beebe and Lee B. Hurlburt. Burial was in Gardner cemetery.

Body Sent to Brooklyn

The body of Mrs. Agnes B. Stoeckel, wife of Paul V. Stoeckel, of Brooklyn, N. Y., who died suddenly from heart disease yesterday, after attending the funeral of her sister, Mrs. Mary C. Angus, wife of John E. Angus, was forwarded to Brooklyn this morning.

Mrs. Rebecca Leach

The funeral of Mrs. Rebecca Leach, of 48 Thames street, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Joseph's church. The high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. William C. Fitzsimons. As a waiting hymn, Edward F. Murray sang "Abide With Me." The bearers were David Reagan, Andrew J. Collins, James Cleary and William Savard. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Chelsea F. Lyons

Mrs. Margaret H. Lyons, 25, wife of Chelsea F. Lyons, died yesterday afternoon at her residence, 16 Harris court, after an illness of many weeks. Besides her husband, Mrs. Lyons is survived by her father, Frank Hazard. Mrs. Lyons was born in Groton, but had resided in New London since her marriage.

Miss Barbara E. Lambdin

Miss Barbara E. Lambdin, 62, of Washington, D. C., sister of Allan B. Lambdin, business secretary at Connecticut College for Women, died yesterday afternoon at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, following an illness of about four weeks. Besides her brother in New London, Miss Lambdin is survived by three brothers and a sister, who reside in Washington. The body was forwarded to Washington today. Miss Lambdin, who was employed by the government, department of education, was seized with an illness while visiting her brother. When her condition did not improve she was taken to the hospital. Miss Lambdin was born in Alexandria, Va.

Mrs. Nathan Beebe

Mrs. Isabelle Winthrop Beebe, aged 81, widow of Nathan Beebe, died this morning at Smith Memorial home, where she had been a resident about four years. She is survived by a brother, Henry C. Winthrop, of Waterford, and a daughter, Mrs. Mary H. Thomas, of the Golden Spur. Mrs. Beebe, who had been ill for a long time, was a direct descendant of Governor John Winthrop.

Charles J. Curtis, 159 State street, was arrested last night by Patrolmen Dennis Murphy and Louis Wheeler, charged with evasion of responsibility and upon complaint of Adrian Murray, Jefferson avenue. Curtis, however, was not presented in the police court this morning, for a short time after his arrest the complainant withdrew the charge. Curtis drove his automobile through Jefferson avenue and it hit Murray's automobile, which was parked beside the curb, the collision resulting in slight damage to both autos. Curtis did not stop and Murray requested the former's arrest.

Peck—Antis

Edward Peck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Peck, 216 Huntington street, and Miss Anne Antis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Antis, 85 Riverview avenue, were married last Sunday afternoon at Workmen's circle educational center, Jefferson avenue. The ceremony was performed by Rabbi Hyman Delatizsky. Harold Peck, brother of the groom, was best man and Miss Ruth Antis, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. Upon the conclusion of a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Peck will reside in Middletown, where Mr. Peck is employed.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Enna Jettick Aerocar

The Enna Jettick Aerocar is the latest in Enna Jettick service. It is one of a fleet of cars now touring the United States. It is capable of taking the road at automobile speed and of bringing the Enna Jettick salesman to the door of his dealer in a luxuriously equipped sample room. Built by Glenn Curtiss, its lines are those of an airplane body, and it is mounted to ride with utmost smoothness. Attached by an ingenius bird's beak coupling to a coupe whic hfurnishes motive power. Modernistic wicker and plush furniture, a radio, a telephone, barometer and a ship's clock make up its furnishings. At the rear is a room for carrying the shoe samples. The Aerocar weighs only 1200 pounds.

See this car in front of Smith's Shoe store Wednesday afternoon, who are the local agents of the Enna Jettick shoes. About 25,000 pairs are turned out daily at their factory in Auburn, N. Y.

Broadway Theatre

"Call of the Flesh," Ramon Novarro's newest starring vehicle, which starts today at Warner Bros. Broadway theatre, will permit picturegoers to hear Novarro's voice as an opera singer for the first time. To sing in opera has been a lifelong ambition of the star, and in the new photoplay he achieves at least a partial fulfillment of this desire, via the Hollywood microphones.

"Call of the Flesh," a romantic story of Spain, and of a young singer who fights his way to fame in opera, at the expense of a broken heart. Novarro plays the singer, and incidentally sings original songs as well as genuine operatic numbers in the Madrid opera scenes. Dorothy Jordan is the heroine, and Renee Adoree, Ernest Torrence, Nance O'Neil, Russell Hopton, Mathilde Comont and others of note are in the cast.

The story is an original by Dorothy Farnum, with dialogue by John Colton and the music is by Herbert Stothart and Clifford Grey.

Palace Theatre.

A double feature bill that is entertaining and thrilling opens today at the Palace theatre, where it will be shown through Friday of this week. The productions which comprise this bill are "Ladies Must Play," a light comedy with Dorothy Sebastian and Neil Hamilton and "One Night at Susie's," a thrilling melodrama with Billie Dove and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.

"Ladies Must Play," pleases both the eye and the ear. It boasts of beautiful women in gorgeous gowns and ultra smart settings. The story is laid against New York and Newport society backgrounds. It deals with the plans of a stenographer to "land" a millionaire husband. The outcome is extremely unexpected. Smart dialogue, rapid fire repartee and witty sayings make the picture interesting. It is all in all a clever society comedy-drama cleverly acted by a smart cast.

"One Night at Susie's" is not another gangster story but one which is a lid on the fringes of the underworld. The theme of this is a powerful love story which brings out the feeling of a foster mother for her adopted son whom she has raised to go straight in spite of her own affairs with gangs and his love for a chorus girl whom Susie, the mother does not think is good enough for him.

Here is a double feature bill which has all the elements of a well chosen show and it should interest every motion picture fan. This is probably one of the greatest bills in the history of the Palace and both pictures are run as individual offerings in most theatres.

GREENEVILLE

Gomes—Leonard

A very pretty wedding took place Tuesday morning at St. Mary's Memorial church at 9 o'clock when Miss Teresa V. Leonard, daughter of the late Michael and Mrs. Catherine Leonard of 206 Hickory street, was united in marriage by Rev. George J. Donahue, the pastor, with Joseph L. Gomes, of Flint, Mich., son of Mrs. L. J. Reynolds of 57 Colman street, New London. Miss Isabelle Leonard, a sister of the bride, was bridesmaid while James Shea of New London acted as best man.

The bride was charmingly attired in a blue velvet gown while Miss Leonard, the bridesmaid, wore a gown of wine color. Both carried arm bouquets of cream and white chrysanthemums. Following the church ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the Norwich Inn, with members of both families attending.

During the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Gomes left on a wedding trip to Detroit, Mich. Mr. Gomes is superintendent of the A. and P. store warehouse at Flint, Michigan, while Mrs. Gomes was conneceted with the office of the United States Finishing company. The newly married couple have a large circle of friends throughout this vicinity, who extend their wishes for a happy and prosperous married life.

Halloween Party Given

A Halloween and birthday party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Szerlong at 106 Prospect street Monday evening in honor of their daughter, Miss Dorothy Szerlong. Many games were played and piano selections were given by Miss Josephine Rozanski, also Frederick Szerlong. Music was furnished by radio. A very delicious supper was served at 6 o'clock, consisting of roast turkey, chop suey and all the fixings.

Mrs. Szerlong was assisted in serving by Miss Rozanski. A birthday cake, consisting of nine candles, was among the decorations on the table. The home was prettily decorated with Halloween colors of black and orange with lights and lanterns placed in their proper places.

Among the guests present were: John Kruck of Portchester, N. Y., Mr. and Mrs. August Kruch and daughter, Marion Kruck, Lillian Kruck of Mystic, Miss Alice Zawacki of Mystic, Mr. and Mrs. Adam Heinrick and daughter, Evelyn Heinrick of Taftville, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rozanski, Frank Rozanski, Miss Josephine Rozanski of Broad street, Mr. and Mrs. John Szerlong, Dorothy, Frances and Frederick Szerlong. All present received Halloween favors and noise-makers.

The Girls Friendly society of St. Andrew's Episcopal church held their annual Halloween party Monday evening in the guild room of the church. A large number was present. Prizes were awarded to the best dressed and the funniest masquerade costumes. Many Halloween games were played and enjoyed during the evening. The hall was prettily decorated for the occasion with streamers of black and orange strung from the center of the ceiling to the four sides of the room. Witches, pumpkins and black cats of paper designs were placed in their proper places, adding to the season's spooky effect in the room. Refreshments were served to the members of the society and their guests of the evening. The successful affair was in charge of the society's president, Mrs. Schoffield, who was ably assisted by the following committee: Miss Martha Campbell, Miss Maud Woolly, Miss Iola Shaw, Miss Stella Peterson, Miss Mildred Woolley, Mrs. Arthur Oddie, Mrs. Elizabeth Donahue, Miss Barbara Donahue, Mrs. Edward R. Risley, Mrs. Redding, Miss Emily Hayden and Miss Edna Prodell.

HELD MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR REV. S. F. DICKSON

At a memorial service held Sunday morning at Grace Memorial Baptist church for the late pastor, Rev. S. F. Dickson, D. D., the sermon was delivered by Rev. S. S. V. Holland of the Indian reservation, who had known Dr. Dickson for 41 years and spoke feelingly of the life and work of his long time friend.

The music at the service was by the choir and included the favorite hymn of Dr. Dickson. The pastor's widow read the poem, "Not Changed but Glorified," and Mrs. Hattie Geer read a paper in which she expressed the appreciation of the church for the service rendered to it by the beloved pastor.

DIVORCES AND FORECLOSURES IN NEW SUITS FILED FOR THE SUPERIOR COURT

Suits for divorces, for foreclosures and the collection of a claim on a contract are included in five new superior court suits, returnable in this county in November, which were filed here Tuesday at the office of John H. Walker, the court clerk.

On the ground of desertion since April, 1918, and claiming that since 1922 her husband has resided in New York state, Ellen Crandall Champlin of Norwich brings suit for divorce from Amos A. Champlin of Loomis, Franklin county, New York. They were married April 1, 1900.

Divorce from Maynard W. Stantial of Manchester, N. H., is sought by Doris Kennedy Stantial of Stonington. They were married Oct. 23, 1920, and the wife alleges she was deserted Nov. 7th of the same year.

Suit for foreclosure of a $1,500 mortgage, dated Oct. 5, 1923, on real estate on the westerly side of Mathewson street, Jewett City, is brought against Timothy E. Shea of Griswold and Harry Rottenberg of Lisbon, by the Jewett City Savings bank. The defendant, Rottenberg, claims a $700 mortgage on the premises.

Foreclosure of a judgment lien and possession of the premises are sought by Albert Vincent of the town of Griswold from Wilfred Vincent, formerly of the town of Griswold, now of Buffalo, N. Y. In the superior court here on May 2, 1930, Albert alleges that he received a judgment for $2,000 and costs of $70.09 against Wilfred Vincent, following which a judgment lien was placed upon property owned by Wilfred located in the town of Marlborough, Conn. It is the foreclosure of this lien and possession of these premises that Albert is now suing for.

On the claim for $12,000 damages Fred D. Miller of Preston sues Dr. Frank C. Atchison of this city over a balance due on a construction job on a concrete surface drive with curb and sidewalks at the doctor's property off Washington street and Sachem Plain road. The contractor claims that there was due him $15,414.47 for labor and materials under the contract and for interest on money which the contractor had to borrow to carry on the work when the physician could not meet payments. On the amount claimed due the defendant has paid $6,713.76, leaving a balance due of $8,700.71, according to the plaintiff's claim. The contract was entered into on March 8, 1930.

OVER $10,000 FIRE DAMAGE TO ALLYN'S POINT HOISTER

The coal docks of the H. N. Hartwell & Son Co., at Allyn's Point, were badly damaged by fire Tuesday morning when flames swept through one of the large coal hoists. The loss is estimated at between $10,000 and $12,000.

Laborers were engaged in unloading the steamer Hartwellson of Boston when the fire was discovered about 8 o'clock. The steamer docked Monday with a cargo of 4,500 tons of coal. Within a short time the tower of one of the hoists was enveloped in flames. The steamer was moved from the dock to a safety anchorage in the river a few hundred feet away.

Two lines of two-inch fire hose at the dock were brought into service and calls for help were sent to the Norwich fire department, New London fire department and the fire department at the Norwich state hospital, nearby. The pumper from the latter department arrived on the scene first and several more streams were directed on the flames. Engine No. 1, and Chief Henry R. Taft of the local fire department responded, as did a truckload of men from the submarine base and a piece of apparatus from the New London fire department. The New London apparatus was not used as its services were not needed.

The local firemen remained at the scene until after 11 o'clock. The woodwork of the hoist and one boiler were practically destroyed. A $25,000 engine recently installed escaped with but slight damage. The burned hoist will be repaired as soon as possible. Another hoist was brought into service during the day so that there was but a short delay in the unloading of the coal cargo.

It is thought that the fire started over a boiler located in the discharge tower of the hoist. At the time there were about 1,000 tons of coal on the docks and about 3,500 in the hold of the steamer.

CANDIDATES DECLARE ON WOMEN'S JURY SERVICE

The Connecticut League of Women Voters has interviewed the republican and democratic candidates for governor on the question of jury service for women. The replies of the two candidates, which follow, will be printed in the Woman Voter's Bulletin for November.

Lieutenant Governor Ernest E. Rogers, republican nominee, said "This is a purely legislative matter and should be brought to the attention of the legislators at the next assembly; it is not a matter to be brought before the executive department for which I am a candidate. I am quite sure that jury service for women is coming."

Dean Wilbur L. Cross, democratic candidate, said: "I am in favor of jury service for women. I believe that women should perform this duty and I will use my influence to help secure a law permitting women to serve as jurors in Connecticut."

In 1931, for the fifth successive time, the League of Women Voters will sponsor a bill which would enable Connecticut women to serve as jurors on the same terms as men.

ARRESTED AFTER CRASH ON WET DRIVING CHARGE

Just before 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the city line in Thamesville on the Norwich-Montville road two automobiles were in collision and the driver of one of them, Elmer J. Buddington, 22, of Groton, was arrested on the charge of driving under the influence of liquor The other machine was driven by Thomas M. Owen of 223 Alden street, New Haven.

Edward Lee of Jewett City, who was riding in the car with Buddington, suffered lacerations of the scalp and was taken to the Backus hospital by a passing motorist.

According to the police investigation, which was conducted by Officers Patrick Murphy and D. J. O'Neil,. the Buddington car had been parked on the easterly or left hand side of the road, headed towards Montville. The New Haven man was coming in the opposite direction and just as he reached the Groton car, Buddington started up and pulled out into the highway where he crashed into the New Haven machine.

Both cars were considerably damaged in the crash.

SELLS SUMMER HOME, PINE LODGE VOLUNTOWN

The friends of Dr. and Mrs. David A. Pitt of this city will be interested to know that Pine Lodge, beyond Voluntown, for nine years the summer home of Dr. Pitt and his family, has been sold. The purchasers are new Finnish-Americans, Felix and Alma Helander of Brooklyn, N. Y. Their purpose is to restore the place to a prosperous rural condition, specializing in poultry. The aesthetic side of Pine Lodge will doubtless be a pleasant memory to the hundreds of friends who have visited Dr. Pitt and his family there during the past nine years.

BETTER LIGHT FIXTURES FOR COURT CLERK'S OFFICE

New electric light fixtures, which have replaced the old-fashioned chandeliers in the office of John H. Walker, clerk of the superior court, have effected a great improvement in the lighting of the office suite of two rooms as well as contributing materially to the improved appearance of the rooms.

The lighting is now taken care of by a single drop light in Clerk Walker's private office and by two similar drop lights in the outer room.

REPUBLICAN WOMEN IN ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING

Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at her home at 1 Willey place, Mrs Frank I. Royce, vice chairman of the republican town committee, entertained a group of 25 republican women before whom two of the local candidates were speakers.

Mrs. Royce introduced the speakers who were Charles W. Cassidy, candidate for senator from this district, and Josiah Greenstein, candidate for representative from Norwich. Much enthusiasm was shown at the meeting as the women listened with close attention to the words of the speakers, who discussed some of national and state issues with particular reference to business-like administration which the state of Connecticut has enjoyed under republican control of the state government, which has brought Connecticut into an enviable position in its finances as state expenses have been paid from income and the state is free from debt.

Rogers buttons were distributed.

TAFTVILLE

Saturday being All Saints day, a holy day of obligation, masses at Sacred Heart church are to be celebrated at 5:30, 7 and 8 o'clock. The Feast of All Souls, falling on Sunday, will be observed on Monday with special services. On Sunday, the parishioners will make their annual pilgrimage to Sacred Heart cemetery on the Old Canterbury turnpike, where the clergy of the church will offer prayers for the repose of the souls of the faithful departed.

At the Taftville Congregational church on Sunday, the pulpit was occupied by a representative of the Connecticut Temperance and Anti-Saloon league, in accordance with the program of World Temperance Sunday, which some of the churches observed.

The semi-monthly meeting of Court Wequonnoc, No. 88, Forecters of America, was held Thursday evening at their court rooms in the Parish hall building on Merchants avenue, and was opened in due form with Patrick J. Fogarty, chief ranger, presiding. The minutes of the last meeting were read by Recording Secretary Theodule Snow, and were approved. The senior and junior woodwards, Wilfred Peltier and David Lambert, made a report regarding sick members, which was accepted. The routine business of the session having been transacted, as prescribed in the order of business, the meeting was closed in the usual form with the pledge of allegiance to the flag.

The first meeting and social gathering of the season for the members of the home department of the Taftville Congregational church school was held in the church parlors and vestry Friday evening, with a large attendance. Business was transacted, after which there was a social hour, entertainment being in the form of vocal solos given by Mrs. Elsie K. Pingree, Miss Hazel LaRochelle, Miss Elberta Mather, Miss Ruth Grimshaw and Miss Dorothy Simino. There was also singing by a group of girls, followed by a piano duet by the Misses Elberta Mather and Ruth Grimshaw. Refreshments of cake, cookies and coffee were served by a committee consisting of Supervisor Mrs. Fred Ince, Mrs. Robert Scott, Mrs. Gustave Hedler, Mrs. John D. Sharples, Mrs. Walter S. Sharples and Mrs. George M. Thompson.

FUNERAL

Arthur Trembley

Funeral services for Arthur Trembley were held from his late home on upper Merchants avenue, followed by a high mass of requiem at which Rev. Hormidas Belec was celebrant, at Sacred Heart church at 9 o'clock. Miss Alice Frechette, organist at the church, had charge of the music of the mass. Included in the large attendance was a delegation from the St. Jean Baptiste society, of which the deceased was a member. There were many beautiful flowers. The bearers were Edmond Proulx, Napoleon Phaneuf, Edward Adams, J. Omer Tellier, Noe Frechette and Louis Paradis, all members of the St. Jean Baptiste society. Burial was in Sacred Heart cemetery on the Old Canterbury turnpike where Rev. Frederick R. DesSureault read the committal prayers Undertakers Dougherty Brothers were in charge.

NORWICH TOWN

When the Intermediate and Junior C. E. societies held a joint meeting Tuesday afternoon in the chapel of the First Congregational church, Olive Beebe for the Intermediates and Gladys Nylen, for the Juniors, were the leaders. Scripture readings were by Eleanor Palmer and Gladys Nylen. After prayer by Olive Beebe, the Junior society had its call to worship and sang Father Of Light, also had roll call. Edward Jordan played a cronet solo. During the business period, Alma Wilton, younger daughter of the new pastor, Rev. Dr. Wilton and Mrs. Wilton, was voted a member of the Intermediate society. Posters were exhibited concerning the fall meeting of Norwich C. E. union, to be held during the early part of November, at Norwich Town M. E. church. Rev. Howard A. Bushnell, president of the Norwich C. E. U., Mrs. Ernest Weshington and Mrs. Albert Avery were appointed to judge these posters made by the Intermediates. All posters showed careful effort on the part of the boys and girls, Alma Wilton's poster being chosen by the judges. This was followed by the instalaltion in charge of Rev. Mr. Bushnell of these officers and committees for the Intermediate society: President, Olive Beebe; vice president, Elizabeth Browning; secretary, Raymond Barber; treasurer, Edith Seaman; prayer committee, Raymond Barber, chairman; Robert Barber, May Johnson, Cora Laskowski, Elizabeth Browning; missionary committee, Alice Avery, chairman; Wilhemenia Adams, Olive Beebe, Edith Seaman, Alma Wilton; social committee, Eleanor Palmer, chairman; John Laskowski, Elizabeth Browning, Olive Beebe; music committee, Elizabeth Browning, chairman; Edward Jordan, Raymond Barber, Eleanor Palmer and Olive Beebe. The Lookout committee comprises every member of the society. At the close of installation the pastor, Rev. Dr. Wilton spoke briefly on "The Christian In the Home." Several adult friends were present. A surprise came when the Intermediate society served cocoa and wafers to those present.

HALLOWEEN PROGRAM FOR NORWICH AOWN CELEBRATION

Through the courtesy of the press, the Norwich Rural association, which is sponsoring the big Halloween celebration in Norwich Town, Friday evening would like to have it generally understood that all boys and girls of Norwich grammar school age or younger, will be privileged to participate, if all requirements are met, such as being costumed and wearing a tag. The tags may be procured at the steps of the First Congregational chapel from Mr. and Mrs. Russell Waldo, at 6.30, in advance of the parade.

As the committee has deemed it advisable to confine all activities to the Norwich Town green, it would be appreciated if residents in that section would have the porches lighted as they were asked to do last year.

The parade is to start at the corner of the green nearly opposite the chapel at 7.15, two abreast, headed by Drummers Edward Rich, Jr., and Weston Pullen, Jr. After circling around the green more than twice, to give the judges fair opportunity to make a decision as to the prize winners, the Scouts assisting will clear the center of the green when a large circle will be formed for the select dance program to be put on by Professor Reginald Laubin and Mrs. Laubin, Should the night be stormy or extremely cold, even though it may be clear, in consideration of these dancers who dress according to their numbers, the program will be carried out at the Samuel Huntington school.

A spot light is to be placed near the judges' stand and it is expected that all automobiles will face toward the green, under direction of a state policeman and Constable Lucius A. Fenton. The state highway on Town street side of the green, however, will be used only for traffic. Through the interested efforts of the chairman of the executive committee, Mrs. Edwin V. Ross, Norwich merchants have liberally contributed some attractive prizes. There will be awarded for boys and Girls for each classification, the most original costume and the funniest and best looking costume. Although contributions of money were not solicited, voluntary donations have been forthcoming from interested residents.

Providing all is favorable for Professor Laubin and his wife and partners in the dances, Gladys Laubin, to entertain on the green, their first number will be a buffalo dance. Their two numbers are described as follows by Professor Laubin: The buffalo dance comes from the Oglalla Sioux and is done by a few warriors wearing horned headdresses in imitation of buffalo. They simulate the activities of a herd collecting on the prairie in the morning. The dance is done not only to call buffalo; but to appease evil spirits who might make hunting difficult, and also to gain the strength of the buffalo. Their spirits will not feel so bad when death comes, because of the dance.

The second number will be the Ghost Dance. This dance was taugh by a Pinto prophet named Woraka, and was a wonderful peaceably and instructive doctrine, being almost Christian in its teaching. It spread like wildfire all over the United States, between the years 188 and 1892. In this dance the dancers fall in a trance during which time their spirits were supposed to wander in the Shadow Land. The dancers believed that the white race would be peaceably destroyed by the Great Spirit through his agent the coming Messiah; and that the old way of life would return, bringing back the old time warriors and herds of buffalo. The doctrine preached the elimination of war. This dance as was usual with all things pertaining to the Indian, was wrongly interpreted for some "new kind of war dance," by the whites and terminated in the terrible masacre of Wounded nee, where, without provocation, over 300 virtually unarmed Sioux Indian men, women and children were killed by United States soldiers.

The following is the order of program as arranged by the committee in charge: Children tagged at chapel steps, bugle call for assembly, by Edward Jordan, children form in line two abreast, bugle calls attention and forward, march, led by the two drummer boys, Rich and Pullen, with the judges in position under the spot light for review, buble call again for attention and Scouts clear center of green where large circle is to be formed with all flesh lights turned in for the program by Prof. and Mrs. Laubin. This will be followed by the decision o fthe judges and award of prizes. Apples are to be distributed to those participating by Mrs. Jhilip A. Johnson, assisted by Mrs. Flint Brayton. Bugler Jordan will then sound Taps which will conclude the program.

WITHDRAWAL IN SUIT OVER AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

The $4,000 auto negligence action brought by Joseph Pusateri of Norwich against Charles A. Anderson, also of this city has been withdrawn from the docket of the superior court without costs to either party, according to papers filed with Clerk John H. Walker. Pusateri, while driving for Lackenbach's Cleaning and Dyeing Co. here on Nov. 1, 1928, sustained serious injuries when in collision with an auto owned and operated by Anderson on Washington street.

GAS the better FUEL . . . assures quick DISPOSAL of trash and garbage with a GAS Incinerator

Accumulation of papers, cartons, rags, and other rubbish is a constant source of fire hazard. A lighted match or cigarette carelessly thrown on the rubbish heap threatens the home and human lives. Germ-breeding garbage too, for health's sake, should be disposed of daily. Now, Gas, the modern fuel, provides the easy way. A Gas Incinerator in the basement conveniently disposes of trash and garbage, reducing it quickly to sterilized ash. Several models are on display in your gas company. You may select the size for your own needs and purchase it on convenient terms.

HOOVER QUALIFIED TO DEAL WITH GREAT EMERGENCIES

Opinion Expressed by Secretary Mellon in a Radio Speech Last Night—Declaring That President Hoover Has Exhibited a Genius For Organization and For Quick and Decisive Action, the Secretary Called For the Election of a Congress That Would Not Be Controlled by the President's Political Enemies—Asserted that the Chief Executive is Capable of Leading the Nation Out of the Present Business Depression

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29. — (AP) — Secretary Mellon, in one of his rare radio speeches, tonight made a plea for the election of a republican congress, praised President Hoover and expressed the opinion the executive would lead the nation out of the present business depression.

Mr. Mellon, in his talk over the Columbia broadcasting system, disputed that the republicans were responsible for business conditions and reviewed the accomplishments of the party since it was returned to office in the 1920 election. He cited the action of the president in enlisting the aid of business when the stock market crash occurred last fall and said conditions were due to world wide causes, primarily overproduction of certain commodities, especially raw materials.

"I have said enough to show that the administration is doing all it can both to alleviate suffering and to hasten recovery from the present depression,' 'the treasury head said. "It can not work miracles. The most that any administration can do is to keep the boat steady and headed in the right direction until the storm blows over; and that the president has shown he is well able to do. He can not be held responsible for the extent or violence of the storm any more than he can be blamed for the drought which added one more plague to those that beset us last summer.

"President Hoover has shown himself a man capable of dealing with great emergencies. I am confident that he will lead the country out of its present difficulties; but if he is to do so with minimum of friction and loss of time, his hands should not be tied by a congress controlled by his political opponents. It is not time for divided authority. It is rather a time for strong and united action and, in asking support for the president and the administration, I do so in the belief that in this way we shall attain most quickly that full measure of economic recovery which is inevitable in a nation so self reliant and so justifiably confident of the future."

The secretary said an election where the presidency was not involved, seldom turns on a single clear cut issue.

"The situation is usually too confused for that; and it is too confused today. In the coming election candidates will be chosen in some states because of their views on prohibition; in others, because of the tariff or farm-relief or some other measure; and, in practically all cases, the personality of the candidate themselves will largely affect the final result," he continued. "On top of all this, the situation will be further confused by the efforts of the democratic candidates to make an issue of the present commercial and industrial depression and to charge the republican party with responsibility for matters beyond its control.

Mr. Mellon reviewed the business depressions since 1873 and said:

"Now we are in the midst of another business and industrial depression. Like the earlier ones, it is world wide in extent and has resulted from much the same causes. It was not caused by speculation in stocks, though that was a factor, of course, in the situation. Its underlying causes were deeper than that and may be traced primarily to overproduction of certain commodities, especially raw materials, both in this country and abroad."

He said processes in both agriculture and industry had been enlarged throughout the world to meet needs created by four years of war and that these needs having been supplied in the ten years which have elapsed, there developed a lack of balance between production and consumption. This, he continued, resulted in a falling off of prices and a consequent collapse in the buying power of many countries.

The secretary made a plea for aid to those who suffer as the result of the business depression and added this country was particularly fortunate in being in position to cope with the situation and of the business depression and added this country was particularly fortunate in being in position to cope with the situation arising from the depression.

"We were particularly fortunate in having in the white house a man who had the knowledge and the experience that peculiarly fitted him to deal with the situation," Mr. Mellon said. "Throughout his career, both during the war and afterwards, President Hoover exhibited a genius for organization and for quick and decisive action. These were the qualities that made him so effective in dealing with the situation last autumn; and I feel that too much credit can not be given him for his very real and constructive contribution in mobilizing the business forces of the nation at a critical moment in its history."

The secretary said no one could predict how long it would take to recover from the business depression.

"But of one thing we can be certain," he added. "With our great internal organization, our vast resources, our unparelleled domestic buying power and the indomitable spirit of our people, we shall be among the first of all the nations to recover and resume the onward march of progress."

FORMOSA SAVAGES KILLING MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN

TOKYO, Oct. 29—(AP)—Reports to the war office tonight indicated Formosa savages, who went on the warpath Monday killing scores of men, women and children, were concentrating heavily eastward of the village of Musha.

The tribesmen evacuated Musha today without fighting, leaving behind many mutilated bodies. A dispatch from Taihoku, Formosa, said eighty six bodies, including thirty-eight children were found in the ruins of Musha.

Fears that scores of other Japanese in isolated police stations and small settlements north and east of Musha had met a similar fate were expressed in official and newspaper dispatches from Taihoku. Effective search for them await further military advance into the savages' territory in the mountainous interior.

Tonight's reports also mentioned 308 persons injured, but it was not clear whether these injuries were suffered in the first savage attacks Monday or in later clashes.

Facing desperate aborigines, many of whom possessed modern weapons seized when police stations were wiped out, the Japanese force of 300 policemen which occupied Musha today awaited infantry reiforcement for fierce fighting believed to be imminent as the savages were within 500 yards of the Japanese lines.

Fifty seven Japanese escaped the Musha massacre, some fleeing and some hiding.

Motives for the uprising were still obsecure. Although fundamentally it was another case of primitive man losing in desperate resistance to the steady pressure of civilized exploitation.

TRAIN WRECK IN FRANCE KILLS AT LEAST 18 PERSONS

PERIGUEUX, France, Oct. 29—(AP)—An obstruction of undertermined nature on the railway track here early today caused the derailment of the swift Geneva-Bordeaux and killed at least 18 persons.

The dead taken from the wreck thus far include two engineers, since the train was a double-header, one fireman and 15 passengers. At least two score passengers were injured, with more than thirty of them already taken to hospitals.

BUILDINGS IN REDDING SHAKEN BY EARTH TREMORS

REDDING, Cal. Oct. 29—(AP)—Buildings in Redding were shaken by a series of earth tremors beginning early today and continuing at intervals until noon but no damage was reported.

The last shock, shortly before noon, created confusion in superior court when the courthouse swayed and rumbled. Judge Waller Herzinger hastily adjourned court but the session was resumed after the mid-day recess.

CROWD AT FUNERAL OF HARRY PAYNE WHITNEY

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Prominent figures in New York society politics, business and sports attended funeral services today for Harry Payne Whitney, sportsman and financier who owned one of the country's largest fortunes, at St. Bartholomew's Protestant Episcopal church, on Park avenue.

More than a thousand stood outside in the rain while the church was filled with Mr. Whitney's friends. Among them were members of the Whitney and Vanderbilt families, Elihu Root, George F. Baker, Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams and Joseph E. Widener.

The simple service was the usual Episcopal ritual for the dead. There was no eulogy. Dr. Endicott Peabody, headmaster of Groton school, conducted the services assisted by the Rev. Robert Norwood, rector of the church. Burial was in the family plot at Woodlawn.

KIDNAPED BANKER RETURNS TO HIS HOME

GALVA, Ill., Oct. 29—(AP)—Returning home unharmed today after being held blindfolded for three days by kidnapers Earl Yocum, banker, refused to divulge who had held him captive or what ransom he had paid for his release.

He admitted he had been a prisoner of an extortion gang since Sunday but refused to lend any aid toward tracking down the kidnapers.

"I'll let someone else save the country," he said.

Yocum was returned to his home early today by a motorist who found him walking on a lonely road near Atkinson, Ill., about 15 miles from here. He said he had been dropped from an auto there a little earlier. He said he did not know where he was held prisoner because he had been kept blindfolded, but he believed it was near Atkinson.

DAY OF DISORDERS IN SPANISH UNIVERSITIES

MADRID, Oct. 29—(AP)—This was another day of disorders in Spanish universities growing out of dissatisfaction of students with the educational reforms enacted by former Minister of Education Callejo during the dictatorship of Primo De Rivera.

The police were needed to handle disturbances at Madrid, Barcelona, Oviedo, Seville and Granada.

The demonstrations at Seville and Granada included partial strikes which the authorities tonight were making efforts to settle without resorting to closing the universities.

There was a distinct impression in Madrid tonight that the government would withdraw the Callejo system, offering a new program more acceptable to the student bodies of the various universities

69 HOURS IN OPEN BOAT WITHOUT FOOD OR WATER

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Six survivors who drifted for 69 hours in an open boat without food or water brought back today the story of the wreck of the steam yacht Barbados, which foundered in a storm early last Sunday off the lower New Jersey coast, carrying down with her four men and a woman.

Three of nine members of the crew who escaped when the ship sank died within the next 12 hours in the lifeboat from which the survivors were rescued by the Clyde liner Henry R. Mallory off Atlantic City last night. The dead were buried at sea.

E. G. Valverde, New York importer who owned the Barbados; his wife, Hattie; their chauffeur, known only as "Willie"; a man named Smith, chief engineer, and his assistant, Walker, were lost with the ship. The captain of the vessel shouted to them to jump when the ship began to go over, but they either failed to hear or were afraid.

The Barbados, an old vessel of only 93 tons, was recently purchased by Valverde for use in Barbados interisland trade. Captain Hough signed his crew only last Friday and said he believed all except the mate and the two engineers lived in the Barbados. The ship started from New York on its first voyage to the islands Friday night with a small cargo.

"We ran into bad weather after passing Scotland lightship," Captain Hough said. "I figured we could ride it out, but toward morning Saturday it grew worse, with a northeasterly gale, and things began to look bad. We couldn't call for help, because we had no radio.

"Saturday afternoon, our steam began to give us trouble. We could not get enough to heave to. I decided to run her before the gale, with the idea of making the Delaware breakwater.

"By this time the bolts of the boiler began to give way, because the ship was straining herself so. We began to take on water through our seams. Our pumps gave out. The water began mounting in the hold.

"Finally a cylinder head blew off and hit Lynch. From then on, it was just a matter of seeing how long we could last. Early Saturday night we sighted a tanker, and we sent up flares, but there was no response. Later still we saw the lights of another ship. We'd exhausted our flares, but we set up cries. She didn't hear us.

"By then the ship was unmanageable. When I was up to my waist in water, I gave orders to abandon ship. But while we were launching our lifeboat, the ship abandoned us."

The captain and the other eight jumped and managed to clamber into the lifeboat, which was floating free The six who remained when the lifeboat was sighted by the Henry R. Mallory were too weak to climb aboard the liner and had to be carried. Some were delirious. But today only Lynch and Allenby remained in the hospital.

ARMED DEMONSTRATIONS BY CHINA AND RUSSIA

SHANGHAI, Oct. 29—(AP)—The breakdown of negotiations at Moscow for settlement of the dispute over the Chinese Eastern railway has resulted in armed demonstrations by China and Russia along the Manchurian-Siberian border.

These were similar to demonstrations which caused fighting and invasion of Manchuria by Russian soldiers in November and December last year, Chinese press dispatches from Harbin said.

Two battalions of infantry and one of artillery were reported ordered by Manchuria to patrol the Siberian border near Manchuli, northwestern Manchuria.

The movement was said to have been ordered because "for several days Soviet troops with bombing airplanes have been demonstrating and new barracks are being erected in border towns."

Chinese envoys were said to have refused demands of Russia for observance of the Khabarovsk protocol of last December for joint management of the Chinese Eastern railway across Manchuria by Russia and China, and to be about to depart from Moscow.

Forced to yield at Khabarovsk to Russian terms after Soviet troops had occupied several Manchurian border towns, the Chinese delegate, Tsai Yun-Shang, signed the preliminary agreement. Later this was repudiated by Chinese nationalist officials who asserted Tsai had exceeded his authority.

GERMAN AIRPLANE TO MAKE FLIGHT TO U. S.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Oct. 29.—(AP)—The German airplane DO-X, largest flying boat in the world, is scheduled to begin a flight to the United States not later than November 12.

The start will be at Lisbon, with stops scheduled in the Azores and Bermuda.

In preparation for the trans-oceanic flight, the 12-motored ship will leave Altenrhein for Amsterdam Sunday, probably following the Rhine most of the way.

JEWELRY WORTH $1,000 STOLEN FROM NEW HAVEN STORE

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 29.—(AP)— John Jacobson, a jewelry salesman of New York city, reported to police today that two sample case containing jewelry valued at $1,000 were stolen from a New Haven store, where he had left them while he had lunch with the proprietor. He said he left one of the cases inside the door and the other on a showcase. Clerks in the store disclaimed any knowledge of the gems.

Palestine Matter Before Commons

David Lloyd George Asks For Debate of the British Policy

LONDON, Oct. 29.— (AP) —David Lloyd George, premier in Britain's war cabinet, today carried the subject of Palestine formally into the house of commons by asking that the whole matter of British policy be debated by the house.

Criticism of the activities of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald accompanied Lloyd George's demand.

"The prime minister has said that there is no departure in the recent white paper from the policy on Palestine that has existed under previous governments," the Welshman said.

"Well, if there is no departure in policy it is very remarkable that the whole Jewish world should take exception to the British statement."

The liberal leader continued that there would be serious consequences unless the question should be cleared up. His address formed the outstanding feature of today's session of commons when members continued to reply to yesterday's speech from the throne.

Lloyd George ran briefly over the government's legislative program as disclosed in the king's speech and asked for "a little more drive" in dealing with the unemployment situation.

"Up to the present," he said, "the prime minister does not seem to have given the necessary drive on the one thing that put him in power. I do not say that he does not work hard. He has worked hard at other things and seems too busy to do his job.

"It was a great mistake for him to have given the whole of his time to the details of the naval conference instead of leaving it to the foreign secretary and the first lord of the admiralty."

Those expecting that Lloyd George's speech would shed light on the intentions of the liberals regarding specific measures to be introduced by the government were disappointed.

13 PERSONS INJURED WHEN A MOTOR BUS SKIDDED

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Oct. 29.—(AP)—The planned races off Halifax, N. S., between the Lunenburg schooner Bluenose and the Gertrude L. Thebaud, Gloucester fishermen's champion, for the international fishermen's trophy today were definitely called off for this year.

Calls For E[illegible]ion Of Republi[illegible] Congress

Cong[illegible]k Also Pays Tribute to Tilson and the State of Connecticut

HARTFORD, Oct. 29—(AP)—"Hoover or havoc," is the choice before the voters of the country on Tuesday, Congressman James M. Beck, of Pennsylvania, told nearly 2,000 persons at a republican rally in Bushnell Memorial hall, here tonight in pleading for the election of a republican congress. "If the president 's put in a strait-jacket by a hostile congress, no one in this audience can measure the portentious results," he said, likening the present industrial crisis to a war era when a minor party differences are forgotten with all uniting to support the country's leader.

Mr. Beck began his address with a glowing tribute to the genius of Congressman John Q. Tilson, of Connecticut, republican floor leader of the house of representatives. "The country," he said, "owes much to his masterly leadership of the republican majority of the house. His success is due to the fact that he was fair to his foes, loyal to his friends and tireless in his duties. He has an unequalled grasp of all the complex problems of the government."

This was followed by a tribute to the state of Connecticut for its refusal to yield to the "frenzy" which brought the 18th amendment into the federal constitution.

"When the amendment is repealed, as one day it will be," he said, "the other forty-six states of the Union will take their hats off to Connecticut and Rhode Island, the only two states which refused ratification.

"The republicain party is not responsible for the present industrial depression, and there are four very emphati creasons why the election of a democratic congress would be deplorable and would make prevailing conditions still worse.

"The first of these reasons is that democratic success would throw into democratic hands the chairmanships of the important house committees. The five major committees, ways and means, appropriations, interstate commerce, judiciary and rivers and harbors, would not only pass into democratic control, but, by the impregnable rule of seniority, these chairmanships would go to the states of Mississippi, Tennessee and Texas.

"A republican president and a democratic congress would simply mean that the wheels of government would stop and the industrial depression be immeasureably prolonged.

"When the ship of state is riding in a storm, it is no time to put new men in the engine room who will try to thwart and obstruct the efforts of the captain on the bridge to navigate the ship."

Mrs. B. Mehrtens of New Haven was elected president of the Lutheran Women's Missionary Society of New England.

PROGRESS OF CAMPAIGN AGAINST UNEMPLOYMENT

Col. Woods Reports That Four States and Fifteen Cities Have Set Up Organizations to Deal With the Problem—Nation's Shipyards Will Provide Employment For 20,000 Men—Call Issued to the Women of the Country to Aid in Finding Work For the Heads of Hungry Families

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.— (AP) — Employment for 20,000 men in the nation's shipyards for the coming year was assured today by the shipping board as a call was made for the women of the country to aid the president's emergency committee on employment in finding work for the heads of hungry families.

Plans of the shipping board to advance $15,000,000 in loans toward construction of ships to cost a total of $50,000,000 gave definite assurances of employment for at least 20,000 men. That number may be kept occupied for two or three years as rebuilding of the American merchant marine continues.

Assuming charge of the women's division of the emergency committee, Dr. Lillian Bilbreth of Montclair, N. J., appealed to the women to aid by having needed repairs done to their homes. In addition, she said the women could work through their different groups to procure employment for the needy and help those in distress.

Plans to work through the children also were made known. Dr. Gilbreth said the youngsters could report conditions of destitute families and might make suggestions that could be converted into practical ideas.

Col. Arthur Woods, chairman of the committee, reported to President Hoover he was encouraged over the response to his call for cooperation. Four states and 15 cities had organized committees to put the idle to work and relieve those for whom no employment can be found.

Offers of the Columbia and National Broadcasting companies to assist are to be accepted by Colonel Woods. Speakers picked from communities where successful employment groups have functioned are to broadcast to other sections their ideas and practices.

Discussing the progress of the campaign, Colonel Woods said four states —New York, Massachusetts, Ohio and Illinois—and 15 cities had set up organizations to combat the problem. He said others are making plans to organize.

SLIGHT IMPROVEMENT IN CONDITIONS IN OHIO

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 29. —(AP)— Federal and state forces which met here today to attack Ohio's unemployment problem received reports that slight improvement has been noted recently in employment conditions but that they were considerably under those of last spring.

Attempts to formulate definite plans for speeding up industry were waived because the governor's general committee, headed by S. P. Bush, Columbus manufacturer, stated that it is desired to work out plans for permanent operation as well as for immediate relief.

Plans for the various industries, it was decided, will be studied by special sub-committees.

VIEWS OF THE A. F. OF L. HEAD ON UNEMPLOYMENT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29. — (AP) — Confidence that unemployment can be largely conquered if whole-hearted cooperation is obtained toward providing work was expressed tonight by William Green, the president of the American Federation of Labor, in a statement estimating that one-sixth of the nation's populations was "threatened with acute need" this winter.

Green said "if all groups join wholeheartedly in the movement to provide jobs and relief, unemployment can be largely conquered." He added that "we must visualize the danger ahead and face the problem."

$24,000,000 GRAND RIVER HYDRO-ELECTRIC PROJECT

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 29. —(AP)— Simultaneous with announcement here today that actual construction on a $24,000,000 Grand river hydro-electric project probably would begin by December 1, W. A. Murphy, state labor commissioner, called a state wide meeting to provide relief for unemployed.

Industrial leaders and federal employment officers will meet in December to devise a definite unemployment program during early months of 1931, Mr. Murphy said.

KELLEY DISMISSED FROM THE INTERIOR DEPARTMENT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29—(AP)—Ralph S. Kelley was dismissed from the interior department today and shortly afterward a demand was made by a republican that the former Denver land office official publish a full statement under oath "if he would clear himself of the implication of playing politics."

Senator Glenn, republican, Illinois, in a statement through the republican national committee said Kelley could not claim to be a public servant rendering patriotic service unless he could show he did not sell his articles to any "Newspaper organization or individual and that their publication was in no wise associated with partisan campaign politics."

"If Mr. Kelley wishes to clear himself of the implication playing politics and seeking remuneration for his articles, he should publish a full statement under oath at once," he said.

Earlier in the day, Secretary Wilbur wrote Kelley that his conduct had been such "that your connection with the interior department may be considered terminated by dismissal as of September 29, 1930."

ORDERED TO MOVE FARM FROM CHICAGO BACK TO OPEN SPACES

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—(AP)— Residents of Chicago went into court today to check a new phase of the farm to city movement.

They charged that John Illamich, not content with his urban surroundings, had brought his farm with him. On his 25 by 125 foot lot, they declared, he had assembled eight hogs, two cows, 80 chickens, 16 geese, three dogs, two cats and a horse.

Becoming mathematical, Judge Joseph L. McCarthy discovered that each of the aforementioned creatures (not including Illamich) had a space of just 4 1-2 by 4 1-2 feet in which to move about. Illamich retorted that this was no more crowded than the average miniature golf course and hinted that miniature stock farms might soon be quite the rage.

"They already are an outrage," replied the judge. "I'll give you until December 1 to move your farm back to the open spaces."

"AIR LINE" RAILROAD BONDS TO BE BURNED

MIDDLETOWN, Oct. 29—(AP)—Half century old "Air Line" railroad bonds, paper of the defunct New Haven, Middletown, and Willimantic railroad, will be burned at a public celebration shortly after election, it was announced today. A definite date for the celebration has not yet been set.

The bonds are those issued in the early days of railroading, which were secured at that time by the city of Middletown. When the railroad went bankrupt, and finally was taken over by the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, the city was forced to meet payments on the bonds.

They have been replaced by Middletown refunding bonds and are now being retired at the rate of $20,000 a year, although $445,000 remains to be paid. Up to this time the city has paid in interest three times the amount of the original principal.

AMERICAN SCHOONER SANK 60 MILES OFF CAPE HENRY, VA.

NORFOLK, Va., Oct. 29.—(AP)— A wireless message picked up at coast guard headquarters here today said the schooner Rebecca C. Scott, which left Newport News Monday with a cargo of coal for Hamilton, Bermuda, sank Monday night about sixty miles east of Cape Henry.

STORE KEEPER KILLS TWO OFFICERS AND HIMSELF

CAMERON, Texas, Oct. 29.—(AP)—A Texas store keeper today opened fire on two officers investigating the theft of merchandise from a railroad and during the melee which followed three men lost their lives and a fourth was wounded.

R. B. Brady, the store keeper, took his own life with a shot gun after slaying J. E. Donman, Temple, Tex., a Santa Fe detective, and Guy Pope, a deputy sheriff. Ray Robinson, deputy city marshal, was wounded in the hand.

Robinson said the merchant greeted the officers with rifle fire when they dismounted from an automobile in front of the store. Brady then killed himself with the approach of Gene Smith, city marshal.

"Gene, I do not want to kill you, but I did not want to be taken by them," Smith said Brady called as he drew near. Then he put down the rifle, picked up a shotgun, placed the muzzle under his chin, and pulled the trigger.

5-YEAR-OLD BOY KILLED BY SPEEDING AMBULANCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29. — (AP) — While voluntary firemen were rescuing a 19-year-old youth from imprisonment beneath tons of rock in a 35-foot well near here today an ambulance rushing to the scene to take him to a hospital struck and killed a five-year-old boy.

Louis Barrett, son of a farmer at Glenmont, Md., was removed after being imprisoned more than four hours from a cave-in while he was cleaning the well. The boy killed was William Nichols, Jr., who lived near Glenmont.

NIANTIC WOMAN FAILS TO BREAK WILL OF MOTHER

BRIDGEPORT, Oct. 29.—(AP)— The attempt of Mrs. Rose Bogue, of Niantic, to break the death-bed will of her mother, Mrs. Caroline Buono, of this city, failed today when a jury before Judge Arthur F. Ells in superior court refused to grant her appeal from probate.

Mrs. Bogue charged that her mother had been mentally unbalanced by her illness and that her son, Joseph, had been able to influence her into making him the chief beneficiary in her $17,000 estate.

TESTIMONY FAVORABLE TO WETHERSFIELD PRISON

ENFIELD, Oct. 29.—(AP)—"Wethersfield prison is far superior to most in this country. It is clean, the food which I saw while passing through the kitchen is as good as could be expected, the discipline is good and it is not overcrowded," said Rev. John Phillips, pastor of Center Congregational church in Hartford, addressing the meeting of the State Federation of Women's clubs at Enfield this afternoon.

LEGION DISTRICT MEETING IN WILLIMANTIC SUNDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 29.—American Legion posts and auxiliaries in Rockville, Moosup, Putnam, South Coventry, Mansfield, North Grosvenordale, Stafford Springs, East Woodstock, Hebron, Hampton, Ellington, Danielson and Willimantic, comprising the fourth district, are to gather for a district meeting in the town hall here next Sunday. Arrangements are being made to accommodate between 250 and 300 persons.

The installation of the following auxiliary officers for the fourth district will be made, as follows, by Mrs. Clemency Schall of West Haven, department president: Mrs. Helen MacFarland, president; Mrs. Florence Burchnall of Willimantic, vice-president; Mrs. Loretta Belair of Willimantic, sergeant-at-arms; Mrs. Madeline James, South Coventry, historian; Mrs. Marguerite Hickey, South Coventry, secretary.

The auxiliary will present the Fidac program, which is given to represent the different countries which participated in the World war on the side of the allies. In honor of Scotland, there will be numbers by the Manchester Kiltie band, with dances and features by local talent in costume. Mrs. Marion Maass, chairman of the local Fidac committee, is arranging the program. A luncheon will be served in the G. A. R. rooms.

Republican Rally

An enthusiastic audience of between 450 and 600 is expected at the republican rally to be held in the town hall here Thursday evening with four outstanding speakers on the platform. The audience will very likely include many Franco-Americans attracted by the appearance of Philip Erard of Springfield, Mass., a forceful orator in the French language. Mr. Erard has previously appeared at Windham rallies and his messages on political situations of the day have always been well received.

The rally committee today announced a change in the speaking list in the replacement of C. J. Jordan, secretary of agriculture in Pennsylvania, by Newton W. Gilbert, former governor of the Philippines. The other speakers remain the same. They are: Attorney Benedict M. Holden of Hartford, chairman of the state veterans' commission; Mrs. Frances L. Roth of New Haven, and Mr. Erard.

As entertainment features, the Willimantic Glee club, Dr. E. J. Morgan director, comprising 30 voices, will be heard and instrumental music will be furnished by the Peerless orchestra, Ralph H. Gibson, leader. Occupying seats of honor on the platform will be prominent republican candidates, including Charles A. Gates of Windham, candidate for re-election as county sheriff; Andrew T. J. Clarke of Canterbury, candidate for state senator from the 29th district; Charles P. Pomeroy and Cyril A. Lamoureux, candidates from Windham for the house of representatives, and Attorney John B. Harvey, candidate for judge of probate in the Windham-Scotland district.

Sunday Paper in Demand

A growing demand and interest in the forthcoming issue of The (Norwich Bulletin) Norwich Sunday Record, next Sunday, is reported here by dealers and boy carriers. Orders for the new eastern Connecticut five-cent Sunday paper are increasing rapidly and sales are expected to reach a high peak throughout this section.

The integrity of The Bulletin Co. in publishing a Sunday paper is being most favorably commended by Willimantic business men While full appreciation is given to the value of the Sunday issue as an advertising medium, there are those versed in economics who predict that the venture at this time will serve as a timely psychological reaction to the depression period.

A pre-service teachers' training course will be opened at the Willimantic state trade school in the near future, it was announced today by Director Otto R. Nyffeler. This course is to train mechanics or others who have a good working knowledge of the various building trades with a view of fitting them for trade school instructors and is intended to meet a demand for this class of teachers in the state.

Stafford Springs

METHODISTS REVIEWING EARLY HISTORY OF CHURCH

The celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the First Methodist Episcopal church of Stafford Springs has definitely established the fact that while the first preaching by Methodist ministers in this town was in the fall of 1830, there was preaching by clergymen of the Methodist denomination in this vicinity for some time prior to 1830. In 1790, the Hartford circuit of the Methodist Episcopal church was formed, with Nathaniel B. Mills minister in charge, the circuit consisting of Hartford, Tolland, Square Pond, now known as Crystal lake, which is only 5 miles from Stafford, and Wilbraham in Massachusetts. In 1792, after a great spiritual revival in the district, Rev. Hope Hull was appointed in charge and two colleagues were stationed under his direction, George Roberts and F. Aldrich. It is quite probable that the villages in this section were occasionally able to hear the Methodist doctrine expounded. Rev. Justus Jocelyn, who was minister of the Tolland group of Methodist churches preached near, and probably in Stafford as early as 1801. The place of the service is unknown, but some of the older parishioners remember hearing of the sermon, also that a meeting was held after the service. For the next 20 years the growth of this denomination was very slow in this section and a small body of Methodists used to travel to Tolland or Square Pond to attend divine service. The first leader of a class of which there is any actual record was Orrin Harwood, who came to Stafford from Ludlow, Mass., and had charge of a group who had been torn asunder by dissentions.

In 1829, Rev. Horace Moulton, one of the ministers at Tolland, held a meeting with the class at West Stafford and informed them that they could have regular Sabbath preaching if a suitable building could be secured. It was decided to secure the old Universalist church and a lease of this building was obtained for three years. The first business meeting to plan for services in Stafford Springs and to appoint a prudential committee was in the old red brick school building which still stands in the rear of West Main street. The meeting was conducted by Rev. Horace Moulton and Paul Townsend was appointed junior minister. He was not at all pleased with his appointment, but believed it his duty to obey his superiors, so he came to Stafford Springs to preach.

The church, which is now used, is the second erected by the Methodists in this town. A few years after the first church was built it was found to be too small and additions had to be built on. When it was decided to erect a new building the triangular plot of land between High and Church street was secured and the present church occupies this site. This is a beautiful two-story building and is much admired by visitors. The school auditorium is on the ground floor and there are departments for senior, junior and primary wok. The library and kitchen are also on this floor. The auditorium on the second floor will accommodate about 550. The wood work is ash and the ceiling is of attractive panelled ash. The organ, which was a gift to the church several years ago, is in the center of the choir transept and the wide pulpit is surrounded by communion rail with attractive altar and pulpit furniture. There is a marble memorial baptismal fount inside the communion rail. On one side of the church, over the minister's study, is an electric memorial clock and on the left and right sides, respectively, of the pulpit are American and Christian flags which were gifts to the church during the past year. The centennial services are being well attended.

PROMINENT DEMOCRAT FINDS NAME ON REPUBLICAN LIST

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 29—There was a degree of glee in republican official circles this afternoon when some one discovered that the name of John M. Dowe appears on the most recently completed republican caucus list. The amusement was engendered over the fact that Mr. Dowe at the present moment happens to be one of the democratic candidates for election as representatives from Killingly. When Mr. Dowe, a World war veteran with a fine overseas record as a member of the famed Yankee division, a student at Brown university when he enlisted, had his attention called to this late this afternoon he readily explained the matter. As long as two years ago, he said, he asked a democratic member of the board of registrars to change his listing from the republican to the democratic caucus roster. He presumed that it had been done. Evidently someone failed to function. In any event, it may be stated that Mr. Dowe comes from a long line of democratic ancestors, their party affiliations dating back prior to the Civil war. His own political sentiments are known to all. He's a democrat, even though his name is listed among so many illustrious members of the opposition party's caucus list. There's no chance to change that list now, it's complete for the year, but Mr. Dowe will make certain there is a change in his caucus rating before another election time rolls around.

Following a meeting of the executive board of the Civic Federation, it was announced today that the annual Tag Day has been changed by vote of the board from October to the last Saturday in April of 1931. It has seemed to the members of the board that so many important soliciting campaigns occur here in the fall it might be well to have the Federation Tag Day in the spring.

Postponement ofthe Tag Day effort from last Saturday, because of the serere storm, led to consideration of changing to the spring date. The Federation's fiscal year ends the last of May, so that even with the change arranged for the proceeds of Tag Day can be included in the receipts of the year 1930-1931.

A county dairy survey shows that 48 per cent. of the farms were receiving gross incomes of less than $4,000. This fact will get very considerable contemplation and discussion at a dairy meeting to be held in Plainfield Grange hall Tuesday evening of next week.

The program of the meeting will be based on the county program for Better Incomes on Dairy Farms in Windham County. A talk on the Dairy Division of the Program s to be given by Mr. Merrill, extension dairyman. This talk will have to do with Breeding, Raising of Young Stock, Disease Control, Feeding and Dairy Management. County Agent Raymond E. Wing will take up the development of the program in the town of Plainfield and the methods by which it is carried out.

The meeting is intended to interest every dairyman who would seek a larger income on his farm, and it is hoped the attendance will be large. The program has been developed by a committee of dairymen from the county and is practical for any farmer to adopt. All are welcome to attend.

Members of the Southern New England Telephone company's Employes association in the Danielson, Putnam and Moosup divisions gathered here this evening for a Halloween party in G. A. R. hall, which was prettily and appropriately decorated for the occasion. During the evening typical Halloween stunts and pastimes were indulged in. Later there was dancing and refreshments were served.

Numbers of those who came were in costumes, and there were awards for those most staikingly gowned, the judges as to this being W. T. Jones of Putnam and Miss Katherine D. Aylward of Danielson.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Maritne Jeanotte

Mrs. Maritne Jeanotte, 92, died this morning at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ovila Cote, in Brooklyn, not distant from the former Brooklyn creamery property on a farm place where she had been living for years. Mrs. Jeanotte was born in Canada. Fifteen years ago her husband, Adolph, died at Roxton Falls, Canada. About a year later she came to this country to make her home with her nephew, Mr. Cote. She had been ill about a year and a half. Mrs. Jeanotte leaves no children.

It is anticipated there will be an unusually large congregation at Old Trinity church, Church street, Brooklyn, at 11 o'clock next Saturday morning for the All Saints' day service. Coming at the week end this year, the opportunity for numbers who like to attend this service will be more convenient than on other days of the week. Many of those who will be in the congregation will come from distant points. Rev. S. W. Lindsey, rector of the Church of the Reconciliation at Webster, will preach the sermon. Assisting at the conducting of the service will be Rev. J. Rees Jones, rector of St. Alban's church here and in charge of Trinity and Old Trinity churches in Brooklyn.

Reminding you that the time grows short for filing tax lists in Killingly. Assessors at town hall building 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. daily up to and including Nov. 1.—Adv.

Only about two weeks remain for those who would retain their present automobile numbers to make the formal requisition for the same.

Bear in mind the fact that deposits made in our savings department on or before Nov. 5th, will earn interest from that date. The Windham County National Bank.—Adv.

A gradual rise in the level of streams through this territory is noted, and wells that have been dry are again delivering water as the result of recent rains, including the copious one of today.

Mrs. James C. Meeker of Pittsfield is visiting with friends in Danielson and vicinity for a few days.

At 9.05 this morning a "33" call brought out the firemen for a run to North Main street, where smoke issuing from the cellar of a home caused alarm. The small rubbish fire causing it was out on the arrival of the firemen.

After Saturday Killingly's board of assessors will be engaged with the work of compiling the new grand list of the town. It will be toward the end of the year before this work is completed.

Hiram Burton, resident here many years, remains a patient at the Haven in Abington and is confined to his bed.

Last evening there was a birthday party at his home for Frank J. G. Bailey, assistant cashier of the Windham County National bank, with upwards of a score of relatives in attendance. There were many delightful features of the evening.

BULLETIN NEWSBOY OF 80 YEARS AGO SUBSCRIBES FOR NEW PAPER

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 29—A Norwich Courier-Norwich Bulletin newsboy of 80 years ago, in Norwich, is numbered among those who have placed their order here for a copy of The Bulletin's Sunday Record, which will make its initial appearance this coming Sunday. He is Charles Hickey of North Main street, and it so happens that on Sunday next he will be observing his 88th birthday.

The coincidence of the Sunday Record making its debut on his birthday led Mr. Hickey to reminisce a bit today about his boyhood and youthful days in his native city of Norwich. He was born on Mechanic street, on the city's West Side.

His father, John Hickey, built the second house to be erected on that street. The senior Hickey was a bootmaker with a shop on Water street, and gave employment to a number of hands. Speaking of his father, Mr. Hickey said this afternoon that he was one of the shareholders in a steamship line operating vessels between Norwich and New York. Numbered among the boats of the line were the Water Lily and the Tiger Lily.

As a boy of eight Charles Hickey had a route as a newsboy around the West Side and other parts of the city. His father's death occurred when Charles was still a boy. The youngster was adding to the family revenue when he was twelve years of age. Mr. Hickey recalled today that he had a swell job out on a farm in Bozrah when he was still in his early 'teens. He received $4 a month during the "busy months" of the year and the rest of the time worked for his keep.

However, he eventually became an iron moulder, learning his trade in the old Richmond Stove works in Norwich. Growing to manhood he became to have many acquaintances and affiliations. He was a member of Company C of the old Third Connecticut infantry. He joined the Norwich fire department, and was one of the men that went forth, with apparatus, from that city, to fight the great Boston fire of the early 70's. In later years, as he moved about from place to place, he served with the Ockford fire company of New London, with the Cyclones of the Westerly department and with the Steamers of Stonington, and numerous and exciting experiences he recalls from these activities.

In the years since he left Norwich Mr. Hickey has lived and worked in many sections of New England. For a long term of years he was with the Connecticut General Fire Insurance company at Hartford, voluntarily retiring from active work when he reached the age of 75.

It was while motoring through here three years ago that Mr. Hickey noticed a neat little cottage in a pretty setting on North Main street with a For Sale sign on the property. He immediately called to his relative driver to stop. With Mrs. Hickey he inspected the property, liked it ever so much, and bought it. He and Mrs. Hickey have been happy here.

As he nears his 88th birthday Mr. Hickey has the appearance of a man of no more than 70. He is alert, keen-minded, active and in the full enjoyment of life. He casually mentioned today the fine garden he had the past summer and of going up 30 to 40 feet in apple trees this fall to harvest the crop. The Bulletin and its affiliated publications extend to him best wishes that he and Mrs. Hickey may have many more years of happiness.

JEWETT CITY

TRADE SCHOOL STUDENTS AMONG BUS PASSENGERS

On a Connecticut motor bus Wednesday evening, the deportment of certain members of a party of Putnam Trade school boy students became such that a woman passenger from another state could stand it no longer. Giving her name and address to the driver, she lodged a formal protest, on which some action is likely to be taken by the company. The driver is operating a big ten-ton coach, filled with passengers, for the safety of whom he alone is responsible. It is dark, with the road often slippery and wet, and with the glare of the constant string of passing headlights. Every sense must be alert, and every attention given to the safe handling of his car, safety in transportation being his concern, first, last and all the time. It remains entirely within the province of the carrier to refuse to extend transportation privileges to any who make themselves obnoxious to peaceful passengers, or to any who by their unseemly deportment become a menace to the safe operation of any bus, by distracting the attention of the driver from his business in hand. The boys' offenses include whistling, wrestling, fisticuffing and loud talk, all of which is very unpleasant for passengers and disconcerting to the drivers, who, if they would stop it, must halt the bus, which would constitute a needless inconvenience to revenue patrons of the line.

Called to Ontario

Mrs Elias Abraham received a telegram Wednesday, which called her to Windsor, Ontario, to attend the funeral of a near relative.

While the Griswold selectmen are anxious and ready to extend town aid to any that are needy, yet as winter approaches, with appeals for help coming in every day, it is their purpose to investigate each and every case, that they may maintain a just safeguard against attempts at imposition

EDGAR KNOX COMMANDER OF AMERICAN LEGION POST

The annual meeting of Orville La-Flamme post, American Legion, was held Monday evening, a large number being present. The officers elected were: Commander, Edgar Knox; adjutant, John Davis; vice-commander, Otto Anderson; financial officer, H George Wilcox; chaplain, Wallace H Payne; sergeant-at-arms, George Rocheleau; historian, Gilbert Miner; state fund, John Davis. The chairmen of committees were appointed, as follows: Americanization, Ernest Larkin; membership, John Davis; sick and relief, John W. Blake; finance, Dr G. H. Jennings. It was voted to add $100 to the sinking fund. It was voted to accept an invitation to go to Stonington Armistice day and take part in the parade when a World war memorial will be dedicated. Edgar Knox, Victor St. John and Charles Roy were appointed to have charge of the transportation. It was decided to decorate the World war veterans' graves in this vicinity Armistice day. It was voted to give two medals each to the children attaining the highest average in American history in the public and parochial schools. A past commander's badge is to be presented the retiring commander, W. H. Payne. The next meeting will be Nov 10, when plans will be perfected for Armistice day at Stonington and an open meeting with refreshments and smokes will be held.

First of Grange Whists

The first in the series of Pachaug grange whists this year was held at Mr and Mrs. LeRoy Holmes' Tuesday evening. Prizes were won by Josephine Ambot, Mrs. William Watson, Mrs. Frank Wilcox, John Medick, Thomas Brown and LeRoy Holmes. The door award was received by Mrs. Benjamin Goldstein Halloween favors were on all the tables. The next meeting will be at Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Chesbro's

Miss Margaret Jordan, one of the telephone exchange operators, is in Backus hospital, where she underwent a throat operation Wednesday.

Flocks of juncos have been reported from several near-by localities within the last week. Local weather sharps are noting this fact as being in accord with the present "hard winter" forecasts. Walnuts and acorns have been unusually plentiful in this section, and sure it is, that squirrels in the big wooded districts hereabouts are making lively endeavors to secure their winter's hoard. Some have thought that bluebirds, in larger numbers than usual, were intending to pass the cold months in the outlying swamps, as several were reported Sunday.

The champion travelers of the bird world are the arctic terns which summer at the north pole and go to the south pole for their winters, thus having sunlight day and night all their lives.

PUTNAM

MANY SITES INSPECTED BY P. O. DEPT. OFFICIALS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Oct. 29. — Representatives of the United States post office and treasury departments charged with the investigation of sites submitted for the location of the proposed Putnam post office building continued their work today. At a late hour this afternoon, E. G. Schurig, site agent of the treasury department, stated that the investigation had not reached a point where any definite information concerning the location likely to be favored by the agents, could be released for publication. Mr. Schurig is in company with J. D. Rapp of the post office department, who is investigating for his bureau from a service standpoint. Mr. Schurig is a representative of the treasury department's board of architects and his interest in the federal investigation has to do with the facilities of the proposed sites with regard to suitability and desirability. The joint decisions of each official will settle the site selecting problem.

In their investigation they are receiving the cooperation of chamber of commerce officials and property owners whose holdings are subject of part of the investigation.

It appears that sites on lower Main street are not proving as attractive to the government agents as the public believed they would. The commanding values of tracts suitable are too high, and general conditions in the immediate vicinity of the considered property do not conform favorably with the service requirements of the post office department.

The beautiful, home of Charles Bove on Main street, at the corner of Richmond, was the outstanding potential site for the location of the federal building, but according to information obtained this afternoon, the cost to acquire the property would greatly exceed the appropriation the government has made for the purchasing of a lot upon which to erect the proposed building. It was said that the Bove property has not the required amount of land necessary for the parking of government mail vans, and that the streets upon which it borders because of their extreme narrowness, would make access to various parts of the building, if it were erected there, generally difficult.

Mr. Schurig stated that during the investigation, both Mr. Rapp and he will endeavor to obtain public views as to the most favored location. On South Main street, directly opposite the railroad depot, is the attractive and available site submitted by I. K. McNally of School street. This spot is receiving considerable attention from the government agents and is likewise impressing a number of responsible and interested citizens, favorably.

Although Mr. McNally proposed the site for sale, three others are owners of adjoining tracts that enter into the making of the so-called McNally property which extends from the north side of the Masonic club property on South Main street, through to School street, on the east, and north along School street, to the McArdle property, thence west to South Main street, the boundary here being the south side of the McArdle property. The tract is rectangular in shape and includes the site of the City hotel, destroyed by fire a year ago; the building of A. Sandolovitz of New London, the 20-cent taxi station, owned by I. K. McNally, and land and tenements on School street, owned by C. Dwight Sharpe.

The property is centrally located, in the opinion of the government officials, and has distinctive advantages possessed by no other site which as yet has been examined. South Main street is one of the widest municipal thoroughfares and its west side, from the depot to the intersection of Grove street, serves as a municipal parking space. Access to the post office, if it were erected there, could be obtained from either School or South Main streets, with little difficulty, as the area would be sufficient enough to permit trucks to take on and discharge mail entirely on government property.

The whole matter is still a subject of discussion, Mr Schurig said, and no action will be taken in any direction until final results of the investigation is reported to federal officials in Washington. The economic situation, he said, will at length determine the location of the proposed structure as the total appropriation for site and building is but $115,000, and while the figure is large in a sense, the site fund must be allotted sparingly.

Several property owners who have submitted proposals to the government were interviewed today by Mr. Schurig and Mr. Rapp and were questioned relative to the size, title and price expected for their holdings, in the event they were accepted.

Maryott—Maynard Wedding

Mrs. Tudis Elliott Maynard of this city, and formerly of Oxford, Mass., and Fred E. Maryott of Seward street, well known Putnam business man, were quietly married Saturday, October 25, at the parsonage of the First Baptist church on Sunnyside avenue. The ceremony took place at 9 o'clock in the morning, Rev. Henry E. Hodge, pastor of the church, officiating. The couple was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Smith of School street.

Mr. and Mrs. Maryott are residing on Seward street. Mr. Maryott is proprietor of the Putnam Roll Top Covering company.

A death in Thompson Tuesday was that of Mrs. Rosalba St. Germaine, who died following a short illness. She was in her 33rd year. Mrs. St. Germaine was born in Ballouville on June 3, 1892, the daughter of Joseph and Marie (Potvin) Paulhus. She is survived by her husband, Honore St. Germaine, who resides in Thompson.

Local dealers and newsboys continue to receive numerous orders for The Bulletin's forthcoming Sunday paper, The Norwich Sunday Record, the first edition of which will appear Sunday morning, November 2. Judging from the numerous inquiries made concerning the new publication, the success of the Sunday Record is assurred in this section of the county. To expedite delivery matters Bulletin readers desiring the Sunday Record are requested to fill in the order blanks, appearing daily on The Bulletin's front page and hand them to their newsboys or dealer. This will insure prompt and early morning delivery and will tend to eliminate much of the first week difficulties that are anticipated.

The Bulletin at present is maintaining a breakfast table delivery programme in Putnam and will endeavor to retain the same early morning delivery schedule on Sundays. For the benefit of new readers it might be stated that the Sunday Record, aside from its complete report of the foreign, national and state news of the Associated Press, will include complete news coverage of Windham and New London county towns and cities, in addition to the best comics and latest doings in the world of sport.

Arthur E. Smith, cashier of the Citizens National bank and chairman of the new industries committee of the chamber of commerce, said today that officials of the Specialty Spinning company, located in one of the plants of the old Manhassett Manufacturing company, is planning for the installation of additional manufacturing apparatus. The concern is associated with the silk manufacturing plant of M. Salzberg and Sons and is one of the city's newest industries.

Mrs. Lillian Andrews, noble grand of Mizpah Rebekah lodge, is to entertain at dinner Mrs. Harriet Wilson of Bridgeport, president of the Rebekah assembly, and her staff who come to Putnam for the annual inspection of the lodge. The officers of Mizpah lodge will also be guests of Mrs. Andrews.

Dr. Henry Martin, D. D. G. E. R., of New Britain and staff, visited the Putnam lodge of Elks Tuesday evening. At a meeting of the lodge a class of 5 candidates were initiated. The executive session was followed by the serving of a chicken supper and a social session, which featured the presentation of a Hartford vaudeville troupe.

Mrs. Mayo D. Hersey of Washington, D. C., returned to her home there today after spending several weeks with her mother, Mrs. Edgar M. Warner of South Main street. Shortly after Mrs. Hersey's arrival here, Mrs. Warner was stricken with a heart attack and was removed to the Day Kimball hospital. Her condition today was reported as being considerably improved.

Harry Thayer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Thayer of King street, was among the class of young men who took the competitive examinations of Senator Walcott, which were given last Saturday. The student receiving the highest rating in the examinations will receive Senator Walcott's appointment to the United States military academy at West Point, and will be delegated to take the academy entrance examinations which will be conducted early next year.

Thayer was graduated from Putnam high school in June, this year, and for the past three months has been a student at Brayden's preparatory school at Cornwall-on-Hudson, N. Y.

It was learned today from a responsible city official that the common council at its November meeting will name a successor to the late Fire Chief Ralph E. Thurston. Until today the only prospective candidate for the appointment is Deputy Chief Alphonse Dumas, now acting chief. The death of Chief Thurston also created a vacancy on the board of water commissioners, but whether or not the position will be filled next Wednesday night, when the council meets, is not known. Mr. Thurston was chairman of the board.

Heavy rains today forced laborers to abandon excavation operations now in progress on Front street, in connection with the laying of new water mains.

MAKE IT SAFE AND SANE

While Halloween has long been devoted to merrymaking, with parties and games, there has been a growing inclination in recent years to make it an occasion for wild demonstrations and extensive lawlessness. There has always been an inclination to play pranks, and some of them were decidedly startling, but the number who refuse to think of restraint has grown until there seems to be justification for the plea that the ruthless celebration give way to safety and sanity.

Those who masquerade and go on parade contribute to the gaiety of the occasion, but those who let their interpretation of merriment carry them to the point where they become destructive and terrifying are taking advantage of the occasion to engage in activities which they cannot expect will get approval.

There is no reason why those who want to celebrate Halloween should not be able to do so without going out of bounds, without destroying public or private property, without disturbing the sick and the aged, without making nuisances of themselves. There will be found no disposition to interfere with legitimate observances, but when people are insulted, windows broken, paint is daubed upon buildings and vandalism is indulged in there is reason for calling a halt upon such practices.

Halloween can be celebrated without going beyond the bounds of proper conduct, but those who think it impossible must expect and should receive the restraint that their attitude or their acts call for. Some localities have displayed a greater need for it in the past than others, but sanity and safety may well be the slogan for Halloween as well as for the celebration of the Fourth of July.

A GLORIOUS RAIN

The weatherman is at last giving consideration to the need of having the brooks and ponds filled before producing lasting cold weather. While the rain was so long delayed that it was too late for the crops and many are wondering whether there is the possibility of recovery for thei. lawns it has come, since the breaking of the drought, in such a manner as to do the greatest good possible by permitting it to soak into the soil instead of running off. There have been soaking rains followed by cloudy days and light winds.

But, even so, those who have dug to any depth have found that the water has penetrated not much over 1 foot and there is still need for many more soaking rains. The brooks have revealed some quick results but stimulation for the springs, supplies for the wells and much deeper soil penetration is awaited.

Rain is greatly welcomed by those who have been obliged to carry water for family use and for their cattle. Those who are obliged to drive their livestock daily or every other day several miles for water will appreciate different conditions. They recognize the help that comes from each rain but they know all too well the quantity it takes to slake the thirst of the parched ground.

The soaking rains and the manner in which they have been distributed have been of immense value in keeping down the woodland fires. Seldom have conditions been more favorable for most devastating effects from forest fires which start in a variety of ways. The continuation of the drought would have been like piling one serious handicap upon another in quick succession.

The rainfall is still far from reaching the yearly average. Much more precipitation in the form of rain is to be expected, but the hope will be that it will continue to come as good soaking rainstorms instead of a deluge.

SIR THOMAS AGAIN

Sir Thomas Lipton is coming back to the United States this fall. This time he is concerned with business, but inasmuch as he was ready and willing to talk about future yacht races as he left London it is to be expected that he will not be averse to similar discussions in this country.

As it became apparent to the greatest of all cup challengers that his Shamrock V was not going to lift the cup this year he was disposed to say "Never again!" It was a moment when he was disposed to display more than his usual disappointment, but he has had an opportunity to think it over a bit, to study the successful America yacht, and it has served to develop the belief once more that he can win and will make the try.

A race next year through his challenge is perhaps too much to expect. Nevertheless, he is quoted as saying that he will be ready for a contest two years hence and he firmly believes that he will carry the cup back with him. He has made up his mind to build a yacht that will do it. Just where the secret lies in those intentions he has not revealed. He shows, however, that he is sick and tired of bringing a challenger across only to have the cup remain on this side of the Atlantic.

Sir Thomas is a leader among good sportsmen. He sets the finest example in that respect and it is not impossible that he will have plenty to say in regard to his plans after he reaches these shores. It is quite evident that he is in a much different frame of mind than he was during those final moments of the 1930 international yacht contest when it was certain that his efforts to lift the cup had gone for naught, and that he has gained an inspiration from the American yacht, its design and handling, which he thinks can be put to effective use. At least he is anxious to try.

THE RETIRING CHIEF JUSTICE

Throughout Connecticut there will be a feeling of regret that age makes it necessary for Chief Justice George W. Wheeler to retire from the Connecticut supreme court of errors.

Justice Wheeler has served long as a part of the state judiciary. His qualifications for a place on the superior court bench were recognized when he was a young man and the manner in which he has served since that time has justified in every way his appointment. It has been particularly fortunate for this state that it has been able to have the benefit of his services for nearly two score years. For 17 years he was a conspicuous member of the superior court bench. As time prepared the way for his elevation to the supreme court it was apparent that the state's highest court was due for as long, if not longer, service of the same high type. Ten years as an associate justice, followed by a similar period as chief justice, gave opportunity for unusual influence upon the administration of state laws and it is recognized from one end of the state to the other that he was instrumental in maintaining it at the highest level.

His strength of character, his courage, his ability, his adherence to convictions, his fairness, his efforts in behalf of court methods and the speeding up of trials have long since been recognized and appreciated by those who have practiced at the bar or been brought in touch with the courts of the state. His work on the bench of Connecticut courts has been as creditable to the state as they have been to himself.

His retirement comes in accordance with law, a law which has frequently deprived the state of brilliant minds and services. It, however, opens the way for what it is hoped will be equally distinguished service on the part of the new chief justice and the new associate justice.

FIRED

When Field Agent Kelley came out into the open with his charges against the secretary of the interior relative to the handling of the shale oil lands in the west and failed to have his resignation acted upon favorably, it was evident that he was due for just such a dismissal as he has received.

Firing the field agent at that time would have aroused sympathy for him. To have accepted his resignation would have permitted him to leave the service in good standing. Refusing to accept the resignation but suspending the official, demanding a thorough investigation of the charges made, having the department of justice make a complete study of the matter and getting a report which showed there was absolutely no basis for the Kelley claims, created the chance for him to be dropped for the good of the service with all the discredit that goes with being fired and being dismissed under a cloud.

Such a case as this has not come to light in a long time. Kelley's temperament appears to have been at the foundation of his troubles, but when he allowed himself to be used for political purposes and produced such a flimsy and false statement of facts which could be easily and quickly disproved he must have anticipated the outcome. That was indicated when he refused to go to Washington at the request of the secretary of the interior and back up his charges.

It is one thing to put forth a lot of wild claims alleging things which are not so for the sake of arousing the political sentiments of the people and quite another thing to have them stand up under the record of facts. Deplorable as was the conduct of Kelley, those who aided and abetted him in it were equally as bad, and particularly so since, as pointed out by the president, the falsity of the charges could easily have been ascertained.

EDUCATING ALTHEA

"The subject of today's talk, young ladies, is the lake poets," announced Prof Sayre. Mentally he was observing, "That little rogue in the back row is up to her tricks again! Wonder how I can effectually squelch her?"

Hitherto on every occasion he had attempted the process, it seemed to rebound upon himself! He was growing wary of his squelching powers! If only he were older, or had a gruff growl, or wore spectacles and a beard; of all things, didn't blush so easily! And if she were only ugly or stupid! Alas! She was pretty as a pink with the morning dew upon it, and though not a brilliant scholar, managed to scrape through exams!

No matter how hard he tried, Prof. Sayre could never keep his eyes from roving in Miss Leslie's direction. Althea Leslie! Even her name was charming. He doubted not she was as conscious of his feelings as if he had proclaimed them from the platform! Could he ever forget the time when, having requested each member of the class to learn a seventeenth-century poem, she rose and demurely recited, "Encouragements to a Lover?" Before she had finished two lines.

"Why so pale and wan, fond lover?"
Prythee, why so pale?"

Every young woman in the room was snickering, and though he had rapped smartly for order, mistrusted that his own face was very far from being wan and pale!

"William Wordsworth, founder of the so-called Lake school," he continued aloud; while to himself (confound that perky little ringlet in the middle of her forehead!), "was born in 1770—" (what is she doing now?) "left an orphan early in life, was sent to school at Hawkshead—" (Ah! I thought so!) Aloud, "Miss Leslie, kindly confine your attention to the lesson! You can draw caricatures of me outside class!"

"But, professor!" exclaimed Miss Leslie, assuming an innocent expression, "It isn't a caricature! It's really an awfully good picture. Would you like to see it?"

The young ladies giggled. Prof. Sayre attempted a look of withering scorn while the corners of his mouth twitched suspiciously. However, without deigning a reply, he returned to the Lake Poets.

"It's a shame, Althea," remarked her chum that evening, "the way you treat Prof. Sayre!"

"I believe you are right," agreed Althea, "and I am positively not going to do so any more."

Althea kept her word; the following weeks she was so attentive to her studies, especially English literature. Sayre was surprised, withal a little alarmed. He hoped he hadn't been too severe with the child—she was three years his junior—and, after all, when she was present lessons were never dull. He chuckled as he recalled the day she had seemed to be hanging upon his every word, then, while he was glancing at his notes, suddenly disappeared! Determined to solve the mystery, he had hurried to the rear of the room to discover Miss Leslie crouched under a chair!

Even at this crisis she was ready for him, declaring that, having dropped her pencil while taking notes, was now merely trying to find it! However, she did look a bit sheepish as she crawled forth.

During the winter months, sliding down the hill behind the campus and dashing across the ice of Paradise pond, was the most popular college sport. Althea was dragging her toboggan along late one afternoon when she met Prof. Sayre.

"Come on, professor!" she cried. "The coasting is grand!" Much to her astonishment, he accepted the invitation.

They had gone down and up many times, when, pausing at the summit of the hill for a breathing spell, the professor remarked: "I wish to compliment you, Miss Leslie, on your record for the last month. I was going over the examination papers last night and found yours most excellent!"

"I decided to reform," Althea explained. "I'm sure you must think it was about time! The way I used to behave was simply shocking!"

"Your improvement is highly gratifying," he returned. "Please understand, Miss Leslie, it is the professor speaking. But for goodness' sake, the professor is now submerged and the man talking—cut out that improvement business! It has taught me a lesson! A Washington Bystander

Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29—In the hurry of writing "leads" on Dwight Morrow's initial speech of the actual senatorial campaign in New Jersey, most of the news accounts the Bystander saw stressed the conclusion that he had "eliminated" himself as a 1932 presidential nomination figure.

That seemed to be the news of the speech as the reporters saw it.

Yet the notion that by his mere assertion that he hoped and expected to vote in 1932 for the renomination and re-election of Mr. Hoover, Mr. Morrow had removed himself as a possible choice of his party that year for the presidency seems rather far fetched.

He had nothing to do with starting that gossip. It required no occult powers of political observation to reach that conclusion if the republicans were to go wet in 1932. No word or action on Mr. Morrow's part beyond his repeal declaration and his primary victory was needed. It was just a political two-plus-two-equals-four.

Not So Obvious

What is not nearly so obvious is what degree of wetness or dryness might be most desirable in the republican presidential nominee of 1932. Plenty of party leaders have ideas on that, both ways. Conditions of 1932, not 1930, will govern, of course.

So Mr. Morrow's "elimination" of himself can be viewed only as a polite gesture. Nobody has ever offered him a nomination to refuse. And that he would be a Hoover supporter if Mr. Hoover wanted another term was a foregone conclusion. Why not? Did not Mr. Hoover desire to put Mr. Morrow at the head of his cabinet as secretary of state not so long ago?

There was much more remarkable stuff in the Morrow speech than his "I-am-not-a-candidate." But it was not news.

It lay in the whole tone of his address, in the guise of sweet reasonableness in which he dressed it, in the attempt to be fair alike to political friend and foe and to avoid the usual political stump speech business of branding every political opponent as a traitor to his country and a menace to civilization.

Refreshing

The Bystander found the Morrow speech very refreshing on that account. And he was pleased later to note that a good many editors of metropolitan journals, both democratic and republican in politics, seemed to feel the same about it.

It will be highly interesting if Morrow gets into the senate, as Washington observers expect him to do, to see if he can keep that same fine sense of tolerance and good will toward everybody when subjected to the heckling cross fire of debate for which the senate is famous.

YOUR HEALTH

Neuritis

By John William Shuman, M. D., Los Angeles.

(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

Neuritis or inflammation of a nerve is pains and tenderness along the course of a nerve. It may be single or multiple. There are no outward manifestations such as redness, heat and swelling so common to other inflammations.

Frequently many aches and pains are called neuritis when they are in reality inflammation of a muscle or a joint. A common and troublesome form of neuritis is inflammation of the sciatic nerve. This nerve travels down the back of the leg from buttock to heel. The pain is excruciating, is worse upon stretching the extended leg forward, and is affected by cold. What is true of sciatica is more or less true of neuritis of other nerves.

In sciatica the first step your family doctor takes in treatment is the search for and the removal of all spots of infection. For example, sinuses, teeth, tonsils, alimentary tract, not overlooking the rectum and organs of reproduction which must be examined. The sacro-iliac joint must be examined for strain and inflammation both of acute and chronic types, especially the back bones for tuberculosis.

Most are familiar with facial neuralgia which accompanies toothache, and are familiar with the relief following proper care of the offender. Just as vivid is the relief of an arm or a leg neuritic pain following removal of the cause.

Neuritis is a huge subject, to wit, the "tic douloureux" (neuritis of the seventh cranial nerve); "migraine" of the half-head type; the "intercostal neuritis" between the ribs which sometimes expresses itself in blisters, called "shingles"; the lancinating night-pains of "locomotor ataxia"; and the constricting girdle-like sensation of the same disease; the referred pain in the knee with tuberculosis of hip-joint; the "angina pectoris" of heart disease with pain extending up into the left neck or down the left arm; pains in the extremities of the hard-artery individual seen in diabetes mellitus, and other diseases—all are painful expressions of sick nerves. There are other types, such as in alcohol and metal poisoning, in severe anemia, not overlooking the psychopaths.

Few folks enjoy pain and most admit discomfort when they feel it. They naturally seek, demand and should have relief.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Robbing the Farmers

Mr. Editor: Have the city people the right to help themselves to the farmer's nuts without asking or paying for them? We are tormented by such city people, who took away five to six bushels of nuts Saturday. It is too bad when city people own property and have money in the bank and are unwilling to pay for the nuts they take. No farmer is obliged to supply them for nothing. Farmers have high taxes to pay and people have no business taking my property.

The stealing of nuts has been going on for three weeks. If I cannot have property without being robbed then I have a right to report men and women who should be ashamed to take the property of a widow and her son.

The best thing is to get the law after them. Last Saturday I could not go to the city because of the many who were ready to raid my property. Last week I ordered six men to leave the nuts alone and get off the property, and after this I plan to call the officials of the town of Preston to deal with them.

MRS. A. PRODELL.
Preston, Oct. 30, 1930.

Highway Accidents and Remedies

Mr. Editor: We read yesterday in The Bulletin the most timely and interesting comment on the terrible loss of life and injury on the highways and something drastic should be done to prevent it. That something is to keep the drunken drivers off the highways. More than three-fourths of the accidents are caused by persons under the influence of liquor. In our opinion, the police should be instructed to arrest all drunken drivers found on the highways, whether in an accident or not, because they are a menace to public safety. Next there should be renewed efforts made to prevent liquor getting into the hands of these drivers and more jail sentences given to those that violate the law. If this were done accidents on the highway would decrease more than one-half within a month. If notice was given through the press by those in authority that this would be done, it would have a most restraining influence. Next let every man and woman who loves their home and the comforts of life and little children who are to be the future citizens of this great nation, go to the polls next Tuesday and vote for the party that will be most likely to bring about better conditions for the people in every way. We are looking forward all the time to the peace, prosperity and happiness of our people. The liquor traffic has never done anything but wreck homes, ruin lives and fill paupers' graves.

Yours truly,
SAFETY FIRST.

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

The Bigelow Sanford Carpet Co., Thompsonville, Conn., and Amsterdam, N. Y.

The lover of beautiful things may wander through the floor covering departments of our large department stores or home furnishing establishments, or perchance casually stop to look at a beautiful store window in which rugs or carpets are displayed, and not have the faintest appreciation that many of the beautiful creations of design and color are the products of New England mills—and furthermore that one of the largest and oldest is in the state of Connecticut.

On the east bank of the Connecticut river, a few miles north of Hartford, is located the Thompsonville plant of the Bigelow-Sanford Carpet company, weavers of carpets and rugs for over a century.

It was in 1825 that Henry S. Burdett started, at Medway, Mass., a small mill devoted to the manufacture of ingrain carpet. For three years this plant continued to produce ingrain carpet on hand looms imported from Scotland. In the year 1828 the mill was purchased by the Lowell Manufacturing company, of Lowell, a newly founded concern organized to manufacture cotton goods and carpeting. In the same year Orrin Thompson was granted a charter to manufacture ingrain carpets at Thompsonville, under the name of the Hartford Manufacturing company.

Ten years later an event occurred which developed into a matter of international importance. A young man 23 years of age, Erastus B. Bigelow, who was born and lived in West Boylston, Mass., has succeeded in producing a loom for weaving coachglace by steam-power at Clinton, Mass. The first application of Mr. Bigelow's invention to a power loom for weaving of ingrain carpets was made at the mills of the Lowell Manufacturing company, at Lowell, in 1843, which was followed by his invention of a power-loom to weave Brussels carpets in Clinton, Mass., and the formation of the firm of H. N. & E. B. Bigelow, in the year 1849, to manufacture Wilton and Brussels carpets.

These events marked the commencement of the era of carpet and rug weaving by power, and revolutionized the industry in this country and Europe.

In the subsequent years all of the carpet mills above mentioned became great weaving establishments, and by 1914 had been consolidated into one company—the Bigelow-Hartford Carpet company.

In November, 1929, the Bigelow-Hartford Carpet company announced the purchase of the famous Stephen Sanford & Sons, Inc., a corporation with mills in Amsterdam, N. Y., that had been engaged in the manufacture of floor coverings since 1838. The merging of these two great firms was particularly advantageous, due to the fact that their products were complementary rather than competitive. It enabled the combined companies, which incorporated under the name of the Bigelow-Sanford Carpet Company, Inc., to offer to the trade a complete line of rugs and carpets containing practically every popular domestic weave. The company is now the largest manufacturer of rugs and carpets in the world. Wilton, Axminster, velvet, and tapestry fabrics are staple products of the company.

The founders of the company manufactured goods of high quality for their day and generation. That reputation has been consistently maintained by their successors, so that the Bigelow-Sanford name today stands out as a pre-eminent standard of quality.

The present officers are: John A. Sweetser, president; Richard G. Knowland, vice president; H. V. Campbell, vice president; E. H. Deknatel, treasurer; J. J. Delaney, secretary.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

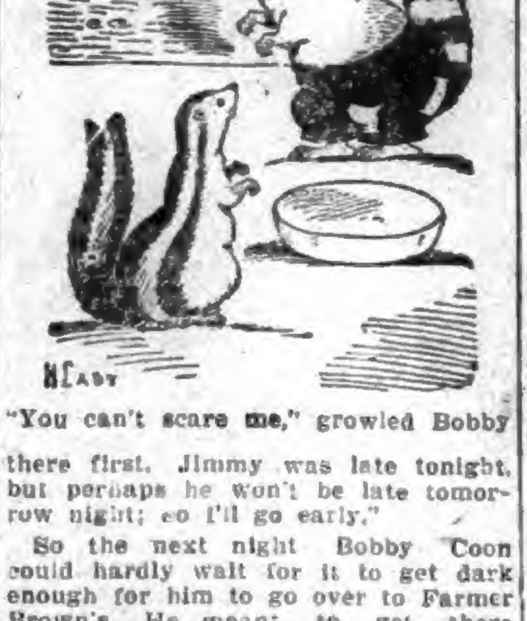
Bobby Refuses to Back Up

Where'er you go it will be found
He gains respect who holds his ground.
—Old Mother Nature.

Bobby Coon felt very well pleased with himself. He had had a fine dinner. To be sure, that dinner had not been intended for him. No, sir, it had not been intended for him. It had been intended for Jimmy Skunk. But this made no difference to Bobby Coon. The law of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows is that he who has shall have. That means that he who gets a thing first has the right to it, if he can hold it. Bobby had found that dinner first, because Jimmy Skunk had happened to be late.

Now, of course, you know where that dinner was. It was in the shed back of Farmer Brown's house; the shed that opened from the kitchen. For some little time Jimmy Skunk had been going over there every night for his dinner. He had entered by way of a hole left open for Black Pussy, the Cat. Bobby Coon had found it out and now Bobby had been in and had one of those dinners.

"I'll be on hand over there tomorrow night early," said Bobby Coon to himself. "I don't want any trouble with Jimmy Skunk. So I'll get over there first. Jimmy was late tonight, but perhaps he won't be late tomorrow night; so I'll go early."



"You can't scare me," growled Bobby

So the next night Bobby Coon could hardly wait for it to get dark enough for him to go over to Farmer Brown's. He meant to get there ahead of Jimmy Skunk, and he did get there ahead of Jimmy Skunk. When he slipped in through the cat hole he discovered that there was nothing to eat there. He was so early that Mother Brown had not yet put out the dishes of food. Bobby didn't know what to do. He thought of going back to the Green Forest and waiting. But somehow he couldn't tear himself away. Finally he climbed up on a pile of wood and waited there in the dark. Presently the door opened from the kitchen and Mother Brown came out with the food. Of course, she didn't see Bobby. As soon as the door closed behind her, Bobby scrambled down and settled himself to enjoy that dinner. He was back to the hole by which he had entered the shed. He had just begun his dinner when he heard a noise just back of him. He turned his head. Jimmy Skunk was coming in through that little round doorway.

Of course, Jimmy Skunk discovered Bobby Coon at once. Jimmy walked around so as to approach the dish from the opposite side He stamped his feet angrily. He lifted his big tail. It was spread out like an umbrella. Under ordinary circumstances, one glance at that big tail would have been sufficient for Bobby Coon. He would have hastened to get out of range of Jimmy's scent gun. But this dinner was his. He had got there first, so it was his. He growled. It was a deep growl; it was a threatening growl. Jimmy Skunk stamped his feet and did a little growling himself.

"That is my dinner!" growled Jimmy.

"How do you get that way!" demanded Bobby. "I got here first and so this dinner is mine."

"You know what will happen, don't you, if you don't get out and get out quickly?" said Jimmy; and his tail was so far over his head that the tip of it tickled Bobby Coon's ears.

"You can't scare me!" growled Bobby. He was scared, but he wouldn't admit it. "You can't scare me! I'm not afraid of you, Jimmy Skunk."

Jimmy Skunk stamped his feet harder than ever and Bobby Coon growled louder than ever. Just then Mother Brown opened the kitchen door.

SPARK FROM FIREPLACE
SET FIRE TO CHAIR

Some damage was caused by fire to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rosoff, of No. 31 Joseph Perkins road late Wednesday evening, when a spark from an open, screened fireplace ignited either an upholstered chair or a rug in the room. The fact that a blaze was in progress was noted by Mr. and Mrs. Rosoff by the appearance of smoke in the upper rooms, as they were upstairs putting the children to bed.

Firemen removed the burning rug to the yard, where six gallons of chemical were used and a quantity of water was also directed upon the blaze in the room. An area of about two square feet in the flooring was charred, a hole was burned in the chair and the rug was also damaged.

Deputy Chief Dennis J. Brennan, with members of Engine No. 3, responded to a telephone alarm at 10:55 o'clock for the blaze.

Moving From Putnam

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Oct. 29.—Officials of the Waterman Worsted company announced tonight that machinery housed in the leased section of the Putnam Woolen company, Pomfret street, is to be removed to mills in Goff's Falls, N. H., where the company today completed negotiations for the purchase of a modern plant. It is expected that apparatus in the local plant will have been removed to the New Hampshire mills by Jan. 1, 1931. The Waterman company, which is one of the oldest mills in the city employs considerably more than 100 hands and has a weekly payroll of more than $2,500.

RED CROSS FIRST AID IN HIGHWAY ACCIDENTS

The American Red Cross first aid service this last year has broken all records in the number of certificates awarded to people completing its course, even including the record of the World war period. In 1917, the Red Cross issued 67,291 certificates, chiefly in training men for ambulance duty in the army and navy. This figure remained at the top until recently, when it was exceeded by a total of 74,437 certificates, which, in turn, represents a gain of more than 41 per cent. over the preceding year.

During the last year, 911 persons were trained in Red Cross first aid in Connecticut. Further impetus has been given to Red Cross first aid in the plan recently developed in co-operation with the Red Cross chapters for emergency treatment of the injured in motor accidents along the highways. The latest available figures show that 31,600 persons were killed in motor accidents in 1929, while at least one million received injuries of varying degrees of seriousness. This total represents an increase of about 3,000 deaths over those reported in the preceding year.

The Red Cross has taken the leadership in dealing with highway accidents. This new service now being worked out does not in any way take the place of the medical aid given by physicians or by hospitals. It covers only the necessary emergency care before the doctor arrives. First aid stations are being established at points where accidents are likely to occur. They are located in wayside stores, community centers, highway police stations and the like. Each station will contain a complete kit of first aid supplies and a telephone directory of doctors, nurses and ambulance services in the vicinity, as approved by the local medical society. Markers displaying the Red Cross symbol will indicate the station. Each station is to be in charge of one or more persons trained in Red Cross first aid methods. The service rendered to the injured are purely volunteer and made without charge.

INJURIES TO THREE IN FORT HILL MOTOR CRASH

Robert Nichols of Mystic received a possible fractured skull and Heinie Cohen of Uncasville and Herbert Paulson of Poquonoc road were cut about the face and body Tuesday night when the Chrysler touring car in which they were riding crashed through a fence, hit a telephone pole and overturned at Fort hill, in the town of Groton, on the Boston Post road.

The automobile was operated by Cohen and he claimed that the accident occurred as a result of the car being forced off the road.

Paulson and Cohen were considerably dazed when they were found by a passing motorist and Nichols was unconscious. They were taken to the office of Dr. E. L. Douglass in Groton where their injuries were treated before they were taken to their homes.

The Cohen car was proceeding toward Mystic and the accident happened about 500 feet from the bottom of the hill. Marks in the roadway indicated that the car skidded for a considerable distance before crashing into the fence. The automobile was completely demolished.

The accident is being investigated by State Troopers Frederick Johnson and Eric Swanson of the Groton barracks.

JORDAN AND UNDERWOOD
TIE FOR TOP SCORE

Alex Jordan and Underwood furnished the sensation Wednesday night in the fourth night of play for the West Side Pinochle club when they made exactly the same count for the evening, 8075, which was the top score for the night. It boosted Jordan from seventh to second place, and Underwood from twelfth to seventh.

The scores Wednesday night were as follows: Lewis 6330, Schuler 6765, Parker 6151, J. Jordan. 6450, Peckham, 7245, McNaught 6820, A. Jordan 8075, Bailey 6080, Pettis 6065, Ellsworth 5990, Boynton 6530, Underwood 8075.

The totals and standing: Lewis 28270, A. Jordan 27530, Schuler 27,425, Peckham, 27150, J. Jordan 26570, Parker 26505, Underwood 26470, McNaught 26330, Bailey 25350, Boynton 25050, Pettis 24785, Ellsworth 24580

ELECT TWO DELEGATES TO STATE CONVENTION

In the absence of the leader, Mrs William H. Geer, the vice-leader, Mrs. Edward Adams conducted the meeting of Comfort Circle of The King's Daughters Wednesday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Henry F. Cole, on 13th street. Mrs. Frelove A. Miller and Mrs. Alvin D. Lewis were chosen delegates to the state convention to be held in New London, Nov. 5-6. Plans were made for a food sale in November. The music during the meeting was by Miss Roberta Cole and Mrs. J. H. Allen. Eight members attended.

Oct. 29—Mrs. Jeremiah Fitzgerald, 34 Hobart avenue; Mrs. Harrison Wilson, 576 North Main street; Mrs. Fred Seibenbourn and infant daughter, 160 Spruce street; Mrs. Stanley Chmielewski, 316 North Main street; Mrs. James Larkham, South Windham; Lucille LaChappelle, Occum.

BACKUS HOSPITAL AUXILIARY
ANNUAL SHOWS BUSY YEAR

A year in which the range of activities had been wide and of great value to the W. W. Backus hospital was shown in the reports presented at the annual meeting of the Women's auxiliary, which was held Wednesday evening at Slater hall annex, and Mrs Archibald Mitchell, Jr., who was re-elected president, declared in accepting the office that the auxiliary was going on to even greater work in the coming 12 months.

Mrs. Mitchell opened the meeting and the reports of the two secretaries, Miss Ruby E. Vaughn, recording secretary, and Mrs. Henry D. Johnson, corresponding secretary, were read and accepted. Miss Vaughn also read the report of the treasurer, Miss Isabel H. Mitchell, which showed a balance of $596.97 at the beginning of the year, with total receipts of $2,030.72 and total expenditures of $2,172.98, leaving a balance of $457.74.

Standing Committees' Report

The work of the year was given in a summarized report of the standing committees, which was read by Miss Vaughn as follows:

Another year has passed in the life of the Women's auxiliary of the Wm. W. Backus hospital, so let us pause tonight to think over the activities of the year and sum up just what has been accomplished.

In order to function, the auxiliary must have members and its service to the hospital is in proportion to its membership. This year, the membership campaign was conducted by mail as an experiment. Mrs. Walter F. Lester, chairman, received 726 memberships in this way, 121 being from the suburbs and enrolled under the leadership of Mrs. Clarence E. Carpenter. While the returns indicated that 726 persons were sufficiently interested in the activities of the hospital auxiliary to send in their dollar, yet it is hoped that in the coming year a very much larger number of citizens of Norwich and surrounding towns will indicate their willingness to assist in this great task.

A real service has been rendered by the women from 26 churches who have met each week, except during July and August, at the Central Baptist church to make surgical dressings. This work has been carried on by the production committee of which Miss Mary Paddock is chairman. The church committee, Mrs. Arthur M. Thompson, chairman, has arranged the year book, assigning two Wednesdays to each of these 26 churches and has notified the chairmen of the hospital committee of each church of their date. 85,497 dressings were made from Oct. 1929 to Oct., 1930, and much enthusiasm displayed, although more helpers would be welcome to assist in this pleasant and easy task.

The motor corps committee has had charge of taking the basket to the church each Wednesday and returning it to the hospital later in the afternoon piled high with ready dressings. In June, at the time of the nurses' graduation, the motor corps was called upon to furnish cars to convey the nurses to the United church for their baccalaureate service and again on the following evening to the Samuel Huntington school for the exercises. It was necessary at this time to ask for outside assistance and most cheerfully the call was answered. The chairman, Mrs. Henrietta Reise, is deeply grateful to all those who helped make the motor corps function so smoothly in all kinds of weather throughout the year.

Besides dressings, the hospital has many uses for old linen and cotton cloth. Mrs. John F. Rogers and her committee have willingly called for all that has been offered.

This organization desires each year to replenish and add equipment and to accomplish this it must rely on the finance committee. Mrs. Rollin U. Jones reports that this year the finance committee repaired and redecorated the two rooms furnished by the auxiliary in 1927; one in maternity and the other in the main hospital, also adding two new chairs in room 2-A top. An Oriental rug given to the nurses' home has been washed and mended and is in perfect condition. In March, "Hospital Week" parties were given again this year and were more successful financially than last year, the proceeds being $1204.50. After consultation with the hospital authorities the following apparatus were purchased: Two sterilizers, at $250 each; two Royal easy chairs, adjustable, for A top, at $50 each; doctors' in and out register, at $15; a Burdick infra-red light at $47, used where it is indicated heat is needed as in cases of rheumatism and neuraligia, and an x-ray table, which cost $500. This is proving very efficient. It is now possible to x-ray and flouroscope patients without transferring them from one equipment to another in serious injury or illness. This is all done by pressing a lever. Since installing this x-ray table the hospital has had four patients with broken backs and you can readily see how wonderful this has been.

It is not only important that patients should be made comfortable, but that they should be contented and their minds occupied. Therefore, the literature committee, Miss Constance Learned, chairman, has collected twice a month the latest numbers of magazines from those willing to pass them on for the patients to enjoy. The picture sections and funny papers have given much pleasure to the children.

It is hard to be ill and away from home, but doubly so on holidays. Through the efforts of Mrs. Roy D. Judd and her committee the patients have been able to celebrate in a quiet way fourteen holidays. On Halloween the trays were gay with black and orange decorations, with black cats for the children and pumpkin moonshines for the adults. Thanksgiving brought baskets of candy and napkins decorated with turkeys. At Christmas, there was candy and gifts for everybody, distributed by Santa Claus. Each ward had a lighted Christmas tree. This year, strings of lights were given by Mrs. Archibald Mitchell, Jr., and Mrs. Harry E. Higgins. Through the generosity of the Hebrew Woman's auxiliary to the hospital lovely favors were given at New Year and the Easter trays were brightened by a generous gift from the Monday Sewing club. On Flag day, tiny silk flags flew gaily from the dinner trays and red, white and blue baskets filled with candy, reminded the patients that it was the glorious Fourth.

To bring added cheer and a bit of the out-of-doors, the flower committee has kept the wards bright with flowers. Christmas week, the hospital was trimmed with holly and greens to give the holiday spirit. At Easter lily plants were placed in each ward and bunny baskets were provided for each child's tray. For the nurses' graduation, the auditorium at the Samuel Huntington school was made attractive with flowers. In behalf of the committee, Mrs. David Sussler thanks those who so kindly supplied them with flowers and gifts during the year.

The nurses' recreation committee plays an important part in the life of the hospital by bringing pleasures which vary the routine of the student nurse. During the year, Mrs. James J. Donahue has arranged theatre parties with refreshments afterwards for different groups. As has been the custom at Christmas, gifts were sent for the tree for each student nurse. At graduation time, boutonnieres were provided for the senior banquet table and during the summer double bath houses were rented at Ocean beach for the convenience of all the nurses.

Month by month, through the courtesy of The Norwich Bulletin, and the Evening Record, the publicity committee, of which Mrs. Alexander H. Abbott is chairman, has kept the public in touch with the work of the auxiliary. The committee gratefully acknowledges the cooperation of the press in always giving such excellent space for their reports.

This concludes a summer of the work of each department and we trust that what has been accomplished this year will encourage even greater public support another year.

Election of Officers

Officers were elected when the report of the nominating committee was presented by Mrs. Walter F. Lester as follows:

President, Mrs. Archibald Mitchell, Jr.; first vice-president, Mrs. James J. Donahue; second vice-president, Mrs. F. Donald Brigham; third vice-president, Mrs. Joseph N. Rosenberg; recording secretary, Miss Ruby E. Vaughn; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Walter T. Camp; treasurer, Miss Isabel H. Mitchell; directors, Mrs. Edmund W. Perkins (three years). Mrs. Frank B. Ricketson (two years).

Relation to the Community

The address of the evening was by James L. Case, who spoke upon the topic, The Hospital and the Community, and was greeted with prolonged applause as he concluded his stirring talk, in which he mentioned that the contribution by the public of $275,000 in the campaign for the nurses' home in 1923 had been indicative of the generosity and sympathetic interest of the public in the welfare of the hospital.

In part, Mr. Case spoke as follows:

Backus hospital was originally given and endowed, and it has always been maintained for the benefit of those who suffer. Its ministry of nearly 40 years of efficient and devoted service is a contribution to our community life, the results of which cannot be measured in words. It has, from its inception, been able to command the interest and support of all good citizens, and though I realize it is a dangerous procedure to mention names at such a time and on such an occasion as this, lest some who have contributed to its success be not named, I cannot refrain from referring to a few of them. William W. Backus and William A. Slater will, of course, always head any list of benefactors who may be mentioned, for their matchless generosity made possible the founding of the hospital. Associated with them were such men and women as Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Hubbard, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver L. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Averill, Mrs. Charles W. Gale, Mrs. Mary R. Osgood, Winslow Williams, John Johnson, Dr. Kinney, Dr. Tingley, Dr. Kimball and Dr. Cassidy, and a host of other friends, still living, but far too numerous to name. Those who supervised its work cannot be forgotten and special mention should be made of the services of Mr. Symington and Miss Love in earlier years, and, particularly because of their devoted and self-sacrificing labors, of Mr. Hutchins and Miss Dowd, in more recent days.

The organization of your auxiliary marked a new era and a new interest by the community in the hospital, for by your plans and programme, and your large and enthusiastic membership, the public has been reached, and never has there been a period when so many people of every class and kind, of all races, nationalities and creeds, have had a part and a place in the general work as they have today. May your influence for good be constantly enlarged and broadened until you have secured the cooperation of every family in Norwich and its surrounding territory.

As a member of the board of corporators, I assume it to be my privilege to say something about what the hospital is doing today and to mention some of its needs in the hope that each one present will, in every way possible, seek to supply them as there is opportunity to do so. I have been interested in reading a copy of the last annual report. For the accomplishments recorded therein, the executive committee and the superintendent and her associates have every reason to be proud. That a city the size of ours is able to command the services of such a list of staff and administrative appointees as the report shows is an accomplishment to be commended. Few of us, I am sure, have ever considered the financial cost of the hospital and the necessity of securing annually nearly $150,000 to provide for operating expenses and maintenance. Let me suggest that you study the treasurer's report, for it shows, as only such a statement can, the scope of the hospital's activities as well as the financial requirements.

The excellent report of Miss Abbott, making the actual hospital treasury detailed story of the work the hospital is doing for those who require its actual services and from it I quote a few of the important items. She says: That there were 2,394 patients cared for during 1929, an increase of 247 over the preceding year; that the daily average number of patients was 79; that the total number serviced in 1929 was 2,394 as against 1,376 in 1920; per capita cost per patient was $5.14 for the year as compared with $5.33 the year before; that the ambulance responded to 336 different calls; that the average patient's stay in the hospital was 12.07 days; that the three free beds cared for 86 different patients during the year; that the total expenses for operating and maintenance in 1929 was $148,533 as against $146,104 in 1928. In 1929 there was $90,155 received from fees and charges, making a net cost to the hospital of $58,378, whereas in 1928 but $83,008 was received from similar sources, increasing demand for a larger service. expenditure that year of $63,606.

The report also shows that the school of nurses reported a year of gratifying activities and graduated a class of 17 in 1930. It is interesting to know that the 2,394 patients came from 86 different cities, towns and communities. The report also calls particular attention [illegible] the work of your auxiliary, and the progress you have made is a record of accomplishments [illegible] the thanks of the hospital board and staff is due.

[illegible] statements are most illuminating and show conclusively the ever-increasing demand for a large service. The constantly increasing need of additional money and equipment is a problem that has to be faced year after year, but as great as such needs are, Backus hospital cannot continue to grow, unless it can hold the interest, support and co-operation of its friends. This money will not buy. You have a rare opportunity to cultivate and develop such a spirit of co-operation. I commend you for what you have done in the past and, at the same time, express the hope that in coming days you may find additional ways and means for performing an even larger service.

TO SECURE REGISTRATION FOR UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF

With the suggestion that one means to help relieve unemployment conditions in a community would be to establish a central registration agency for those who are unemployed and those who can furnish employment, a letter has come to Mayor Lee Roy Robbins and Miss Mary Bundy, secretary of the chamber of commerce, from the New England Council, through James W. Hook and J. F. Tinsley, chairmen, respectively, of the industrial and community development committees. The letter includes registration blanks, which it requests shall be published in newspapers and closes as follows:

"If you have not already established an agency for dealing with unemployment in your community, we suggest the setting up of a local registration center and clearing house for receiving these forms and thus helping to bring men and jobs together.

"The biggest job before New England today is to maintain purchasing power through employment, and all community, as well as business and governmental interests share the responsibility of helping in mobilizing all possible work and insuring its distribution among those needing it most. Although there is some evidence that New England is coming through the depression in better shape than other industrial areas, we are naturally anxious to eliminate the distress of unemployment just as far as possible.

"Will you kindly advise the New England council as soon as your community has arranged for this, or an equivalent method of registering work and those who need it?"

Both Mayor Robbins and Miss Bundy called attention, in their replies, to the fact that there is a state free employment agency in this city and that the newspapers had agreed to publish the blank forms, which are as follows:

LEGION OFFICIAL DENIES ANY TICKET SALE HERE

Officials of Robert O. Fletcher post, American Legion, learned on Wednesday that several men whom they did not know were in the city endeavoring to sell tickets to a dance and claiming that they had the support of the American Legion.

Past Commander P. J. McMahon of Fletcher post stated Wednesday evening that he wished the public to understand that the American Legion is not at present selling tickets for any dance or soliciting for any other purpose.

At the start of the season teams of Howard Jones, now Southern California football coach, had won 118 games, lost 24 and tied 9.

EXPLAINS COOPERATIVE
MARKETING OF EGGS

The cooperative marketing of eggs and poultry as carried on by the Eastern Connecticut Poultry Producers, Inc., was very ably explained by W. S. Service, of Preston, president of the New London County Farm Bureau, to the members of the Norwich Rotary club at the meeting held at the Wauregan hotel on Wednesday noon. Mr. Service, who was introduced by Christopher M. Gallup, said that the poultry industry in Connecticut ranked third in value of farm products. Dairying is first with tobacco ranking second.

Mr. Service told of the endeavor of the poultrymen to secure a standardization of eggs in 1915 through legislation. This was accomplished and the law passed that all egg containers should be marked so that the consumer would know just what kind of eggs he was buying, whether they were cold storage, incubated or processed. There was little opposition to this for as soon as the package was gone the eggs lost their identity and substitutions could be made as before.

In 1915, through the efforts of the poultrymen, a law was placed on the statute books that required each individual egg to be marked with indeliable ink, cold storage, incubated or processed. With the starting of the World war the president of the United States requested the states to hold up the enforcement of any law that might slow up the production of food products. Evidently this law was considered in that category as no attempt was made to enforce it.

Soon after the close of the World war in 1922 the dairy and feed commissioner notified the cold storage interests that it was his intention to enforce the law. In June of that year they were able to secure a temporary injunction restraining the dairy and food commissioner from enforcing the law and when the general assembly convened in January 1923, that law, which would have benefited both the producer and consumer, was repealed without ever receiving a trial.

In July of that year a group of 35 poultrymen with approximately 50,000 birds, intent on securing the identity of their product, organized the Eastern Connecticut Poultry Producers, Inc., and since that time hundreds of thousands of dozens of eggs have been graded, stamped and sold in cartons under their brand (New England Maid).

What they were not able to secure by legislation has been able to secure by cooperative effort. The leaders of that movement, feeling that their volume was inadequate for the over-head expense, secured a then existing cooperative, the Providence Farmers Exchange, to market their product, the organization to supply a man to candle, grade and pack in their cartons. The association sales for the balance of that year averaged 23,000 dozens per month. This arrangement proved unsatisfactory and on Oct. 16, 1926, they severed their connections with the Providence Farmers Exchange, which went into bankruptcy the following week with a substantial loss to the Poultry Producers association. The next two years were difficult for the association, although substantial progress was made.

During the past two years it has shown a steady growth so that today they have a membership of 83 which represents approximately 105,000 birds. Their sales in 1929 were 15,443 cases or 463,290 dozens with a net return of $191,400.50. The association has paid back to the producers the loss sustained from its earlier connection. It has a substantial reserve in its treasury and will be able to declare a stock of patronage dividend to its producers during the coming year. When we stop to consider that we are importing into Connecticut every year over five million dozens of eggs more than we are producing and the increase during 1929 is four per cent over the past five years, you will readily see there is room for expansion. The problem on many of our small farms is too small a gross income. The solution is the more intensive branches of poultry and market gardening provided they are organized to assemble, grade and market their products in volume cooperatively to supply the existing method of retail distribution.

At the business session President Harold D. Larrabee presided and L. Goffe Briggs and C. A. Gager were the song leaders. Only routine business was transacted.

TEN SPEAKERS AT MONTVILLE DEMOCRATIC RALLY

(Special to The Bulletin)

MONTVILLE, Oct. 29—A democratic rally, which was held in the Community house at Uncasville tonight, attracted a large crowd of voters who listened to ten speakers, the principal speaker being William C. Fox of New London, party candidate for congressman from this district. The first speaker of the evening was Charles E. Ramage, candidate for representative from Montville to the general assembly, who was introduced by Louis J. LaBounty, Jr., chairman of the town committee, who turned the meeting over to Mr. Ramage and he introduced the following speakers: William J. Fitzgerald of Norwich, candidate for state senator; Alton T. Miner of New London, candidate for secretary of state; Arthur Lillibridge of Norwich, candidate for county sheriff; William C. Fox, Joseph Pysyk of Norwich, who addressed the Polish voters in their own language; Joseph Wellington, Baltic candidate for senator in the 20th district; Mrs. Elizabeth M. Drew, Norwich, of state central committee; Meyer Blumenthal, a Norwich constable, and John F. Hennon, of Jewett City, central committeeman.

THE BIRTHPLACE OF DANIEL WEBSTER

One of the most scintillating orators America has ever known was Daniel Webster. He was born in Salisbury, N. H., in the comely cottage shown above. The incident that marks Webster as a great orator was his famous debate with Hayne of South Carolina. No matter what your means and circumstances, we can offer a complete and perfectly appointed service; dignified and beautiful.

Mrs. Harold H. Critchlow was in Springfield over the week end in attendance at the general executive meeting of the Foreign Missionary society, also the general executive committee meeting of the New England southern conference in session Saturday.

Mrs. Joab B. Rogers entertained her niece, Mrs. J. Wilbur Norton, with Mr. Norton and their daughter, Nancy Lee, of Hartford, for a few days at the week end.

Alter Zucker of Hartford was a recent overnight guest of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Parker.

There was a large attendance at the Halloween social held Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Parker and given under the auspices of the social department of the Epworth league, Miss Gertrude D. Allen, vice president. Flags and electric lights were used effectively as decorations on the veranda where games were played. Courtland E. Colver was master of ceremonies. The stunts and games were in charge of Miss Helen Colver, Miss Matilda Harold, Miss Margaret Parker and Amos Main and included apple bobbing, a marshmallow race, peanut hunt and post office. Mrs. Charles F. Bartlett was the fortune teller and Mrs. Courtland E. Colver reader. Misses Christine Miller and Ruth Allyn won prizes in the peanut hunt and the best costume awards went to Mr. and Mrs. Morton E. Crawford, Miss June Crawford, Virginia Collins, Richards Lawson, Mrs. J. A. French and Misses Gertrude Allen, Matilda Harold and Susan French. Mrs. Parker, Mrs. J. Edmund Norman and Mrs. John Harold were in charge of the decorations and with Mrs. Rufus W. Hurlbutt and Mrs. Colver served rolls and frankfurters, doughnuts, cheese and coffee. Other committees in charge included Mr. Parker, general chairman; Miss Harold, posters; Horace A. Newbury, electric lights; Rev. Harold H. Critchlow and Harold Hurlbutt, flags; Ray Clark, cashier.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Avery, who have been visiting Mr. Avery's aunt, Mrs. Charles H. Comstock for a few days, returned to Boston Sunday.

Dr. William H. Bayles, with his son, Harold, and a friend from Brooklyn, N. Y., passed the week end at their summer cottage.

Soren Sorensen, of Copenhagen, Denmark, who arrived here Sunday for a visit to his mother, Mrs. Marie Sorensen and his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew P. Miller, was met in New York on his arrival by Mr. Miller.

Entertained Club

Mrs. Joseph H. Davidson, of the Stoddard district, was hostess at a meeting the past week of the Roller club. Her guests included Mrs. Charles Babcock of Unionville district, Mrs. James Abbott from the Lester district, Miss Mabel Smith of Gales Ferry and Mrs. Avery Main and Miss Mary E. Newman of Allyn's Point.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Parker and daughter, Miss Margaret H. Parker, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hall in West Haven for the week end and attended the Yale-Army game Saturday.

Mrs. Ira B. Hurlbutt and Mrs. Fannie G. Stoddard, local teachers, accompanied by Mrs. C. Alton Chapman of the Lester district, were in New London Friday for the State Teachers' convention. Mrs. Stoddard had charge of the nature study section at Bulkeley high school.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver C. Morse of Melrose, Mass., were callers in the village Friday afternoon en route to New Haven to attend the Yale-Army game Saturday.

The Greatest Thing Is Love was the theme of the Sunday morning sermon at the M. E. church by Rev. Harold H. Critchlow. The offertory solo, "A Prayer, was sung by Miss Grace A. Chapman.

The Epworth league evening meeting was led by Dudley C. Perkins. Conscience was the topic for this service and this was also considered by the pastor for the closing service. Junior girls sang The Old Rugged Cross at the offertory.

An all-day meeting of the Ladies' Aid society was announced for Friday at the vestry.

Miss Margaret H. Parker entertained a schoolmate, Miss Viola Desrosiere of Waterford, Friday, also Miss Anna Mae Duffy and Robert Duffy of Fort Point for the day and overnight.

CAVANAUGH GENEROUS IN PRAISE OF UNSUNG HEROES OF THE LINE

By Edward J. Neil
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 29—(AP)—The unsung heroes of the line, carving out paths for flashy backs who reap the glory, taking the batterings, missing the headlines—those are the boys to delight the heart of be-spectacled Frank Cavanaugh, football's "Iron Major" and head coach at Fordham university.

Defense is Cavanaugh's forte. He has builded a massive eleven at Fordham that has piled up fourteen straight victories and has yet to be scored on this fall. His teams boast forward walls of human concrete buttressed with steel. They are the front line trenches, throwbacks to the sharpnel-doused ditches he commanded during the war years in France.

So it isn't any wonder that he feels sports writers fail to give adequate attention to the linemen who make it possible for the backs to run and then desperately hold the fort when the other fellows bid to wipe out the advantage. He suspects, though, that the reading public probably isn't interested in the niceties of line play and probably wouldn't know what you were talking about unless you stuck rather close to the sensational runs and spectacular passes, backs capitalizing opportunities given them by the perspiring linemen.

"Way back," he says, "when football was starting and there was only Harvard, Yale, Princeton and Pennsylvania, line play was based on the standing defense. Linemen stood erect or crouched, used their hands to keep the enemy off, and chased the play as soon as it developed. Knute Rockne once wrote that a standing defense was the best. I think he hoped he'd get a chance to play against them.

"Then along came pivot plays, spinners, cutbacks and ruined that style of defense. A man who left his post to chase some back found another back tearing through the spot he'd left. Out of that came the charging defense, linemen hammering in to smash formations before they get started, backs coming up into the line to clear up what was left.

"The greatest standup guard, the greatest lineup I ever saw was "Cupid" Spears, now head coach at Oregon. He weighed 250 pounds when I coached him at Dartmouth and he was stout, so he could not bend down in the line, straightening up on each play, lifting that weight would have worn him out. But he was agile, fast and never made a mistake in diagnosing a play."

The good big man is always better than the good little man in the line, all other things being equal, Cavanaugh believes. And he likes to balance little fellows like Capt. Tony Siano, his great center, with players like big Frank Foley, a massive tackle. Intelligence and speed are the main requisites of a good lineman and he likes to get them young. Nineteen years old if possible.

Cavanaugh thinks Knute Rockne's teams are most likely to demoralize a good defense because of the perfect cohesion of the Notre Dame offense. Knute will take the same play you are using and gain eight yards with it after you have gained two.

"Then," says the "Iron Major," "the morale of the boys goes to pieces. They can't help saying to themselves 'wow, we're in for a licking.'"

PICTURES SHOW ARMY BOYS DID NOT ROUGH BOOTH

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 29—(AP)—Motion pictures of the Yale-Army game, shown here today, have just about put an end to the arguments as to what happened to Albie Booth. They also have served as a photographic rebuttal of the argument of some of Yale's supporters that other pictures had shown that Army's touchdown was scored illegally.

On the play where Booth was injured, the pictures show Albie Booth coming in to intercept a pass intended for Jack Malloy and eluding the Army end. He made about seven steps toward the goal in a wide curve before Wen Bowman tackled him. Booth partly freed himself from Bowman's grip but the Army quarter still was clutching at an ankle when Dick King came in to make a clean tackle and toss Booth back. Jack Price Army tackle, making a flying leap into the play, struck King's back as they fell and dropped to the ground alongside Booth.

The pictures show that Booth's head struck the ground hard enough to bounce visibly and apparently it was this jolt that forced him to lose his grip on the ball. The pile-up about which fans have complained, came in the attempt to recover the fumble and Booth was not in the mass.

The Army photographs show clearly that an unidentified Yale player, wearing number 24, reached the ball first with the rest of the mass of players landing on top of him. Booth was lying some two or three feet to one side of the group with King on top of him.

On the disputed Army scoring play, the pictures show that Kilday hit the massed lines and came to a halt well across the jam although the exact relation to the goal line is not shown. Stecker, coming up fast, rammed into the mass and Kilday rolled off to one side a little behind where he had first come to a halt.

LOCAL BOYS TRAINING AT SOUTH MANCHESTER

Freddie Besade and Stanley Busch, two local boys are working out at the South Manchester Sporting club in training for future bouts. Besade weighs 160 while Busch tips the beam at 185 pounds. They work out two nights a week at Manchester and two nights at Hickey's gym in this city, there being plenty of heavy boys in Manchester to work with such as Frankie Busch, K. O. Smith, Frankie O'Brien and others while in Norwich there are only the lighter boys. Freddie Besade who has been boxing in the amateur ranks for several years will turn pro next month and has bouts scheduled in Hartford. Frankie Busch who underwent an operation for appendicitis early in the summer is fully recovered and is doing light training.

GEBER AND DEVLIN BATTLE AT NEW LONDON FRIDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 29—Tomorrow night at the Thames Arena here, Hughie Devlin, local pride, and Sammy Gelber, New York Hebrew, will clash in a ten-round star bout on Matchmaker Al Weill's regular professional boxing program which includes four other bouts that are of more than average interest to fight fans.

Perfect functioning of the modern, oil-burning heating system, precludes any possibility of postponement as was the case for the amateur show scheduled for last week, and the opening bout gets underway at 8:30.

Gelber, the Jewish boy, has two close wins over Devlin and intends to show local fight fans that they were earned, but that Irisher, Devlin, has plans of his own for the outcome of the fight and they do not in the least favor the New Yorker.

Devlin recently served notice on all featherweights that he is not to be trifled with by virtue of his win over Matty Cortez, Lynn, in a ten-rounder while Gelber has been attracting favorable attention in the Metropolitan press as a result of his win over Sindolfo Diaz and a more important draw with "Irish" Jimmy Slavin. He has defeated many good boys up this way including Al Gillette, Al Beauregard, Pete Lucci, and others.

In a six-round semi-final, Johnny D'Zuro, hard-hitting Coast Guardsman, tangles with Al Paladino, equally hard-hitting New Yorker, in a fight that gives every promise of developing into a knock-down and drag-out affair. They weigh about 146.

Sid Taylor, another Coast Guard favorite boxer, clashes with Jack "Red" Knight, of New Haven, in a second six-rounder at 140. Taylor beat Johnny Mack here on the last professional card but should have his hands full with the red-headed fighting Irishman from the Elm City who packs a mean wallop in his right mitt.

Al Rodman, of Goodyear, he didn't say which one, is billed to trade blows with Young Rochette, of Westerly, R. I., in still another six-rounder at 120. Both fighters have compiled fairly respectable ring records while in the pro ranks and are said to be pretty stiff punchers for light boys. It looks like a good battle.

The opening four-rounder involving Joe Oliver, New Haven, and Larry McMannus, of West Warwick, R. I., will put the fans in a good frame of mind or we miss our guess. Oliver, at least, is one of the busiest young boxers in the ring today. He goes in there at the bell and keeps whaling away with both hands until he either scores a kayo or drops from exhaustion. According to the dope, McMannus is no slouch so, on with the fight.

KANSAS FINDS BAUSCH'S ATHLETIC STANDING O. K.

LAWRENCE, Kas., Oct. 29—(AP)—The University of Kansas replied to Big Six conference charges of subsidization and recruiting of athletes, today by declaring all its football squad eligible, including James A. (Jarring Jim) Bausch, whose amateur status has been specifically questioned because of his $75 a month job as insurance salesman.

In a statement following a 2½ hour session, the university athletic board said:

"With the evidence as collected and presented today, this board feels that it is not justified in declaring any member of the present football squad ineligible."

Twenty-eight varsity players including Bausch, were named to compete in the Pennsylvania game Saturday in Philadelphia. The squad entrained tonight. Arrival in Philadelphia is scheduled for early afternoon Friday, in time for the Jayhawkers to practice on Franklin field.

The board made no reference to the charges which formed the grounds on which the conference faculty council voted last week-end to schedule no more contests with Kansas after the expiration of present contracts, which would be at the close of the coming basketball season.

The faculty council did not declare Bausch ineligible. Rather it left to Kansas the responsibility for determining whether he should continue to play.

Kansas has contended Bausch's amateur status is unquestioned, as shown by several university investigations. Today's statement bears out previous declarations.

The Kansas board considered a 15-page typed report of an investigation made for the board by Walter Thiele, Lawrence attorney, since the ostracism of the university. Part of the inquiry was personal questioning of varsity football players by Thiele.

Dean George C. Shaad, faculty council member from Kansas who was present at the meeting at which Kansas was banned, issued a statement after today's session, in which he stated the board approved Thiele's investigation and "authorizes the continuance of the services of Mr. Thiele at the discretion of the chairman of the board." The chairman is Chancellor E. H. Lindley.

Action of the board indicates Kansas will go on its own, without any conference affiliation, after the expiration of existing contracts.

OVER 250 HARRIERS IN ANNUAL CROSS COUNTRY RUN

NEW YORK, Oct. 29—(AP)—Twenty-two colleges including one middle western institution, have entered a total of 265 athletes for the twenty-second annual varsity cross country championship to be run at Van Cortlandt park here Nov. 17, it was announced today.

The mid-west will be represented by two runners from Michigan State—Clark Chamberlain, who finished fourth last year, and Donald Conrad.

The baby-faced Chamberlain is conceded an excellent chance to take the individual title away from the east for the first time in history as the three men who finished ahead of him have wound up their college cross country careers. Francis Lindsay and Harry Richardson, the University of Maine boys who finished in a dead heat for the title last November, have graduated and so has Lauren Brown, Chamberlain's former team-mate at Michigan State who came in third.

Although the Michigan institution is confining its efforts to a bid for the individual crown, the University of Pennsylvania, present holder of the team title, will have plenty of competition. Williams is the only institution entered last season that is not on this year's list.

The colleges which signified their intention of competing in the six-mile varsity chase were: Bates, Carnegie Tech, City College of New York, Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, Fordham, Harvard, Layfayette, Maine, Manhattan, Massachusetts Tech, Michigan State, New York university, Penn State, Pennsylvania, Pittsburgh, Princeton, Rutgers, Syracuse, Union and Yale.

Among the leading eastern contenders for individual honors are Carl Coan, Roland Ritchie, Bill McKniff and John Kerr, stars of Pennsylvania's title-holding team, all of whom are entered. Penn is expected to be considerably more formidable than when it lost to Wisconsin several days ago.

Joe McClusky of Fordham, who won the freshman event in spectacular style last year, also is expected to be up among the leaders.

Several teams stand a good chance for the team title in addition to Pennsylvania. Syracuse, Cornell and Harvard are among those that have done well in preliminary meets so far this season.

For the three-mile freshman event, Carnegie, C. C. N. Y., Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, Fordham, Lafayette, Maine, Manhattan, M. I. T., N. Y. U., Penn State, Penn, Pitt, Princeton, Syracuse, Union and Yale are entered.

Two more colleges have entered the freshman race this year than last, the newcomers being C. C. N. Y. and Lafayette, but the number of individuals entered—195—is identical.

SLATE WINS RICH $10,000 OGLE STEEPLECHASE

NEW YORK, Oct. 29—(AP)—Frankie Slate achieved his share of riding glory, booting winners home on the flat but he was not satisfied. So today he went after added honors mounted on Joseph E. Widener's Jumper, Arc Light, and reached his aim when he piloted the veteran fencer to victory in the $10,000 added Governor Ogle steeplechase at Laurel.

Until today Slate has been riding racers on the flat for Mrs. K. E. Hitt but his exhibition of reinmanship aboard Arc Light was worthy of the best of the steeplechase jockeys. Under the steady hand of the novice pilot, the six-year old Widener gelding gave a perfect performance in running the two and one-half miles and taking the 16 fences in the good time of 4:41 2-5.

Trailing Arc Light past the judges stand were seven of the best jumpers in training, including Tommy Hitchcock's Actor, which placed second and the Sanford Stud Farm's Tourist II, which took down third money. Despite his heavy package of 154 pounds and the services of an inexperienced steeplechase rider, Arc Light was the 2 to 1 favorite while the triumph was worth $9,040 to his Philadelphia owner.

Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Sun Beau, generally rated as the leading handicap horse of the year, received his tightener for the Washington handicap to be decided on the Laurel track Saturday, but was forced to take second. The race, a mile and one-sixteenth gallop known as the Cambridge handicap, went to W. R. Coe's Vanity, which had a 16-pound pull in weights. Jim Dandy, conqueror of Gallant Fox in the Travers, ran third to be in the money for the first time since his sensational defeat of the three-year old champion in August at Saratoga.

Eugene James was up to his old tricks at Latonia, riding three winners and one third. He was mounted on Percentage in the opener, Johnson N. Camden's Leros in the fifth and Town Limit in the sixth. His third was astride Jeff O'Neil in the closing event.

DARTMOUTH HAS LONG DUMMY SCRIMMAGE DRILL

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 29—(AP)—The Dartmouth football squad worked until darkness today and refused to permit a heavy fog and cold drizzle to interrupt its preparations for Saturday's major game with Yale at the bowl. Head Coach Jackson Cannell put his first and second varsity elevens through a long dummy scrimmage, the regulars on defense against Yale formations.

Arnie Frigard again played a varsity halfback position and indications were that Ward Donner, who started against Columbia and Harvard, would be held in reserve on Saturday. The others in the first string backfield were Morton, quarterback; Shep Wolff, Frigard's running mate, and fullback, Ed Sutton. It is likely that Cannell will have this combination in action for the opening kickoff.

Stan Yudicky, veteran end injured in the Harvard clash, did not work. His wing was cared for by Forest Branch and Charlie Sullivan was the other varsity end. The latter appears to have the call over Hal Mackey, although it is certain that this capable forward pass receiver will go into action as soon as the Green opens its aerial attack in the bowl. The rest of the varsity lineup included Captain Hal Andres at center, Gay Bromberg and Bill Hoff man guards, and Paul Crehen and Hank Barber, tackles.

HARVARD REGULARS TO REST OVER WEEK END

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 29—(AP)—Most of the Harvard regulars will be rested this week end, it was indicated today, a second string Crimson team will open Saturday against William and Mary, in a game that will serve as a warm-up for the Michigan Wolverines.

Eddie Mays was the only regular to see action in today's practice, which was interrupted by the rain. Head Coach Horween put his makeshift varsity through a long signal drill and then had the linemen work out on the tackling and blocking machines.

Mays held down his left halfback berth during the afternoon and Jack Crickard who must be considered a first stringer, now that Charlie Devens is out for the remainder of the season, was at right half. Art Huguely played in Barry Wood's quarterback position and Jack Scherescbewsky was at fullback. This combination will probably open against the southerners.

The varsity line from end to end, was made up of substitutes. Baldwin and Hagerman played the wings, Crawford and Koehn were in as tackles, Talbot and Pancroft as guards, and Gildea replaced Captain Ben Ticknor at center.

CAPTAIN OF MICHIGAN HAS NEVER SCORED A POINT

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 29—(AP)—James O. H. Simrall, captain of the University of Michigan football team, has never felt the thrill of hugging a ball back of an opposing college goal line.

Leader of a team in the thick of the fight for the Big Ten title, "Simmie" has never scored a point himself.

Now only the Harvard, Minnesota and Chicago games stand between the Wolverines' blond-haired leader and the end of his college football career.

Norwichtown End Recovering

Norwichtown's flashy end John Butch Beanies is recovering from head and leg injuries received in the game with the Ice House Gang and it is probable that he will start at right end for the Wildcats. There are still a few more injured players out of the game but they are all expected to be in the game on Sunday. The Norwichtown team wishes to challenge the Laurel Hill Athletics, The Black Hawks, and Fells' All Stars. If these teams accept challenge answer through this paper. Coach McGuire states that with Beanies in the game he expects to win every game.

Eastern Football Briefs

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 29—(AP)—For the first time in years a Carnegie team has scrimmaged twice in the middle of a week before a big game. The Tartans went through a stiff scrimmage today, their second in preparations for N. Y. U.

ITHACA, N. Y.—Cornell's preparations for the Columbia game today consisted of only a light workout, most of it on signals. Lester Handleman, first string back was in uniform, despite reports that he had been ousted from the squad. He merely had been on the second team for a while in one of Coach Dobie's many shifts.

NEW YORK—Rainy weather and early darkness cut down Columbia's practice today to two hours. Half of it was devoted to a slow dummy scrimmage and the other half to signal practice. Automobile lights were thrown on the field to enable the Lions to finish the session.

ANNAPOLIS, Md.—Navy had its first wet weather practice of the season, going through a light dummy scrimmage in the mud. Bill Ingram's charges all are in good shape for the West Virginia Wesleyan game.

PITTSBURGH—Pitt started west today to meet Nebraska after going through a long final practice. Coach Jock Sutherland indicated that Clark and Reider would replace Hood and Williams in the starting backfield against Nebraska.

WEST POINT, N. Y.—Coach Sasse continued to work on the Army attack as the cadets prepared today to meet North Dakota. The players had a long test of their plays on the scrimmage machine. MacWilliam played quarterback with Sebastian, Glattly and Stecker completing the backfield.

PRINCETON, N. J.—A half hour of defensive scrimmage made up the drill for Princeton's line today and the scrubs were unable to make headway through the forward wall. Jack James reported for his first practice since the navy game as the backs went through a signal drill.

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—Vic Hanson, who found his Syracuse team too slow against St. Lawrence, sent the Orange through a speed drill today in preparation for the Brown game. Most of the time was devoted to signal drill.

NEW YORK,—Jim Murphy, star Fordham back who was injured playing against New York University, returned to practice today, taking part in short signal and passing drills. Coach Cavanaugh still is undecided whether to use Murphy against West Virginia.

McCOMBE LOST TO AGGIES FOR SEASON

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Oct. 29—Pinky McCombe of Hartford who has been a star halfback on the Connecticut Aggie football team and pitcher on the baseball team has been advised by physicians to spend the next six weeks taking a rest in hopes that the knee which has troubled him since a year ago last spring and which put him out of football last week will have an opportunity to gain in strength.

McCombe twisted his knee while warming up for baseball practice in the spring of 1929. He was on the mound practicing pitching when Coach Dole told him he thought he had warmed up enough. McCombe decided to pitch one more ball and then come in to the bench. It was when he was winding up for this last throw that he twisted his knee and damaged the cartilege so that he was kept out of baseball the remainder of the season and did not play football at all last year. Last winter he underwent an operation which improved his condition but the fact that he had not completely recovered from his injury was revealed when his knee was thrown out of joint during the football game with Trinity on October 18. He is eligible to play basketball this winter but probably will not do so.

Today's practice session of the football squad consisted of a short forward passing drill, a long signal drill and a light scrimmage between the freshman and the varsity teams.

"Casey" Stangle of Hartford and guard on the 1929 eleven assisted Coach Dole in checking on the assignments of every man in the line in every play.

The team is pointing for its game with the United States Coast Guard Academy at New London on Saturday. warmedCoach..fl e'7wA now

YALE SQUAD HOLDS PRACTICE IN GYM

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 29—(AP)—A cold rain today drove Yale's football team indoors for its two hour practice in preparation for Dartmouth.

In the Cox memorial field gymnasium, Albie Booth ran the first team with Parker Dunn and Crowley in the backfield through a long signal drill. It seems quite certain now that Parker will keep his place with the first team backs.

Charlie Heim, who has been incapacitated with injuries received in practice, called signals on the second team backfield which had Sullivan, Taylor and Muhlfield in it.

Yale will be without its two regular ends next Saturday. Barnes, it developed today has an infected leg and cannot play. Lindenberg has been out since the Georgia game with a wrenched ankle. Johnny Sargent will replace Barnes at right end and Hans Flygare will fill Lindenberg's post as he has against Brown and Army.

"THE PEN" 50 TO 1 SHOT, WINS CAMBRIDGESHIRE STAKE

NEWMARKET, Eng., Oct. 29—(AP)—Mrs. Martin Hartigan's colt, The Pen, won the famous Cambridgeshire stakes today, starting at odds of 50 to 1. Racedale at 100 to 9, was second and the Recorder at 7 to 2, was third. The Pen won by a head while Racedale was half a length in front of the Recorder at the finish.

The Pen, a colt by Cygnus out of Kilbrona, cost his owner only $1,050. He ran almost in the middle of the field of 31 starters until the brushes were reached, where Anthurium and the Recorder were up in front. The Pen ridden by Jockey Clifford Richards, overtook the leaders while Racedale surged into second place. The Pen was good enough to keep his head in front at the wire but Racedale finished with a strong challenge. Slipper, French contender, was a close fourth, with Finsovino, fifth, Noble Star, sixth, and Cat O'Nine Tails, second favorite at eight to one, seventh. Gaylord was last.

STRIBLING'S PLANS FOR WINTER ARE UNSETTLED

BOSTON, Oct. 29—(AP)—The fistic plans of W. L. "Young" Stribling, Atlanta heavyweight, today are in an extremely unsettled state, according to "Pa" Stribling, his parent-manager.

The elder Stribling said he and his battling son were "just flooded" with attractive offers but would not come to terms with any promoter until they had investigated every one of them. The most recent attempt to obtain Stribling's services came this afternoon when Nate Lewis, Chicago promoter, promised Stribling a generous guarantee to battle Jack Sharkey. "Pa" said Lewis was eager to guarantee Sharkey $60,000 for such a bout.

Another offer, according to Stribling, senior, was made by Jeff Dixon, European boxing maestro, who has ambitions to show Stribling against Primo Carnera or Paulino in Spain sometime this winter.

"Pa" Stribling said he has not accepted any Miami engagements for the winter, though he has been negotiating with G. R. K. Carter of Miami Beach, who has announced his willingness to stage three bouts, one a month during January, February and March, with Stribling opposing Tuffy Griffiths, Jimmy Maloney, who ended Carnera's winning streak here several weeks ago, and the veteran Tom Heeney. Stribling said he knew nothing of the plans of Frank J. Bruen, former general-manager of the Madison Square Garden, who is reported to be on the verge of entering the Miami boxing promotion field.

Stribling, here to engage K. O. Christner at Eddie Mack's Argonne A. A. club on Friday, spent most of the day training for the former Akron, Ohio tire-worker. Mack announced that his Stribling-Christner bout would be supported by an eight round clash between Arthur Dekuh and Big Bill Hartwell and a similar contest involving Rosy Rorales, Cleveland light heavyweight, with Jake Warren of New York.

CAN.-AM. HOCKEY LOOP WILL OPEN ON NOV. 9

BOSTON, Occt. 29—(AP)—The five-club Canadian-American Hockey league, a professional circuit, will open its season on Nov. 9, with the Boston Tigers playing at New Haven. Each of the clubs in the league, which also includes Providence, home of last season's champions Philadelphia and Springfield, will play 40 games, half of them at home.

The Boston club will open its home season on Nov. 16 by playing the Philadelphia Arrows and that same night New Haven will play at Springfield. The Providence Reds will start the season on Nov. 16 at New Haven.

MISS MULLER TO PILOT Y GIRLS BASKETBALL

Miss Ruth Muller has been elected manager of the Y Girls basketball team and is now busy booking games for the season.

Two contests have already been arranged, one with Rockville high in December and the other with a Bridgeport sextet. Ten home games will be played in all, with most of them as preliminaries on Saturday evenings to the Y Seniors' state league games.

Mrs. Randolph Whaples, who was a star at Conn. Aggies, is assisting Mrs. Streeter with the coaching.

HIGH SCHOOL SPORTS

An appetising dish is laid before the Eastern Connecticut high school grid fans this weekend. There is only one conference game scheduled but the fans will get plenty of action from outside opponents. Probably the outstanding attraction of the lot is the Bulkeley-Hillhouse game at Mercer field Friday afternoon, bringing one of the leading teams of the state to the section. It will be a test for Bulkeley.

The lone conference engagement brings together the Academy and Windham at Willimantic Saturday. Each team has had a dull season and the affair looks like a toss-up. Chapman Tech tackles Fitch at Morgan park Saturday afternoon in an interesting contest. Fitch beat the Academy and the Academy beat Tech, which would seem to make it probable that the little Groton school is going to get another Class A. conference scalp but you never can tell. Tech showed improvement in holding Stonington to a tie last Saturday. Killingly high of Danielson will meet East Douglas, Mass., at Danielson Saturday.

Both of the southeastern rivals go east for opposition this week and each will play Friday. Westerly lays off conference battling for a spell to entertain Colt Memorial high of Bristol, R. I., while Stonington takes a skip over to East Greenwich also in Rhody, to meet the high of that community. Putnam meets an old rival, Bartlett high of Westerl, Saturday.

Leading games around the state are as follows: Friday—Weaver at Commercial, Wilby at West Haven, West Hartford at Manchester. Saturday—Hartford Bulkeley at New Britain, Ansonia at Torrington, Crosby at Bridgeport Central, Meriden at Bristol, Lewis at Naugatuck, Bushwick (Brooklyn) at Harding.

Saturday at Soldier field, Cambridge, Jack Marks and Buck LaCroix, Academy athletes of a year or so ago, will battle Harvard for dear old William and Mary. This will be the first time in at least six years that a former Wildcat has appeared in this section against or with one of the major elevens. The last occasion was when Gus Mullen and Court Whitney played on Middlebury against Harvard.

The Academy will not dabble in indoor track this year according to an announcement by Matthew J. Sheridan, the cross-country and track mentor. Last year's venture, while interesting, was not a success and with basketball expected to have a great run at the school during the winter, it is thought that local fans would have little use for track. Another thing which weighs against track at the local school is that there are no opponents within 50 miles. Suffield prep is about the closest school to the Academy that does anything with the sport.

That conference cross-country run, which will be held at the Academy this year, Thursday, Nov. 20, promises to be not only the best in this line that the conference has ever staged, but also one of the prize scholastic competitions in Eastern Connecticut in years. The Academy, Westerly, Chapman Tech, Bulkeley and Bacon academy, in particular, are coming to this event with real good teams and, from this distance, it looks like anybody's choice.

Not in some years has the Academy had such a representation on college football teams. At last count there were at least eight regularly enrolled on squads doing or dying. Jack Marks and Buck LaCroix are with the William and Mary varsity and Frank Barber is on the freshman team there; Harold Disco is on the Trinity varsity team; Billy Tirrell is one of the valued members of Wesleyan varsity; Gordon Cruickshank is with Worcester Tech, Bull Hertz is on the N. Y. U. frosh; Jim Moore and Jim Williams are battling for Conn. Aggies.

The next meeting, the winter meeting of the conference will be held the first Monday in December, the 1st, instead of the first Monday in November, as was previously stated. As usual, it will be in this city.

Remember the Academy writeup and all other high school news that formerly appeared in Monday's Bulletin will be seen in the new Sunday Record.

SPEED BOAT CHAMPIONSHIP TO MONTAUK YACHT CLUB

NEW YORK, Oct. 29—(AP)—The 1931 races for the gold cup, emblem of the national speed boat championship, have been awarded to the Montauk Yacht club and will be held on Montauk Lake, Long Island, August 18. This decision was reached at a meeting of the gold cup contest board tonight.

The Montauk Yacht club is the home club of Victor Kleisrath of Port Washington, N. Y., whose boat, Hotsy Totsy, won the gold cup at Red Bank, N. J., last summer. In event the Montauk club forfeits its right to hold the races, they again will be held at Red Bank.

The national sweepstakes race was set for Red Bank, Aug. 24.

WAGNER BADLY HURT IN CHICAGO WRESTLING SHOW

CHICAGO, Oct. 29—(AP)—Jack Wagner, Providence, R. I., heavyweight wrestler, was seriously injured tonight in the feature match of a show at the Coliseum, wrestling Joe Malcewiz of Utica, N. Y., Wagner was thrown to the mat suffering a fractured rib which punctured his liver. He regained his feet and obtained a fall a few seconds later, but was unable to appear for the second fall and the match was forfeited to Malcewicz.

Y. Athletic Activities

The junior and intermediate gym classes will have a Halloween social this afternoon at 4 p. m. Games, eats and a lot of fun is in store for those who come.

Business Men's class tonight at 5:15. A calisthenic drill with music starts promptly at 5:20. Volleyball till 7 p. m.

Basketball candidates for the Y Seniors report at 8:15. This is open to all members of the Y. M. C. A.

Monday night will be the next rehearsal for the entertainment, which will be held Nov. 7 and everyone is asked to be present.

Y SENIORS TO OPEN SEASON ON NOV. 29TH

The Y Seniors will open their season Saturday, Nov. 29, at the local gym, according to an announcement Wednesday evening by their coach, Physical Director J. Howard Demarest of the Y. The opposition will probably be the Battery B five of this city.

The Seniors are to hold their second practice session of the season this evening at 8:15 at the Y at which all of the 15 candidates who turned out last Thursday are expected to again be on hand. From now on, the team will begin to take form and in a week or so, it is expected that practices will be held twice a week.

Coach Demarest, although minus three of the regulars from his 1929-30 team, is not a whit pessimistic about his team's chances in the coming state Y league chase. He stated last night that he expects much from some promising youngsters, to work alongside Tommy Lynch and Les Pingree, forward and guard, respectively of last year's club.

Cecil Henschel, a forward, Red Armstrong, guard, Nadelson and a few others, will be in the chase for the vacant positions, along with Howard Ludlow and Zeke Leffingwell, reserves last year. Leffingwell is also manager of the outfit.

SENIOR PROM AT HIGH SCHOOL LARGELY ATTENDED

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Oct. 29.—On Wednesday evening in the Westerly high school auditorium was held the annual senior prom and this year was in the form of a Halloween affair, with decorations in keeping with this festival season. Superintendent of Westerly Public Schools Willard H. Bacon and wife and Principal Charles E. Mason of the Westerly high school and wife were the patrons and patronesses. The event, as in years past, was largely attended.

The committee in charge consisted of Mary E. Dunn, Martha C. Nardone, Clarence D. Christy, Mildred Ross, Althea H. Nichols, Edward Boutelle, Elizabeth Thompson, Benjamin D. Simmons, Harold B. Soloveitsik, Donald R. Bonner and William D. Dolan.

Many Attended Boston Conclave

Officers of Narragansett commandery, No. 27, Knights Templar, of Westerly, on Wednesday attended the 127th annual conclave of the grand commandery of Knights Templar and the Appendant Orders of Massachusetts and Rhode Island held in the Masonic temple, Boston. Present from Westerly were Em. Sir George E. Leonard, commander, and Sir Knights Fred W. Harvey, generalissimo; John R. Oppy, captain-general, and P. Em. Sir Arthur N. Nash. V. E. Sir Frederick H. Briggs, of Boston, was elected grand commander, succeeding R. E. Sir Charles F. White, of Malden, Mass., a frequent Westerly visitor.

On Wednesday evening the Westerly Templars attended the stated meeting of the Massachusetts and Rhode Island Association of Knights Templar Commanders, of which Past Commander David A. Lowry is a member. The session was held in the Parker House with business session at 5 p. m., followed by dinner at 6 p. m., and entertainment during and after the dinner. Some of the music was instrumental and vocal and was furnished by Boston Commandery Ladies' orchestra and Boston Commandery choir, with other impersonators, dancing and entertaining artists.

Additional supervisors have been named for the first and second Westerly voting districts in addition to those previously announced. The Westerly town council has approved for the congressional and legislative election of senators and representatives on Tuesday, Nov. 4, at the Westerly town hall two extra women supervisors. They are: First voting district, Margaret Pellegrino; second voting district, Mrs. Margaret Perry Greenman.

Real Estate Transfers

Recorded in the office of the Westerly town clerk appears the following transfer:

Oct. 28. Heirs of Richard J. Butler, Mary F. Butler, Richard J. Butler, Jr., to Mariano Celico and wife, Christia Celico, a certain lot or parcel of land off Oak street at the junction of Batterson avenue and Harrison street, and bounded northerly by land of Michele Gaccione, and easterly by land of James Gradilone.

FUNERAL

Mrs. Chelsea F. Lyons

Mrs. Margaret Hazard Lyons, 25, who died at the home of her husband's parents in New London, Monday afternoon, was born in Mystic, April 1, 1905, the daughter of Frank Hazard and the late Elizabeth Lanphere Hazard. Her mother died when she was ten days old and she was brought up by her aunt, Mrs. J. Henry Schaffer of Mystic. She attended Broadway school, was graduated from Westerly high school and from New London Business college. She was a member of the local Methodist church and of Mystic Rebekah lodge. Several years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Schaffer moved to New London and June 8, 1927, Margaret was united in marriage with Chelsea F. Lyons of New London, the ceremony being performed by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth. They went to Elizabeth, N. J., to live, but owing to her health, a short time ago came back to New London, where she had stayed with her aunt and uncle and with her husband's parents. She is survived by her husband, her father, Frank Hazard of New York city; her aunt, Mrs. Schaffer of 15 Nameaug avenue, New London, and her uncle, Edwin F. Lanphere of 9 Broadway, Mystic. Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon from undertaking rooms in New London with Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth officiating. Burial was in Elm Grove cemetery, Mystic, beside her mother.

Candidates Addressed Meeting

There was a fine attendance at the republican-democratic meeting held under the auspices of Mystic League of Women Voters in Odd Fellows' hall Tuesday evening. The following candidates for state senator and representative from Groton and Stonington gave short talks: Henry A. Stable of Pawcatuck; Peter Ballestracci, Mystic; Albert Hewitt and Louie B. Beitzel, New London; Edmund P. Hyde, Stonington; Moses W. Rathbun, Noank; C. J. Wellington, Sprague; William Packer, Groton; Benjamin Mull, Old Mystic, and Ward T. Alling of New London.

The October meeting of the B. Y. P. U. of the Baptist church, Old Mystic, was held Tuesday evening with Miss Dorothy Beckwith, with 20 members and guests present. Some were masked and created a great deal of amusement. Games were played and doughnuts and coffee were served. Those attending were: Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Robinson and children, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Beckwith, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Beckwith, Mr. and Mrs. James Stanton, Mrs. Horace S. Williams, Misses Agnes Austin, Erma Lawrence, Esther Caswell and Wellington Hunt, Harold and Charles Austin, James Norman and Thomas Welles.

John P. Kennedy, pastor of the church, performing the ceremony. The witnesses were Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Holly. The bride wore a grey ensemble with hat to match and the matron of honor wore a tan ensemble. After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Holly will reside in Mystic.

A. C. Latham camp, S. of U. V., of the Civil War met in G. A. R. hall Tuesday evening, with Commander C. E. Holmes in charge. At the next meeting, November 11, the new officers and those appointed by the new commander will be installed.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Lamphere and Miss Amy Haas were in New London Wednesday to attend the funeral of Mrs. Margaret Hazard Lyons.

Mrs. Frelove Miller of Norwich spent a day recently with Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Allyn.

Mrs. Charles D. Wolfe of Jewett City and Miss Louisa Schroeder of Mystic are on a motor trip with friends to the Thousand Islands.

MONTVILLE

The assessors of Montville, Frederick R. Perkins, Joseph T. Church and William R. Tinker, have been in session for the past three weeks in the town hall at Palmertown, this being their final week. Only about 70 per cent of the 1400 lists have been filed to date. The board has announced that those who fail to file lists before this coming Saturday will be taxed an additional 10 per cent according to the state law. All ex-service men who are exempt from paying this tax are expected to appear before the board, to file their discharge and have it recorded.

A TOTAL OF ABOUT 1250 ENTITLED TO VOTE NOV. 4

About 1250 men and women of the town are entitled to vote in the state election Nov. 4th, according to statistics compiled by the board of registrars, Harry Watt and John Donavan. About 47 per cent of this number are women. A record vote is expected in the coming election.

Many At Halloween Social

An enjoyable Halloween social was held Tuesday evening in the new auditorium at Uncasville, by the young ladies of St. John's Catholic church. The event attracted a large number of merry-makers. Music was furnished by Shepard and Swanson and their Whaling City boys from New London.

STOCK MARKET GAINS OF MONDAY AND TUESDAY WERE WIPED OUT YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—(AP)—The stock market's slender gains of Monday and Tuesday evaporated today in a simmer of selling, fed by such fuel as declines in steel production and car loadings and several dividend reductions.

Trading was inactive—sales of 1,670,000 shares were the smallest since mid-September—but the market was back at its old trick, so frequently seen this year, of sagging on dullness. One wan rally in the afternoon, led by the copper shares, suggested that the shorts had become nervous over their failure to bring out any stock; however, prices turned downward again in the last hour on a much livelier turnover.

The list was well sprinkled with air pockets. Eastman Kodak, for example, dropped 10 1-2 points to the accompaniment of rumors of wage cuts and curtailment in the working force. All such reports were promptly and officially denied, so that Wall street was led to assume that the weakness in the shares was just another case of depletion in a blue chip stock.

U. S. Steel's reaction to the 3 per cent. drop in the industry's ingot production as well as to failure of the corporation to vote an extra dividend, was a 4 point decline. Bethlehem and Vanadium were also soft, losing nearly 3 each. Radio "B" preferred broke six points and Missouri-Kansas-Texas preferred 8 1-2, although the latter recovered 5 of its loss.

"Iron Age," placing steel operations at 50 per cent. of capacity, said the further declines in scrap prices and in output gave an unpromising outlook, although it hastened to add that the present rate of operations might will prove to be the low for the year since structural steel demand was holding up fairly well and a moderate demand was coming from the railroads. "Steel's" contribution to the day's news was the statement that whatever inquiry was developed through measures to provide employment for the jobless would "do little more than offset seasonal November and December recessions" and that a genuine upturn could not be expected until the automotive industry had revived, probably in the spring.

Carloadings were off 21.4 per cent. in comparison with the week ended October 18, 1929, the largest decrease so far this year. Most of the railroad shares, which had been stimulated by the better September earnings, turned heavy. Southern railway was conspicuously soft, losing 3 points, while Atchison, New York Central and Pennsylvania lost about a point.

The strength of the London copper market helped the red metal shares, although gains were unevenly held. Dividend reductions by American Radiator and Colorado Fuel and Iron, weakened both issues. Utilities softened to the extent of a point or two.

Although bonds remained firm, the speculative commodities joined stocks in a downturn. Wheat was off 1 to 1 1-4 cents in a more or less routine market. Corn eased 1 1-2 to 2 1-8 cents on searish government weather reports and large receipts. Cotton's vigorous advance was checked by realizing and final quotations were 90 cents to $1 a bale lower.

The day's losses in 90 leading equity issues amounted to 2.4 points, which slightly more than cancelled the gains earlier in the week. American Can, Union Carbide, DuPont, Johns Manville, National Biscuit, Radio and General Electric yielded 1 to 2 and Westinghouse 3 1-2 in the industrial description. Allied Chemical was off 5 and Eastman Kodak reduced its extreme loss to 8 points. American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, North American and Electric Power and Light sagged moderately. United Aircraft was a target of the bears and dropped nearly 4.

The Spanish peseta, quoted above 11 cents for the first time in several weeks, reflected reports of prospective gold exports. Foreign currencies generally were quiet, although the continued firmness of the Canadian dollar resulted in a $2,000,000 gold shipment to Montreal.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29—(AP)—While bond issues in excess of $475,000,000 will be voted on next Tuesday, about $65,000,000 of this amount will be for needs other than construction or for projects which are not expected to be started immediately, S. W. Straus and company says. Fully $410,000,000 of the work, such as highways, buildings, bridges and waterfront improvements can be started shortly after the election if the issues are approved.

New passenger car registrations in the U. S. in September totaled 175,286 compared with 203,737 in August and 304,452 in September last year.

Wall street hears that the larger Akron tire companies have prepared new list prices on tires showing advances of about 2½ to 5 per cent over prevailing price levels. The new list is effective November 1, the date on which all trade contracts for the next 12 months become effective.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Curb shares were heavy in a stagnant market today. The day's business aggregated only 898,300 shares, the smallest for the full session since mid-September.

The utilities generally lost from fractions to 2 points. Electric Bond and Share closed off 1 3-4, and American Gas & Electric lost 2. Insull Utility Investment and Hydro Electric Securities sagged more than a point each. United Light "A" closed off 5-8. Niagara Hudson was fairly steady, closing off only 1-8.

Copper shares failed to extend yesterday's advance, which reflected the arrival of two African producers, presumably with a view to discuss world wide production curtailment. Newmont lost 2 points, and Noranda closed off 1-2. Roan Antelope, an African copper, however, gained more than a point.

Investment trusts were generally a little firmer. Goldman Sachs sold up 5-8 to 12 1-2, but was up only 1-8 at the close. The firmness in this issue presumably reflected reports that the Manufacturers' Trust company in which it is a dominant interest, would be made the nucleus of a new $1,000,000,000 bank merger. Ungerleider Financial and Corporation Securities each gained about a point.

Oils were again inclined to ease. Vacuum and Gulf lost about a point, and Cities Service and Standard of Indiana eased fractionally. Industrials were generally dull, although Hiram Walker rose 3-4, and Syracuse Washing Machine "B" 2 points in fresh activity in these low priced issues. Glen Alden sagged 2 to a new low.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 29—(AP)—Inquiry for bonds was of a highly selective character today. Accumulation of gilt edged issues continued at a moderate pace to maintain the upward trend which developed at the start of the week but irregular movements again cropped out in the rest of the domestic list.

A feature of the day's trading was the strong tone of United States governments. With banks experiencing difficulty in placing funds in the call money market at any rate, they apparently are turning more forcefully to bonds and the bill market to put idle funds to work. The entire list of governments moved higher and Liberty 1st 4 1-4s, closed at a new 1930 peak. Treasury 4s registered an unusual large gain, rising 11-32nds.

The advance of Latin-American bonds in which strength has been almost a daily feature for more than a week was less pronounced and a few were reactionary. A few Brazilian bonds and Bolivian governments were again strong, rising 1 to 2 points. German government 7s and Belgium 7s, were European bonds that forged ahead. Finnish governments were well bought but other Europeans were dull and mixed.

Movement of rails was narrow in contrast with the brisk pace set in the previous session. Prime issues were slightly higher as a rule. Canadian Northern 4½s set a new year's high at 102 3-4. Considerable improvement developed in Central Railroad of New Jersey 4s, Colorado and Southern 4½s, A. St. Paul 4 3-4s, Missouri Kansas Texas 4½s, Reading company 4½s A. and some of the Van Sweringen bonds. Southern railway general 6½s and Wabash 5s B, advanced 3¼ points each. Duluth South Shore and Atlantic 5s, set a new minimum on a 4 point drop, and New York Ontario and Western 4s, and Rio Grande and Western first 4s sagged.

There was a good demand for more than a dozen utility issues whose gains were large. Included in the group were American and Foreign Power 5s, International Telephone debenture 5s, Metropolitan Edison 4½s, Nassau Electric 4s, New England Telephone 5s, and West Pennsylvania Power 5s G. Manila Electric Railway 5s, an infrequently traded issue, soared 9 3-4 points to a new year's peak.

Some softness developed in industrails and stock privilege issues in sympathy with the weakness of share prices but the largest changes were on the upside. Armour and company 5½s rose 2¼ points. Chile Copper 5s, Fisk Rubber 8s and Lorillard 5½s, Press Steel Car 5s, gained 1 to 3, Shell Pipe Line 5s, Pathe 7s, International Power 5s A, were lower.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Oct. 29—(AP)—Indications of at least a seasonal broadening of the movement of corn to market centers had a bearish effect on all grain prices today. The influence of downturns of corn values was simultaneous too, with general speculative consequences evoked by lower quotations on securities. Moreover, reports were current that farmers northwest were disposing of corn and replacing it with cheaper rye, and that a considerable amount of American barley in Canada was being brought back to the United States.

The corn market closed weak at the day's bottom level, 1 1-4a2 1-4c a bushel lower than yesterday's finish, wheat closed heavy, 7-8a1 3-8c down, oats 1-8a3-8c off, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 15c.

POETRY FOR WIDE AWAKES

Papa's Letter

I was sitting in my study,
Writing letters, when I heard,
"Please, dear mamma, Mary told me
Mamma mustn't be 'isturbed.
"But I's tired of the kitty,
Want some ozzer fing to do;
Writing letters, is 'ou mamma,
Tan't I wite a letter, too?"

"Not now, darling, mamma's busy;
Run and play with kitty, now."
"No, no, mamma, me wite letter—
Tan, if 'ou will show me how."

I could paint my darling's portrait
As his sweet eyes searched my face—
Hair of gold and eyes of azure,
Form of childish, witching grace.

But the eager face was clouded,
As I slowly shook my head,
Till I said, "I'll make a letter
Of you, darling boy, instead."

So I parted back the tresses
From his forehead high and white,
And a stamp in sport I pasted
'Mid its waves of golden light.

Then I said, "Now, little letter,
Go away, and bear good news."
And I smiled as down the staircase
Clattered loud the little shoes.

Leaving me, the darling hurried
Down to Mary in his glee;
'Mamma's writing lots of letters,
I's a letter, Mary—see!"

No one heard the little prattler
As once more he climbed the stair,
Reached his little cap and tippet,
Standing on the entry-chair.

No one heard the front door open,
No one saw the golden hair,
As it floated o'er his shoulders
In the crisp October air.

Down the street the baby hastened,
Till he reached the office-door;
"I's a letter, Mr. Postman;
Is there room for any more?

"Cause dis letter's doin' to papa;
Papa lives with God, 'ou know,
Mamma sent me for a letter;
Does 'ou fink 'at I tan go?"

But the clerk in wonder answered,
"Not to-day, my little man."
"Den I'll find anesser office,
'Cause I must go if I tan."

Fain the clerk would have detained him,
But the pleading face was gone,
And the little feet were hastening—
By the busy crowd swept on.

Suddenly the crowd was parted,
People fled to left and right,
As a pair of maddened horses
At the moment dashed in sight.

No one saw the baby figure—
No one saw the golden hair,
Till a voice of frightened sweetness
Rang out on the autumn air.

'Twas too late—a moment only
Stood the beauteous vision there,
Then the little face lay lifeless,
Covered o'er with golden hair.

Reverently they raised my darling,
Brushed away the curls of gold,
Saw the stamp upon his forehead,
Growing now so icy cold.

Not a mark the face disfigured,
Showing where a hoof had trod;
But the little life was ended—
"Papa's letter" was with God.

Halloween.

A gypsy flame is on the hearth,
Sign of this carnival of mirth,
Through the dun fields and from the glade
Flash merry folks in masquerade—
It is the witching Halloween.

Pale tapers glimmer in the sky,
The dead and dying leaves go by;
Dimly across the faded green
Strange shadows and stranger shades are seen—
It is the mystic Halloween.

Soft gusts of love and memory
Beat at the heart reproachfully;
The lights that burn for those who die
Were flickering low, let them flare high—
It is the haunting Halloween.
—Leonora Bradley.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE AWAKES

The importance of cavalry in ancient times is not to be estimated by any standard known to us. The difference in weapons, both of cavalry and of infantry, the difference in equipments, the lack of projectiles capable of doing damage at a greater distance than 100 yards, all combined to make the cavalry arm very formidable. The ancients, particularly the barbarians, unfamiliar with the use of horses in war, were much afraid of cavalry, the popular fear being indicated in the stories of the centaurs, half men and half horses.

Indeed, such was the respect entertained for any kind of mounted troops that camels were used in war, and elephants were regularly trained, covered with armor and carried upon their backs small castles filled with archers, while an important auxiliary to the cavalry service was seen in the chariots, which, with long scythes fastened to the axles, mowed down whole ranks of the opposing force, and threw a body of infantry into hopeless confusion.

During the Middle Ages the fear of cavalry increased, and justly, too, for among the armies of Europe the cavalry formed the principal and most formidable part. The importance of the knight and esquires was great in every respect. To be a knight was to be a nobleman. The knights owned their own horses. Each was attended by one or more esquires, who, armed like themselves, waited upon their masters in the camp, and fought side by side with them in the field. Many leaders were not slow to express their contempt for other branches of the service. At Agincourt the Genoese archers who began the battle, fell back at the onset of the English, and got in the way of the cavalry. "Slay me these rogues," cried the King of France, "who do nothing but clog the way," and at once the French knights rode over and cut down their own auxiliaries simply out of haste to get at the enemy. The knight was the best armed and the best protected man in the army.

At first the armor of horsemen was light; Caesar's Numidians wore scarcely any, but gradually the armor of the knights increased in weight, and from a breast-plate, shield and helmet the panoply of the mounted man developed to a heavy iron covering for every part of the body. From 100 to 150 pounds weight were thus often carried by a fully armed knight, but as the horse was as useful as the man and quite as liable to injury, armor was devised for the horse also, particularly for the head, neck, breast and shoulders, so that the horse, in addition to the weight of the rider, frequently carried over 300 pounds' weight of iron. Knights, while efficient on horseback, were helpless on foot, and in those days of weighty armor, if a knight fell from his horse he rolled about the ground often unable even to rise, and Froissart tells an interesting narrative of one battle when a number of knights were unhorsed and their armor had to be broken up with sledges like the shells of lobsters before the men could be killed. This was probably before the days of the misericorde, a thin dagger for penetrating between the joints of the harness, for after the invention of this weapon there was no necessity for unharnessing a knight in order to kill him.

The arms of the old knights were as heavy as their armor, for every knight was provided with a sword, a battle axe or mace, or both, a lance, daggers and frequently other arms. The lance, sword and mace were heavy, so cumbersome, indeed, that men of the present time would find their use extremely inconvenient. The knights were seldom archers, but in the Thirteenth and Fourteenth centuries an innovation was made by putting the archers on horseback.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE AWAKES.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am writing a story hoping you and the Wide Awake circle will like it. One day my mother told me that my friend and I could make doughnuts. I told her that I didn't know how. My mother said then this will be your first lesson in cooking.

My friend was happy because she loved doughnuts but didn't know how to make them. My mother had lots of trouble teaching us but they were good. Mother said, You can make some again tomorrow.

We made some the next day and they were better than the first ones. My mother said that it was hard to put something in my head, but she thought that it would never come out again.

I was very glad that I could make real good doughnuts. It comes in handy to be able to cook.

A Visit to the Stars.

Dear Uncle Jed: I hope you liked my last story. I am sending another one, A Visit to the Stars. "I wonder what is in the stars," murmured Bobby, as he looked out of the window. Then jumping in bed he fell asleep. Suddenly he felt himself going up, up in the air. Then he was in the sky and a little dwarf was standing beside him. He took Bobby by the hand and showed him all the stars. To his surprise and delight, Bobby found that the stars were filled with candy and ice cream. He ate and ate. Then suddenly the sky opened and he found himself falling. And waking up with a start, Bobby saw that he was in his own little bed.

A Story About a Cub.

Dear Uncle Jed: Thank you for printing my last story. I am sending another one about A Bitter Lesson. A long time ago when but a little cub, I lived with my mother in the dense forest. I was very happy. All day long I played and ate the good things my mother found, and set out to find my supper. I came upon a rotten log and found it was full of honey. Remembering how sweet it tasted, I clawed away a piece of the log. Sharp little needles dug into my skin. I rolled and rolled and fell into a river. This rid me of the little darts, but I decided to leave the honey and get supper elsewhere.

Visiting Shipps

Dear Uncle Jed: September 12, 1930, my family and friends went to New London. We went to the submarine base and to the New London port. When we arrived at the grounds of the submarine base we were stopped by an officer, who asked us if we had a camera. We did not have one so we continued into the grounds. We parked our car in a parking space and went to visit the warships and submarines which were anchored at the dock. There were about 12 submarines and 8 warships. Before going on the warship which we first visited we saw two sailors talking to each other by means of signs with their arms. This is called wig-wagging. Sailors cannot call to each other, so they use this method. We then went on a warship to visit. One of the friends who accompanied us on this trip, was a soldier in France during the World war, so he knew all about these ships. He told us as we saw different things about them. How clean are all parts of the ship. We visited it all and found it very interesting. My father, brother and friend went down in a submarine with a sailor as a guide and visited most all of the submarine except a few certain rooms which the sailor was not permitted to show us. The sailor showed them how the submarine started and even made the sailors start the engine up while they were in the submarine. He explained everything.

The submarine was a large one and so my father and the others were about 30 feet under water. I would have liked to go down and visit in the submarine but the ladders by which we had to descend were too steep and so I remained on the dock with my mother and friends. We then visited another warship called a "Four Stacker" because it had four smoke stacks. This was nearly the same as the first warship we had visited. Again we had a sailor as a guide and he explained many things to us. We saw into the machine guns which are used for war. We also saw a machine gun made to shoot at airplanes. Both were very big. On the ship were many iron balls in which dynamite is put in and these balls are thrown into the water. When a ship strikes this ball it blows it up. Here again the decks could be no cleaner. Everything was in its place. These ships were going on a ten-day cruise and starting on the morrow. They were going out in the ocean for practice in case of war. The sailors were testing all parts of the ships.

When going back to our car we saw torpedoes made in different shapes. The most common shape was an aeroplane.

Later in the afternoon we went to New London and saw a freighter, "Robin the Goodfellow," was its name. A sailor showed us every part of the ship and explained its use. We saw the room where the crew has its maps, compasses, etc., by which to trace out their way and to follow it. We saw the little room in which is the steering wheel. A large compass is right in front of the steering wheel.

The ship is 450 feet long. It has a crew of 27 men. It is very clean. Every trip it makes it loads on at Baltimore, goes down to Florida, and back to Boston, New London and Baltimore. It had three decks. This ship can go to every country in the world except Argentina and Chile. The United States had a little trouble with these countries a few years ago.

Hoping that all who read this story, enjoy it, I remain a Wide Awake.

My Fright

Dear Uncle Jed: One chilly day as I was walking the forest with my girl friend, Rose, I heard a very queer sound. I asked Rose if she knew what it was. She said she had never heard it before. I said "Let's go home now." We turned back. All of a sudden we heard the noise again, but it seemed much nearer, in fact it seemed right in back of us. I pulled myself together and turned around. Then all went black. After what seemed a very long time, I heard a familiar voice say, "You better get out of bed you will be late for school." I opened my eyes and I saw my mother standing near me. It was only a dream.

Egypt

Dear Uncle Jed: We are in our school studying about Egypt. It is very interesting. The Egyptians practically invented the alphabet. They discovered the use of metal, also. Now I will tell you some of the places I visited on this imaginary trip to Egypt. The sphinx and pyramids were one. They are beautiful. If the sphinx's mouth was open an auto could go through. The great pyramid, the largest pyramid of all, is 480 feet high and covers 13 acres of land. It is built of blocks of stone. There are 150 steps of blocks of stone as big as a dining room table to climb, if you want to get to the top. So if anybody wants to make believe climbing the pyramid, just get up on the dining room table 150 times.

We also, visited an oblisk, which is a monument erected in memory of King Lutmose III. The Nile river is also very wonderful. It never rains in Egypt. How do they get water for crops? I asked my teacher. The Nile river supplies it by irrigation. I really wished I could go to Egypt. I hope my friends like this letter.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is an invented story. The title is as follows: Bang! Bang! Bang!

I had finished my lesson in geography and was thinking of a story for composition, when Bang! Bang! Bang!

I asked myself, "Who can it be?" and finding no answer to this question I cautiously crept toward the noise. It seemed that my heart was growing heavier and heavier at every step.

I expected at any moment to come face to face with a burglar. My feet were trembling like leaves on a windy day. The noise came nearer and clearer as I advanced. It seemed to come from the cellar door, so I armed myself with a broom for protection and slowly and steadily I tiptoed to the kitchen.

As I entered there came a large bang and then a soft whimpering bow-wow.

I opened the door unsteadily and uncertainly and there stood Dick, our dog. Dad had left him in the cellar and had forgotten to let him out.

My Pet Rooster

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about my rooster. I have a rooster that I like very much. I have taken care of him since he was a wee baby chick. One morning I was surprised to hear what he had to say. This is what it was:

Cockle-doodle-doo, Cockle-doodle-doo,
See what I can do, I am as smart as you.

I think the chickens were surprised too.

The Indians

Dear Uncle Jed: We are studying in school about Indians. I will tell you how the Indians look and dress and what they live on. The Indians have small black eyes, long black hair, high cheek bones, copper colored skin. They wear very few clothes which are made of animal skins. We made posters of Indians. I made a cradle for my doll. We made a booklet on Indians and many other things. The Indians live in long houses, wigwams and adobe houses. We find the Indians in North America. The Indians do not like the white men.

Indians

Dear Uncle Jed: I have been studying about Indians. I made a poster. The Indians live in America. The Indians have small eyes and copper colored skin. When an Indian dies they sit him up in a grave. When an Indian is sick they stand him on some red hot stones or put him in a warm tepee and let him get hot and then he jumps in the cold water.

POETRY

The Winding Road

There's lots of fun in a winding road.
(Oh! You never know what is before you.)
With its sudden twists and its little springs,
You will surely find nothing to bore you;

For here (if your footsteps are soft enough)
You may see, as you turn a quick angle,
A little brown squirrel, with shining eyes,
On a rail, where the vines are a-tangle.

Mayhap, on one side, the woods, still and dense,
On the other, the green meadows, fragrant,
With buckwheat and daisies and cornflowers blue,
And gay butterflies, hov'ring and vagrant.

While just round the corner, a hidden clump
Of quaint Jack-in-the-Pulpit is growing,
Where the road begins to get cool and dark,
And a whispering breeze is now blowing.

Then into the sunshine you step once more,
Where the perfume of blackberries meets you,
And wandering tendrils grasp at your hands,
While the hum of the honey-bee greets you.

From far in advance comes the whistling tune
Of the traveler who passed by before you;
Oh! There's lots of fun in a winding road,
For, you see, there is nothing to bore you.

—Elizabeth Kelty Beitel, in Philadelphia Inquirer.

Dreams

Only in dreams have I found ecstasy,
Life is reality, but dreams are sweet;
For when night comes and sleep has set me free,
There is no heavy burden on my feet
And I can be that which I long to be.
My soul can rise unfettered by myself,
All woe departs by some strange alchemy
And I am happy as a care-free elf.
Then I know all I never thought to know,
True romance holds me in its breathless sway,
All things are mine. Until, at last, they go—
Swept from me by the ruthless light of day.
Life must be lived and all its problems met.
Dreams are God's way of letting us forget.

—Dorothy Quick, in Town Topics

Operators' Licenses Suspended.

According to notice from the state motor vehicle department to the Norwich police department, operators' licenses have been suspended as follows: Clarence F. Lynds of 509 Main street, David J. Kerr of 310 Broadway and Herman Otto Arendt of 256 Franklin street. That of William Goodman of 16 Roneld court has been reinstated.

Curing Sick Indians

Dear Uncle Jed: We studied about the Indians. They have copper color skin, high cheek bones, a long nose and small eyes. When they bury an Indian they sit him up or lay him down. When he is covered they sit around him. The women scream and the men cry. They hang his clothes on a nearby tree. When he has a cold they put him in a hot place. Then he runs out and jumps in the water.

Fire Prevention

Dear Uncle Jed: A fireman came to Bishop school. He told us how to be careful not to play with matches, not to push too many papers in the stove or let the chimney get on fire.

Clean your cellar. Someone may throw a cigarette about and a little spark may start a fire. If you see a house on firm run to the nearest fire alarm and ring it.

A Brown And White Dog

Dear Uncle Jed: I have a dog at home. He likes to play. Every time I come from school he comes down to meet me. I feed him bones. He sleeps in the hay barn. If he hears anybody he barks. His color is brown and white. He is a shepherd dog.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Hillcrest Theatre

Jeanette MacDonald always seems to be invested with royalty of one kind or another in the pictures she plays in.

She was the queen in "The Love Parade," and a princess in "The Vagabond King." In her newest talkie, Paramount's "Let's Go Native," the mad, merry musicomedy, she is an ultra-modern American girl who gains a pearl crown as the queen of a tropical island upon which she and her companions, Jack Oakie, "Skeets" Gallagher, James Hall, William Austin and Kay Francis are stranded.

Her robes of state in "Let's Go Native" consist of a grass skirt and a sea-weed guimpe.

"Let's Go Native" will be shown at 6.45 and 8.45, together with a wonderful bill of short subjects.

Saturday—Charlie Ruggles, Stanley Smith and Ginger Rogers in "Queen High."

A peculiar mold that forms on the shells of eggs during shipment has been traced by investigators in the United States department of agriculture to the use of unseasoned wood in the packing cases.

W. J. SMITH, NEW LONDON, CHANGES PLACES WITH WM. BROOKS, PUTNAM

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 29.—William J. Smith, assistant superintendent for the New Haven railroad, with headquarters in New London, has been transferred to Putnam and Assistant Superintendent William Brooks has been transferred from Putnam to New London. The transfer was announced today and will become effective Friday. Mr. Smith has been stationed in this city for several years and was promoted to assistant superintendent about a year ago. Mr. Brooks was formerly employed in this city as train dispatcher and prior to that time was station agent at Gales Ferry.

Repairs are to be made to the exterior of Hillside Home, on Garfield avenue, and bids have been asked for. The repairs will include the painting of all cornices, ventilators, etc.

Using Rhode Island License

Francis P. Compston, West Shore, R. I., was arrested this afternoon by Automobile Patrol Officer Clarence Martin, charged with driving an automobile but not having a Connecticut operator's license. Compston is driving about the city daily, using a Rhode Island license. He was ordered to explain why in the police court tomorrow.

Harry C. Harmon, 1337 Broadway, South Portland, Maine, was arrested this afternoon by Patrolman Joseph Sullivan, charged with parking in such a manner as to obstruct traffic on State street. Harmon posted a bond of $2 for his appearance in the police court tomorrow.

LOOKOUT FOR CROOK WHO STOLE MILFORD RADIOS

The New Haven police tonight requested the New London police to be on the lookout for a crook, wanted in Milford, a suburb of New Haven, on a charge of obtaining goods under false pretenses; but if the man is apprehended he probably will be charged with theft. The fellow sought is C. C. Quandt, who represents himself as a grocery salesman. He rented an apartment at Milford and a short time later disappeared, taking with him two radios, one valued at $203.50 and the other worth $280. He is described as being 26, about five feet, ten inches in height, and weighs about 165 pounds. Quandt has a fair complexion, dark hair, is clean shaven and is a clever talker. He wore a blue suit, light brown herring bone top coat and black shoes.

Complaint was made to the police this afternoon because of the act of one of five salesmen, soliciting orders for merchandise by going from house to house. It is claimed by Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield that one of the solicitors went to his home and forced his way into the house in his endeavor to obtain an order. It was planned to arrest the salesman, but that course was not taken. The salesmen have been in New London several weeks and represent a New Jersey company.

Several of the catch-basins along Montauk avenue are in need of immediate attention for the basins are clogged with dirt, leaves and paper, being choked so that surface water is prevented from running off.

There is no change in the condition of Mrs. Sullivan, wife of Lieutenant of Police James C. Sullivan, who has been confined to her home on Steward street by illness for several weeks.

Favor Amendment Repeal

Congressman Richard P. Freeman, republican, and William C. Fox, democratic candidate for the office from this district and who will be Mr. Freeman's opponent at the polls Tuesday next, have filed questionnaires in Washington in response to a request of the Association Against Prohibition, which were sent to Messrs. Freeman and Fox recently. Both Mr. Freeman and Mr. Fox by their answers appearing on the document are in favor of the repeal of the 18th amendment

Timothy Sullivan and John Hays, the former a laborer and the latter a Groton fisherman, were also charged with intoxication. Sullivan and Hays were given suspension of judgment.

JOSEPHINE STEWARD, BOZRAH, SPOILED QUINN'S BEAUTY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 29—John Quinn, a cripple with a long court record for his conduct of the liquor traffic, who has served sentences in jail and state prison, was in the police court this morning charged with conducting a disorderly house on Truman street. Josephine Steward, alias Maloney, 24, formerly of Bozrah, and Lebanon and Norwich, was charged with breach of the peace and intoxication. Quinn was given suspension of judgment, but the Steward woman was sentenced to 30 days in jail. The presentation of the man and woman in court was the result of a drinking party held at the Truman street house last night and early today. A fight between Quinn and Mrs. Steward was staged, Quinn receiving numerous bruises, as was evidenced from his disfigured face when he appeared in court. When the fight was at its height about 3 o'clock, the police were notified and Automobile Patrol Officers Augustus Ray and William Corcoran and Patrolman George Laboue arrested the brawlers.

Theft Caught Stealing

Edward Neff, charged with theft, was sentenced to 30 days in jail. He was at the lunch room of Louis Telafe, 167 Main street at 3 o'clock this morning and watching his opportunity, stole nine pounds of butter. An employe of the lunch room observed Neff's act and made complaint to the police. Neff was arrested by Automobile Patrol Officer William Corcoran. Neff has been in court many times and for various offenses.

There was a very slight improvement noted today in the condition of Mrs. Ethel Green, wife of Capt. A. W. Green, 26 Cutler street, who suffered serious injuries, including a possible fractured skull, Monday when the automobile she was driving was hit by a trolley car in New Haven. Mrs. Green was thrown through the windshield and landed against a telephone pole. She is a patient at the New Haven hospital.

Reached 94th Birthday

Mrs. Elias F. Morgan, mother of Mayor E. Frank Morgan, Attorney G. Curtis Morgan, Ricardo R. Morgan and Mrs. Constance Morgan Chappell of this city, and Henry H. Morgan, of Washington, D. C., celebrated her 94th birthday in an informal manner yesterday at the residence of her son, Ricardo Morgan, Ridgewood park, Waterford.

The annual meeting of the Faire Harbour club was held yesterday at the club house, Montauk avenue, and the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. A. N. Dicklow; vice president, Mrs. Theodore R. Whiton; treasurer, Mrs. W. W. Smith; secretary, Mrs. Frank B. Bentley.

The meeting of the Mothers' guild of the Methodist Episcopal church was held last night, the election of officers resulting as follows: President, Mrs. Fred D. Blaze; vice president, Mrs. Alfred C. Linkletter; secretary, Mrs. John T. Porter, Jr.; treasurer, Mrs. Palmer C. Ferrell.

Chapman—Johnson

Vine S. Chapman, Groton, and Miss Annie L. Johnson, Portsmouth, Va., were married yesterday afternoon at the parsonage of the First Church of Christ by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth.

COHEN'S CAR, UNCASVILLE, STRIKES TELEPHONE POLE

An automobile driven by Heinie Cohen, of Uncasville, in which were Robert Nichols, Mystic, and Herbert Paulson, Poquonoc road, Groton, was wrecked last night and the occupants were injured, Nichols perhaps seriously, when the car, a Chrysler, crashed through a fence at Poquonoc Bridge. The auto was being driven easterly and when approaching Fort Hill, Cohen lost control of the steering wheel. The auto left the highway and after plunging through the fence hit a telephone pole. Cohen and Paulson received lacerations and bruises. Cohen said that the accident was caused by another auto forcing him off the highway. The accident is being investigated by State Police Officers Frederick Johnson and Eric Swanson.

In the city court today, Daniel Fraser, employed in Salem as a farm worker, was charged with intoxication and was fined $5 and costs. Fraser was arrested last Sunday night for the same offense and was given suspension of judgment in court Monday. Monday night Patrolman Harold Goldberg gave Fraser twenty-five cents to pay his fare on a bus that the latter might return to his employment and saw to it that Fraser boarded the bus. The farm-hand however, alighted before the bus got out of the city, so when Fraser was found drunk on Main street yesterday afternoon by Officer Goldberg the former was again arrested.

Joseph Kelly, Fishers Island laborer, charged with intoxication was sentenced to 30 days in jail.

Viola Mayo Brewer, colored, wife of Lonnie Brewer of 78 Hempstead stret, charged with intoxication, was given suspension of judgment.

CITY MANAGER URGING EARLY VOTING NEXT WEEK

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 29.—There will be an exceptionally large vote polled at the election next week. It is several years since such interest has been manifested by the voters of New London as a state election approached. Naturally, with the candidate for governor on the republican ticket being a native son, Ernest E. Rogers, interest would be anticipated in an effort to bring about Mr. Rogers' election, but there is also much interest being shown in the choice of some of the other candidates. This is especially the case in the contest between Messrs. Freeman and Fox, while equally as much interest is being manifested in the senatorial contest between Ward T. Alling, of this city, republican, and Albert F. Hewitt, well known Groton democrat, prominent for many years in Groton politics. City Manager William A. Holt has issued a communication in which he urges voters to go to the polls as early in the day as possible. That the several hundred newly made voters may acquaint themselves with the operation of the voting machines, instructors are on duty at the municipal building, where a machine has been set up in the main lobby. Men and women voters are explained the method of its manipulation, that they may not make mistakes when they register their votes.

Four automobile drivers will be in Stonington town court tomorrow. Frank Halliwell, 41 Gorton street, charged with violating restrictions in accordance with his license; Ernest Brown, Los Angeles; Arthur Pattee, Salem, Mass., and Andi Schiltz, New York, charged with driving without licenses, all were arrested yesterday by State Police Officers Frederick Johnson and Arthur Whitmarsh.

Israel Mandell, of Norwich; Edward Flaherty, 30 Jefferson avenue; Mrs. John Purcell and infant daughter, 532 Ocean avenue; William Osborn, 69 Jay street; James Telford, 75 Bank street; Miss Marian Shackley, Groton; Mrs. Joseph Sheehy, Brooklyn, N. Y., patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

FUNERALS

Mrs. Elisha Newbury

The funeral of Mrs. Maggie Newbury, widow of Elisha Newbury, was held this afternoon at 2:30 from her residence, 41 Ocean avenue, the services being conducted by Rev. Charles E. Spaulding, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church. The bearers were: Charles Clark, Rufus Mallalieu, Oliver Woodworth and Charles Smalley. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Mrs. Chelsea F. Lyons

Funeral services for Mrs. Margaret H. Lyons, wife of Chelsea F. Lyons, late of 18 Harris court, were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at 15 Masonic street, the services being conducted by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ. The bearers were H. Long, H. O. Williams, R. Newbury, H. B. Lyons, William Cruise and F. Brown. Burial was in Elm Grove cemetery, Mystic.

Lena Epstein has sold two parcels of land with buildings on Colman street to Max Belt.

A deed was received for record at the office of the city clerk today transferring title in a cottage on Alewife avenue, Ocean Beach, from Mr. Hardwick to Mary S. Strosberg. Mr. Hardwick died earlier in the month.

Mrs. Gustav Sonenberg, of Groton, Mrs. Darwin Tracy and infant daughter, Groton, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

At a meeting of Clan Cameron, Order of Scottish Clans, held last night, officers were installed in the presence of a large number of members. Deputy James Alexander, of Hartford, was the installing officer, and was ably assisted by Robert Montgomery, Waterbury; A. L. Fraser, Hartford, and David Lamond, of this city. The officers installed were: Chief, Duncan Silva; Tanist, Alexander McPhail; chaplain, Daniel McArthur; financial secretary, John Brown; treasurer, Robert Ferguson; seneschal, Orman Huntley; senior henchman, Cornelius MacArthur; junior henchman, Norman Stevens; warden, Thomas Anderson; sentinel, William Williamson.

MOTHER OF ARTHUR F. HODGES MOURNED FOR SAILOR SON

Sophia Kenerson, 66, widow of Charles B. Kenerson, died last night at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. George E. Batting, 9 Bragaw street, death ending an illness of many weeks. Besides this daughter, Mrs. Kenerson is survived by two other daughters, Mrs. Andrew Morris, of this city, and Mrs. Mae J. Fisk, of Lynn, Mass.; three sisters, Mrs. Lottie Peck, Boston; Mrs. William Parker, Wiscasset Me., and Mrs. John A. McLean, Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island; two brothers, John A. Hansen and Charles Hansen, both of Charlottetown. Mrs. Kenerson was a member of the Second Congregational church and Circle No. 3, of the First Baptist church; Fidelity chapter, No. 54, Order of Eastern Star; Osprey Rebekah lodge, No. 20; Hiawatha council, No. 15, Degree of Pocahontas; Dairymaids, Mothers' club and Beatrice Mansfield Sunshine society. Mrs. Kenerson was the mother of Arthur F. Hodges, a member of the crew of the submarine S-4, which was sunk off the Massachusetts coast in December, 1927, and the shock she suffered through the death of her son impaired her health.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the suspension of the driver's license of Walter D. Keefe, 53 Warren street. Keefe was recently fined $100 and costs in the police court for driving while under the influence of liquor.

John F. Donovan, of Greenfield, Mass., was arrested today by State Police Officer John Smith, charged with speeding on Bank street. The driver posted a bond of $25 for his appearance in the police court tomorrow.

The following officers were elected by Lady Aberdeen lodge, Daughters of Scotia, in Union lodge rooms last night: Chief daughter, Eleanor Johnson; past chief daughter, Catherine MacArthur; sub-chief daughter, Effie Douglass; secretary, Florence McLoughlin; financial secretary, Jean Gidley; treasurer, Ina McKay; conductress, Jean Forsythe; assistant conductress, Edith Huntley; inside guard, Charlotte Johnson; outside guard, Christina Greig; trustee for three years, Mary Bain. The installation ceremony will be held Nov. 11.

Angelo DiMaggio, 23 Moore avenue, was arrested this forenoon by Patrolman Arthur Feeley, charged with breach of the peace, upon complaint of John Novellina, 158 Shaw street. The former posted a bond of $50 for his appearance in the police court tomorrow morning. DiMaggio and Novellina are waste paper collectors and when the pair engaged in a quarrel, understood to have originated because of Novellina having solicited paper of customers of DiMaggio, the latter struck Novellina one or more blows on the face. Novellina is a youth and wears glasses. When DiMaggio attacked him, the boy sought and obtained his elder's arrest.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Sale For Blinds' Benefit

Miss Ethel L. Harvey, one of the blind teachers employed by the state board of education of the blind, will be in charge of the sale for the blind which will be held at the Boston store, Norwich, all day Friday, Oct. 31. She will be assisted by her guide. Miss Harvey visits the homes of the blind in this section, teaching them to read with their fingers and to make useful articles which are sold by the state board. In each instance the full price that is paid for an article is given to the blind person who made it. The pastors of the churches of all denominations have cooperated in the enterprise. The goods consist of rugs, baskets, stools, aprons, towels, and a variety of knitted and crocheted pieces as well as home-made candy.

Palace Theatre

A double-feature bill which is entertaining and thrilling will be shown at the Palace theatre for the last times today and tomorrow. Here is one of the finest bills in the history of the Palace and its combination of hair-raising situations and laughs is one which will appeal to everyone.

"One Night at Susie's," a melodrama that is the last word in the unexpected and which features a great cast headed by Billie Dove and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and "Ladies Must Play," a sophisticated comedy-drama with Dorothy Sebastian and Neil Hamilton, are the two pictures combined on this bill.

"One Night at Susie's" is the story of a mother and her foster-son. In the midst of crime she has brought him up straight and it is her one ambition to keep him so. There is a conflict when he meets and falls in love with a chorus girl whom the mother does not believe to be good enough for him. The climax of this situation is one of the most appealing and tense moments imaginable.

"Ladies Must Play" is quite a different story and relates the adventures of a girl who sets her cap for a millionaire. She finds that it is not so hard to get one but after she has him she isn't so sure that she wants him.

On Saturday the Palace will present "The Life of the Party," a production whose title tells all, starring no less than the ever popular Winnie Lightner and a great cast.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

It starts as a lilting, whimsical little story of Spain, with Ramon Novarro as a care-free, clowning boy —one might almost say a Spanish version of William Haines. Then, suddenly, the dramatic situation takes form, and it becomes one of the most gripping, poignant pieces of dramatic action the talking screen has ever seen.

This is the paradox of "Call of the Flesh," Ramon Novarro's new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer starring vehicle, now playing at the Warner's Broadway theatre. Not only does it run the entire gamut of human emotions, but provides the biggest surprise, plus the biggest "punch," that a screen audience has ever been given. It is Ramon Novarro's "surprise package."

The story is that of a young Spanish singer, care-free and frolicsome while singing in his cantina or dancing with his partner. But when he reaches the pinnacle of fame as an opera star, he finds it is a triumph paid for with a broken heart.

Dorothy Jordan plays opposite Novarro, while the cast also includes Ernest Torrence, Nance O'Neil, Renee Adoree, Mathilde Comont and Russell Hopton.

Whale Exhibit Monday

Heralded as one of the most superb specimens of finback ever captured, the famous whale from the Catalina Island, Southern California, is on its way to Norwich and will arrive here early next Monday morning for a period of three days. The whale is exhibited on a specially constructed steel railroad car and will be located on the New Haven railroad tracks between Depot square and Ferry street. It will be open every day during its stay from 9 a. m. to 11 p. m.

The whale is 55 feet long and weighs 68 tons. The gigantic mammal has aroused nation-wide interest among scientists in particular and the public in general. It is declared to be one of the most perfect of its kind in whaling history.

In September, 1929, the whale was sighted by a whaling crew cruising near the Catalina Islands, off the coast of California. Unaware of danger as it floated on the surface, the great bulk of the whale presented an easy target. A harpoon fired from a gun on the whaler sank deep into the side of the whale and the crew expected an easy capture.

For some unknown reason the bomb in the point of the harpoon did not explode. Wounded but full of fight, the whale proceeded to plunge and race with the gameness and fury of huge trout, until the rope attached to the harpoon began to smoke from the friction as it sped over the side of the boat.

Several hours of dramatic struggle elapsed before the whale was brought into position again for a second and fatal harpoon thrust. When the body was towed to Long Beach the use of a 90-ton crane was required to lift it from the water.

Plans to dispose of the whale in the usual way for the whalebone and oil were halted when the exceptional character of the specimen was noted and the exhibition tour was prepared.

By lucky chance, those in charge of the project were able to engage Captain Lew Nichols, known as "Whalebone Lew," veteran of many a thrilling fight with whales in the Arctic nearly a half century ago. Whalebone Lew is accompanying the whale on the tour and is adding to the interest of the event by exciting tales of his youthful adventures.

In addition to the whale there is a gigantic octopus, or Devil Fish. It is said to be one of the largest ever captured and its dangerous looking arms and suctions makes one fear it even in its death basin. Then there is a pilot fish. A small fish that sets himself on the whale's back and directs the whale to the feeding grounds. A flying fish and whaling implements are also shown.

A road is planned for the new addition to the Rocky mountain national park which will be the highest continuous road in North America; nine miles of it will be above timber line and at one point it will reach 12,126 feet.

A Wholly New Performance

A Freshly Created Beauty

The New CADILLAC V-12

Again Cadillac offers you something new in motoring—new in performance—new in fascinating beauty—The Twelve-Cylinder Cadillac.

For here again is performance carried far beyond conventional conceptions. Smoothness, spirit and comfort are familiar terms to describe fine car performance. But the Cadillac V-12 gives them a new meaning. There can be no appreciation of the degree to which Cadillac has carried these desirable qualities in the V-12 without personal experience.

Here, too, is freshly created beauty, direct from Fisher and Fleetwood studios—brilliant examples of the highest type of coachcraft. Every interior of the new V-12 models is a Fleetwood interior.

The V-12 is the newest member of the distinguished family of four fine cars (including La Salle V-Eight, Cadillac V-Eight and Cadillac V-16) which Cadillac has presented within the past eight months. Each offers a newness in performance entirely different and superior to anything even Cadillac has hitherto produced. Not to know these cars is to be deprived of one of the most interesting experiences motoring has offered in years.

All Saints' Day Masses

Saturday, the feast of All Saints, a holy day of obligation in the Roman Catholic church, at St. Mary's Memorial church three masses will be celebrated, at 5:30, 7 and 8 o'clock.

The T. D. Sewing circle held their regular sewing meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Jane White on Boswell avenue, with a large class present. The first period of the evening was devoted to sewing of fancy articles which was followed by a social hour. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

The well baby conference will be held this (Friday) afternoon in the assembly hall of the Greeneville Congregational church from 2 until 4 o'clock. The conference is under the direction of the Norwich public health department.

Miss Florence Seed of Baker avenue is spending her annual vacation with relatives at New York, New Haven, Bridgeport and Passaic, N. J.

Troop No. 21, Boy Scouts, met in the hall of Third Baptist church Tuesday evening. The dues were collected and exercises given by the scoutmaster, Mr. Mojie, who also gave a very interesting talk on carving airplane propellers. In the near future the troop hopes to make airplane models. There were 15 scouts present at the meeting. The meeting closed with the Scout oath on law.

TAFTVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Campbell of Attleboro, Mass., were guests early in the week of Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Troeger and family of North A street and Mr. and Mrs. Adam Leupold of Blissville.

With a large attendance, the regular business meeting of the members of St. Veronica's society was held Wednesday evening at the society's rooms on Providence street with the president, Miss Helen Breault, presiding.

Friends in town are receiving interesting views of New Orleans, from Miss Catherine Hasler of Providence street, who is visiting her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. George Brown, and family in that city.

The Taftville Book club has organized for the season. The books, which are selected from the list of latest fiction, are passed every two weeks. This year there are 26 members of the club.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Troeger have returned from their wedding trip and have taken up their residence at their newly furnished apartment on Smith avenue.

In spite of the recent rains, an acute shortage of water exists at the homes of some of the residents in the outlying districts, making it very hard for those who keep cattle or horses. Some people are without water altogether, and are obliged to carry it for long distances from wells on neighbors' property which have as yet a supply of water.

Hunting pheasants with bird dogs is becoming more and more a difficult proposition, say some of the village hunters. According to their statements, pheasants do not flush like grouse, but run for long distances on the ground. Setters and pointers stop and "point" their quarry, which by the time the sportsman comes up has managed to run several hundred yards. The stopping of the dogs to "point" each time the animal nears the bird, only gives the latter the better chance to put a goodly distance between itself and its pursuers. To flush the bird and force it to fly so that the hunter can get a shot at it seems to be a difficult task with a pheasant.

Mr. and Mrs. William Whitehead and daughter Arline of Voluntown have been visiting friends in town this week.

Shagbarks are plentiful this season, some of the trees in the surrounding woods bearing record crops. Youngsters are gathering large sackfuls in very little time. Nuts are extra large and "meaty" this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Pingree and son, Harold M., Jr., of Goodyear were in town early in the week to visit the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Pingree, and family of North C street.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Frohmader entertained a number of friends at a Halloween supper party Wednesday evening at their home on South Second avenue, it being the 12th consecutive year that this group has met at Halloween.

Miss Blanche Molleur of Hartford spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Archie J. Molleur and family of Providence street.

NORWICH ORGANIZES SECTION OF MECHANICAL ENGINEERS' SOCIETY

With a charter membership of 37, the Norwich section of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers was organized Wednesday evening at an enthusiastic meeting at the Arcanum club. William H. Buck of the Aspinook Co., Jewett City, largely through whose efforts the local section was organized, was selected as permanent chairman.

The organization meeting followed a delicious chicken dinner served the 50 or more present under the direction of the club steward, John Wolfe, assisted by Mrs. John Wolfe and Miss Mary Wheeler. The menu was as follows:

Fricasee Chicken
Mashed Potatoes Sweet Potatoes
Creamed Onions Peas
Celery
Cranberry Sauce Rolls
Squash Pie
Coffee

Cigars and cigarettes were circulated and at the close of the menu, the meeting was called to order, with Louis M. Crandall as toastmaster. During the dinner Herb Smith's orchestra furnished a concert program, the members of the orchestra volunteering their services. The orchestra comprised Herbert Smith, violinist; Frank Monroe, bass viol; John Egan, pianist; John Kukla, clarinet; C. E. Barber, flute; William Hudson, trumpet.

The toastmaster introduced as the first speaker, Mayor Lee Roy Robbins, who briefly addressed the gathering and the mayor was followed by George Holmes, of New Haven, chairman of the New Haven section of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

H. R. Westcott, of Westcott and Mapes, and a member of the local section's committee of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, was the principal speaker. Mr. Westcott said that the engineering profession is represented in all walks of life. Speaking of the activities of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, Mr. Westcott said that it publishes numerous technical periodicals, magazines, operates an employment bureau and is engaged in extensive research. The research activities are many and varied. The society is also actively identified with international affairs. "Our profession and our society are outward bound on a great adventure into the unknown," said Mr. Westcott. "It is a great pleasure to welcome you as an organized society of the American Mechanical Engineers," he concluded.

Mr. Buck expressed his appreciation of the courtesies shown him in arranging for the meeting and the gathering passed votes o fthanks to the speakers, the Arcanum club for the use of the hall, the orchestra, The Norwich Bulletin and The Evening Record and to all others who aided in making the evening a success.

The society then organized by electing the following officers:

OCTOBER VIOLETS ON FARM IN SCOTLAND

L. H. Tucker of Pleasant View farm, Scotland, picked a bunch of wild violets this week from a bed where there were many others in bloom and in bud.

Mr. Tucker finds that the rains have not raised streams or wells much and in the woods the leaves are dry under the top layer. This makes a bad time for forest fires from cigarettes or cigars tossed away by careless hunters or by others walking in the woods.

CAUGHT THREE COONS IN NORTH WOODSTOCK

In a coon hunt last Saturday night in North Woodstock, three nice coon were bagged by Jerry Gladue of Occum, Chris Suckan of East Hartford, Al Fowler and John Redhead of North Woodstock. They had Mr. Suckan's coon dog, which led them to three nice coons, the first weighing 16 1-2 pounds and the others 10 3-4 and 12 pounds, respectively. Next Saturday they are planning to try their luck in Canterbury.

Norwich Society Fall Smoker

The Norwich Society of New York is reminding its members that the date for the society's fall smoker has been set for Nov. 10 at the New York Athletic club. The members are to assemble at 6 and the dinner will be at 7 o'clock. Howard C. Russ is president and John R. Powelson, secretary of the society.

NORWICH TOWN

SUPPER ROOM WAS CHEERY ON A STORMY EVENING

In the chapel of the First Congregational church Wednesday at 6:30, a good number attended a chicken pie supper under direction of Mrs. John L. Browning, chairman of the League of Service supper committee. Other members of that committee assisting the chairman were: Mrs. Walter T. Clark, Mrs. Oscar Heinrich, Mrs. Ernest Washington, Mrs. Harriet Barber and Mrs. Charles Barber. There are two other members who were unable to be present. Besides delicious chicken pie, the menu included mashed potato, peas and carrots, celery, jellies, rolls, squash pie and coffee. The tables were arranged in the chapel auditorium and the ladies' parlor. In the decorations oak foliage and jack-o'-lanterns predominated, while yellow chrysanthemums were the table flowers.

Miss Elizabeth Avery assisted the supper committee in waiting on table. The committee was appreciative of the help rendered by Deacon Henry T. Frazier, who volunteered his services Tuesday afternoon in setting up the tables, placing chairs and aiding in a general way. They also were assisted in this way at the close of the supper. A special table was reserved for the work department of the League of Service, under direction of the chairman, Mrs. Herbert L. Yerrington and here aprons, silver polish and extracts were on sale. The supper and sale netted a substantial sum.

In Crowded Greeting Al. Smith

Theodore Sterry of Norwich Town, accompanied by his father, Charles Sterry, and a friend, motored to New London Monday afternoon and were included in the assemblage that greeted Al Smith, former governor of New York and Mrs. Smith, at the union station.

Social Corner members here are planning to attend the meeting and dinner today (Thursday) at the Methodist church in Putnam, when S. C. club No. 4 is to entertain.

BUTTERFIELD SEES NO LACK OF HIGH SCHOOL TEACHERS

While Charles B. Gentry, professor of education and head of the department of education at Connecticut Agricultural college, agrees with the suggestion made by Dr. Clifford L. Brownell of Teachers college, Columbia university, in an address at a section meeting of the Connecticut State Teachers' association, that facilities for training secondary school teachers be provided immediately at the state college at Storrs, Dr. Ernest W. Butterfield, state commissioner of education says that there is no immediate need for such training in Connecticut. The commissioner states that while there is no school for training secondary school teachers in this state, there is no lack of teachers for such schools.

Coincident with the agreement by Professor Gentry with the plan proposed by Dr. Brownell, is the announcement that within three years the Connecticut Agricultural college's department of education expects to be in position to offer secondary school teacher training. Professor Gentry said that beginning next February steps will be taken to re-organize the department of education.

Because of more important matters in the field of education in Connecticut, Commissioner Butterfield feels that the present is no time for discussing the matter of providing secondary school training facilities. "In time the matter will require discussion, but for the present plans are not definitely advanced," he said.

Commissioner Butterfield stated that while there is no need of teachers with specific training for high school work, no one can say where that type of training should be located. This answer was made to a question as to whether or not he thought Storrs a suitable place for the location of such training facilities. The commissioner said that a careful study would have to be made to determine the location of such a project.

The expansion of the college's department of education, as favored by Professor Gentry, will be planned so that the training of teachers will fit those who graduate for teaching positions in secondary schools of this state. Professor Gentry pointed out that a recent survey conducted in Connecticut reveals that 85 per cent of the secondary school teachers in Connecticut schools received their training in some other state.

The appointment of a new man in the department of education at Storrs this February to take the place of Dr. James L. Hypes, professor of sociology and education, who will devote full time to sociology, was announced by Professor Gentry as part of the proposed plan of providing secondary school teacher training facilities.

A department of sociology will be established at Storrs which will take this phase of the work out of the department of education, it was said. It is expected that Dr. Hypes will head the sociology department. Another man will be appointed to teach educational psychology.

The biggest handicap in connection with offering secondary teacher training facilities at Storrs, according to Professor Gentry, is the lack of practice teaching facilities since there is no nearby junior high school where students may get practice. Willimantic is the nearest city with a high school and it is thought that Windham high school may be used for a time.

Professor Gentry said that the Connecticut Agricultural college is well equipped for teacher training work. He feels confident that within three years some solution will have been reached in making available adequate practice teaching facilities.

At one time the Storrs professor urged the town of Mansfield to build a junior high school wing in connection with the then proposed Storrs grammar school. Although the grammar school was built, the small districts of the town did not favor the junior high school because of fear of consolidation of the school system.

WITHDRAWAL IN SUIT AGAINST PROMPTER'S ESTATE

Withdrawal from the docket of the superior court has been filed here with the clerk of the court, John H. Walker, in the suit brought by Mrs. Charlotte E. Simms, of Sprague, a nurse, against the estate of Edwin L. Tinkham, late of Sprague of which the Thames Bank and Trust company is administrator.

Mr. Tinkham, who was a well known prompter for dances in this section for many years, died on July 29, 1929, and the suit was brought on the claim by Mrs. Simms that he had promised to leave her the income from his estate in consideration of her taking care of him during his lifetime.

NORWICH INN MANAGER IS GOING TO MIAMI

Noble C. Miller, who since last May has been resident manager of the Norwich inn, has resigned to become associated with a hotel at Miami, Fla. Mr. Miller's resignation becomes effective November 1st, and he will leave about November 5th for the south. Mr. Miller's successor at the Norwich inn has not yet been named. During his stay in Norwich Mr. Miller has made many friends who regret to learn that he is leaving. Before coming to Norwich Mr. Miller was associated with the True Temper inn at Wallingford, Vt.

WITHDRAWAL IN SUIT BROUGHT FOR DIVORCE

Notice has been filed with John H. Walker, clerk of the superior court, of the withdrawal from the docket of the court in the divorce suit brought by Elizabeth Riley Edwards of this city against Edwin J. Edwards, also of Norwich. The suit was brought on the grounds of intolerable cruelty since June 1, 1928. Mr. and Mrs. Edwards were married Aug. 14, 1916.

Women Voters' State Convention

The call to the tenth annual convention of the Connecticut League of Women Voters has been issued to the affiliated leagues by Miss Mary Bulkley of Hartford, state president. Seven hundred members of the league will be privileged to act as delegates at the two-day session to be held at the Hotel Stratfield in Bridgeport, November 19 and 20. A feature of the convention will be the round table discussions under the leadership of the chairmen of the league's standing committees on such subjects as the direct primary, the prevention of juvenile delinquency, unemployment, Muscle Shoals. A period of the first afternoon's program will be devoted to three aspects of "Modern Methods in Penal and Reform Institutions."

Applies For Scout Troop Charter.

Application for a charter for a Boy Scout troop has been made by George Gifford, chairman of the Elizabeth street school committee, and Franklin Robinson, acting scoutmaster. Ten Scouts, as follows, are on the charter list: Arthur S. Alquist, Sherman S. Clark, Henry Hankin, Ellsworth Robinson, Harry Rothman, Irving Rothman, Louis Rutchik, Samuel Sadinsky, Harry Wolfman, Alfred Shapiro.

Ray Schalk, former White Sox catcher, likely will be retained as a coach for the Chicago Cubs by Rogers Hornsby, new manager.

GIVEN JAIL SENTENCE IN LIEU OF FINE

Elmer J. Buddington, 22, of Groton, unable to pay a fine of $200 and costs imposed Wednesday morning in the city court, went to jail to serve a sentence of 60 days. When presented before the court he entered a plea of guilty of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor. At the time the fine was imposed Buddington felt that he could raise the money but was unable to do so. Judge Arthur F. Libby then substituted the jail sentence.

Buddington was arrested Tuesday afternoon in Thamesville near the city line, after the machine he was driving had collided with an automobile operated by Thomas M. Owen, of No. 228 Alden street, New Haven. Edward Lee, of Jewett City, who was riding in Buddington's machine, was cut about the scalp. Both machines were considerably damaged.

SUES FOR DIVORCE ON DOUBLE GROUNDS

Suit in the superior court has been brought by Elizabeth Elliott Finn, of Plainfield, who is a school teacher in New Bedford, Mass., for divorce from Daniel F. Finn, Jr., of Jewett City on the grounds of desertion and intolerable cruelty. The couple was married June 15, 1921, at Plainfield and have one child of which the mother seeks the custody. The suit is returnable in the superior court in November, having been filed Wednesday with Clerk John H. Walker.

For Driving Under Influence

Eastern Connecticut names in the list of 51 operators having had their licenses suspended for one year for driving under the influence of liquor, as announced this week by the state motor vehicle department, are the following: Edward W. Pearce, Jr., Groton; Eddy Deroches, Jewett City; Stanley Radgowski, Montville; Benjamin H. Sebastian, Mystic; Carl E. Burgess, Patrick E. King, Frank H. Redden, Harry H. White, New London.

Petition In Bankruptcy

In a bankruptcy petition in the district court at New Haven, Thomas Arvin, proprietor of the Arcadia Candy company with a retail store on Main street, this city, shows liabilities of $5,674.38 and assets of $1,010. Stock in trade is valued at $10, according to the bankruptcy schedule, while other assets comprise soda fountain, show cases and candy equipment. Referee in Bankruptcy Henry L. McGuire of New London has not yet set a date for the first meeting of creditors.

UNEASY ABOUT OUTCOME OF CONGRESSIONAL ELECTIONS

Republican and Democratic Leaders Continue to Say They Expect the Voters to Decide Their Way, But Neither is So Confident as to Allow a Let-Up—Both Parties Are Conducting Vigorous Campaigns, Especially in New England, New York, Ohio, Indiana, Missouri, Kentucky and Illinois

(By The Associated Press)

Pre-election campaigns have flamed into a crackling finale that is certain to have a bearing on the answer Tuesday to the big question—"Which party shall dominate the next congress?"

National officers of the republicans and the democrats continue to say they expect the voters to decide their way. But neither is so confident as to allow any let-up.

On the contrary, the intensity of the electioneering mounts. Speech after speech and statement after statement by prominent party men, clashing as forcibly as do their political faiths, increase the complexity as the day of balloting nears.

The proposition of upholding or repudiating President Hoover's policies and acts keeps affording fuel for controversy from one border to another. Linked with that conflict in many states is the prohibition issue. Still more tinder for the flames has been added in numerous sections by factional differences among party adherents. All in all, it looks as though there will be no way of telling who is being scorched until the Nov. 4 voting is over.

Both parties are concentrating especially in Ohio, Indiana, Missouri, Kentucky and Illinois, as well as New York and New England. The campaigns find personal and political considerations running together as one in numerous instances.

In Massachusetts last night, for example, Calvin Coolidge was called to the joustings for the first time since he moved out of the white house. He was motivated at least in part by loyalty to an old friend, William M. Butler, running again for the senate. The brief Coolidge theme, on the radio program from Springfield, was support of the republican state ticket in particular.

CONCISE STATEMENT BY RORABACK ON ISSUES OF THE STATE CAMPAIGN

HARTFORD, Oct. 30.—(AP)—"By a ratio of at least two to one, the popular mind approves the republican policy," says Chairman J. Henry Roraback of the republican state central committee in a message published in the Republican Bulletin, issued today. The democratic gubernatorial candidate, Chairman Roraback writes has made "an unqualified promise" to meet the requests of all groups of voters, "regardless of its cost and consequent burden upon the taxpayers."

His complete statement is as follows:

"The campaign now drawing to a close has been one of facts against fancies. The republican party has presented its continued record of progressive and sound government since 1915 together with its nominees of men all experienced in statecraft while the democrats have a ticket made up, with but one minor exception, of men who have never held a representative office in the state government.

"The republicans have promised a continuation of the excellent government of the past 16 years and their past performances constitute a good and sufficient guarantee of their promise.

"The democratic candidate for governor, who has been that party's chief spokesman, has met every request from any group of voters, large or small, with an unqualified promise to meet the request regardless of its cost and consequent burden upon the taxpayers. Promises of this type, if met would call for the expenditure of millions of dollars annually. No suggestion of producing revenue to meet these promises other than a resort to bond issues, has been made. On the other hand, the republicans have promised a continuation of the state's well-balanced policy of spending no more annually than can be raised without undue burden on those paying the bills—the taxpayers.

"No shadow of doubt exists as to which policy has the great preponderating endorsement of the voters in Connecticut. By a vote ratio of at least two to one the popular mind approves of the republican policy. To make this approval a concrete fact you must vote according to your convictions on Nov. 4, and upon you, my associated workers, rests the task of seeing that this is done.

"You have my every confidence and gratitude for past accomplishments."

The Republican Bulletin is published weekly during each campaign and is distributed to party workers throughout the state.

A PERTINENT QUESTION TO CROSS PROPOUNDED BY ROGERS

WATERBURY, Oct. 30.— (AP) —In every campaign the democrats have discarded some of their former planks and chosen new ones, Lieut. Gov. Ernest E. Rogers, republican nominee for governor, declared at a republican dinner here tonight. He asked Dean Cross if he would endorse in this campaign some of the former planks of the party such as abolition of the gasoline tax, and expressed wonder as to which of this year's democratic planks will be dropped next year.

State Treasurer Samuel Spencer, Roy E. Wilcox, candidate for treasurer; Judge Warren Burrows, candidate for attorney general, and E. W Goss, candidate for congress; Miss Katherine Byrne, republican state vice-chairman, also spoke. The dinner held at the Elton was in honor of Mr. Goss' nomination. The republican town committee, of which he was formerly chairman, presented him with a platinum wrist watch.

KIDNAPERS OF BANKER YOCUM ARE IN CUSTODY

KEWANEE, Ill., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Verne Algreen, Galva mechanic, made an oral confession today, Police Chief John B. Krumtinger said, implicating himself and three other Henry county men in the kidnaping of Earl Yocum, Galva bank president, who was released on his promise to pay $10,000. The others implicated were Lloyd Winslow and Orville and Harry Whiskers. The latter is in jail at Cambridge.

Instead of leaving the money at an agreed spot, the confession revealed, Yocum deposited a wooden block wrapped in paper.

Chief of Police Krumtinger and a representative of the Bankers association seized Algreen in a farm house near Kewanee today.

Harry Whiskers was arrested Tuesday at his home in Kewanee by Sheriff Charles Nash. Warrants for the arrest of all four men were obtained by Nash last Monday after he received information from Ed McKee, a farmer, that the men had offered $100 a day for the use of McKee's farm to hold Yocum.

The first ransom demand, Algreen was reported to have confessed, was for $200,000. The amount was cut to $100,000, then $50,000 and finally to various small amounts.

Yocum at last offered to pay $10,000 after his release, Krumtinger said he learned from the confession. The money was to be left last night by a white flag along a roadside.

The extortionists kept the rendezvous, found the white flag and a package. It contained a wooden block.

POLI, JACOB AND SHUBERT DENIED AN INJUNCTION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30. — (AP) — Sylvester Z. Poli and Jacob and Lee Shubert, New York theatre magnates, today were refused a preliminary injunction to restrain Secretary Mellon and a contracting firm from razing the old Poli's theatre at 15th and Henna avenue. A park will be laid out in the block embracing the theatre.

NOBEL PRIZE AWARDED DR. KARL LANDSTEINER

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Oct. 30.—(AP)—The Nobel prize in medicine for 1930 was awarded tonight to Dr. Karl Landsteiner of New York, connected with the Rockefeller Institute of Medical Research.

The award was made for Dr. Landsteiner's discoveries and research in classifying different kinds of human blood.

BREACH BETWEEN CHINA AND RUSSIA WIDENING

(By The Associated Press)

Possibility of renewal of armed controversy with Russia over control of the Chinese Eastern railway, has added to the unrest among China's huge population of more than 400,000,000 just emerging from civil war and struggling with bandit and communist armies.

Russian and Chinese soldiers have been reported aligning against each other along the borders of Siberia and Manchuria owing to threatened cessation at Moscow of negotiations for settlement of the railway question.

Chinese delegates, asserting China's delegate to the Khabarovsk conference in December had exceeded his authority in granting reinstatement of Russian managers and employes of the railway, were said to be preparing to leave the Moscow meeting called for ratification of the Khabarovsk protocol.

With soviet and Manchurian troops making hostile demonstrations, the situation was similar to that which resulted last year in soviet armed invasion and occupation of several Manchurian border towns precedent to China's forced signing of the protocol

Temporarily at least, rebellion of northern militarists against the national government appeared ended.

BRUSH FIRE BURNS OVER 30,000 ACRES IN CALIFORNIA

VENTURA, Cal., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Fire rolling through brush-covered watersheds of Ventura county's mountain ridges today counted three fire-fighters as injured victims and 30,000 acres of blackened land as its conquered domain.

Several hundred men, hurling their strategy against the on-rolling tide of flames, hoped to control the largest fire tonight. This hope hung on the condition an east wind continues to weaken. It had abated slowly during the day.

Three fire-fighters have been taken to hospitals.

SUBSTANTIAL REPUBLICAN VICTORY IN STATE INDICATED

HARTFORD, Oct. 30.—(AP)—"Very satisfactory reports indicating a very substantial republican majority," on election day, were presented by members of the republican state central committee at a meeting today at the Hartford club. The meeting was the usual pre-election gathering of the committee at which the leaders from the various senatorial districts present their estimates of the prospects for election day. A luncheon preceded the business meeting

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Scores of extra police were called into traffic service to attempt to straighten out an almost inextricable tangle caused by mechanical failure of the drawbridge on the Lincoln highway over the Hackensack river.

VARGAS DUE AT RIO DE JANEIRO THIS MORNING

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 30.—(AP)—The first contingent of gaucho troops, the cowboy soldiers from the pampas of Rio Grande Do Sul who warred against the federals for three weeks, arrived in the federal capital tonight for a rousing acclamation.

Bronzed and sturdy, the southern cavalrymen pushed through cheering crowds along the tree-lined Avenidas, preceded by husky infantrymen from the same section.

It was this type of soldier which opposed the federals in the Sao Paulo-Parana sector after the revolution began Oct. 3 until it ended with the ousting of the Washington Luis administration a week ago.

Getulio Vargas, the rebel generalissimo who has been designated provisional president of Brazil, was still in Sao Paulo tonight but it was understood that he planned to leave later and arrive here early tomorrow morning.

Vargas reached Sao Paulo from the south in a special train last night. Dispatches from that city say he did not come on to the capital immediately because he desired to await the assembling of sufficient railway rolling stock to move more of his troops up at the same time. Thirty thousand southern soldiers will be scattered throughout Sao Paulo state, revolutionary leaders say, and 60,000 others will come into the federal district.

FORMER DICTATOR PANGALOS OF GREECE IS UNDER ARREST

ATHENS, Greece, Oct. 30.—(AP)—The Greek government today arrested General Theodorus Pangalos, dictator of the country in 1926, and rounded up 27 army officers and civilians in suppressing what it charged was a conspiracy to reinstate General Pangalos in his former powers.

The general was arrested at Eleusis but said he was unaware of the existence of any seditious movement. He was brought back to Athens and placed in solitary confinement.

Premier Eleutherios Venizelos, against whom the conspiracy is alleged to have been directed, is at present in Turkey, visiting Mustapha Kemal at Angora.

Police last night surprised a meeting of army men and civilians who were accused of plotting to reestablish the dictatorship of Pangalos.

Many other conspirators are believed to have escaped. They were warned by the accidental discharge of a rifle by a soldier among the forces surrounding the house of the director of the telegraph office, where the arrests were made.

CONDITION OF BISHOP CANNON IS UNCHANGED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—(AP)—The condition of Bishop James Cannon, Jr., who suffered a slight relapse today, was reported tonight to be unchanged.

Dr. R. Lyman Sexton, his physician, said the Southern Methodist clergyman was suffering considerable pain from the spread of inflammatory arthritis from his right foot to his right hand and left foot and knee.

"This gives cause for some concern," Dr. Sexton added.

Bishop Cannon entered Sibley hospital last Saturday.

WATER FRONT STRIKE IN TEXAS GULF PORTS

GALVESTON, Tex., Oct. 30.—(AP)—A general water front strike involving the ports of Galveston, Houston, Texas City and Corpus Christi was called here tonight by the longshoremen's unions.

The strike followed a wage controversy which was believed satisfactorily settled Oct. 12. In the meantime, a difference of opinion arose and the longshoremen's representatives refused to sign the formal wage agreement.

The dispute hinged on vessels employed in the West Indies and Cuba trade by Likes Brothers, steamship company. The longshoremen demanded the regular scale of 80 cents an hour for work on these ships, while the company wished to pay the coastwise rate of 65 cents an hour. About 3,500 men, 1,500 in Galveston, are involved.

THREATS OF BOMBING BY SACRAMENTO COMMUNISTS

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Chief William M. Hallanan late today ordered day and night police shifts on continuous duty after communists threatened to bomb employment agencies if they attempted to open tomorrow. Police reserves were scattered throughout the business and water front sections, where many unemployed men gathered.

Machine guns were mounted at the station and tear gas bombs were distributed to more than 25 officers. The entire police force was summoned and every man heavily armed. Chief William Hallanan expressed fear serious trouble might develop.

The radicals had several street brawls although none was seriously injured. The trouble was largely confined to their own ranks.

While forces stood ready at the police station, detectives and patrolmen raided the local communist headquarters.

CAMPAIGN TO STABILIZE THE NITRATE INDUSTRY

SANTIAGO, Chile, Oct. 30.—(AP)—The Associated Press learned today that the final and most important step in the international campaign to stabilize the nitrate industry will take place in Wall street late in November and early in December.

Plans for the conferences in New York to finance a $360,000,000 cooperative company known to the nitrate producers as the "Cosach" were given here by Alfred Houston, general manager of the Guggenheim interests in Chile and member of the Cosach board of directors.

His announcement followed the departure for the United States of representatives of private interests identified with the Cosach.

Campaign Address By Calvin Coolidge

Urges Election of Republican Governor and U. S. Senator in Bay State

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Calvin Coolidge emerged from the obscurity of private life for 15 minutes tonight and defended, in a radio address, the efforts of the republican administration to cope with the recent business depression. In his address, designed chiefly for Massachusetts voters, he urged the election of the republican candidates in this state for governor and U. S. senator.

Speaking from stations WBZ-WBZA under the auspices of the state republican committee, the former president urged the re-election of Gov. Frank G. Allen and the election to the U. S. senate of his former campaign manager, William M. Butler.

"It is no time for rash experiments in men or measures," he said. Commenting upon criticism of President Hoover, he declared that "if there was one action that could have been taken by the government of the U. S. which would have prevented the trouble that has arisen all over the world, no one has convincingly stated it."

He referred to the efforts of President Hoover to relieve unemployment and declared it was the duty of all citizens and "particularly all public officers without respect to party, not only to co-operate but to refrain from groundless and reckless statements which can only retard the return of that public confidence so necessary to increased prosperity."

The address of the former president in behalf of the republican candidates followed by two nights the personal appearance at a democratic rally in Boston of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, of New York. Smith advocated in a speech that also was broadcast the election of the democratic opponents of Allen and Butler, Joseph B. Ely and Marcus A. Coolidge.

FREIGHTER THROWN AGAINST DOCKS BY AN EARTHQUAKE

ANCONA, Italy, Oct. 30.—(AP)—The American freighter Labette was thrown violently against the dock by the earthquake which shook Ancona this morning and her crew fled to land. The ship was slightly damaged, as the mooring rope broke and the churning waters forced the vessel against the pier.

DECREASE IN LOANS TO BROKERS AND DEALERS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.— (AP) — Loans to brokers and dealers held by New York Federal Reserve members banks for the week ending Oct. 29 were announced by the federal reserve board today as $2,512,000,000, representing a decrease of $101,000,000, as compared with the preceding week.

Baldwin Upheld By Conservative Party

Former Premier of [illegible] Britain Accorded [illegible]fidence By Vote of 4[illegible] 116

LONDON, Oct [illegible] (AP) —Stanley Baldwin went [illegible] a full conservative party m[illegible] today for judgment on his [illegible]rship and was accorded its con[illegible]ence by a vote of 462 to 116.

The philisophical former premier, who has never made any secret of his preference 'for pigs to politics, was not in the hall when the actual voting took place. He stalked into the private session at Carton hall, where some 600 conservative peers, members of commons and candidates had gathered to sit in judgment on his direction, and in a vigorous speech outlined his proposed policy for the conservative party.

This Mr. Baldwin defined as the policy of the "free hand" on fiscal matters, referring to such problems as tariffs, and asked a show of hands for a decision.

"I always bow to the will of my party," he said, "and if, after discussion, you think it fit to tell me that you desire another leader I will walk out with no malice in my heart; I will retire from politics."

Then he left, to learn later that the meeting had voted confidence in the leader and his party by 4 to 1. He was cheered as he left, and as he entered the house of commons later in the day his followers gave another tremendous cheer.

One leading figure refused to join the show of hands for the former premier. He was Lord Beaverbrook, proprietor of the Daily Express, who for months has waged war against Baldwin. When the newspaper peer arose to speak later he was booed by some of his hearers.

Colonel John Gretton, said to have presided over a conservative meeting this week at which 44 party members were alleged to have signed a petition protesting against Mr. Baldwin's leadership, was the chief speaker supporting a change in party direction. He declared that Mr. Baldwin's policy did not go far enough.

The leader's chief supporter was Lord Hailsham, the former Douglas Hogg, a member of the Boldwin ministry from 1924 to 1929 and lord high chancellor in the last year of that period. He declared that without a quota scheme of wheat purchases, such as advocated by Mr. Baldwin, any tariff would be useless because it would not keep out dumped Russian grain.

Lord Hailshaw added that the conservative chieftain's qualities far exceeded his demerits.

"Who could succeed Baldwin?" he demanded.

"Yourself," some of the members cried.

But Lord Hailshaw shook his head.

THREE EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS ON UPPER ADRIATIC COAST

At Least 15 Lives Were Lost and Several Hundred Persons Injured—Property Damage Was Enormous—The Quake Struck Terror to a Score of Towns and Villages Across 1,000 Square Miles of Northeastern Italy—Work Was Suspended With the First Wave of Panic and Crowds Gathered in the Public Squares

SENIGALLIA, Italy, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Three earthquake shocks struck numerous cities along the upper Adriatic coast today, taking at least fifteen lives and injuring several hundred persons.

Property damage was enormous but it was considered remarkable that the toll of lives was not greater, for scarcely a building in the cities of Ancona and Senigallia escaped damage and the quake struck terror to a score of towns and villages across 1,000 square miles of northeastern Italy.

Casualty figures were made available by the ministry of the interior, and though it was almost certain they would increase, it was thought unlikely that more than 35 or 40 had been killed in all.

The first shock came shortly after 8 a. m., and lasted 20 minutes. There was a tremendous booming from the sea before Senigallia's chimney pots rattled into the streets.

At Ancona the marble front of the provincial headquarters palace toppled into the Piazza Roma and a wall of the Church of the Holy Sacrament collapsed.

It was feared for a time that heavy casualties would be reported from isolated inland towns, which happened in the earthquake which struck last July somewhat to the south of today's disturbance. But as communication was restored and town after town reported, it appeared that the heaviest damage was in Ancona and Senigallia.

Five were killed at Ancona and 50 injured. Ten dead and more than 100 injured were listed here.

Airplanes were sent to reconnoiter the isolated sections and determine the extent of damage, but railway service northward from Ancona was not interrupted and trains ran slowly between Ancona and Monte Marchiano.

The epicenter of the quake was in the Adriatic sea off Senigallia and its area extended for many miles along the coast, across the upper portion of the peninsula, through the Imbrian and Picenum hills, the northern range of the Apennines and on to the northward of last July's quake done, where 1,500 perished.

Among the towns which reported damage were Arezzo, Ravenna, Fano, Frabriano, Marberata, Mondalfa, Morozzo, Grottmare, Faenza and Berazzo. Smaller villages also were hard hit and detachments of soldiers were sent to each place.

The hospital here was quickly filled and bath-houses along the beach were commandeered as emergency dressing stations, soldiers brought in camp cots and helped carry the dead and injured from the streets.

In Ancona one of the dead was a child buried under the collapsing facade of a church. Another was Alfredo Moresi, a custome agent, the father of six children. At Cassero, a two-year-old boy was killed.

Work was suspended with the first wave of panic and crowds gathered in the public squares. They were there as planes swung low over the stricken districts and when two slight remors followed the first quake.

The three shocks were felt in a wide area from Trieste to Naples and Rome, but the heaviest damage was in a 25-mile semi-circle. The Adriatic boiled but there was no tidal wave.

Military relief parties searched homes and buildings for refugees trapped by fallen walls. Occasionally they found them.

Women rushed frantically about the streets searching for their children; some knelt in the squares and prayed, others conquered their fear of crumbling walls and entered the churches.

Relief was heading into the mountains, whose villages have been silent since the first shock, but it probably will be days before the real situation there is known.

FIVE MEN ACCUSED OF CONSPIRACY TO KIDNAP

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 30.—(AP) — Five men were arraigned in police court today accused of conspiracy to kidnap a prominent Montreal physician and turn him over to gangsters in the United States to be held for ransom.

Dr. Paul Lalanne informed police he had been followed for several days and believed he was to be kidnaped last night.

Police secreted themselves in the physician's home and in adjoining buildings and awaited developments. About midnight, police said, an automobile occupied by five men drove up in front of Dr. Lalanne's house. Two men got out and went to the door. They were admitted and seized. Two others in a few minutes followed their companions to the door. They also were seized. The fifth man escaped, the authorities said, but was arrested today.

Police declared the men were to seize Dr. Lalanne and take him to a rendezvous near St. John's, Que., where they were to be met by the gangsters from the other side of the border. Detectives waited at the spot all night but no one appeared.

CHICAGO POLICEMAN SHOT BY GANGSTERS

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—(AP)— Killers went gunning by daylight today, sprayed a Maywood street car with shotgun slugs and felled but failed to silence their quarry, a policeman whose testimony was needed to send his comrade's murderer to the gallows. A hail of bullets and slugs broke the jaw of Sergeant James McBride and imperiled and stampeded a dozen fellow passengers.

Barring a fatal infection, surgeons said McBride would live to tell a jury of the gun battle five years ago in which "Three Fingered" Jack White shot to death another policeman and wounded McBride. Once sentenced to life imprisonment for the crime, White won a reversal in the state supreme court and was never brought to trial again.

HERBERT HOOVER, JR., HAS IMPROVED PHYSICALLY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—(AP) — Improved physically after six weeks at President Hoover's lodge in the Virginia mountains, Herbert Hoover, Jr., is to leave the white house tomorrow night for Asheville, N. C., to convalesce from his illness.

He was brought from the lodge to the capital late yesterday by Captain Joel T. Boone, the white house physician, who will accompany him to Asheville on the train.

The physician said the president's 27-year-old son had shown splendid improvement and returned to Washington heavier and with a deep coat of tan. Nothing had occurred, Dr. Boone said, to change his previous statement that an early and complete recovery from the localized tubercular infection was probable.

WOULDN'T TELL A LIE TO SAVE HER HUSBAND

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—(AP)—A wife who couldn't tell a lie took the witness stand today in Jefferson Market court and identified a revolver and a makeshift mask as belonging to her husband, charged with a holdup.

Between sobs, she said the revolver was the one her husband had had since his discharge from the army and that the mask was made from a shirt she had bought him.

The husband, Michael Charlton, a laborer, is accused of holding up Charles Gelan, of Union City, N. J., in a Tenth avenue furniture store and stealing $105.

"I wouldn't tell a lie for anybody," the wife, Jennie, 33, cried in court.

MEETING WITH COMMUNISTS DESCRIBED BY MAYOR WALKER

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—(AP)—An exchange of epithets like "grafting politician" and "whelp" between the mayor of New York and a communist was described today by Mayor Walker in testimony at a hearing on a charge of unlawful assembly against Sam Nesin, the communist.

A description of disorders in the City hall and in City Hall park two weeks ago which followed ejection of Nesin and two fellow defendants from a board of estimate meeting was ruled out as evidence by Chief Magistrate Corrigan, who adjourned the hearing until tomorrow after the mayor's appearance on the stand.

Magistrate Corrigan earlier dismissed charges of disorderly conduct against J. Louis Engdahl, communist candidate for lieutenant-governor, and two women communists after a mounted policeman testified they had sought to address a crowd in City Hall park. The magistrate declared the testimony was "not ample" to prove the charges.

Mayor Walker declared he had offered to thrash Nesin after the communist had shouted that representatives of labor and unemployed groups "were railroaded to jail by grafting politicians."

"It was then," the mayor said, "that I called him a whelp and accused him of taking advantage of the government and institutions that granted him freedom of speech. I told him that if it weren't for the gavel, laying it down, that I would thrash him."

CLAIM MAN WAS KILLED BY COAST GUARDSMEN'S BULLETS

KEY WEST, Fla., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Three men captured with a small liquor boat near here last night charged at their arraignment today that a fourth passenger aboard the craft was killed by coast guardsmen's bullets.

Boatswain's Mate H. B. Bowery, in command of the coast guard boat which made the seizure, said fire was directed over the liquor boat to enforce orders to slow down. He denied anyone was killed.

Bowery said the man alleged to have been shot was identified as Willie Demerritt, who, he said, had been on three rum boats captured in these waters, and has escaped each time by jumping overboard and swimming to shore.

Joe Parks, Francisco Perez and Juan Pino were unable to make $3,000 bond on charges of operating the boat, and were remanded to jail.

RUTH HANNA M'CORMICK PUT HECKLERS IN HOLE

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Hecklers failed to heckle Ruth Hanna McCormick at a Loop theatre meeting today.

The republican senatorial nominee had predicted a republican landslide Nov. 4

"Five thousand on Lewis!" a heckler cried.

Others joined in.

"Come around back stage," Mrs. McCormick cried out, "and I'll cover all your money."

Down front, a McCormick supporter called out:

"Put up or shut up."

"That's it," shouted Mrs. McCormick. "Put up or shut up."

FELL TWO STORIES WHILE HANGING OUT CLOTHES TO DRY

GREENWICH, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Losing her balance, Mrs. August Heur, 80, today fell from a second story porch to the ground while hanging clothes out to dry. It is thought that her back may have been broken.

A week ago her son, Robert, 15, lost four fingers on his right hand when a dynamite cap with which he was playing exploded in his hand.

CHARITY ORGANIZATIONS TRY NOT TO DUPLICATE WORK

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 31.—With a view of securing a more complete distribution of local charities, representatives of the various charitable organizations of the city have entered into conference. The possibility of over-lapping in taking care of needy families is being studied. The welfare bureau has acted as a clearing house for information as to needy families, but although this work has been done effectively, the growing demands for charity have led the organizations to following a plan, or system, sponsored by the chamber of commerce. The town of Windham appropriates $950 a year to the welfare bureau, this same appropriation having been granted without increase for the past 15 years. It is the experience of the selectmen that lack of time forbids a thorough investigation of appeals for aid made to the town, this being a duty which falls almost entirely on the first selectman.

Among organizations which have been working among the needy for some years and which are represented in the conference are: The welfare bureau, lodge of Elks, Veterans of Foreign Wars, American Legion post and their auxiliaries, Catholic welfare council, St. Vincent de Paul societies and the town of Windham, through First Selectman Albert L. French.

Owing to the fact that the state does not maintain a free employment bureau in this city the chamber of commerce offers to act in such an endeavor to secure work and employment for those who need it. Citizens are asked to communicate with the chamber of commerce if they have any work to be done even though it is for only a day. Persons seeking employment will be privileged to register at the chamber of commerce. A means will thus be provided for assisting those who have work to be done and those who need the employment.

Captains of teams in the Willimantic women's division of the $300,000 campaign for the new Windham Community Memorial hospital have formally organized in preparation to completing the full roster of the teams and beginning work later this month. Mrs. Christopher C. Case is chairman of the division which includes the following captains and leaders: Mrs. William A. Buck, Mrs. Helen Boss Cummings, Mrs. William A. Dawson, Mrs. Robert H. Fenton, Mrs. Albert J. Fournier, Mrs. William E. Hendry, Mrs. James H. Hurley, Mrs. H. Clinton Lathrop, Mrs. R. L. McBee, Mrs. H. C. Murray, Mrs. Edward J. Ottenheimer, Miss Inez Paton, Mrs. John Reilly, Mrs. Jennie R. Scripture, Mrs. Albert B. Smith, Miss Clarie A. Stiles, Mrs. George F. Taylor, Mrs. Albert E. Welch, Mrs. Oliver L. Willard and Mrs. Clifford E. Williams.

Ashford Republican Rally

An old-fashioned "bang-up" rally has been arranged by the Ashford republicans to be held in Knowlton Memorial hall Friday evening. There will be three talented speakers: Samuel R. Spencer, republican candidate for lieutenant governor; George M. Cohen, assistant district attorney, and Miss Marjorie Cheney, representative from Manchester. Attorney Sabin S. Russell of Danielson, new member of the state central committee, will be chairman of the evening and several prominent candidates and members of the party, including Sheriff Charles A. Gates of this city, will be seated on the platform. Music will be furnished by Nelson Frink and his orchestra.

Miss Dorothy Smith, who is to leave to reside in Hartford soon, was tendered a farewell party by the officers of Radiant chapter, No. 11, O. E. S., at the home of the worthy matron, Mrs. Edith M. Phelps on Lewiston avenue, Wednesday evening. Miss Smith was presented with a crystal necklace, the presentation being made by Mrs. Edith Larkin. Invited guests included Mrs. Walter Smith, Mrs. Oliver L. Willard, Mrs. Earle Hating and Mrs. Walter Grant.

An enrollment of 26 boys between the ages of seven and 12 years has been made in the Gold Sar post, No. 1724, V. F. W.'s new fife, bugle and drum corps. Instructors Lewye N. Gerry, William Clarke and Victor Brunnell gave an outline of the proposed activities of the corps.

The democratic rally to be held in the town hall here Friday evening will bring to the platform at least four candidates on the state ticket and a party candidate for congress in a discussion of the campaign issues. Dean Wilbur L. Cross, candidate for governor, will be heard first and then leave at once to speak at a rally in Putnam. The other speakers scheduled are: Daniel J. Leary of Waterbury, candidate for lieutenant governor; Alton T. Miner of New London, candidate for secretary of state; David A. Wilson of Hartford, candidate for attorney general, and William C. Fox of New London, candidate for congress in the second district.

Members of the Willimantic Women's club attending the fall meeting of the state federation in Enfield Wednesday were: Mrs. Charles W. Tryon, Mrs. James B. Fullerton, Mrs. Carl R. Alford, Mrs. Frederick E. Wilcox, Mrs. Frederick R. Noble, Mrs. Frederick W. Staebner, Mrs. George H. Shafer, Mrs. Darious M. Bennett and Mrs. Henry L. Hunt.

FUNERALS

William T. Curry

The funeral of William T. Curry was held this afternoon with services in the Goshen Congregational church at 2 o'clock. Rev. John H. Knott and Rev. Mr. Canney officiated. Burial was in the Goshen cemetery, Lebanon.

Mrs. Rosa T. Witte

Services for Mrs. Rosa T. Witte were held at the home in South Coventry this afternoon at 1 o'clock with Rev. Charles G. Johnson officiating. Burial was in the Nathan Hale cemetery of that town. Arrangements were by Avery and VanZandt.

The color team of A. C. Tyler auxiliary, No. 14, U. S. W. V., exemplified the degree work at the meeting of Oliver J. Carey auxiliary, No. 23, of Stafford Springs, held Wednesday night. Past Department President Minnie Flynn, Catherine Joyce, department chaplain; Marcelline English, department aide, and Emma Doyle, department musician, were among state officers present.

The assignment of patrolmen to beats for the month of November has been announced by Chief Thomas F. Grady as follows: Roderick Lariviere, center Main street; Albert Montie, Jackson street; F. R. Laramie, lower Main; Leo Piche, upper Main; William Hurley, Pleasant street; Arthur Hurley, relief duty; John Killourey and Peter Marrotte, day traffic duty; Ralph Burchnall, station duty; Gilbert Blackburn, John Lutton and Joseph Lachappelle, supernumerary duty at fires.

Violet Rebekah lodge, No. 57, I. O. O. F., gave a public whist with 11 tables in play in the lodge hall Wednesday evening. Awards went to Mrs. Alice D. Stoughton and M. Hansen, first; Mrs. A. P. Benner and William Smith, second; Mrs. Alice Bedard and Rufus Ives, consolation.

Charged with appropriating for his own use four checks aggregating $50, Alphonse Martineau of this city was given a jail sentence of 90 days in police court today. He pleaded guilty. The checks were drafted by Joseph, Mary, Marie Cecelia and Marie Jane Blanchette and the offense was committed some time ago.

An excellent showing for the collection of city taxes on the grand list of 1929 has been made by City Clerk Arthur L. Clark, who is also collector of the tax. City Clerk Clark reports collections to date of $187,072.84, representing about 90 per cent of the collectible amount of $209,193.27, which is on the basis of 10 mills on the city grand list of $20,919.327.

Farmers throughout this district report improvement on the supply of water since the rains of the past two days. A rise of several inches is reported in the Mt. Hope, Fenton and Natchaug rivers. The water at the city supply reservoir at Mansfield has risen from 30 inches below normal some weeks ago to but six inches below the level of the dam.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fryer left today for Lynn Haven, Fla., where they will remain until April. They will call on their son, H. Douglas Fryer in New York on their way. Mrs. Fryer was tendered a farewell luncheon in the vestry of the First Baptist church by members of her Sunday school class earlier in the week.

Waltet H. Griggs of this city and his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Griggs of Chaplain, have returned from an automobile trip through New York, New Hampshire and Vermont.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert V. Caulfield left today for a visit in New York city.

Mrs. Harold T. Robinson of Norwich was guest at a meeting of the Hill club with Miss Elizabeth Hardman Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. G. Everett Harrington, Mrs. Margery B. Church and Mrs. George F. Stiles were awarded card prizes.

HANOVER

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Crofts of Wakefield, R. I., spent Sunday with Mr. Crofts' parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Crofts.

William G. Park and Frederick W. Lebourveau witnessed the game at Harvard Saturday last.

Miss Eunice Lebourveau of Boston university, and Allan Lebourveau, Yale, '33, and his friend, Harvey Basswood, of Scarsdale, N. Y., after seeing the game at New Haven, came to the Lebourveau home on the North Terrace for over Sunday.

Guests at the Gessher home on the North Terrace over Sunday included James MacFaddan and a friend from Malden, Mass., on their way home from the Yale-Army game at New Haven.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Blackburn and Miss Florence Blackburn drove to Providence Sunday morning, and had the privilege of attending some of the services held at the Roger Williams Memorial Baptist church, this being the church in which Mr. Blackburn worshipped for a number of months when he first came to this country from England. "Some changes down there since then," he declares.

The Hanover church was represented at the semi-annual meeting of the Congregational churches of New London county Tuesday, at Park church, Norwich, by the pastor, and the delegates, Mrs. Henry B. Hazen and Mrs. Robinson W. Dean.

Mr. and Mrs. Algernon Gallup of Pawtucket attended the church service with their sisters Sunday morning.

The pastor of Taftville Congregational church, Rev. William Penner, and twenty-three of the young people from their society joined with the Young People's society of the Hanover Congregational church at the service Sunday evening, Oct. 19th. At the service Sunday evening, the 26th, which was conducted by Mrs. Henry B. Hazen, reports from the guest book were introduced. This novel change made a very pleasing variety and added much to the interest of the meeting.

Mrs. Fred Buck, Mrs. Albert Fort and Miss Jean Stewart, with Miss Stewart's mother, from Stonington, were callers at the parsonage-by-the-pines Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Dwight C. Stone attended the wedding of her only brother's only son, John Otis Barrows, of New York city, in Boston Saturday afternoon. Her nephew, Richard Beverly Ussher, of the South high school, Worcester, came home with her, returning to Worcester for his studies Sunday afternoon.

INJURIES RECEIVED WHEN HIT BY AUTO PROVE FATAL TO G. T. PLATT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 31.—Taking a somewhat unexpected turn for the worse, George Thomas Platt, 61, of Andover, a mail messenger, died in St. Joseph's hospital this afternoon from injuries sustained when he was struck by an automobile in Andover late Monday afternoon. The name of the driver of the car was given out at the Stafford Springs state police barracks as Sumner C. Lang, a resident of West Somersville, Mass. The driver was described by relatives of Mr. Platt as being 70 years of age and totally or partly blind in one eye. Further information was unattainable as State Policeman Henry Zehrer, who has the investigation in charge, was away during the day on another matter.

Mr. Platt sustained a fractured collar bone, a ruptured kidney, several fractured ribs and a broken leg in the accident. The remains were viewed at the hospital by Medical Examiner Dr. C. E. Simonds, who in turn summoned County Coroner Arthur G. Bill of Danielson. Coroner Bill came here later in the afternoon and after giving permission for removal of the body by Avery and VanZandt, announced that he would hold his inquest in a week or 10 days. Owing to the absence of the investigating officer the coroner was unable to assemble the witnesses today.

Mr. Platt was struck while carrying mail in a wheelbarrow from the railroad station to the post office in Andover. It is claimed that the Massachusetts car had just met another machine at the time and that the driver was blinded by the oncoming headlights. The aged messenger was thrown to the road and the automobile was somewhat damaged by the impact with the wheelbarrow. Although Mr. Platt's injuries were considered severe his death this afternoon came as a surprise to Andover residents.

The deceased was born in Ashford, December 25, 1868, a son of George and Nancy Chapman Platt. Besides his wife he is survived by one son, George W. Platt of Andover, and one sister, Mrs. Stella Badger of this city.

Alfred D. Marchand is ill at his home in Hydeville.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT REPUBLICAN RALLY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 30. — About 600 party members, many of them women, attended an enthusiastic republican rally held in the town hall tonight. There were four speakers, all of whom presented messages of inspiration and interest. They were: Benedict M. Holden, of Hartford; Frances L. Roth, prosecuting attorney of New Haven; Philip Erard, health commissioner of Springfield, Mass., and Newton W. Gilbert, of New York, former U. S. congressman from Indiana and former governor of the Philippines. The speakers were introduced by A. L. Weatherhead, chairman of the rally.

Selections between the speeches were by the Willimantic Glee club of 30 voices, led by Dr. E. J. Morgan and the Peerless orchestra, led by R. C. Fletcher. Seated on the platform were prominent candidates, including Sheriff Charles A. Gates, Andrew T. J. Clarke of Canterbury, candidate for state senator; Charles B. Pomeroy and C. A. Lamoureux, Windham candidates for representatives, and Attorney John B. Harvey, candidate for judge of probate.

Mr. Holden was the first speaker and he was introduced as a Spanish and World war veteran. He concentrated his talk to a review of the qualifications of all the candidates from Ernest E. Rogers down the line to the town and county officers. He stated that there has been no comment from the opposition on the care of the needy veterans and their families, a work which he claims has been mapped out by the republicans for the future. He mentioned proposed enlargements at the Noroton home and the American Legion fund. Attorney Holden also spoke of the wonderful highways which Connecticut has and which are paid for. He said the republican party in seeking candidates looked for ability rather than for the mere desire of a man to run for office.

In mentioning the democratic movement for an old age pension fund, he called attention to the sad experiments in this line being made in New York and Massachusetts, where three to four dollars has to be collected in order that one dollar may reach the person for whom the fund is intended.

Miss Roath confined her remarks to the splendid work which the republican party of this state has done in building and maintaining state institutions which she classified as being superior to any in the United States. She based this statement on a survey of state institutions which she has made in the 48 states in the Union. She predicted that if the republicans are re-elected there will be a bed provided for every tubercular patient in the state by the first of the year and she mentioned the $5,000,000 programme for the state's feeble-minded, needy and sick which has been outlined for the new administration.

Mr. Erard delivered most of his talk in the French language and made a strong appeal to the Franco-Americans to support and be loyal to the republican party as the one party that has been sympathetic and has offered full recognition to the Franco-Americans. During his speech he paid tribute to Connecticut for its humane government. His forceful address was well received by his hearers in both languages.

Former Congressman Gilbert was the final speaker, his remarks being confined to national issues on which he presented many interesting facts and figures. He scored the democrats severely for blaming President Hoover and the republican administration for the business depression which this country is now experiencing, stating that there was no human being, president or otherwise, or any political party that could have halted the depression period. The speakers presented statistics showing that other countries have been swept and are still in the grip of a world-wide depression that this country could not escape but yet has not felt as severely as all other countries.

He spoke on the promises of the republican party at Kansas City and explained how they all been carried out, mentioning the tax reductions. While paying $1,700,000,000 from the public debt, the appropriation of $750,000,000 this year for the veterans and their families, the protective tariff and the merchant marine. He closed with a plea for the staunch support of Congressman Freeman, who has always worked for the best interest of his state and his party.

DANIELSON

J. H. WINSLOW DIES FOLLOWING LONG ILLNESS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 30.—During last night the death of John H. Winslow occurred at his home on Morin avenue. He had been in failing health for some time and recently had been a patient for observation at St. Vincent's hospital in Worcester. Mr. Winslow was 67 years of age. He was a native of England, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Winslow. As a young man he came to this country and for many years was engaged at mill work. He was boss weaver at the Sayles mill in Elmville for a long time, and in more recent years had occupied similar positions in other mills, his last work in that capacity being at Carolina, R. I. Mr. Winslow is survived by his wife and two sons, Earle F. Winslow, assistant postmaster at Danielson, and Everett, resident in Providence.

A strange, yet interesting, theory was advanced this afternoon as to the reason for the reduction in the number of automobile accidents that have occurred in nearby territory recently. This idea is that numbers of drivers are not operating their cars a great deal now because of lack of funds and that many of the drivers in this category are of the dangerous type when out on the highways with their machines. In any event, there has been a fine record of freedom from serious accidents in this territory for several weeks past.

There are indications that republican organizations in this part of the county are picking up in their stride as election day nears. There is now good reason to believe that the party will poll a heavy vote in next Tuesday's balloting. Windham county has long, as a whole, been one of the rock-ribbed republican centers of the state. In recent years some of its traditionally republican towns have been turning in democratic majorities, and this fact is stirring the republicans to unusual activity just now.

Likewise, the democrats, inspired by successes here and there, are doing their utmost to make a showing in the county as a whole this fall. Outside of Windham, the largest vote from any town in the county likely will be recorded in Killingly.

When work is a little more advanced on the new "repeater" building of the A. T. & T. Co. on the West Side, a crew of about 25 Western Electric Co. men will arrive here to install the apparatus that the building will house. This work will require several weeks, it is understood.

The visitation of government officials to Putnam to inspect prospective sites for a new postoffice building in that city again calls attention to the fact that Danielson is in line for a new postoffice. This town is listed among those designated to have such buildings. Considerable effort has been expended within the past year or two toward hurrying along the purchase of a site and getting construction underway, but without visible results as yet. The present quarters of the Danielson office are decidedly inadequate and over-crowded, and business this year is at the highest peak in the history of the office, general depression notwithstanding.

One hears of a proposal to interest a sufficient number of Danielson people to make possible the opening of a regulation nine-hole golf course close to Danielson as soon as possible in 1931. Golf has grown tremendously in popularity with local people within the past two years, yet this community has no course.

Those who have been looking into the matter of providing one say that suitable land is available close to Danielson at nominal cost. The plan is to gradually develop the course as funds become available.

Today, Orpheum theatre, Danielson. Last showings: Eddie Cantor in Whoopee. Two shows tonight, 6:45 and 8:45. Matinee at 2:30.—adv.

Chief John McFarland said with emphasis this afternoon that destruction or defacement of property by celebrators of Halloween on Friday evening will be promptly checked and the responsible persons called to a strict accounting. The chief also made clear that the police are anxious that those who celebrate have a good time, but that they must do it without being destructive.

We have just received a large shipment of dresses, sizes, 14-52. Price $5.98. Bon-Marche store, 83 Main street, Danielson.—adv.

It has appeared from time to time that a considerable number of people here might be interested in a course in public speaking. To determine this definitely, Supt. W. E. Parker of Killingly's schools is anxious to hear from those men and women who would like to attend such a course, extending through eight consecutive weeks. They may get in touch with him by letter, by telephone or by interviewing him personally. Inasmuch as no appropriation is available from school or other funds to meet the cost of bringing an instructor here, it will be necessary to charge a nominal fee for such a course, to be given, if arranged, by a college professor. At least 20 persons will be required to register for the course to make arrangement for it possible.

In the absence of the pastor, Rev. A. E. Gallup, Adam Zagas, the boy preacher from Woonsocket, will preach at the Nazarene church at the services next Sunday morning and evening. Mr. Zagas preached at this church last June, and those who heard him were much impressed with the earnestness of his message. Mr. Zagas, now 17 years old, was converted at the age of 12. He is the son of Polish parents. The public will be welcomed to this service.

The discovery that the name of John M. Dowe, democratic candidate for selectman, is on the republican caucus list, led today to some discussion as to how many instances of this kind might be found, one way or the other, by a detailed check of both caucus lists, which are revised each year. The registrars have a difficult task in keeping tabs on the voters, now numbering in excess of 3,500.

Voters move away, some of them die, some of them change their affiliations. Some of the women voters marry and thereby rate a change of name in the caucus list. If voters would take the trouble to notify the registrars of intention to leave town permanently and keep them informed of other changes in their ratings as electors, keeping the caucus lists with even a greater degree of accuracy than is now achieved would be possible.

The Killingly group of the Y. M. C. A. Explorers, a newly formed organization, elected the following officers at a meeting today: President, Robert Nyman; vice-president, Augutus Meade; secretary, Donald Maillhot; treasurer, Richard Keach. This group of boys is made up of members of older grammar school and junior high school age. Their objective is to band together to do things they have had an ambition to do, but never have been able to work out their plans. Similar groups of Explorers are to be organized in other county towns.

The Killingly group will meet again in Nov. 7, at the Y. M. C. A. office here. They will have a business session, followed by games.

There is an interesting angle just now to the manner in which some who are getting along on slender finances, meanwhile seeking aid from the town, handle the distribution of their money. As in days of yore, a careful check-up and close observation shows, they are frittering it away on one thing and another they easily could do without. It is unfortunate, but true, that numbers of those who have the most pitiful tales of distress to tell are the most careless as to making unnecessary expenditures.

Miss Agnes Payne of the local staff of telephone operators will be in Hartford Friday to attend a meeting of members of the S. N. E. T. Co.'s Employes' association, and will assist in the election of a district representative.

Friday and Saturday are the last days for filing lists of taxable property with the assessors—10 a. m. to 4 p. m., town hall building.—adv.

Miss Ruth Pepler is making a steady recovery at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam, after undergoing a recent surgical operation, and will be able to return to her home here within a few days.

Sidney H. Perry has had his usual success in collecting borough taxes this fall, all but a comparatively small amount due the borough having been received.

In addition to the general celebration in which the young people will indulge, informally, there are to be various Halloween parties at homes in and about Danielson Friday evening.

A considerable number of Danielson people will be at New Haven on Saturday to attend the Yale-Dartmouth football game.

L. S. Barstow, Frederick Miller and Charles B. Hutchins, members of Killingly's board of assessors, have been kept busy this week receiving lists of taxable property, and likely will be until they complete that part of their duties Saturday of this week.

Voters here were circularized through the mails today in the interest of the candidacy of Sheriff Charles A. Gates of Willimantic for re-election.

Construction by the borough of sidewalks through Furnace street has now progressed southward to Prince street. Work in this street will be about completed during the coming week.

Political workers were active throughout the town today, lining up things dealing with the election of next Tuesday.

The district meeting of the American Legion which was to have been held at the Willimantic Legion home, has been changed to be held at the town hall in Willimantic on Sunday next.

BROOKLYN

Every one is hoping the water question will soon be cleared up. The well in the center of the town has been thoroughly cleaned, it has been cemented five feet down, the walls thoroughly washed with chloride of lime. It is sealed in such a way that no waste can wash back into the well. Outside, the cement has been built up so the drainage will wash toward the street. The final sample of water is to be sent to New Haven and it is hoped the water will be found O. K. when reports come back.

At the grange Tuesday evening a very pleasant meeting was held. It was Brothers' night with A. G. Ennis and W. H. G. Herkslots in charge. They presented a very attractive program which consisted of a talk on Rural Roads by Mr. Searles of Wolf Den grange, an original paper "Twenty Years Ago," by Dr. F. W. Page; to those who remember back twenty years this was especially good and must have opened the eyes of many of today; musical numbers comprised violin solos by Worthy Overseer Elbra L. Baker and Worthy A. S. Arthur Cooper, accompanied with ability by Miss Helen Witter. After the program a real October treat was provided in popped corncakes, apples and cider.

PUTNAM REPUBLICANS TURN OUT EN MASSE FOR ENTHUSIASTIC RALLY

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Oct. 30.—Residents of this city, the new accredited democratic stronghold of Windham county, turned out en masse Wednesday evening at a rally staged under the auspices of the Putnam Women's Republican club, to welcome Miss Katherine Byrne, state central committee vice-chairman, and her "all-star" cast of republican luminaries. One half hour in advance of the opening the patriotically decorated Odd Fellows hall, scene of the gathering, was filled to seating capacity. When the well-known woman political leader entered with her "band" the crowd sent up a tremendous applause.

Miss Byrne was delegated as chairman and after extending her appreciation for the warm reception she introduced John A. Danaher of Meriden, assistant United States district attorney. In an excellent address Attorney Danaher reviewed the forward strides of the state and nation under republican administrations which have been continuous since 1860, with the exception of four democratic tenures. Laying particular stress upon the state economic advancements under republican control, Mr. Danaher talked at length on Governor John H. Trumbull's policy of "pay as you go." The virtual abolishment by the republicans of the $11,000,000 debt, "inherited from the democrats in 1915," the creation of a state sinking fund, the construction of the most wonderful system of highways anywhere in the nation, the creation of Connecticut's efficient motor vehicle department, are achievements of the republicans, Mr. Danaher stated, and are but a few of the innumerable reasons that entitle Lieut Governor Ernest E. Rogers of New London to seek the suffrage of the electorate of the state for himself and for the support of the entire republican state and local tickets, made up of finest and most able men available. At the conclusion of his speech Mr. Danaher was given a large ovation.

The second speaker of the evening was George A. Grady of New Haven. In an interesting speech, Mr. Grady augmented the glowing tribute paid the party by Mr. Danaher when he said, "this enthusiastic demonstration of republicanism is indicative of a great republican victory which will be ours on election day." He refuted the foul tactics of campaigning, which he charged are being employed by the democrats throughout the state. "Any party," he said, "hoping to come into power, should meet the electorate fairly and squarely with a strong constructive programme. The democrats are without such a programme, and in their campaign they have offered nothing but destructive criticism and invectiveness."

Continuing, Mr. Grady said, "Connecticut has supported the decent and upright government afforded by the republicans in the past and will continue to do so in the future and conclusive proof of this will be had on Tuesday evening, Nov. 4."

Touching upon his party's stand on the prohibition question, Mr. Grady said, "Connecticut in congress and in state legislature voted against prohibition and the stand, now as then, is 'let the state take care of itself on this matter.' In this there is no air of double dealing hypocrisy inserted into the party platform." He referred to the democratic gubernatorial candidate as conducting "a campaign of abuse and misrepresentation."

Miss Byrne in commenting on Mr. Grady's remarks characterized his speech as one in which he brilliantly came to the defense of his party. Speaking briefly at this time, Miss Byrne refuted Dean Cross' statement that important issues of the campaign are, prohibition and personality. "Good government is the real issue," she stated and in alluding to J. Henry Roraback, chairman of the state central committee, Miss Byrne said, "He is one of Connecticut's patriots."

"A fine example of how those close to Mr. Roraback are inspired into the doing of worthwhile things is seen in the state highway department, which is operating under the leadership of John A. Macdonald, a Putnam boy, and admittedly the finest highway commissioner in the United States."

Touching upon the local political situation, Miss Byrne instilled a new feeling of confidence into the republicans when she said, "Putnam is not a democratic city, it is a republican community, but it will remain in control of the democrats only as long as the republicans want it so."

Luther M. Keith, supervisor of the state highway department's bureau of landscaping, was the final member of Miss Byrne's "all-stars" to speak. In the house of representatives with Lieut. Governor Rogers, when he served with him on the house committee on appropriations, Mr. Keith said he gained a wonderful knowledge of the gubernatorial candidate's ability to take over the reins of the state government. He reviewed, at random, Mr. Rogers' numerous accomplishments in public office and strenuously urged the people of Putnam to join in the support of his campaign. Mr. Keith outlined the development of educational facilities in Connecticut under republican government and pointed to the establishment of state trade and normal schools as examples.

At the conclusion of the speaking programme, a luncheon was served by the Women's club and a programme of music was rendered by the Putnam high school band, playing under the direction of Professor Nelson Frink.

EASTERN VOLUNTOWN

Mrs. Emma Wilcox of Campbell Mills had for visitors Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pratt and son Ellery of Plainfield.

Mrs. Sabra Baker has returned to Mrs. Wilcox's after a few days' visit at Pendleton Hill.

John Ray Barber of Rhode Island, and Mr. Money of Escoheag Hill took apples at William Bitgood's cider mill recently.

Harry Phillips of Moosup took apples at Mr. Bittgood's mill, then went to there farm and cut fire wood.

Mr. and Mrs. William Bitgood heard that Roscoe Bitgood of Voluntown had quite an accident Saturday evening. They are in hope it isn't anything very serious.

Mr. Armstrong and family have gone to New York to work. He lived on Mrs. Charles Barber's place near Mr. Bitgood's.

Warren Tanner was a caller at Mr. Bitgood's recently. He is from Ekonk Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. William Bitgood of Pachaug and Mr. and Mrs. George Dawley of Voluntown were Sunday callers at William Bitgood's.

Herbert August and a gentleman friend of his from South Manchester were callers at the Pine Grove farm Sunday afternoon.

Harold Bitgood and Joel Barber, Mr. and Mrs. William Bitgood's grandsons, were recent callers.

Everett Whipple of Voluntown and Harold Bitgood of Pachaug were business callers at William Bitgood's Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. George Dawley of Voluntown called Sunday on Mrs. Dawley's uncle, Jefferson Barber.

Joe Bitgood of Voluntown called on his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. William Bitgood recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Remington and three children called on Mrs. Remington's parents a little while Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bitgood and daughter of Pachaug were at Mrs. Bitgood's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dawley, Sunday.

The rain a few days back did not do much good. Mr. Barber's hired man has to go to a spring with a horse and draw water by the barrel. He has quite a little ways to go. Mr Bitgood's well is getting quite low.

CENTRAL VILLAGE

Mrs. Elizabeth Elliott Finn, daughter of William Elliott, a resident here before her marriage, who is suing for divorce from Daniel Finn, Jr., of Jewett City, is teaching at present in New Bedford.

Buys Lewis Building

George W. Loring has purchased the Lewis Pharmacy building from Redding and Cooney, who have had a drug store there for about four years. Mr. Redding had charge of the store and occupied the tenement in the building until he closed the business and moved to Jewett City a few months ago. Mr. Cooney has never lived here but has resided in Wrentham, Mass., where they have another drug store. Mr. Loring has a store and market in the Vaughn building at present.

Mrs. Frederick Brewster has been called to Sterling Hill by the illness and death of a relative, Miss Lottie Kenyon, who has been an invalid for a long time.

Surprised by Granges

Wednesday evening, Mr. and Mrs Stanley Brown, recently married, were pleasantly surprised when members of Plainfield grange, of which Mr. Brown is a member, also members of Ekonk grange, of which Mrs. Brown is a member, called at the home of Mr Brown's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Beecher Brown and gave the newly-weds a genuine surprise visit. The party numbered about seventy-five. Refreshments in abundance were brought by the visitors and all had a jolly time. Each grange presented a sum of money to Mr. and Mrs. Brown, who are making their home at the Brown homestead with Mr. Brown's parents.

This (Friday) afternoon, Miss Ruth Mathewson entertains the members of the cast who will give a play at the Halloween social at the church tonight, with a few other young people. It is to be a Halloween supper and Margaret McFarland is to be the guest of honor as it is her birthday.

Postmaster Mary A. Tracy received greetings by first coast-to-coast air mail from Postmaster Robt. H. Bryson of Indianapolis, Ind., through William E. Pellett, well known here, who extended his good will to all his friends in Central Village.

DAYVILLE

The November meeting of the Eastern Windham County Ministers association will be held at the Congregational church, Monday next. Rev. J. E. Duxbury, of Putnam, will speak on "The Jew and the Arab." Rev. William Swainson will review The Fondren Lectures, by Paul B. Kern. Dinner will be served at the Dayville inn.

Mrs. Louis Sayles entertained a party at bridge Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. John Drabble is returning here after a brief residence at Killingly Center. She will now reside in a cottage on Railroad street.

Miss Anna Rol, of Worcester, spent Sunday at her home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lamonte and family now occupy the apartment recently vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Michie.

Walter Weeks entertained as his week end guest Fred Marsden, Jr., of Providence. They spent Saturday visiting a cousin, Thomas Emerson, of Worcester.

Mrs. Patrick Tigue has been ill with grip.

Mrs. Herman Steinbough, Jr., entertained her Sunday school class with a costume party at her home Wednesday night.

PUTNAM

OCCUPANTS ESCAPE INJURY WHEN THREE CARS COLLIDE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Oct. 30.—Three drivers escaped serious injury Wednesday evening when their cars telescoped one another during a traffic tie-up on lower School street. The first car, a small coupe driven by Miss Ellen P. Hall of Bolles street, traveling in a southerly direction, slackened pace to avoid collision with another car coming in the opposite direction. A sedan following the Hall car quickly slowed up to avert crashing the car ahead. This vehicle was driven by Henry Mosher of Tatem street, whose stop was so sudden that a car following, being driven by Samuel Stone of Spring street, Danielson, crashed into the Mosher car, which in turn was pushed into the car being driven by Miss Hall. The cars were damaged to some extent. Captain of Police A. J. Dubreuil investigated but made no arrests.

Pupils in the instrumental music department of the public schools will give a demonstration at the Israel Putnam school at the evening session to be held on Thursday, Nov. 6. Parents and pupils in grades four to seven will thereby be afforded an excellent opportunity to witness the progress being made by pupils in this newly created branch of the music department. A similar demonstration will be given by the music pupils in the afternoon between the hours of 2:45 to 3 o'clock for the benefit of the pupils in grades one to three. These classes will not participate in the evening session, which is being arranged in connection with the nation-wide observance of American education week.

Arthur Kay, president of the Rotary club of Webster, Mass., was the luncheon speaker at the Wednesday meeting of the Putnam Rotary club held at the Putnam Inn. "What Rotary Means to Me," was the subject of Mr. Kay's inspiring talk in which he outlined many methods that are easily employed by clubs seeking to build up the interests of members.

Guests at the meeting were Bob Remington of Willimantic and Chris Marsden of Hempstead, L. I. Visiting Rotarians present were Henry Johnson and Henry Dubuc of Danielson, G. E. Shaw of Webster.

On an interesting programme to be presented at the November meeting of Putnam teachers to be held on Nov. 4. Francis Curran of the Latin department and Miss Marjorie C. McGillicuddy of the history department, at Putnam high school, and Principal Lewis F. Battey of Israel Putnam school, will speak on "Summer School Experiences."

Dean Wilbur L. Cross, democratic nominee for governor, will make his first appearance in Windham county in connection with his gubernatorial campaign, when he speaks before an audience which will gather in the Victory theatre, Friday evening, for a rally.

The democratic rally will have a few notes of old-time pre-election day political gatherings, for the Boy Scout band of St. Mary's church will render a concert in Union square, their appearance being under democratic auspices. The procession will then move to the theatre on Main street.

With Dean Cross will be William C. Fox of New London, candidate for congress from this district; David A. Wilson, candidate for attorney general; Daniel J. Leary, candidate for lieutenant governor; Alton J. Miner, candidate for secretary of state, and Napoleon J. Fournier, candidate for county sheriff.

The speakers' list contains the names of the state's most prominent democratic office aspirants and for this reason it is anticipated that the movie house will be well filled when Dean Cross arrives after a hurried trip from Willimantic, where he is also scheduled to speak at a rally to be held in that city earlier in the evening.

WANT TO LOOK YOUNG?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They help bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c, 60c.

"I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at Change of Life. Now I take it every spring and fall and it keeps me in good health. I am able to take care of an eight-room house and garden at the age of 71 years. I will praise the Vegetable Compound wherever I go for it is a wonderful medicine for women. They should give it a good trial by taking about five bottles."—Mrs. Clara Riley.

"I was very nervous and rundown and weighed less than one hundred pounds. I felt tired and weak and I often had to lie down. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I read the advertisement in the paper. Now I eat well, sleep well, and have good color. In fact, I couldn't feel any better and I weigh one hundred fifty-five pounds. I am glad to answer letters from any woman who wants to know more about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Bertha Stephens.

AGAINST CHANGING HORSES

The story which Abraham Lincoln used in the heat of a political campaign about the danger of swapping horses in the middle of the stream is familiar enough but peculiarly applicable to the present time in Connecticut when voters are being urged to switch the management of state affairs from experienced to inexperienced hands. The experience in state government is in the hands of the republicans. The inexperience is in the hands of their opponents. And in no better way is this illustrated than in considering the qualifications of the two candidates for governor. Behind Mr. Rogers, who heads the republican ticket as candidate for governor, is a long record of participation in active business life, which includes both mercantile and banking lines, with service in community activities in New London. His political experience began with terms as alderman and mayor in New London, from which he moved on to places in the state government, including state senator, state treasurer and lieutenant governor. Guidance of state affairs is a big business proposition and in a special way this is a field in which Mr. Rogers is acquainted with the financial questions involved through his service as state treasurer and as member of the appropriations committee in both houses and of the state board of finance and control.

Such a varied experience in private and public business life is no mean asset in the man whom the voters of the state have before them as candidate for governor to continue the same efficient administration of the business of Connecticut which has made this state an example of what success can be achieved when business principles are applied to state government.

BRAZIL'S NEW REGIME

Out of the swirl of the day to day developments in Brazil, the success of the revolution there seems to be complete. Popular discontent and disaffection in the Brazilian army and navy forced the capitulation of that country's constitutional government, headed by President Luis, to the leaders of the widespread revolt. A provisional government has taken up the task of maintaining order pending new national elections.

The march of events in Brazil was so rapid, and the censorship was so strict, that now the outside world is amazed that the revolutionary movement should have moved forward to success in such short order. But the masses of the people are satisfied with the new regime, at least for the time being, and that fact should make it fairly easy for the United States and other nations to extend formal recognition to the provisional government, provided its hold results in restoring tranquility and enforcing respect for the persons and property of foreign residents. Promises of cherishing constitutionalism and civil liberty are made by the new government, which also engages to hold a free and honest election for the establishment of a permanent government. Such promises have a familiar sound in Latin-American revolutions, and sometimes are soon forgotten and the appeal to the voters is delayed again and again. It is hoped that this will not be the case in Brazil.

The Brazilian government which has been displaced is said to have been corrupt, arbitrary, and incompetent to deal with a [illegible] economic situation. President Luis is charged with having personally forced the election of his personal candidate for the presidency as his own successor. Rivalry and jealousy among the states of Brazil are nothing new, but the revolutionists have refrained from enlarging upon regional claims. If these can be kept in the background, the leaders will not be hampered in the work of national pacification and rehabilitation. The world must wait with hope for favorable developments in the greatest of the South American republics.

A TEST FOR PROSPERITY

What Charles M. Schwab called the newer American prosperity has been given its first crucial test in the past 14 months, according to an opinion expressed the other day by that well-known captain of industry in an address before the Iron and Steel Institute, and in an important sense the result has been distinctly gratifying. "There has not been uncovered any basic structural failure," said Mr. Schwab, for the foundations of the national economic system are sound. As a consequence it will not be necessary to lower the American standard of living, to reduce wages, or to abandon mass production or mass distribution of goods and other commodities.

Out of the depression have come lessons of value for capital, management and labor. If those lessons are taken to heart, it is Mr. Schwab's opinion that the business revival which is coming will bring to the American people an even larger measure of prosperity than was enjoyed by them for nearly a decade before the recession of last year. One of these lessons is that capital and labor should work together harmoniously as co-partners. Business stability is not a gift from providence but the result of prudence, foresight, careful study of consumers' needs and adjustment of production to actual or potential markets. There is need, too, that business should avoid waste and over-expansion. If unsound remedies for economic ills are proposed, it must beware of embracing such measures, and in this category Mr. Schwab would include reckless cutting of normal profits or reduction of wages. The question of employment, Mr. Schwab said, has been handled far more sensibly and humanely at this time than ever before. From what has been done can be seen an indication of still better and more successful treatment in the future in the curing of poor conditions in production and trade.

CERTIFIED PREPAYMENT

The suggestion has been made that the government make a cash settlement with holders of soldiers' insurance certificates as a relief measure that would put nearly $2,500,000,000 in circulation. Such a suggestion came up before the American Legion convention in Boston, but there was no endorsement of the proposal that congress be petitioned to pay the certificates now rather than at maturity. It would seem to have been a wise decision, which serves the future of American Legion members. It is probable that the government could arrange for present payment without any great increase of expense. The certificates are drawing interest and a sinking fund has been created from which they will eventually be liquidated; but to pay them short of maturity the government would have to borrow the money through a bond issue drawing interest at rates similar or near to the certificate rate.

But the real question would seem to be how the veterans would fare in the long run. These certificates are in the nature of insurance which guarantees income in later years when presumably the insured will be in greater need of financial help than in youth or middle age. Besides, the certificates have loan values and those in need of cash may borrow on them from the government. Prepayment of the certificates might yield a present and unexpected pleasure to holders who now seek payment, but it would seem to be parallel to surrender of insurance policies taken out with a view to protection in later life. In that view it is apparent that the certificate holders; rather than the government would be the losers in the long run if the policy under which the certificates were issued were to be changed.

PEACE IN THE NEAR EAST

If the nations of middle and western Europe, which talk of peace while measuring armaments, want a good example they have only to turn to some recent happenings in the Near East, so long considered the hatchery for European wars. Wars and rumors of war, with national fears and jealousies, have for so long constituted an integral part of the history of that section that expressions of amity and goodwill require a lot of forgiving and forgetting there. But there are several recent get-togethers which breathe a new spirit. Last March the Greeks celebrated the century of their independence. It was remarked at the time as a gesture of good feeling that the Turkish ambassador took part in the ceremonies. The Greeks won their independence from the Turks, but bitterness and bloodshed have been persistent within the last decade in the relations of the two nations.

And now there is a reciprocal national courtesy in the friendly visit to Angora by Premier Venizelos of Greece, to attend the celebration of the seventh anniversary of the establishment of the Turkish republic. The special train on which he traveled to the Turkish capital traversed territory which must have brought up bitter memories, for it was there that the armies of Greece met defeat eight years ago at the hands of the Turks.

New treaties of friendship and commerce between the two nations are in the course of preparation and it is planned to speed these up so that the aged premier may affix his signature before his visit ends. So another forward step in the pacification of this danger spot is to be taken.

EDITORIAL NOTES

This is the night when father can thrill the family with stories of "when I was a boy."

Campaign promises will either come home to roost or take wings entirely after election day.

Now that a miniature golf course owner has been put on the spot a new hazard has been added to the game.

If you should hear a speech in Chinese over the radio, the probability is that you couldn't tell it from static.

The man on the corner says: If we add pay-for-it-now to the buy-it-now campaign everybody will be happy.

KITTY KNEW AN ARTIST

Kitty's eyes sparkled. She went about the office with an air of mystery. But her dreamy smile betrayed that which she sought most to conceal. Her heart was a-flutter.

Louise was the discerning one. She and Kitty were close friends. But all through the morning she had been so busy typing she hadn't had a chance to find out what it was all about.

At noon they made their way through the loop crowd to a drug store. Taking a place at the fountain Louise ordered a malted milk and cream cheese on toast. Kitty took the stool beside her and stared vacantly at the sode jerker.

"Order something hot," Louise said, prodding her.

"Oh, anything," Kitty exhaled.

"Chicken salad sandwich?"

"Yes."

Louise ordered. Then she turned and faced her friend squarely.

"Oh, kiddo, don't try to keep anything from me. Who is he?"

"Oh, he's gorgeous!" Kitty breathed.

"Doubtless. But who is he?"

"An artist. I met him last evening at Dagmar's. He has painted quite a few worth-while things. He wants to paint me. He's tall and dark and handsome. His arms are like bars of iron, and he speaks in a low, mellow voice, like the whispers of a cello. Oh, Lou, he's my ideal!"

Louise gave her a sidelong glance.

"One of these lady killers. Say, I'd stick to Earl if I were you."

"Oh, but Lou, you don't know Gareth. He's wonderful. He drives a long, low car, and he's so reckless. He took me to supper after the party and I'll bet it cost him every bit of $10 for just a bite. The Chansonette, can you imagine! He's awfully bohemian, too. Has a studio in Towertown and knows the right kind of people. Oh, I can't see what he sees in poor little me."

"That's just it," her friend said, wisely. "One never can tell what an artist sees in one. Now you know how Earl feels about you. He has been working with our firm for three years. Artists usually never amount to much."

"Oh, but Lou, he's my ideal! So dashing and really romantic. I wouldn't trade him for Warner Baxter or Charles Farrell or any of those movie he-men. He has such poise and softness, too."

"Rave on, dream child," Louise said. She sipped the last of her malted milk and paid the cashier for both checks. "I have some shopping to do, honey. Would you care to walk over to Michigan avenue with me?"

"I'm sorry, Lou," Kitty said, "but Gareth promised he'd call me this morning—that is today."

Louise smiled a knowing smile.

Five o'clock was drawing near. The tension of the office was at its height. Stenos hurriedly clicking out a last letter, office boys rushing mail through stamping machines, adding machines banging, executives leaving to catch the 4:58. Kitty sat behind her desk filing her pretty nails. She was a private secretary and her boss had gone for the day. There was a worried frown on her pretty brow. Gareth hadn't called during the day, as he had so faithfully promised.

But two days later Gareth hadn't called. Kitty had been dreadfully hurt, but she was beginning to realize that maybe Louise was right. The pseudo artist type is often insincere. She had half decided to forget him.

And then Earl came into the office. He hadn't been around for a week. Kitty had almost forgotten him. He set down a suitcase and walked over to her desk. He smiled and removed his new spring hat.

"Kitty," he said, "I'm going away."

She took him in with a cynical smile.

"Where are you going?" she asked carelessly.

"I—I've decided to go to sea, or something. . . . Well, good-by."

His voice was serious, a trifle emotional. Kitty realized in a flash he was sincere. He was going away!

"Why—why, Earl," she said, "you can't run away like this. What's got into you?"

"Oh, I don't know—well, you don't care."

But she did care. Kitty hadn't known her own mind until this moment.

Earl," she said softly, "I don't want you to run away."

He stared at her. His gray eyes lighted.

"Honest?" he said.

"Certainly. Why—well, you know—"

"Gee! I'm glad I didn't give up my job still I saw you! Maybe—I can persuade you to stay away from that wild crowd of Daggie's?"

"Maybe," she sighed. Gareth had faded away, a dream. Lou was right.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30—Who now recalls all the headlines and uproar over the Sino-Soviet clash in re the Chinese Eastern railway?

It is a long time ago, of course, and lapse of memory would be forgivable. Why, it must have been a year ago, at least.

Yet out of those dim, remote times a story of what actually happened at Harbin to bring about all that trouble has just reached the Bysander. It comes from the lips of one of those ramblers of official life who are forever trotting about the world.

This man, now pausing at the Washington crossroads a moment, was in Harbin and vicinity when it happened and when the foreign ministers of the world, including Foreign Minister Stimson, were moving heaven and earth to avert a Manchurian war crisis.

'White' Sympathies

The tale begins with a precocious young Chinese, or perhaps he was Manchurian born, taken into a Russian family for upbringing. It became a "white" family, violently so, when the Russian revolution broke, and the young Chinaman became a violent anti-red. Also, he became a friend of Young Chang, Manchurian dictator today in the place of his assassinated father.

So in 1929 this educated young Chinese was made director of education under the Manchurian government by his friend.

In that job he clashed repeatedly with the superintendent of education set up by the Soviet controlled machinery of the Chinese Eastern railway administration. Schools of the railway towns and what was taught in them were involved.

Finally the educational director not only fired the railway school boss but deported him to Russia. And right there the Sino-Chinese row that all but started another war of possible world proportions got its start.

The Soviet consul general at Harbin went down to Mukden, Manchurian capital, to protest. He got nowhere aside from drawing resentment of the educational director on his own head. It was shown in the inspired "raid" made on the consulate at Harbin by Manchurian police.

Too Serious

Claims of the discovery of Soviet propaganda outlining courses to be taken to overthrow the Manchurian dictatorship were made. The Sino-Soviet clash grew tense. There were armed encounters on the border. War seemed imminent.

Mr. Stimson in Washington wrote his celebrated note calling attention of both sides to their adhesion to the Kellogg anti-war pact.

All because that young Chinese took his job so seriously.

"What has become of him?" the Bystander asked.

"Oh, he's down in Mukden holding some sort of a government job."

"Were the propaganda discoveries of the raiders authentic?"

"Well," said the globe trotter, "you remember what Brete Hart said:

"'For tricks that are dark
"'And ways that are vain,
"'The heathen Chinee is peculi

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Mother Brown Holds Her Breath

Who in him really has the stuff
Can almost always call a bluff.
—Bobby Coon.

Mother Brown stood in the kitchen doorway. The light streamed through into the shed full upon a scene that Mother Brown never had expected to see. On one side of a dish of food stood a big and very angry looking raccoon. It was Bobby Coon. On the other side, looking equally angry and with a great tail spread over him, was a big skunk. It was Jimmy Skunk. Mother Brown gave a little gasp and then she held her breath. Yes, sir, she held her breath. She didn't move. It looked to Mother Brown as if something serious was about to happen.

Jimmy Skunk was stamping his feet and growling. Bobby Coon didn't stamp his feet, but he growled and his growl had a very ugly sound. Mother Brown wanted to run and she wanted to see what was going to happen. She knew that if Jimmy Skunk should use that scent gun of his there was going to be a terrible odor in that back shed for a long time. She wanted to chase him right outdoors before he had a chance to use it. Of course, she couldn't do this. She didn't dare do it. As a matter of fact, she didn't dare move. She feared that Jimmy Skunk might be so excited that any movement on her part might alarm him and so lead him to use that little scent gun of his. The wisest plan seemed to be to do nothing at all, but held her breath; which is just what she did.

Jimmy Skunk took a step forward and Bobby Coon growled a little deeper and a little uglier sounding growl than the others had been. Jimmy reached out and very slowly he brought his nose so that it touched the nose of Bobby Coon. If Mother Brown had not already been holding her breath, she certainly would have held it then. Bobby Coon was showing his teeth. It certainly looked as if there were going to be a dreadful fight in just about one minute. You see, Bobby Coon hadn't backed up one step. It was clear, perfectly clear, that he didn't intend to back up one step. There was a look of something like surprise on Jimmy Skunk's face. He wasn't accustomed to having people refuse to back up when he told them to. The look of anger in his eyes began to give way to a look of surprised admiration. He made one more attempt to frighten Bobby Coon. He stamped suddenly and hard at the same time he threw that big tail of his still farther forward, so that it actually came over on to Bobby Coon's head. "Get out!" said Jimmy Skunk in his ugliest sounding voice. "Get out quickly!"

"I'll do nothing of the sort!" retorted Bobby Coon, and he didn't back up an inch. No, sir, Bobby didn't back up an inch. He simply stood there showing his teeth and growling.

"All right! All right!" replied Jimmy Skunk, and took a bite of food from the plate.

Bobby Coon took one good long look at him and then he settled down and began to eat. Then Mother Brown drew a long breath. "My goodness," said she, "look at them! That was an awful moment. Now, I do believe those two fellows are going to settle down and eat their dinners like a couple of long-lost friends."

And this is just what they did do. They were a little greedy about it, for each was afraid the other would get the most. When they had finished, there wasn't a scrap of anything left.

YOUR HEALTH

Does Vacation Mean Health?

By Edith R. Harshberger, Supervisor Health Education, University of California, Los Angeles
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

There seems to be a universal desire on the part of every parent for the increased health and happiness of his children. If health could be bought or if happiness might be paid for in definite quantities by stipulated amounts, no effort would be spared until mothers and fathers had provided generously of both for their girls and boys. However, as another summer vacation nears an end, we wonder if the majority of children throughout the land will return to school with sturdier bodies, as well as stronger characters as the result of a summer of opportunities for adventure in the out-of-doors—purposeful adventure which challenges boys and girls to do their best and which provides a storehouse of health and happiness.

Health and individual character are factors being accepted by the thinking people of the world today as fundamental in all personal happiness, national stability and social progress. We are no longer content that the long summer vacation shall mean a slowing down in the development of our boys and girls either mentally or physically.

The organized summer camp has proven to be one of our most satisfactory means in education for bridging the gap between the school years. Ex-president Eliot, of Harvard university, once declared the organized summer camp to be the most important step in education that America has given to the world. The summer camp deserves the prominent place now being given it in education because of its large contribution toward the development of stalwart upright and loyal citizens. Should we not make greater effort then to promote the extension of camps and camping privileges until all boys and girls may profit by at least part of the summer spent in such wholesome environment?

Camp activities are selected and planned to provide the greatest development in wholesome living for the campers. The members of the staff are carefully selected individuals who endeavor to be living examples of the ideals desired of every one in camp. The health program of the camp is directly in the hands of a doctor, nurse, dietitian, director of physical activities, and the counselor who is in direct supervision of each small unit of boys and girls. A physical examination by the family physician two weeks before the opening of camp is followed by a second examination by the camp physician at the time camp opens. This serves not only as a means of disease prevention but also enables the staff to know the individual needs of each camper. Throughout the period of the camp effort is made to train the forming of positive health habits which lead to an intelligent understanding and appreciation of a healthy mind and body. Every effort is made to maintain a wholesome balance between periods of activity and periods of relaxation. The camp routine of regular hours of work, play, sleep, wholesome diet, cleanliness, rest, and so on provides a great and lasting benefit in the personal experience of the boy or girl.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Trapping Law

Mr. Editor: As the trapping season approaches, it seems to me the latest trapping law should be made known to those who set traps. The law which I am enclosing was passed in the last session of the Connecticut legislature (1929). One of the objects of this law is to protect domestic animals; for before this law was enacted traps were set anywhere and everywhere and many domestic animals were caught in them, especially dogs.

Much might be said about the cruelty of the steel trap and it is to be hoped that within a few years a more humane trap will come into general use.

Will you kindly publish the enclosed trapping law in The Bulletin?

The act concerning the use of traps follows:

Section 1. Section 21 of chapter 259 of the public acts of 1923 as amended by chapter 112 of the public acts of 1927 is amended to read as follows: No person shall set any trap upon the land of another without having in his possession the written permission of the owner or lessee of such land, and no person shall set any steel trap in any other place than in a pond or stream, or any tributary thereto, or in the burrow of a wild animal, or on a pole at a point eight or more feet from the ground, nor set any such steel trap not having the name of the person using such trap legibly stamped thereon, provided the owner or the legal occupant of such land may set such steel trap in any place within a radius of 100 yards of any permanent building located on such land, or upon any cultivated land owned or occupied by him. No person who shall set any trap shall permit more than 24 hours to elapse between visits to such trap.

Sec. 2. Section 22 of the public acts of 1923 is amended to read as follows: No person shall set, place or locate any trap with any scent or scented bait, and no person shall set, place, maintain or attend any steel trap having a spread of jaws of more than six inches, or any steel trap having teeth, and no animal shall be snared, and no snare or similar device for taking any animal shall be set, placed or used where any animal may be taken. Any trap used or set in violation of any provision of this section shall be forfeited to the state.

Sec. 3. Section 20 of chapter 259 of the public acts of 1923 is repealed.

Answers Mr. Williams

Mr. Editor: It was not my intention to answer C. H. Williams' letter; but as he has insinuated that I was disloyal to my country and demands to know what I was doing at the time of the war, I feel compelled to answer him. In the first place I did not rejoice at the sinking of the Lusitania or any disaster. Neither did C. H. W. "lick" any friends or relatives of mine in Germany or any other foreign country. Neither was I an admirer of the kaiser or any of his ideas. Every German I have talked with in this country came here to get rid of compulsory military service. C. H. W. wants to know what I was doing. Not being eligible for the army, navy or marine corps, I had to do my bit at home, since my government considered itself justified to enter the war. I did what I will never do again. From the beginning to the end of the war, I supported two French war orphans in France out of my small salary, besides keeping them in those things so dear to the hearts of children. I kept boys I knew and those I did not know supplied with cigarettes, candy, reading matter, writing paper, anything they desired, for they were all volunteers and in the trenches. Every spare moment I was working for the benefit of the boys and not for pay either. A Belgian soldier wrote and asked me to send him some writing paper as he couldn't get any from home. I sent it and more too. I am sorry C. H. W. considers himself insulted because I resent the unfair treatment to our boys. I have paid any debt I owed to France for her help in the Revolution. And as a straight descendant of a Continental soldier with an honorable discharge I know the colonies would never have won their independence without General Frederick von Steuben, a German. Honor to whom honor is due. But, cheer up, Buddy! There will be another war in Europe and you and the other gallant defenders of the French attitude during and since the close of the war, may have the opportunity to go to France; get kissed on both cheeks, and then be cheated.

NORWICH TOWN

In the efficiency contest being carried on in the Wolf Cub Pack connected with the Methodist Episcopal church, Robert Barber and John Gibbs are tied for first place, each with a score of 700 points. Eugene Wood is in second place with a score of 600 and Gustave Fishbone is third, with 500. The standing of the other Cubs is as follows: Ellis Bentley 475, John and Charles Browning 450, Norman Lyon 385, Leslie Morse 360, Walter Slater 350, Frank Jordan, Charles Maplesden and Huntington Worth 325, Robert Solsbury 320, Walter Kelley and Burton Robbins and Lloyd Nelson 300, Willard Wilbur and Charles Sullivan 250, Clarence Smith 240, John Gallagher 235, Richard Snow [illegible], William Armstrong 200, Herman Laux 150, Robert Sterry 185, Joseph Millard 130, Kenneth Sterry 125, and Elliot Grieve 35. Points are given for attendance at cub meetings, for neat appearance at inspection, for deportment at meeting, for tests and for church and Sunday school attendance.

Special Methodist Service

Next Sunday night, at Norwich Town Methodist church, another special service will be held at 7:30. The pastor, Rev. George Warren Potter, will speak on "Thy Day, or Thrown into Eternity." Charles Helmboldt, a violinist from Lisbon, who has played at the church several times to the great enjoyment of the congregation, will play two solos during the course of the service. The vested choir, under direction of Mrs. Lewis E. Aldrich, will sing. This service is open to the public.

From Norwich Town, in attendance at the dinner Thursday of S. C. club No. 4, held at Putnam Methodist church, were: Mrs. William H. Whiteman and her automobile guests, Mrs. Andrew Gardner, Mrs. Edwin Lathrop, Mrs. Allen Kinney and Mrs. David M. Dean; while Mr. and Mrs. George Geer and Mrs. Josephine Parker, of Plain Hill road, had as their auto guests Mrs. Frederick Race, Mrs. Herman Gager and Otto Miller. Former Norwich Town residents, Mr. and Mrs. William Bell, of Occum, had as auto guests Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lamb. The list of ten mentioned occupied one table in the vestry where a fine dinner was served at noon. Prior to the dinner, at the suggestion of Mrs. Kenyon, all heads were bowed in silent prayer out of respect to a member of Club 4 who died recently. Dr. Lamb, tenor, was invited to lead in the singing of the Doxology, also sang a group of songs in opening the afternoon programme, Sail On, by Gabriel; Memories, by Van Alstyn, and In the Garden, Miles.

Gleaming hair!

The way modern hair dressers accentuate your hair by lovely lines and contures makes it important to keep the hair in perfect condition.

Now, millions know the quickest way to give the hair new life and lustre to bring out its natural color, is with Danderine. It is so easy to use; you simply moisten your brush with it each time you arrange your hair.

Danderine dissolves the crust of dandruff; stops falling hair; puts the scalp in the pink of condition. It helps the hair grow long, silky, abundant; gives it more lustre than brilliantine. It makes the hair easy-to-arrange; holds it in place. Waves look nicer; stay in longer when "set" with Danderine.

NORWICH SUNDAY PAPER DESERVING OF SUCCESS

In comment upon the issue of the Norwich Sunday Record, which will first be published by The Bulletin company on Nov. 2, Rev. George J. Donahue, rector of St. Mary's Memorial church expressed on Thursday the following opinion:

The appearance soon of a Sunday edition of your splendid paper is indeed good news. It reveals a spirit of enterprise that deserves success. The newspaper has become an integral part of our American life. We not only take it with our coffee but now it meets us at the church and mingles with our devotions. To some, journalism is merely a background for news but the truth is it has given us names that scintillate in American letters. Without a searching of records I might casually mention T. A. Daly, Eugene Field and the immortal Joyce Kilmer, men who found a fragrance in printers' ink and in journalism a world of romance. I not only wish your Sunday edition every success but, if I may, I gladly give it my blessing.

THIS A BIG HONEY YEAR— NECTAR OF FINE QUALITY

This has been a marvelous season for honey, according to John H. Sherman, bee expert, of 112 West Thames street, Norwich. During the year Mr. Sherman looks after about 170 hives, in Norwich, Colchester, Lebanon, at Lord's Point and in Stonington, the object of scattering the hives being to place the bees in advantageous locations in the country.

So favorable was the weather during July and before the drouth that altogether the hives yielded about 5,000 pounds of the finest quality honey. The first 50 hives opened produced about 50 pounds apiece. Furthermore, the bees are beginning the winter season in prime condition.

ANNOUNCE TENTATIVE FORMATION FOR ARMISTICE DAY PARADE

The tentative formation for the Armistice day parade was announced Thursday evening by the parade marshal, Captain Meredith Lee. Announcement was also made by the general committee of R. O. Fletcher post, No. 4, American Legion, that the board of trustees of the Norwich Free Academy, through the president, Shepard B. Palmer, have offered the use of the new Norton Memorial building on the academy grounds for the Armistice day exercises in the event stormy weather makes it impracticable to hold the exercises outdoors at Chelsea Parade. The offer of the use of the Norton Memorial has been accepted and the cooperation of the trustees of the Free Academy is greatly appreciated by the committee. Announcement was also made Thursday evening that the Shetucket Coal and Lumber Co., has volunteered the use of its trucks to aid in transporting the sailors from the submarine base in order that they may participate in the procession. Efforts are being made to secure the use of one or two additional trucks.

Parade Order No. 1, which includes the tentative formation of the procession, follows:

The following officials and organizations are assigned positions in column in the order named:

Units participating will form for the parade in column as follows:

Division No. 1—Main street, facing west head of column at Burnham square.

Divisions 2 and 3— North Main street, head of column, 100 yards north of Burnham square.

Divisions 4 and 5—On Park street head of column at Main street.

All units are requested to be in position not later than 9:45 a. m.

The parade will move promptly at 10 a. m.

Division 1 will move west on Main street when column has cleared North Main street, the North Main street column will move out, when column has cleared Park street, this column will follow.

Interval between units, 25 paces; between automobiles, 15 paces, colors, except in military units will be allowed 15 paces front and rear, when column changes from squad to platoon front, distance will not be taken up.

The parade will move west along Main street to Washington street to Sachem, until turned into the parade ground by the division commander. Divisions 1 and 2 will form line facing west on the east side of parade ground, Divisions 3, 4 and 5 (less American Legion and automobile units) will form line facing east on the west of the parade grounds. The marshal will escort the guests of honor and American Legion through the lane thus formed. Salute will be re-ordered the entire party.

After this salute, units on the east of parade ground will pivot on their right flanks, wheel to face the speakers stand. Units on the west will pivot on their left flanks. Interval will then be closed to five paces but units will hold formation.

Motor units of the parade will park on Washington street or Williams street, leaving the line of march at Sachem and Washington streets. Only the vehicles assigned to the G. A. R. will proceed directly to the platform to discharge passengers. The guests of honor will join the American Legion and marshal at the south end of the parade ground (Sachem street) —midway between Broadway and Washington street.

After the exercises Division 1 will move in column down (south) on Broadway, cross Sachem to Washington street and up Washington street to pass in review at the platform, which will be located at the World war tablet. The remainder of the divisions will follow, in column division and automobiles will fall in at the tail of the parade on the return. After passing in review the column will countermarch on Washington street into Broadway and continue down Broadway to Franklin square where the parade will disband.

The parade marshal's aides are: Major Tarbox, first division; Lieut. Jewett, second division; Lieut. White, Sergt. Worthington, third division; Major Smith, fourth division; Capt. Burdick, fifth division.

NORWICH AUTOMOBILE DRIVER ELECTS TRIAL BY JURY

At a session of the court of common pleas Thursday at New London, Judge Charles B. Waller, presiding, Stanley M. Besade, of this city, pleaded not guilty to a charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor. He elected trial by jury. Besade, sometime ago, was given a six months' jail sentence in the local city court, having been found guilty as a second offender, of driving while under the influence of liquor.

A charge of reckless driving against Warren L. Maynard, of Fishers Island, N. Y., was nolled on payment of $50. Maynard was arrested in this city last August on a charge of driving while under the influence of liquor and in the city court was fined $100 and costs. He appealed. The charge was changed to reckless driving with disposition as stated above.

There were three Jewett City liquor cases on the calendar but they did not come up for hearing, as the court was informed that all three had been disposed of in the Griswold town court where they were first heard. The accused, Helen Bernard, Francis Cyr and Rose Mykletyn, settled with the Griswold court on payments of $100 each.

A Jewett City woman, Mrs. Nellie Walenda, entered a plea of guilty to a liquor law violation charge and was fined $200 and costs.

Fred Sweet, of Old Lyme, entered a plea of guilty to two charges of violation of the liquor laws and was fined $300 and costs and sent to jail for 60 days.

On two charges of violation of the liquor laws, Joseph Connolly, of New London, was fined $400 and costs.

William M. Williams, of New London, charged with violation of the liquor law, failed to appear and his bond of $1,000 was called. Louis Elfenbein, of New London, was the bondsman.

Charles M. Taylor, of New London, was before the court on a charge of violation of the motor vehicle laws. His case was nolled on payment of $10.

Charged with breach of the peace, Aurore Couture, of this city, was presented before the court. The charge was nolled on payment of $13.86.

For violation of the motor vehicle laws, Ferdinand Fontaine, of Lisbon, paid $30, the case being nolled on payment of that amount.

An absolute nolle was entered in the case against Richard Edward Porter, of Bozrah, who was charged with violation of the motor vehicle laws. Two other motor vehicle cases were also nolled by the court. They were the cases against Edward Sticht, of Lisbon, and Mike Varnish, of Lebanon.

Joseph Baratz of New London, drew a fine of $200 and costs on a liquor law charge. A fornication case against Altha Gillan, of Waterford, was continued. Charged with violation of the motor vehicle laws Richard Zito, of Waterford, had his case nolled on payment of $20.30.

Harry L. Becker, of Colchester, was charged with violation of the fish and game laws and his case was nolled on payment of $25. Samuel Brenner, of New London, was before the court on a charge of violation of the motor vehicle laws. The case was nolled on the payment of $20.23. The court continued the case against Jacob Cocha, of this city.

CHELSEA BOAT CLUB HAS ANNUAL ELECTION

The annual meeting of the Chelsea Boat club was held at their club house at Kitemaug, Thursday evening. Following an oyster stew supper, provided by the entertainment committee, the annual election of officers took place. The election resulted as follows:

Commodore, Arthur J. Wirth; vice commodore, Milton C. Green; rear commodore, Alec Kaminski; secretary, William E. Mitchell; treasurer, E. L. Duff; governors for three years, William R. Frisbie and B. T. Hall. The committee for the ensuing year will be appointed later by Commodore Wirth.

CITY'S FIRST INDOOR GOLF COURSE OPENS

Norwich's first indoor golf course, Peter Pan, located in the old Masonic temple, Broadway, was auspiciously opened Thursday evening at 6.30 o'clock with a large attendance. The miniature course of 18 holes is nicely laid out with nine holes on the first floor and a like number on the second floor and contains a number of difficult hazards. Paintings of artistic designs on the walls, with pine trees and other decorations, add to the attractiveness of the course.

E. A. Rich, Earl Taggart and William Shanley are the proprietors of the course and Daniel Shea is the professional instructor.

ADDRESSED ITALIAN-AMERICAN CITIZENS CLUB

William J. Fitzgerald, democratic candidate for state senator, and A. W. Lillibridge, candidate for county sheriff, addressed a meeting Thursday night of the Independent Italian-American Citizens club in the Italian club house on Washington street. Constable Myer Blumenthal also spoke. The speakers were introduced by James Pedace, president of the club, and interested their audience with a discussion of campaign questions.

FINAL DEMONSTRATION OF VOTING MACHINES

Today (Friday) is the final day of demonstration of voting machines in the city court room. Those who are unfamiliar with the use of the machines, especially new voters, can have the way to vote explained to them by Registrars Tyler D. Guy and Joseph B. Downes.

In the evening at 7.30 there will be instruction for those who are to be election officials. This will also be in the city court room.

ITALIAN YOUNG MEN GAVE HALLOWEEN SOCIAL

At their club house on Washington street Wednesday night, the Italian Young Men's club conducted a successful Halloween social with about 150 members and their friends attending. Many of them appeared in costume and participated in the grand march. Miss Jennie Pedace won the prize for having the prettiest costume and John Zigaro was awarded the prize for the funniest. D. Simonello, P. Ferra, M. DiCarlo and A. Charles acted as judges. Music was supplied by a New London orchestra.

PATIENTS DISCHARGED AT BACKUS HOSPITAL

The following patients were discharged Thursday at the W. W. Backus hospital:

Francis Sweet, Jewett City; Margaret Jordan, Jewett City; Mrs. Rufus Harris, No. 27 Roosevelt avenue; Mrs. Samuel Goldsman, Versailles.

HALLOWEEN SOCIAL HELD AT THE BISHOP SCHOOL

An enjoyable Halloween party, arranged by the Misses Helen Gallup, Rita Foley and Anne Plante, was held Wednesday evening in the auditorium of the Bishop school by members of the East Side Girl Scout troop. The 30 members and guests attending were in costume and games were played. Refreshments were served.

CALLED FOR RUBBISH FIRE AT WHITE'S COURT

A carelessly discarded cigarette is believed to have been responsible for a rubbish fire in White's court about 9.45 o'clock Thursday evening, the resulting damage being slight. A pile of old automobile tires, papers and cardboard boxes in the space between the brick building and an offset wall caught fire. The blaze communicated to and charred a window casing of the building before it was discovered and a telephone call sent in to the central fire station.

When the fire apparatus reached the scene the flames were shooting up as high as the top of the building, but with a stream of water the firemen quickly extinguished the blaze. The heat was so terrific that every pane of glass in the window was cracked. Chief Henry R. Taft and Deputy Chief Dennis J. Brennan, with Engine No. 1, and Squad A, responded to the telephone alarm. The building is occupied by the local office of the Loose-Wiles Biscuit Co.

FREEMAN AND FOX FAVOR DRY REPEAL

According to an announcement made by the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, Congressman Richard P. Freeman, republican, of New London, and William C. Fox, democrat, also of New London, who is opposing Congressman Freeman in the election next Tuesday are both in favor of the repeal of the 18th amendment.

Congressman Schuyler Merritt, of Stamford, seeking re-election in the fourth district; his democratic opponent, William L. Gormley, Greenwich; Augustine Lonergan, Hartford, and James Shanley, New Haven, democratic congressional nominees in the first and third districts respectively, and Edward L. Goss, Waterbury, republican nominee in the fifth district have also come out in favor of repeal.

The survey reveals that the above were the only seven of the 11 congressional candidates in this state to reply to the questionnaires that were sent out, those from whom no replies were received being: Colonel John Q. Tilson, of New Haven, and Clarence W. Seymour, of West Hartford, republicans; Martin E. Gormley, democrat, of Naugatuck, and Walter E. Davis, socialist, of Hamden.

Out of 371 answers received by the Association Against the 18th Amendment 265 congressional candidates reported that they were in favor of repeal while 99 favored support of the prohibition amendment.

Both Congressmen Freeman and Merritt, according to their congressional records, voted against the 18th amendment when it was originally submitted.

PRUDENTIAL INSURANCE MEN ENTERTAINED AT DINNER

Over 50 insurance men associated with the Prudential Insurance Co. were entertained at dinner Thursday evening at Norwich Inn by Ernest O. Rodier, superintendent of the Norwich district. The appetizing menu served at 6:30 o'clock comprised celery soup, roast lamb, sweet potato, lima beans, buttered rolls, salad, ice cream and coffee. Fred Geer presided at the piano for the community singing. Following the dinner, a short business session was held with Superintendent Rodier presiding.

Hydrophone Completed

A large sound recording apparatus, classed as a type of hydrophone which will be used to determine the positions in which shots fired from land batteries drop at sea, has been constructed at the Electric Boat company's plant at Groton and is to be delivered to the government next week. The apparatus is, for the most part, constructed of steel and weighs several tons.

EKONK

(STERLING HILL)

Quinebaug Pomona, No. 2, met at Ekonk grange hall, Saturday evening, with about 150 present. Supper was served by Ekonk grange from 5.30 to 7 o'clock. The fifth degree was conferred upon a class of 33, followed by an interesting program—Music, Killingly high school orchestra; reading George Ingalls, of Brooklyn grange; talk, The Principles of the Grange, Worthy State Lecturer Sarah Curtis, of Plainville; reading, Otis Remington of Ekonk grange; music, Killingly high school orchestra. A helpful and instructive talk was given by the Worthy State Master Louis Tolles. Later he entertained the audience with whistling solos.

John and Charles Tanner have been in Boston this week attending the annual N. E. M. P. A. meeting.

Miss Maynard of Saybrook spent the week end with Miss Lydia Hartig.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Tanner and Miss Margaret Tanner were callers at Frank Morgan's in Pachaug, Sunday.

The Ladies' Aid society of Sterling Hill met in the vestry and tied a quilt Tuesday afternoon.

The first Sterling Home Economics meeting was held Tuesday afternoon in the town hall, Oneco. A good number was present and a number of hats were remodeled.

OBITUARY

Charles Gardner

Word was received Wednesday morning of the death of Charles Gardner in Quincy hospital, Mass. He sold his farm here last fall and has since resided with his children in Quincy. His funeral will be held at Ekonk church.

Callers at Mrs. Byron Gallup's, Sunday afternoon, were Mr. and Mrs. Edwin S. Gallup of Oneco and Mr. and Mrs. Everett B. Gallup and daughter, Shirley, of Auburn.

WESTFORD

The October meeting of the Home Economics club was held on the 23rd at the Armitage home. The members of the club found carpentry, as directed by Mrs. Makepeace, a very agreeable occupation and were highly delighted with the tables, bookcases, etc., which they constructed. There was a covered dish lunch at noon. The next meeting will be held Oct. 30, subject, Millinery.

At a recent meeting of the 4-H club the five boys present took part in a discussion led by Mr. Wing in regard to the importance and methods of keeping records. A social hour followed, with games led by Mrs. Wing and Mrs. Armitage. The next meeting will be Nov. 21. Mr. Krapf will demonstrate candling and grading eggs.

C. D. Chism, Miss Chism and Miss Whiton visited Mrs. W. H. Dawley, in Norwich, Tuesday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Armitage visited the Wheeler's of Scotland, Sunday, and took Miss Flora Wheeler who had been spending the week end at home back to Springfield where she is studying.

Fred Chism and A. W. Chisholm are working on the new playground at the West Ashford school.

Miss Whiton attended the funeral of Wilbur Towne which took place in Willimantic, Sunday.

SALEM

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Allen returned home Sunday after several days' stay at Randolph, Vt.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Bliven of Westerly were visitors Sunday at Ray Bliven's.

Mrs. Henry Rogers visited her brother, Charles Tiffany, in Wallingford, Sunday.

Mrs. Rose Wickson and family visited relatives at Walpole, Mass., Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Winifred Erwin of Hamburg visited at John Rathbun's Monday.

Mrs. John Wilkerson is spending the week with her daugater in Baltic.

BLACK HILL

NUTMEGS ABROAD SEEING SOME WONDROUS SIGHTS

Mr. and Mrs. Everett E. Brown, of Black Hill, town of Plainfield, have reached Asheville, N. C., on their way to Florida. Writing to friends north, Mr. Brown says:

Touring from Stroudsburg, Pa., we passed through a very attractive section, driving along a ridge road for miles, looking down over fertile fields in a wide valley with the distant mountains as a background. The effect was much as I imagine it would be flying over the valley in an airplane.

Noted Orchards

On the way we visited the noted Trexler orchards, 1600 acres of apples and peaches in addition to a variety of grapes, plums, all showing evidence of the best of care. We stopped at their immense packing sheds and salesrooms and sampled their products, so now we have inside information. Stopping at Reading only a short time we went to Wernersville where there is a bunch of mountain resort hotels having wonderful views. One of these is Galen Hall, formerly run for years as a sanitarium by Dr. Robert Walters and which I visited 50 years ago. Stopping over at Harrisburg, the capital of Pennsylvania, I had a pleasant call on Frank Davenport, formerly of Pomfret, who is running a big chain of restaurants. At Gettysburg we spent a very interesting one and a half hours with a guide driving over the 16,000 acres of the battle area, now made a national military park by the federal government. There are 1600 various monuments, many special ones by the individual states.

Winchester, Apple Center

Next day we passed most interestingly at Winchester, which is the gateway to the Shenandoah valley and has always been famous in the history of the country. It changed hands 72 times in the Civil war and is a wide awake, snappy town of 12,000 population. It is the home of Admiral Byrd of polar fame and Gov. Byrd and one other Byrd brother, who are active in the apple growing industry. We drove about ten miles on "Appletree Ridge," which is some 50 miles or more long and visited one of the orchards of the Byrds, who control 3700 acres. We got some most beautiful samples of Gov. Byrd's "York Imperial," one of the popular varieties in this valley. This year, on account of the drought, there was not rain to wash off the spray material, so a washing apparatus was installed and we saw a good many barrels of apples washed.

Apple By-Products

We visited a number of other large orchards, many of them of over 300 acres. Winchester has over 3,000 good-sized commercial apple orchards, the largest cold storage building for apples in the world, the largest manufacturing place for apple by-products in the world and using as high as 6,000,000 pounds of apples per day in the manufacture of cider, vinegar, appe butter and over a million barrels of apples are used annually in this section.

Among the fine buildings of special note are the Handley public library, given the city by the late Judge Handley of Scranton, Pa., built of Indiana limestone, and costing $150,000, without equipment. It has great architectural beauty and is also finely equipped and liberally endowed.

Judge Handley also gave the beautiful Handley high school to the city in a tract of 75 acres. Judge Handley came as a poor immigrant boy from Ireland.

Next day we visited the wonderful "Endless Caverns" near Newmarket, Va. Went in with a good sized party and guide one and a half miles. There are a half dozen other noted caverns in the valley.

Incident of the Revolution

At Woodstock there are some interesting caverns, also some wonderful views from the Massanutten mountains. During the Revolutionary war, the Rev. Mr. Muhlenberg, a Lutheran minister and a Colonial patriot, came into his pulpit one Sunday and after preaching an inspiring sermon, threw off his clerical robes and disclosed himself in full military uniform and proclaimed to his congregation: "There is a time to preach and a time to pray, and a time to fight, and that time is now."

A call for volunteers was answered by over 300 men and he became one of the leading officers of the revolution.

Here is located Massanutten Academy, founded in 1899. At Staunton, we passed the well advertised military academy and at Lexington drove through the grounds of the noted Washington-Lee university.

Soon after we drove over the natural bridge (which was built long before The Bulletin was).

Roanoke, Va., is a bustling, growing city with 60,000 population it is a great commercial city. Through Salem with Roanoke college, we stopped at night at Pulaski, named after Count Pulaski of Poland, who came to America at the invitation of Ben Franklin and fought and died in the Revolutionary war.

Marion, the county seat of Marion county, was named after General Francis Lee Marion, whose military shrewdness gave him the name of the "Swamp Fox."

At Abington we passed Martha Washington and Stonewall Jackson college.

In Two States at Once

At Bristol, on the Tennessee and Virginia line, we were able to drive down Main street through the middle of which the line runs, with Mrs. Brown on the right side of the auto sitting in Virginia, while I on the left side was in Tennessee.

Interest in Mines

We drove this day 175 miles and stopped for the night at Spruce-Pine, 2514 feet elevation. This is the location of three mining industries—Kaolin mines from which the white porcelain is made, like bath room fixtures, spark plug centers, etc.; second, Feld Spar, which is ground up and used in a multitude of ways, one of which is in Bon Ami; third, a number of mica cutting factories using mica which is mined here in great quantities (50 per cent of the world's supply). This is used in many ways particularly on electrical and radio equipment. I had a very pleasant visit with Harry Urban, who runs one of these factories and who explained the processes. It comes out of the mines in great chunks at times. I was told of one mine that took out one lump weighing 4300 pounds from the Fanny Gouge mine, which was worth $12,000, enough to pay the running expenses of the mine for a year.

The road from Elizabethtown to Asheville was the crookedest I ever drove on—from 10 to 15 hairpin curves to a mile by actual count, but wonderful, wonderful scenery.

Finely built road, much of the way a beautiful cement road, but as a rule without any guard rails. We drove for miles along these hairpin curves, cut out of the side of solid granite mountains and over the other side you could look down 100 to 500 feet and no guard rails! No place for a really nervous driver. Well, goodnight, for I am sleepy, and I think this mountain air, with the perfume of the pines will lull me to sleep.

Rheumatism Goes
Swollen Joints Vanish
How To End Rheumatism in Less Than a Week

If you suffer from torturing rheumatic pains, sore muscles or stiff inflammed joints, it's because your system is full of the dangerous poisons that cause rheumatism and make thousands helpless. What you need is RU-MA, and need it right now.

RU-MA acts on the blood, stomach, kidneys and liver, and drives the dangerous rheumatic poisons from the system through the natural channels of elimination—it eases pain the first day.

You must use an internal medicine to free the joints and muscles of crippling stiffness, soreness and torturing pain. That's why RU-MA succeeds while external remedies and pain deadening drugs give only temporary relief.

Lee & Osgood says no matter what kind of rheumatism you have suffered, try RU-MA—it must completely end all rheumatic agony or you get your money back.

GOODYEAR

Miss Kathryn McGovern of Goodyear was given a Halloween party Monday evening, celebrating her sixteenth birthday. She received many beautiful gifts. Dancing and games were the feature of the evening. Refreshments were served and Halloween novelties were the favors. Acrobatic dancing was given by four-year-old Beverly De Santis. Guests attending were: Freddie Morse, Ernest Corries, Billie Soarse, John and Milton Fiddler, Pierce McGovern, Joseph De Santis, Joseph Jackson, Fabiola Dumas, Hortense Trudeau, Grace McGovern, Gertrude Cassidy, Anna Poprawa, Florence Frechette, Beverly De Santis.

Mrs. Joseph De Santis of Brooklyn, N. Y., was a week end visitor at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John T. McGovern.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Liberty of Goodyear were week end visitors at Arctic, R. I.

Among boxing fans who attended the fights in Taftville Friday evening were: Timothy Corcoran, Annie Godreau, George Sarault, John McGovern and John McGovern, Jr. Our local boxer, Al Rodman, was on the card.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Diggett of Pawtucket were visitors Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Diggett.

The Goodyear Polish Boys' band, under direction of Joseph H. Diggett, played Sunday in Putnam at the opening of the Polish Freedom club.

UNION

The first snow of the season arrived here early Friday morning, October 24. It was quite a surprise to find trees, ground, everything in the out-door world, covered with a white fluffy coat. The snow continued falling till noon, and gradually changed to rain, with a high wind, but the temperature rose enough to melt the snow before night.

Wells are interesting subjects, for all are continuing dry to date, although springs rose a little, due to the snow and rain of Friday.

Union Home Economics club served a supper at the Town hall Friday. Besides people from town, guests were present from Eastford, Stafford, Sturbridge, Southbridge and Worcester. The supper was pronounced abundant and delicious, and the table was bright and cheery with lights from green candles, and decorations of red berries and pine branches.

Following the supper, the group which had attended the Recreational institute held in Andover by the Tolland County Farm Bureau, tried out some of the new games. These games afforded much fun and doubtless, will be a source of enjoyment at L. B. A. socials during the coming winter.

The schools were closed Friday and the teachers, Miss Helen Hutchins and Miss Mary Daley, attended the state teachers' convention in Hartford.

Mrs. Cath'rine Potter of South Willington spent the week-end at the Gaudette bungalow, the guest of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Clare Gaudette. Satisfaction is expressed here that these young people and their little daughters, Catherine and Elizabeth, have come to make their home here, having recently moved here from South Willington.

Rev. Charles Williams, of Sutton Mass., supplied the pulpit at the church at Union Center, the past two Sundays. There will be a service next Sunday, Nov. 2, as usual, at 11 a. m.

TUNNEY-MARA LEGAL BOUT OPENS WITH CAPACITY HOUSE IN NEW YORK

(By Edward J. Neil, Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Oct. 30—(AP)—Back into the gaze of the crowds, the public attention he abhors, came Gene Tunney today to lift his fists in legal defense against Tim Mara's suit for $500,000 for alleged breach of contract back in the budding heyday of the retired heavyweight champion's career.

Hundreds lined the long stairs leading up to the supreme court, flashlights popped, the almost forgotten whisper—"there goes Tunney"—ran through the building. It looked more like a weighing in day before one of his title fights than the opening of a legal battle that may pry from Gentleman Gene a fourth of the $2,000,000 fortune he amassed in the ring.

The retired champion, affable and ud of the fact that he weighs only pound more than he did the night slaughtered Tom Heeney in his g valedictory back in 1928, was re of an attraction than the trial elf and the imposing array of legal ent and boxing celebrities involved the case. He sat at the table of s counsel, Emory A. Buckner, former United States district attorney, and followed intently the opening arguments of both sides. Presentation of evidence begins with the opening of court at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

The suit revolves about the contention of Mara, prominent politician and sportsman, that Tunney agreed to give him 10 per cent of his purse, and 25 per cent of his ring earnings during the remainder of his career, in return for Mara's aid in gaining him a title match with Jack Dempsey in 1926. The one mild sensation of the presentations was the admission of Tunney's counsel that Gene offered Mara $25,000 if the politician could influence the New York State Athletic commission to lift the ban that had been put on the bout here. The commission then recognized Harry Wills, the "Black Menace," as the outstanding contender.

The commission, with members George E. Brower and William Muldoon in favor and Chairman James A. Farley opposed, reversed its position and sanctioned the match, but the licensing committee, since abolished, vetoed the affair by refusing to grant Dempsey a boxing license. The late Tex Rickard then promoted the match in Philadelphia and drew the first $2,000,000 gate in fight history.

Mara, represented by Martin Littleton, promised to prove that he had a contract signed by Tunney guaranteeing him ten per cent of his $200,000 purse for helping bring about a match with Dempsey. Two other contracts, neither signed by Tunney but allegedly bolstered by a letter from Gene purporting to agree to the provisions, are to be offered as evidence. Plaintiff's counsel said that Tunney agreed to give up 16 2-3 per cent of his earnings and his manager Billy Gibson, 8 1-3 per cent of his share, to make up Mara's 25 per cent.

The trend of the Tunney presentation was that Rickard "lined up" with Tunney for the Dempsey bout four days before an oral agreement was entered into between Gene and Mara on April 8, 1925, and that Tunney approached the politician only after Rickard asked: "Haven't you any friends who can go to work on the commission?"

One throwback to the old days lightened the proceedings when Littleton said relations became strained between Tunney and Mara after the politician offered the fighter then in Florida, this first bit of advice:

"Throw away those books, that typewriter, the golf suit and dinner clothes. Come back to New York and drive a truck if you want to get anywhere in the fight game."

KOEHLER TO HEAD TOLEDO PRO QUINTET

NEW YORK, Oct. 30—(AP)—Toledo, new member of the American Professional Basketball league this year, will make its bid with a strong team headed by Pig Koehler, former Penn State athlete, who is also captain of the Toledo American association baseball team, John J. O'Brien, league president, said today.

In addition to Koehler, Red Brandes, speedy forward; and Len Sheppard, members of the Toledo team that won the National league title last year, Manager Ed Cannon has rounded up valuable reinforcements.

Among the newcomers are Cookie Cunningham, former Ohio State center and football end, who finished last year with the champion Cleveland Rosenblums, Gil Ely of the Chicago Bruins; Chuck Gillium, who played at Syracuse university and last year was with Dayton in the National league; and Ken Failing, of the Canton, Ohio, National league club. An additional forward is to be obtained from Fort Wayne.

The season opens Nov. 15.

ONLY ONE HARVARD REGULAR TO START GAME

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. Oct. 30—(AP)—Though Harvard is not taking William and Mary lightly Head Coach Arnold Horween today said he would start but one of his regulars against the southerners on Saturday. The Crimson coach has decided that his battered regulars need to be well rested before they tackle Michigan next week.

Halfback Eddie Mays will be the only Harvard starter to open against William and Mary. Jack Crickard will play the other halfback post and Jack Shereschewsky will start at fullback. The team will be run by Art Huguely and Barry Wood will not get in unless he is vitally needed. The Crimson line, from end to end, will be made up of reserves.

Horween put his squad through a long session and stressed such fundamentals as blocking and tackling. The backs went through forward passing drills and a dummy scrimmage to perfect the assignments ended the workout.

FORDHAM MAKES NO OFFER TO NOTRE DAME

NEW YORK, Oct. 30—(AP)—Having read in the papers that Notre Dame had turned down a proposal to play Fordham in a post-season football game if both continue undefeated, Jack Coffey, graduate manager, declared emphatically today that no such suggestion had been made by anyone connected with Fordham.

"It is absurd to talk or even to think of a post-season game when we have only just finished the first half of our schedule and the hardest part is directly ahead of us," said Coffey.

"The players at Fordham are in the game because they like it and are not playing with any so-called national championships in view," he added.

WINDHAM PREPARES FOR GAME WITH ACADEMY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 31. — The Windham high school football line was subjected to changes today for the encounter with Norwich Free Academy at Recreation park here Saturday afternoon, owing to the injuries existing in the team. In the forward wall Weatherhead will start in a guard berth to replace "Nick" Twerdy, rugged lineman who is out of action with an injured hand. "Ben" Slowick, an end, will be removed from center to fill the other guard position made vacant by the transfer of "Al" Chaeen to tackle. This latter transfer has been made owing to the injuries of "Brick" Jordan, regular tackle, who is suffering from an injured leg. Fox will start at center and "Bill" Miseveth will be at his accustomed tackle position. "Joey" Kaminski and Kasperkiewicz will start at the ends. The starting backfield will remain unchanged. Stemmons will be at the quarterback position and the halfbacks will be E. Chase and Ferriner, Captain Luciani will be fullback. Although crippled, the Windham eleven will enter the field determined to take the game from the Academy with another victory over South Manchester for a successful season as the objective. The game is to start at 2:30 o'clock with Connecticut board officials handling the play.

FIVE UNDEFEATED MID-WEST TEAMS IN GAMES WITH EAST

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—(AP)—The middle west will send five undefeated and untied football elevens into action against the east this week end with high hopes of winning a majority of the engagements.

Kansas, which rolled up 93 points to 13 against Creighton, Haskell, Kansas Aggies and Iowa State, gets its big test against Pennsylvania at Philadelphia.

The Army will be favored over the University of North Dakota, but the Flickertails have won the north central conference title for two straight years without being tied or beaten and have numbered Davis-Elkins, South Dakota State and North Dakota State among their victims this year.

Marquette goes east to meet Boston college, with victories over Grinnell, Drake and Creighton on its record.

Oklahoma City, conqueror of Lynn Waldorf's Oklahoma A., & M. team which beat Iowa and tied Indiana, visits Davis-Elkins; and Tulsa, another member of the Oklahoma Big Four, entertains George Washington on Friday night with plenty of confidence as a result of a victory over Arkansas, among others.

PLAINFIELD PROS OPEN SEASON ON NOV. 21

The Plainfield Pro basketball team will open its season Thursday, Nov. 21, against the strong Long Island Pros, headed by George (Baldy) Yerkes. The Pros will line-up this year with Whitey Bernot, Jerry Conway, Joe Brusso, Billy Casper, Pop Williams, Roy Dissinger and Cap Bissell, of South Manchester, who played with Plainfield in 1925 and 1926. He has played for the past four years with Trinity college.

In the preliminary games Plainfield will put on one of the fastest girls' teams, having such well known girl stars as Helen Bakanowski of Jewett City, Doris Generous, Ida Butler, Edith Morrill, F. Nicholson and Veronica Connelly. The girls will play boys rules and will challenge the best feminine teams in the country. Dave Harper will again officiate.

YALE TO SEND STRONGEST TEAM AGAINST DARTMOUTH

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 30—(AP)—Yale wound up intensive practice for the Dartmouth game today with one of the longest workouts of the year.

An hour's signal drill was followed by a long forward passing practice, both on the offense and defense. For more than a half hour Eli used the Hanover Indians' pass attack while the regular backs tried to [illegible] it.

Booth, Parker, Dunn and Crowley were in the first team backfield again today. There is much speculation whether Mal Stevens will start this combination or send in Heim, Sullivan, Taylor and Muhlfeld for the opening kickoff.

Flynn and Sargent were at the ends and it seems certain that they will start the game Saturday. Landenberger and Barres are out with leg injuries.

Yale will complete its preparations for the Dartmouth invasion with a light workout in the bowl tomorrow afternoon.

WORCESTER BOXER BADLY HURT IN PUTNAM BOUT

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Oct. 30.—Action was the keynote of the season's second amateur boxing card staged tonight in St. John's hall on Providence street by the Putnam Boxing club. In the feature bout Gene Billings, 153, gentleman pugilist from Goodyear, in the lingering moments of the last of a three-round bout, sent the game but badly beaten Frankie Murray of Worcester into oblivion when he delivered a smashing right hook to the jaw that floored the Worcester boy.

When finally dragged to his corner, Murray remained unconscious for nearly three minutes and his injuries were so serious that he had to be carried to his dressing room where Dr. P. E. Tetreault, club physician, worked over him for almost an hour before he was able to be removed in an automobile and driven to Worcester. His injuries are believed to be more than ordinary.

Billings from the start displayed his superior fighting ability when he continually forced Murray into corners, swapping punches at close range. On three occasions in the first round he went down for the count but came back in the second, when Billings tore into him with terrific rights and lefts to the head. Murray, in reply to an inquiry by the referee, refused to declare a truce at the opening of the third round but at the bell walked groggily into the center of the ring, where he was a target for Billings' vicious rights and lefts that floored him twice more. Dazed and almost at the point of collapsing, Murray made one last effort to check the aggressive Goodyear fighter by sending a light and poorly directed right to the head that opened the way for Billings to deliver the left hook to the jaw that swept his semi-conscious opponent off his feet and landed him flat on his back, ruthlessly and unmercifully beaten.

In the final bout of the evening, Charles Goulet, fast-stepping Putnam boxer, scored a knockout over Peter King, promising Worcester boy, who made his ring debut tonight. King was completely outclassed by the more experienced Goulet but he put up an excellent fight and during the early part of the scrap tormented the local fighter with some cleverly timed hooks to the body and jabs to the head. Goulet slowed up the Worcester pugilist with successive rights to the body and stomach that knocked him down three times for the count of nine. He followed this offense with a stiff right to the stomach that sent King tumbling to the floor and ended the fight. Goulet weighed 127 and King 130.

Other results:

Ray Landry, 127, Danielson, won decision over Joe Zandal, 130, Worcester.

Harry Woods, 130, Worcester, won decision over Sam Bernier, 129, Danielson.

Danny Roy, 109, Worcester, won decision over Kid Jackson, 111, Goodyear.

Kid Brisson, 123, Putnam, won decision over Mickey Walsh, 121, Worcester.

William Leo, 139, Danielson, scored technical knockout in first round over Kid Belanger, 139, Wauregan.

The referee was Frank Portelle, of Hartford, and Louis Lambert, of Danielson, was timekeeper.

DATES FOR NATIONAL MOTORBOAT RACES SET

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.— (AP)— The American Power Boat association concluding its final meeting here today, announced that the 1931 national gold cup race would be held at Lake Montauk, Long Island, August 15, and that Red Bank, N. J., will be hosts to the national sweepstakes one week later. Dates for other meetings also were announced and officers were re-elected.

Frederick R. Still, New York, was renamed president and W. D. Edenburn, Detroit, secretary. Other officers who hold over for another year are: W. M. Elrige, New York, timer; Ira Hand, New York, treasurer; Howard E. Blood, Detroit, measurer, and F. W. Honenburger, New York, surveyor.

The delegates voted to accept an invitation from Sir Hubert Scott-Paine of the Royal Motor Yacht club of England, to send three boats of the five and one half liter class to race against British boats at Southampton, next June. Three new boats will be built for these races, for which the Detroit News trophy, now held by Sir Hubert, will be the prize.

It also was voted that the '32 race will be held in North America, '33 in Europe and '34 in the United States.

The following dates were announced for American races: July 4, Albany Yacht club; July 11, Block Island, hosts; New York Athletic cup; July 1, Seneca Yacht club, Lake Geneva, N. Y.; August 7-8, Myles River Yacht club; Aug. 15, Gold cup race; August 22, national sweepstakes; Aug. 29-30, Jersey coast championships, (Stone Harbor Yacht club) and Sept. 28-19, President's cup races, Washington, D. C.

Aaron De Roy of the Detroit Yacht club, permanent owner of two cups re-donated them for perpetual competition for boats in the five and one half liter class.

It was announced that at least 12 new boats will be built for the national cup race, one by the 1929 winner, Richard F. Hoyt.

STRIBLING AND CHRISTNER TO BATTLE TONIGHT

BOSTON, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Making his first appearance here in five years, W. L. "Young" Stribling, Atlanta heavyweight, will clash with K. O. Christner of Akron, Ohio, tomorrow night in the Argonne A. A.'s feature 10-round bout. The southerner is a top heavy favorite to defeat the ageing rubber worker but Meyer is a difficult opponent to floor and may succeed in ending the knockout streak that now includes Otto Von Porat and Phil Scott.

The other 10-rounder on the card will find Arthur DeKuh, the same New York heavyweight who is signed to battle Stribling in Atlanta next month, clashing with Big Bill Hartwell, of Kansas City. Rosy Rosales, Cleveland heavyweight, will tangle with Jake Warren of New York in an eight rounder, several six round preliminaries are on the card.

CUBS WILL START TRAINING ON FEB. 12

CHICAGO, Oct 30—(AP)—Rogers Hornsby and his Chicago Cubs plan to extend their spring training season, leaving for Catalina Island, Cal., February 12 or one week earlier than a year ago.

A long schedule of exhibition games will be planned Manager Hornsby said today as he established his winter headquarters here. Games will be played at Los Angeles, San Francisco, Kansas City and probably Fort Worth, Texas.

LEWIS OFFERS SHARKEY $60,000 TO BOX STRIBLING

CHICAGO, Oct 30—(AP)—Matchmaker Nate Lewis of the Chicago stadium today wired an offer of $60,000 to Jack Sharkey of Boston, for a bout with W. L. "Young" Stribling next January. Lewis said Stribling already has accepted terms for the bout. The offer to Sharkey is flat, carrying no percentage privilege.

SOUTHERN N. E. BASKETBALL LOOP SWINGS INTO ACTION ON TUESDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

PLAINFIELD, Oct. 30. — Lester Saulsbury, president of the Southern New England Basketball league, announced Thursday evening that the league will get underway next Tuesday night at the Plainfield Community house with six teams showing their stuff, namely, Willimantic West Ends, Putnam Silk Sox, Danielson, Plainfield, Jewett City, Westerly Collegians. Other teams have signified their intentions of entering the league but due to an early start arrangements are being made to allow new entries at the start of the second round.

The present members of the league have very strong teams. Willimantic will be represented by the same that was runners-up in the southern New England basketball tournament held last spring at the Community house. Eddie Nichols will captain this aggregation and will be ably assisted by the Mandell brothers, A. Sweet, S. Mella, A. Meikle, T. Sroka, B. Luciani and Saba. These are mostly all former Windham players.

Danielson will make its bid with the following players: Capt. Withey, Young, Gale, Mitchell, Mayhew, Adams, Hutchins, Dascoli, Slowik.

Putnam is bound to make a good showing with such men as Capt. A. Murphy, Leo Hannifin, Cody, B. Murphy, Marion, Bousquet, Weiss, Franklin and Denning.

Plainfield will show Jim Dyeart, J. Korab, E. Mercer, J. Bromley, G. Marriott, T. Lang, T. Allard, J. Eaton, B. Mette, I. Mercier, Bobby Connelly will act as mascot.

Westerly is expected to make the going hard for any opponents, with Capt. Cook, Holt, Stenhouse, Sullivan, Barber, Cropper, Roever, Federico, Cruickshanks and Stefanski.

Jewett City seems destined to carry the "darkhorse" role in the league, this being their first year in basketball since 1923. Stanley Derda, the manager, expects to publish the personnel before the opening of play. Jewett City has always been noted for their good teams and much is expected from them in the league.

Stafford Springs, Woodstock, Taftville and Colchester might possibly fall in line at the last minute. Amateur rules will govern the league and central board officials will handle all games. A very small admission will be charged to defray expenses.

The schedule of the opening night will be published Tuesday morning.

DARTMOUTH READY TO MEET YALE IN CLASSIC

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 30—(AP)—A determined Dartmouth football squad today ended its preparations for Saturday's Yale game with a brief workout. Head Coach Jackson Cannell predicted that his Indians would give the Elis a close battle and that the game would be decided by the "breaks".

Cannell put his players through the usual work on fundamentals and followed this with a long signal drill that stressed all of the plays this season. The varsity today lined up with Sullivan, le; Barber, lt; Bromberg, lg; Andres, c; Hoffman, rg; Crehan, rt; Branch, re; Morton, qb; Wolff, lhb; Frigard, rhb; and Sutton, fb. This combination is expected to start in the bowl.

Cannell plans to save his flashy ball carriers, McCall, Donner, Porter and Toothaker, for use as shock troops and, on a dry field, this quartet may be able to match the individual brilliance of Albie Booth.

The Green squad will leave here tomorrow for Hartford, Cann., where it will spend the night. Cannell plans to keep his players away from the bowl, until almost game time.

BULKELEY JAYVEES WIN FROM ACADEMY TEAM

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 30—The unsmirched record of the Norwich Free Academy cross-country squad was blackened today when Bulkeley won a second team meet from the Wildcats by a count of 23 to 32. It was a return match as Norwich had taken the meet in the Rose City about two weeks ago.

Davidson of Bulkeley finished first in the surprisingly good time of 13 minutes, 42 seconds with Wladarczck, of Norwich second, Bronitsky, Bulkeley, third and the remaining runners in the following order: Nason, B; Tarrant, N; O'Neil, N; Comyn, B; Cables, B; Golub, N; Mahoney, N; Wladarczck, Tarrant and Golub made good showings for the Red and White.

GIANTS TROUNCE NEWARK IN NIGHT ENCOUNTER

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.— (AP)— The New York Giants continued to roll up touchdowns and victories in the National Professional Football league campaign tonight by trouncing Newark 34 to 7 in a night game.

The Giants did most of their scoring on straight line plays, although a pass from Friedman to Badgro brought the first touchdown. A 35-yard run for a touchdown by Sedbrooke in the fourth quarter was the outstanding play of the game. Newark's only score came in the second quarter when Tomiani took a 20-yard pass to score. Burnett, Wilson and Moran scored the other Giant touchdowns.

ACADEMY QUINTET STARTS SEASON'S PRACTICE

Basketball which promises to do big things at the Academy the coming season, got an early start Thursday afternoon at the new Norton Memorial gym when Coach Paul Bitgood had about 30 candidates out for the first practice session. The afternoon was devoted to work of a light nature, particularly fundamentals of the game being stressed.

Until the football and cross-country seasons close, which will be in about three weeks, the practices will be of an informal nature as several of the former squads will report for the basketball team then.

ACADEMY HARRIERS RUN AGAINCT CHAPMAN TODAY

The Academy's cross-country varsity team will face probably its stiffest assignment of the season this afternoon at the campus course in meeting Chapman Tech of New London. The Whalers have one of their best teams this fall and are confident of breaking the Academy's string of successes. Tech has beaten Bulkeley by two points while also m[illegible]ing a very good showing in the Troy run. The Academy will probably rely on Wood, Lyons, Richardson, Mahoney and Baranotsky. George Lambert, star of last year's squad has recently reported for practice and is making a good showing.

From Diamond To Mat

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Wes Schulmerich, Los Angeles outfielder, recently sold to the Boston Braves for $40,000, today signed a contract as a wrestler and will make his initial appearance as a professional grappler here November 12.

Eastern Football Briefs

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Gil Dobie's big red team tonight entrained for New York where it meets Columbia Saturday. The 'eleven' consisted of 35 men and Gloomy Gil refused a prediction as to the outcome.

WEST POINT, N. Y.—North Dakota tonight was advancing its big guns on the Hudson river fortress. A 220-pounder was aimed right at Major Sasse's tackles. By name he is Carl Eckholm. He'll be pitted against Price, 215.

PRINCETON, N. J. — Thirty-two Princeton gridders, entrained tonight for Chicago where they meet Alonso Stagg's machine Saturday. The Chicago eleven holds a 2-1 margin over the Tiger outfit by virtue of a 15-7 victory at Palmer stadium last year. It marks the third trip west for a Princeton team, the Tigers having invaded Chicago in 1922 and the Ohio State stadium at Columbus two years ago.

NEW YORK— Chick Meehan and his somewhat wilted Violets tonight were heading Pittsburghward, Chick hoping the Smoky City climate might benefit his machine. On their last sortie to Pittsburgh, Carnegie Tech proved somewhat easy for the Violets, but there is no Al Lassman nor Ken Strong on this eleven. Meanwhile Judge Steffen had his well oiled machine in working order for the Botany boys.

NEW YORK—His entire squad in condition, Lou Little optimistically stated he had little to worry about his Saturday joust with Cornell. Hewitt, whose drop kick tumbled the Williams outfit last week, will start as will Stanzyck. Active scrimmaging ended today, a light workout tomorrow being voted.

NEW YORK —Undefeated in two seasons and unscored upon this year, Fordham awaited West Virginia Mountaineers with feudal thoughts today. The game will be at the Polo Grounds and Coach Cavanaugh can safel say each of his linemen is a 10 handicap player. The opposition has found it so, at least. Jim Murphy's availability is still uncertain.

PHILADELPHIA — Quaker City fans will observe Saturday whether Jim Bausch, highly touted Kansas back, is all that is claimed. This prominently mentioned player heads the Kansas delegation into the eastern sector, anxious to take back the Pennsylvania goal-posts. The team weight averages give Kansas a decided edge, about 196 to 184. The Jayhawkers are undefeated as yet this season.

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—Having given but one first down through its tough Orange line in its first four games, Syracuse will meet Brown university here Saturday determined to continue its long string of victories over the Providence institution. Not since 1905 has Brown taken Syracuse's measure. Each team has lost one contest, Brown to Yale and Syracuse to Pittsburgh.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. — The Mountaineers of West Virginia, enroute to New York to see what Coach Frank Cavanaugh has in his Fordham machine that prohibits other teams from scoring upon them, will dip into Merlin's bag of tricks to try and overcome the Fordham weakness, if any. This magic will be in the form of the only ambidextrous backfield star ever to be seen in action in New York city. Bill Parriott, who passes with either hand, is the hope of Ira Rodgers. Last year the score was 0-0.

ANNAPOLIS, Md.—Although they are playing West Virginia Wesleyan Saturday the Middies spent the day from studying Scripture. The first team scored six times against Team "B" using the Wesleyan plays. Coach Bill Ingram sent Campbell in Kirn's place today and plans using him against the Methodists Saturday, saving Kirn for Ohio State the following

GEHRIG UNDERGOES TWO MINOR BONE OPERATIONS

NEW YORK, Oct. 30—(AP)—Lou Gehrig, Yankees first baseman, spent two hours on the operating table at St. Vincent's hospital today undergoing repairs for the 1931 baseball season.

Lou underwent an operation on his left elbow and the forefinger of his right hand, which bothered him during the closing days of the season but failed to keep him out of the Yankee lineup. He probably will be confined to the hospital for a week or ten days.

The Colonial All Stars Challenge

The Colonial All Stars, a newly organized football team, being a combination of the Trojans and the Mohegan Indians, are looking for games in this vicinity. Would especially like to hear from the Norwichtown team for a game this Sunday. Also would like to schedule games with Laurel Hill Athletics and Hardig A. C.

The Colonial All Stars are composed of many noted players. Included in this list are C. Sargent, E. Lidell, C. Colt, J. Cook, J. Smith, D. Royce, L. Royce, S. Stockwell, J. Hyrack, E. Grover, S. Gilman, J. Murphy, C. Holden, H. Frink, E. Jennes, A. Mathews and others. Answer in Sat. paper.

FAVORS ABOLISHMENT OF SACRIFICE FLY RULE

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 30.—(AP)—The St. Louis chapter of the Baseball Writers association went on record today as favoring the abolishment of the sacrifice fly rule, under the provisions of which a batter has not been credited with a time at bat when his fly or foul ball enabled a runner to advance a base.

Stasiak Throws Rushell

HARTFORD, Oct. 30.—(AP)— Stanley Stasiak won two straight falls from Jack Rushell, in the feature bout of a wrestling card at Foot Guard hall tonight. Stasiak used a reverse flying mare to get the first fall and a flying mare to win the second fall. Jack Ganson threw Joe Drake in 23:10 of the semi-final. Paul Adams pinned Cowboy Hughes to the mat in 19:19 and Billy Brooks threw Joe Dion in 16:30.

Brouillard Wins

WORCESTER, Mass. Oct. 30—(AP)—Jack Berry, 173, Millbury, won a technical knockout in the fourth round from Joe Johnson of New York, here tonight.

Al Brouillard, of Danielson, Conn., won a decision over Aldo Nocchi, of Worcester in six rounds.

AGGIES TO SEND REVAMPED TEAM AGAINST COAST GUARD

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Oct. 30—When the Connecticut Aggie football team lines up against Coast Guard eleven at New London on Saturday, there will probably be several men in positions which they have not been playing before this season. In scrimmage this afternoon Coach Dole used Juringuis in place of Collahan who has played as left end during the greater part of the last two or three games. Both men are outstanding as pass catchers.

Storrs will probably replace Bebman at left tackle because the latter has been forced to the sidelines by a broken finger which he received in practice yesterday. Moore who has been playing as firststring center all season has gone to left guard, and Glennon who has been a sub fullback has taken his berth. Yesukiewicz, Hakanson, and Eddy will remain at their regular positions of guard, tackle, and end on the right side of the line.

In the backfield, DeRosa, a sophomore, will play quarterback, French and Williams have been alternating in this position to date. Zavarella, another sophomore, will be used at left halfback in place of Captain Murphy, the latter having been shifted to right halfback in place of Pierce. Harger will continue to do his stuff as plunging fullback.

This lineup was used today and indications are that it will start Saturday. Harger, Glennon, Warren and Eddy drilled on place kicking this afternoon, and DeRosa practiced drop-kicking. Part of the kicking was done under scrimmage conditions.

Les Stevens, a sophomore who has shown much promise in the backfield this fall because [illegible] his speed, may not see service again this season because of a dislocated shoulder which he received in practice yesterday afternoon. At any rate he will not be out again for several weeks.

BACON HARRIERS TOO 'FLEET FOR LYMANS

(Special to The Bulletin)

COLCHESTER, Oct. 30—The fast Bacon academy track team outpointed the Lyman Memorial High school harriers of Lebanon 26-29 on the 3 mile Lebanon course Thursday afternoon. Krupnic Bacon academy's star came in first with a time of 14:50 minutes. Zenowitz another Bacon runner stayed behind to coach Gregory along, Gregory coming in third, Zenowitz, fourth. The other Bacon boys, Busel and Goldberg came in eighth and tenth respectively. The Lebanonites crassed the line as follows: Howard, second, Greenberg, fifth, Spellacy, sixth, Manning seventh, and Goldstein ninth. Krupnic, Gregory and Howard collapsed after they crossed the finish line as the strain of the race was so great. The Bacon team has competed in three meets so far this season and has won all of them, Krupnic, the Bacon star coming in first in all of these contests.

The Bacon academy outfit will compete with Norwich Free Academy team in Norwich Nov. 6 and on Nov. 17 a return meet will be held here with N. F. A. The Bacon harriers feel elated over their fine showing so far this year and Coach Howell hopes to enter his boys in the Interscholastic conference meet of Eastern Connecticut and Western Rhode Island, to be held in Norwich Nov. 20. An unusually exciting contest is expected when the local boys meet the N. F. A. outfit next week, Nov. 6.

PRINCE PRESENTS BERG WITH CIGARETTE CASE

LONDON, Oct. 30—(AP)—Jackie (Kid) Berg, an outstanding contender for the world's lightweight boxing title, today was presented a silver cigarette case by Prince George at the variety show in London's East end.

De Vos and Clivilies Matched

NEW YORK, Oct. 30—(AP)—Rene De Vos, Belgian middleweight boxer, was matched today with Angel Clivilies of Porto Rico for a ten-round bout at the Olympia Boxing club in Harlem next Thursday night.

DEVLIN-GELBER BOUT IS TO BE TORRID AFFAIR

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 30—Hughie Devlin, fighting Irish featherweight of this city, and Sammy Gelber, New York Hebrew, will clash tonight at the Thames Arena in the ten-round star bout of a card arranged by Matchmaker Al Weill who has lined up a supporting cast of rare explosive quality.

Eversince the time Gelber boxed his way to a couple of close wins over Devlin last summer, Hughie has been conditioning himself for a fight with the Jewish boy that would prove decisive enough one way or the other to erase any doubt from the minds of the fight enthusiasts and he gets his chance tonight when he steps into the ring with Sammy.

Gelber, on the other hand, is confident of his ability to show local fans that his superiority over Devlin is not to be questioned but at the same time he has prepared himself for one of the greatest fights of his career. In fact, Gelber doesn't mind admitting that Devlin gave him two of his toughest fights he ever ran into.

Both fighters have been training faithfully for tonight's scrap and in the opinion of most admirers of Devlin his added strength coupled with a real determination to 'come through' before a home town audience makes him a foe to be respected and they look to him for a victory.

What may prove one of the greatest action-sprinkled underrecords ever billed to support a star bout will be dished up to the fans tonight when Johnny D'Zuro, of the Coast Guard, and Al Palladine of New York, clash in a six-round semi-final at 146. D'Zuro was giving Angel Tejure the business when a broken hand forced him out, as the fans will recall.

Sid Taylor, of the Coast Guard, and one of the real iron men of the ring, will be called upon to exercise every bit of his caginess when he meets Jack "Red" Knight, New Haven's red-headed Irishman, of the right hand kayo fame. Knight hits like a mule kicks but Taylor's followers are not the least bit concerned about the result.

Knight was the sensation of the amateurs a season or so ago and but for an attack of stage fright might have given "Tornado" Georgie Day a much closer fight when they met in New Haven last fall. Knight and Taylor will weigh in at about 140.

Another six-rounder finds Al Rodman of Goodyear, bracketted with Young Rochette of Westerly, R. I., at 120 pounds. Redman has been knocking his opponents about with reckless abandon and Young Rochette will be in there to see what he can do about putting a stop to both him and it. Looks like a sparkling attraction on paper.

All of the fistic fireworks however, will not be confined to the star bout and the sixes and the four-round opener which brings together Joe Oliver New Haven, and Larry McMannus of West Warwick, R. I., at 134, has all the earmarks of a whirlwind battle, especially if McMannus is the type who goes in there to give and take.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Vicar (concluding story)—And now, children, would you like to ask any questions?

Bobby—Yes, sir. Please, how do you get into your collar?—Passing Show.

Joe—I met my wife in a very funny way—I ran over her in my car and later married her.

Brown—If everybody had to do that there wouldn't be so much reckless driving.—California Guardsman.

Three young men from college, walking down the street, saw a very old gentleman coming toward them. Wishing to display a bit of college humor, the first one said: "Good morning, Father Abraham." The second said, "Good morning, Father Isaac." And the third said, "Good morning, Father Jacob."

The old man gazed at the three for a moment, then replied: "Young men, you are mistaken; I am Saul, son of Kish, in search of my father's asses, and behold! I have found three of them."—Montreal Star.

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

Columbia Phonograph Company, Bridgeport.

The Columbia Phonograph company represents an industry which had its beginnings in Connecticut but has grown to worldwide repute and ramifications.

Originally organized in 1887 under the name of American Graphophone company, it began manufacturing in a small corner of the group of buildings then known as the Bridgeport Organ factory on the block of ground bounded by Railroad and Hancock avenues, Howard and Cherry streets, in the city of Bridgeport. That little corner, representing as it did the first factory in the world devoted exclusively to the production of talking machines, was soon outgrown, and within less than ten years, it crowded out all other occupants and occupied the entire group of buildings on that city square of land.

Early in its career, The American Graphophone company had appointed the Columbia Phonograph company its sole selling agent for the entire world. The Columbia Phonograph company, in its turn, after blanketing the United States and Canada with wholesale and retail sales branches, outgrew the boundaries of its native land and began to spread its operations into foreign countries. Starting with Europe, spreading over the various nations of that continent and the British isles, it has continued to expand until today the Columbia Phonograph company and its allied and affiliated companies carry on business through their own factories, sales branches and accredited representatives throughout the civilized world.

Just to mention the more important ones, there are Columbia factories and sales organizations in England, Germany, France, Italy, Holland, Spain, Austria, Turkey, Australia, China, Japan, Brazil Argentine and Canada, in addition to the factory at Bridgeport, two factories on the Pacific coast, and about 20 sales branches in the United States.

Long before this world wide expansion had taken place, however, the Columbia company acquired a controlling interest in the American Graphophone company, so that the enterprise was controlled by what had been primarily the selling division. After some years, and because the products had become known throughout the world under the trade names "Columbia phonograph" and "Columbia records" it was decided to abandon the title "American Graphophone company" (which was the name of the manufacturing division only), and a reorganization was affected whereby the title "Columbia Phonograph company" was adopted as applying to the entire enterprise.

The growth of the business was such that by 1916 the crowded conditions of the factory and the need for increased production made it essential to enlarge factory facilities. This situation was met by the purchase of land and buildings on Barnum avenue, on the east side of Bridgeport. More modern buildings frequent additions and increases in space, and up to date equipment have gradually resulted in the concentration of manufacture at the newer location and gradual disposal of the old buildings and land on the west side of Bridgeport. The Barnum avenue plant is now one of the recognized landmarks of that growing manufacturing section of Bridgeport.

"Columbia phonographs," "Columbia records" and "Columbia radios" are still, as they always have been outstanding examples of Connecticut industrial leadership with the added distinction of having world wide fame and sale.

For TEETHING troubles

FUSSY, fretful. . . . of course babies are uncomfortable at teething time! And mothers are worried because of the little upsets which come so suddenly then. But there's one sure way to comfort a restless, teething child. Castoria — made especially for babies and children! It's perfectly harmless, as the formula on the wrapper tells you. It's mild in taste and action. Yet it rights little upsets with a never-failing effectiveness.

That's the beauty of this special children's remedy! It may be given to tiny infants—as often as there is need. In cases of colic and similar disturbances, it is invaluable. But it has every-day uses all mothers should understand. A coated tongue calls for a few drops to ward off constipation; so does any suggestion of bad breath. Whenever older children don't eat well, don't rest well, or have any little upset, a more liberal dose of this pure vegetable preparation is usually all that's needed. Genuine Castoria has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper. Doctors prescribe it.

RUM RUNNER STILL HARD AND FAST ON WATCH HILL BATHING BEACH

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Oct. 30—The stripped hull of the 67-foot rumrunning motor boat "Helen" of Newport, R. I., continued hard and fast on the Watch Hill bathing beach near Napatree Point on Thursday. Unfavorable weather conditions and other activities of the Coast Guard at the Watch Hill station, Capt. George W. Streeter, preventing any progress in getting the craft afloat. For the past two days the Watch Hill Coast Guard station and crew have been undergoing its periodic inspection. The inspecting officer has been Chief Warrant Officer Mitchell Hamilton, attached to the Third District Coast Guard headquarters at Wakefield, R. I.

It is understood that this week end the matter of the final disposition of the boat will be again taken up with the Coast Guard Base on Connecticut State Pier in New London, from which port it is expected a 75 or 100 footer will be sent to haul the craft off or blow up what remains with dynamite.

BEN WARD'S INDIAN TRICK— LOCATING A WELL ON A FARM

Ben Ward has discovered a new way to find a well. Recently John Saywer asked the well-finder if he could locate on his land a well of good water; so Ben thought for several minutes, said "Yes." Coming down to Mr. Sawyer's house on High street with a cane in his right hand he walked all around the property striking the cane here and there. At last he came to a spot back of the house about three feet, and with a smile said, "You will find plenty of water of the best around here!" The owner started to dig and got down about 15 feet and got water plenty. It came in fast and turned out just as the village well-finder told the owner.

Walter Olson asked Ben what was the trick in finding a well with a cane. "It is something I cannot explain! You see, when I was out in St. Paul, Minn., I met an Indian who had seen some war service, one of those with a bow and arrow, who saw Abe Lincoln, the rail splitter. This Indian was around 90 years old and that was about 10 years ago. He was down and out—not a friend in the world. He wanted some money to buy some tobacco for his long pipe; so he told the village well-finder if he would give him the price of a tin of tobacco, "I will show you a trick of finding a well of water with a cane. But you've got to use three words in my language and if you forget them words you will not be able to find a well."

For two long hours the Indian talked to the well-finder. That redskin had all of his teeth in good shape and had one gold tooth on the right side. He had it put in 61 years ago, and it shined so that a man could shave by it. Mr. Ward, who has a big heart, took from his pocketbook a $10 bill and gave it to the Indian for telling him how to find a well. The Indian was some pleased and thanked the Noanker and claimed that ten-spot would last him until the next full moon. Shaking hands, the old and the young men parted, never to meet again, but in another world.

Ben was telling the story out in the country from Noank when he was called by telephone to come and try to find a well for Joe Stand, who owns a large farm and needs water badly; so getting his Austin car out of the garage (the auto is the American bed bug of the cement road) the well-finder found the place to locate the well. Farmer Stand greeted him with a smile and said, "Young man, there have been ten men to try to find me a well of good water, but they fail, so, I will pin all hopes on you!"

Then with his English cane with a snake from the tip to the handle all done by a Scotch sailor with a jackknife, walking around the yard several times hitting the turf here and there, about 25 feet from the back doorstep, the cane went down. The well-finder repeated the three Indian words meaning "water under the cane."

He told Farmer Stand that he could start digging and find plenty of water. "Give me a ring when you strike water!" Then jumping into the Austin, the auto that can make 41 miles on a gallon of gasoline, he beat it back to the fishing village.

In a few days a telephone call came and he found out it was Farmer Stand, saying, "Well, Mr. Ward, you sure know your stuff on finding wells! I've got water enough that will last for years! I will send you a check for $25 for finding me such a volume of water and may you have the best of luck finding wells! You are the champion well-finder in Noank and your English cane with the snake on it does great work!"

Charles Dewey of Norwich was a business caller in the village Wednesday.

THE FARMER'S TALK TO FARMERS

THE PUNK OF UNEMPLOYMENT

(Written Specially For The Bulletin)

When Henry Ford declared that "history is bunk" he simply fell into the too common error of confusing the cause with the effect. If he had been a little less superficial and dogmatic he would have said: "History is the annals of bunk," which would have been a reasonably fair and complete statement of the case.

Three quarters of history is devoted to the story of the human race's incurable devotion to "bunk," in government, in business, in society. Webster defines the word as buncombe, humbug." And we all remember Barnum's famous saying that the American people liked to be humbugged. He needn't have confined the feeling to this continent; it is true of Europe and Asia and Africa also. Nor need he have limited it to the present age. It has been the chief characteristic of humanity since the origin of the race. All true history is, necessarily, the story of its many developments.

Of which developments, Henry Ford himself is not the least significant. But he is only one, and no more represensible than ten thousand others, even if a bit more prominent.

One of the latest outcroppings of bunk is in connection with the present wave of unemployment. That wave is, itself, the result of a combination of buncombe and humbug, by the free use of which vast numbers of supposedly sensible men and women were induced to invest their savings in soap-bubbles. Out in Iowa and other parts of the west it took the form of land speculation. In the east and the larger cities it went in for stock speculation. When the bubbles got so big they had to blow up, they exploded. The bunk-deluded "investors" were lucky if they saved their shirts. Their other savings went. Instead of being something ahead of the game they found themselves a long ways behind. Instead of having money to spend, they had debts to pay. So they stopped spending. Whereupon all the people who rely upon spenders for their own livings found their incomes cut down to such an extent that they, too, had to stop spending.

And immediately we had a "business depression" and an outburst of calamity howling. As is inevitable in such cases, the people who could stand it least were the worst hit,—the producers, the factory workers, the artisans. As the call for their products fell off their own employment fell through.

And immediately the "unemployment problem" showed its ugly head. Just at present it seems to be the most prolific source of discussion of any public matter, unless it be that between the "wets" and the "drys."

As might have been expected from the history of the past, the discussion is largely bunk and the proposed remedies are mainly buncombe and humbug.

Local and national governments are being appealed to to "make work" for the jobless. Private citizens are being urged to spend, in order to entice prosperity back. One economist is quoted as saying that if people would only spend five dollars more a week, apiece, the trouble would be over in a fortnight. Mayor Curley of Boston goes this several points better and urges Bostonians to "spend $20 and start the return of prosperity." One "up-and-going" newspaper editorially shouts: "Let's buy something, it makes no difference what. What you buy people will have to make,—it will put them to work, and they will have money to spend for what you have to sell." Another economist declares that "right now consumers are buying too little and saving too much."

The underlying idea of all this bunk is that if you'll only spend your money for something you don't need, the fellow who gets it will also spend it for something he doesn't need, and then we shall all be happy again. Everybody'll have something to spend and "prosperity" will simply zoom.

The well-known man up a tree might at this point ask in a feeble whisper just whose prosperity was likely to be primarily promoted by having you and me spend our money as fast as we get it.

It is easy enough to see how, if we each buy a dozen pair of rayon silk stockings which we don't need, the department store owner and the manufacturer, both of whom are over-stocked with silk stockings, will be several dollars better off. Both will have that much more to deposit to their accounts. Beyond that the course our money will take is less evident and its effects much more problematic.

If we save it, ourselves, we have it to fall back on in case of emergency; if we spend it we have no assurance that the spendee will do anything useful with it.

This idea that prosperity consists merely in passing money around certainly reminds one of the famous community where people never produced or made or saved anything but lived by taking in each other's washings. It is based on the superficial heresy that money is value, instead of being just a measure of value,—the measure by which we all rate the things we actually need or want more than we need or want money.

It seems too ineffably silly to be worth consideration. Yet the country is full of half-baked economists who are preaching it, and denouncing us because we won't practice it.

Then, on top of this, we have the spectacle of local and national governments falling over themselves in their zeal to "make work" in order to pay wages and get more money into circulation. This is, really, just another phase of the "dole" system, which England established some years ago, and which is slowly but surely transforming thousands of once productive workmen into parasitical paupers.

The Roman emperors tried it, 2,000 years ago. When the enervating luxury, bred of a too unequal distribution of too great wealth, had sapped the strength of a once sturdy and self-sustaining people, the emperors sought to alleviate the resultant sufferings of the lower classes by feeding them with free bread and amusing them with free shows. Whereby they succeeded, not in helping the poor but in turning them into a festering horde of bummers who expected food and entertainment they had not earned to be given them by the state.

All they clamored for was "panem et circences," which may be idiomatically translated as "free grub and free circuses." Is it any wonder that the Rome of such people and such emperors became but a hollow shell, crumbling into fragments at the first rap from the outside barbarians' clubs?

When will people learn that there is no escape from the consequences of their own acts?

The little toddler, taking its first uncertain steps and fearing to fall, clutches at the hot stove to hold itself up. It doesn't know that the heated iron will burn its tender fingers. But they are burned, just the same. To the average sentimentalist this seems cruel and unjust. Perhaps it is; perhaps it isn't. You and I were not consulted in the formulation of natural law. Our opinions were not asked, nor our feelings considered. We can't even alter it. We can find out some things about it, by the test our wisdom chiefly by acceting those findings and guiding our conduct in accordance with the law we know but can't amend or repeal.

Take this period of deflation and business depression, which is so far to the front, just now. We may not know all its causes, but we do know some of them.

For example, just after the World war there was what is called a "boom" in land prices throughout the agricultural west. It was partly natural and partly artificial. But it started the price of farm-lands to climbing. Land which last week was worth a hundred dollars an acre was sold this week for two hundred. So hundreds and thousands of farmers rushed in to buy up land and then more land. They invested their savings; they mortgaged their paid-for holdings to raise more money to buy more land. It was easier to make money buying land cheap and selling it dear than by raising corn or fattening pork.

So they figured. So it was till the bottom fell out, till the "boom" busted, till they found themselves loaded up with land they couldn't sell and debts they couldn't pay. Whereupon they promptly turned to the government and demanded that it find some way to get them out of the hole they had themselves dug.

If they had all stuck to straight farming and been content with small profits and slow saving, they might not, indeed, have become rich, but they wouldn't have gone bankrupt and carried half the local banks of some states into bankruptcy with them.

Similarly, two and three years ago, there was a "boom" in stocks. Quotations on the stock exchange rose, day after day and week after week. The man who bought a few shares of stock at the beginning of the month was often able to sell them at the end of the month for a profit double the savings bank's dividends for a whole year. So the surplus money of thousands of us went into stocks instead of into savings banks. Indeed, a good many of us drew out our slowly earning savings from the banks, to buy "get-rich-quick" stocks with.

It worked finely till the stock "boom" collapsed, like the Iowa land "boom." Money came in fast and easy for a while and we all went in for an orgy of spending. Then, when the bubble burst, we found ourselves flat on our backs, without money to keep ourselves even in bread-crusts.

Was it government's fault that we had over-reached ourselves and fallen into the slough we might have seen, if only we had kept our eyes on the path and not on the evanescent rainbow of speculative hope? Assuredly not. Yet we're now crawling after government and begging it to save us from the consequences of our own acts.

And the popularity-seeking politicians who make up most of our governments are actually trying to do it.

Talk about "bunk!"

THE FARMER.

BALTIC

Master Carl Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Johnson of Baltic road was given a party Sunday afternoon on his fourth birthday. In the decorations, orange and black predominated. There were witches and lighted pumpkin moon shines and black cats. Games were played and recitations were given. Wesley Brown won first prize in pinning the donkey's tail. The other children all received balloons and Halloween noisemakers. David Brown entertained by giving an amusing recitation. Wesley Brown sang The Shoemaker's song and Carl Johnson sang Blooming Clover Blossoms. The table decorations were chrysanthemums and dahlias in baskets. A beautifully decorated cake held four lighted candles. The cake was made and decorated by Mrs. Allan Brown, of Norwich. Halloween baskets filled with nuts and mints were the favors. Luncheon served by Mrs. Johnson assisted by Mrs. Roy Beard, consisted of chicken salad, cheese and olive sandwiches, rolls, cake, cookies, tea and hot chocolate. Candy and nuts were passed around later in the evening. Master Johnson received a number of gifts. About ten little friends and grown-ups passed a pleasant afternoon and evening.

HALLOWEEN SUPPER PARTY IN CONG. VESTRY THURSDAY

A Halloween supper of home cooked boiled ham, mashed potatoes, macaroni and cheese, cole slaw, buttered beets, rolls, pumpkin and apple pie, was served in the Congregational vestry Thursday, under the auspices of the Ladies' society. The table decorations were Halloween centerpieces, while festoons of black and yellow were over head, black cats and witches being suspended in mid air. Rev. G. F. Goodenough, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Earl H. Robinson received and seated those who attended. The waitresses had fancy Halloween head bands, and were Miss M. A. Burdick, Mrs. Andrew Mc Nicol, Mrs. Carl Benjamin, Mrs. Walter Benjamin, Mrs. George Palmer, Misses Marguerite and Madalene Gill, Christine Marshall, Margery Webster, Bessie Thompson, Eleanor Stetson, Ethel Fiske, and Susan Terry. The committee in charge were Mrs. F. D. Ballou, Mrs. E. H. Hiscox, Mrs. Joseph Gill, Mrs. G. F. Goodenough, Mrs. C. L. Howe, and Mrs. E. A. Faust. Alex McNicol was cashier.

An item in this column Thursday regarding the horse-play of students of the adulthood age in making themselves obnoxious while riding to and from Putnam Trade school in the bus, should have read "Students Annoy Passengers," not "Students Among Passengers."

FUNERAL

Peter Halko

The funeral of Peter Halko, 57, of Pachaug, was held Thursday afternoon at his home in Griswold. The services which were conducted by Aron Hyrka of Worcester, were after the Finnish rites, and included readings by two friends. The bearers were his sons Allen and David, his brothers, a nephew, a son-in-law and Eino Karjola. There were floral remembrances which were very beautiful. Many relatives and friends were present, including those from New York city, Brooklyn, N. Y., and Rhode Island. Burial was in Pachaug cemetery. E. E. Gilbert was the funeral director in charge.

Mr. Halko died suddenly Sunday at the home of Charles Seenberg who lives near the Voluntown-Westerly road. He was a carpenter and builder and had erected a fine home near the border of Pachaug Pond, adjacent to what is known as the George Wood property, now owned by Mr. Adams. Recently he had installed electric lights, and built poultry houses to accomodate one thousand chickens, and after years of hard labor was enjoying the well earned results. He is survived by his wife, a daughter, Mrs. Hugo Norrlund, a son Allen whose home is in Pachaug, and a son David who lives in Brooklyn, N. Y. The family came to Pachaug six years ago from Brooklyn, at first for the summers only, and three years ago built the new home.

LISBON RAINBOW BAZAAR WAS WELL PATRONIZED

The Rainbow bazaar held in Lisbon Community hall Wednesday evening under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid society was largely attended in spite of the stormy weather. The attractive booths were in the soft beautiful shades of the rainbow. The candy booth was done in green, Mrs. Walter Hyde and Mrs. Charles Learned having charge. The baby booth in charge of Mrs. William Phillips was decorated in yellow. The Japanese booth and tea room was resplendent in orange, Mrs. W. J. Reynolds and Mrs. F. I. Ray presiding there. The red booth contained all varities of canned goods, in charge of Mrs. George Kennedy and Miss Lucy Baldwin. A dainty lavendar-decorated booth held fancy articles, sold by Mrs. Charles Whitaker, Mrs. Clarence Whitaker and Mrs. E. B. Cheney. The apron booth was done in blue, Mrs. Frank Hyde and Mrs. Alice Anthony selling the aprons. On each booth table were miniature rainbows. A well with the old oaken bucket held prize packages, and was in charge of Mrs. Frank Mell and Mrs. Jesse Phillips, and Miss Hortense Phillips took orders for addressed stationery. A supper of roast ham, mashed potato turnip, cabbage salad, cranberry jelly, rolls, apple, pumpkin and prune pie, coffee and ice cream was served. The tables were decorated with hot house flowers in rainbow colors, and autumn leaf napkins added to the effect. The lights were screened in rainbow shades and pendants of rainbow colors. The general chairman was Miss Helen Hull, with Mrs. George Helmboldt, Mrs. Charles Strand, Mrs. Harry Hull, Mrs. Burr Smith, and Miss S. K. Adams . Mrs. A. Rist was in charge of the waitresses Jean Burleson, Harriet McCluggage, Sadie Goldberg, Clara Hyde, Mrs. Edna Dayon, Ruth Dawley and Hortense Phillips. After the supper there was an entertainment program arranged by Mrs. George Helmboldt. It included solos and a duet by Mrs. M. F. Beckwith, of Franklin and James Lockhart of Greeneville, a trio, violin, saxaphone and piano by Mr. and Mrs. Earl H. Robinson of Jewett City and Miss May Vallin, Norwich, and a pantomine, Wanted—A Wife, was given by Walter Hyde, Clara Hyde, Sadie Goldberg, Mrs. George Helmboldt and Mrs. Harry Hull. Newell Rist was cashier.

REV. DELWYN MARTIN'S CAR IN PROVIDENCE FATALITY

The friends of Rev. Delwyn Martin were much interested to hear over the radio and to read in a Providence paper of the automobile accident in Providence Monday night. Richard Oliver, organist for the Providence (Dudley) Bible Institute and Carl Booth, announcer and soloist over the radio for the Dudley broadcasts, were on their way in Rev. Mr. Martin's car to attend the Paderewski concert. In a collision, Mr. Oliver was killed, and Mr. Booth injured.

Mrs. F. E. Bobinson has been confined to the bed by illness for several days.

Don't forget Halloween dance, Voluntown, tonight. Music by "Hal" White and his Jazzland band. You can't afford to miss it.—adv.

How to Get Norwich Sunday Record

Next Sunday's circulation in Jewett City of the Norwich Sunday Record, is going to be well above 300, with one dealer raising his order from 75 to 150. Harold Frink is prepared to have a copy at your door if you will but let him know you want it. If you haven't made your wishes known, just stop at the Hiscox home, 76 Main street, and they will do the rest; or fill in the slip and hand it to your Bulletin boy Saturday morning.

Dr. Allonach, local dentist, and Mrs. Elizabeth Chase R. N., witnessed an operation by Dr. George Christopher Fayhe in St. Raphael hospital, New Haven, Thursday morning. The patient was Miss Bertha Lupa of Jewett City, who had an impacted tooth and cyst on the lower jaw.

KING'S DAUGHTERS HAD A HALLOWEEN PARTY

Whatsoever circle of the King's Daughters was entertained Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Thomas Brown. The delegates appointed to attend the New London convention, were Miss Ida I. Foster, Mrs. Lewis Hewlett, Mrs. Thomas Brown, and Mrs. E. E. Scates. The following numbers were included in the Halloween program. Reading, Mrs. George H. Prior, Perfect for College; reading, Miss Alice A. Brown, October's Bright Blue Weather. Two songs followed by Mrs. Scates and Mrs. Robert A. Wilbur respectively, We'll Celebrate Halloween Once More and To Jack O'Lantern. Guessing games and fortune telling were features of the evening's program. Halloween favors distributed were filled with candy.

Seventh Grade Exercises

The following assembly program was given at Riverside school Thursday afternoon by Miss Sullivan's seventh grade, Josephine Zarembowicz, leader.

Why We Celebrate Halloween, Josephine Zarembowicz; a recitation, "Sounds of Halloween" by Fred Maguder, Lionel LaCroix, Charles Brenek, Justin Holden and Roger Pepin; a harmonica selection by Evelyn L. Herault; Queer Cats, by the girls of the class; a song, "Halloween is a Jolly Time", by the class. A short play, "Who's Afraid of Ghosts", Esther Mary Bernal, Nora, Evelyn L'Herault, Tom—Milford Hill, James—Daniel Rourke, William, Walter Butremosic.

Norwich Produce Market

Furnished by Bureau of Markets Conn. Dept. of Agriculture

The local market was very little changed and most produce continued to move slow. Potatoes were showing a slight weakness locally with liberal offerings of native stock. The latest reports from Maine show that the market is holding steady and prices unchanged. Shipments from there continue heavy and distribution to points south and west of New York being comparatively large.

The apple market remains practically unchanged. Liberal supplies and very moderate demand. High quality is available in McIntosh, Greenings and Baldwins at prices no one can afford to pass by.

Native eggs of full size are limited in supply and firm. Connecticut Newlaid Fancy eggs in cartons sealed with the identifying New England Quality Product Label are now available on the local market and should attract the attention of the housewife.

SLOW, ORDERLY DECLINE OF PRICES IN THE STOCK MARKET YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 30—(AP)—The stock market dragged through a slow and orderly decline today and was joined by the speculative commodities, wheat, corn and cotton. Bonds, especially rails and U. S. governments, responded to the unusual abundance of money by making another advance.

To account for the heaviness in stocks, the old story of tax selling to establish income tax losses was dusted off, but it failed to find as wide acceptance as did the short selling explanation. Bears have had a goodly share of the news on their side and have again become moderately active, although cautiously so because of warnings administered privately now and then by the exchange officials who are seeking to prevent unfair tactics.

The market contained numerous weak spots in the specialties, which meant that the net declines ranged as high as eleven points. Active utilities, industrials and rails held their losses for the most part within a one to three limit. Turnover, although larger than yesterday's, failed to reach 2,000,000 shares. The total was 1,913,731.

Bethlehem Steel's unfavorable earnings statement, showing 63 cents on the common against dividend requirements of $1.50 was about as expected. The report, appearing after the close, was accompanied by an informal statement by President Grace, who said business was "not picking up a bit" and that nothing now in sight suggested improvement during the next month of this period of liquidation. He added, however, that things would be getting better next year and that the industry was in an excellent position to meet demand when it came.

For the fifth consecutive week federal reserve broker's loans took a sizeable drop. This time the decline totaled $101,000,000, bringing the deflation since the week ended October 1 to $710,000,000 and pulling the aggregate to within about $100,000,000 of the record low of $2,409,000,000 set on May 19, 1926. The largest decrease in the current report was for New York city member banks own account.

These loans figures now receive much less attention than was accorded them a year ago. Since the stock market average rose during the week covered by the current statement, however, it became more obvious that the buying had been of the sort that requires no borrowing from brokers.

Copper shares reacted slightly, but retained their firmer undertone. Buying of the red metal is proceeding actively, and consumers are said to be eager to purchase at present prices, especially in view of the movement toward curtailment of production.

Stocks were mostly soft throughout the trading day. For a time in the afternoon it appeared as though the market would rally, for American Can, General Electric and Westinghouse regained their small losses and showed fractional net advances. Pressure was again applied in the late trading, however, and final prices were around the lowest American Telephone and Consolidated Gas, were particularly heavy at the close, losing 2 7-8 and 2 1-8, respectively.

U. S. Steel recovered a point of its maximum loss of 2 5-8, which had carried it to 145 5-8, against the year's low of 143 1-4. General Motors, Bethlehem Steel, Woolworth, Gillette, DuPont, National Biscuit, New York Central, Baltimore and Ohio, American and Foreign Power, Public Service of New Jersey and Missouri Kansas Texas sagged one or two. American Can, Westinghouse and General Electric lost fractionally on the day.

Coca Cola was the outstanding weak spot, dropping 13 points. This was apparently another case of selling in a stock which has been quoted at a high ratio to earnings. It closed with a net loss of 11⅜. Eastman Kodak extended its decline by another six points, but was off only 2¼ at the close. Allied Chemical and Air Reduction yielded about 4. The steel group was heavy.

Wheat shaded off in minor fractions of a cent, but corn ranged from 1 to 1 5-8 lower on favorable crop reports from Nebraska and Illinois. Cotton closed easy with net declines of 55 to 90 cents a bale.

The irregular foreign exchange market saw another rise in the Spanish peseta. Other continental rates were mixed.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 30—(AP)—Strength of German municipals and industrial obligations, together with the continued improvement in the price of U. S. governments, marked trading in the bond market today. Increased activity developed in legal railroad issues and a few others of high rating but those of lesser rank were narrowly irregular.

The sharp gains by a wide list of German obligations was the best in weeks, and was influenced partly by advices from Berlin that Chancellor Bruening had forestalled any move for a moratorium in reparations.

While German 5½s advanced 5-8 and the government 7s held steady, German Central Agricultural Bank issues were heavily traded. The 6s of October 1960 rose 2 3-4 points and the sixes of July 1960 gained 4 points. Berlin City 6s, Berlin Electric Elevator 6½s, of 1956, Rhine Ruhr 6s, and several municipal issues shared in the improvement, which in most instances was registered in points.

A broadened demand developed for Brazilian bonds and some other Latin American loans. On a large turnover Brazil 6½s of '27-'57 rallied 2½ points. Columbia Mortgage Bank 6½s, advanced six points, Cordoba Province 7s, Montevideo City 7s, Porto Alegre 8s, and Rio Grande Do Sul 8s of 1957, 2 points each.

While the turnover in U. S. governments was moderate, Liberty 4th 4 1-4s, closed at the year's high price, and Liberty 3½s, surpassed its former 1930 maximum on the day's movement. Treasury issues were very firm.

The price movement and activity in the domestic section again demonstrated that there is little interest being shown by buyers in any but the gilt edge issues. Demand for railroad bonds of the legal class broadened and prices were slightly higher. Reports that the Van Sweringen interests would acquire control of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad influenced a 4 point rally in the 5 per cent bonds. Utility issues were steady.

COTTON

NEW YORK, Oct. 30—(AP)—Futures closed easy, 11 to 18 points lower. Spot quiet; middling 11.25.

MONEY

NEW YORK, Oct. 30—(AP)—Call money steady, 2 per cent all day. Time loans steady, 60 days, 2a2 1-4; 3-4 months, 2½a2 3-4; 5-6 months, 2 3-4a3 per cent. Prime commercial paper 2 3-4a3. Bankers' acceptances, unchanged.

Treasury Balance

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30—(AP)—Treasury receipts for Oct. 28 were $2,616,292.71; expenditures $7,420,129.60; balance $215,441,159.34.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30—(AP)—The gold statement of the Federal Reserve bank of New York for the week ended October 29, showed imports of $15,157,000, which included $15,000,000 received from Brazil and $157,000 chiefly from other Latin-American countries. Exports consisted of $7,000,000 to Canada and there was an increase of $2,000,000 in gold earmarked for foreign account. In addition, $2,000,000 in gold was shipped to Canada today.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 30—(AP)—The curb market continued downgrade today, although the volume of trading again dwindled, total transfers aggregating 355,300 shares.

The bulk of the trading remained in the utility group, where drops of a point or two were numerous. Electric Bond and Share lost more than a point, getting within 2 of its low. American Gas and Electri dropped to 90 1-4, but rallied to close at 93, off 2. American and Foreign Power warrants, Consolidated Gas of Baltimore, Electric Power and Light warrants, and Insull Utility Investment also lost about 2. Middle-West and St. Regis sagged 1.

Consolidated selling occurred in miscellaneous industrial specialties. A notable transaction was a sale of 2375 shares of J. B. Stetson at 49, off six points. This stock is infrequently traded in this market, and is quoted chiefly over the counter. Marconi International, lightly traded normally, sold down 1 3-8 to a new low at 7.

Johnson Motor dropped 2 to a new low at 10 in a few sales, and Glen Alden declined 4 to a minimum at 65. Dresser "B" sagged 1½ to a new low at 26½, and closed at 27. Syracuse Washing Machine "B" lost most of yesterday's 3 point gain. Ford, Ltd., eased fractionally. Anglo Chilean was a firm feature, gaining 2.

Oils eased again, although Indiana held steady, closing up 1-8. Cities Service an active feature, slipped off a fraction. Gulf and Standard of Ohio, declined 2. In the natural gas group, Lone Star lost 1. Investment trusts were inclined to ease, with losses fractional.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Oct. 30—(AP)—Bigger receipts of corn in Chicago led to a lower finish for prices of all cereals today, especially of corn itself. Coincident with the downward sweep of corn values was word that the federal farm board course grain advisory committee has been called to meet on November 17 to consider reports of importations of foreign corn and barley into the United States. There was also a late announcement that 240,000 bushels of rye was being brought back from a Canadian port to Chicago.

Closing quotations on corn were heavy at the day's bottom level, 7-8a1 5-8c a bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Wheat closed unchanged to ⅛c down, oats 1-8a3-8c off, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 10c.

John B. Stetson, Jr., former U. S. minister to Polland, has purchased a seat on the New York Stock exchange. The purchase followed formation of an investment banking partnership with Daniel S. Blackman, under the name of Stetson and Blackman, with offices in Philadelphia.

Stockholders of the Stutz Motorcar company, have approved the recapitalization plan providing reduction in capital stock by the issuance of one new share for each ten shares held.

The end of decreased activity in the building industry is in sight, a current issue of "The Review" published by the Bank of America National association, says. The survey noted an increase of 19 per cent residential building in September as compared with August, marking the first time since last April that the decline has been checked.

MANSFIELD CENTER

DEAN W. L. CROSS TO SPEAK IN NATIVE TOWN FRIDAY

Dr. Wilbur F. Cross, democratic candidate for governor, is to address the people of his native town at the town hall at Spring Hill Friday at 4 o'clock. Dean Cross is Mansfield's first candidate for governor in a history of 227 years and the first from Tolland county since the days of Governor Peters of Hebron, a hundred years ago. After the address the women of Spring Hill will serve a harvest supper.

Andover, Canterbury and Hebron granges were guests of Echo grange, Tuesday evening. There was a large attendance, the guests providing the entertainment and the Echo members the refreshments.

A class in millinery met at the home of Mrs. F. N. Slate Tuesday afternoon and under the direction of Miss Ellen Van Cleef and Mrs. Dimock, fourteen women made new hats or re-made others.

Among guests staying in town over the week end for the Old Home program were Rev. and Mrs. E. P. Ayer and son, of Branford; Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Rose, Hartford; Mr. and Mrs. George Stewart, Wethersfield; Mr. and Mrs. John Johnson New Britain; Rev. and Mrs. R. G. Pavy, Westfield, Mass., were guests of Mrs. C. E. Perry Sunday. Tea was served at the parsonage Sunday afternoon to out-of-town guests.

On Hallowe'en

When witches ride their brooms on Hallowe'en
  And ghostly goblins shrill a creepy tune,
Then wide-mouthed pumpkins light the eerie scene
  And black cats arch their backs and greet the moon.
Around the fireplace in a darkened room
  Adventurous tales are told of what has been
The fate of youth. The cowards meet their fate,
  The brave are favored by a fairy queen.

Beware the tricksy imps on Hallowe'en,
  Nor trust your fortune to the magic spoon;
Avoid the windy heath where spite and spleen
  Are hags that conjure with a weirdly croon.
But you may boldly seek some longed-for boon
  And know that apple seed and sacred bean
Reveal their secrets to the Harvest Moon.
  The brave are favored by a fairy queen.

All spirits are alive on Hallowe'en
  Who are not with us in the month of June;
By firelight and by moonlight forms are seen
  Who are not present in the light of noon.
Old Druid voices chant an ancient rune,
  Young Robin Goodfellow and all his team
Return to life from Mother Nature's womb;
  The brave are favored by a fairy queen.

The fruit of life comes at the Harvest Moon
  And joyous spirits dance at Hallowe'en;
The ancient rune becomes a modern tune;
  The brave are favored by a fairy queen.

William Ware Locke.

"Is your wife home?"

"Naw," replied Funkhauser. "She's out with a bunch of prize fighters."

"Prize fighters?" exclaimed Mrs. Popsicle.

"Yes," replied Funkhauser. "She went to a bridge party."—Pathfinder.

BUSINESS RECOVERY IS SHOWN ON THE WAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 30—In a summary showing the progress of business recovery, the Business Conditions Weekly says:

Manufacturing activity as measured by factory consumption of electricity has been on the increase since July. The September index was 110.7 as against 105.3 in August and 105.1 in July.

The total amount of wages paid to factory employees was larger in September than in August.

In September 24 industries reported an increase in employment over August.

The index of machine tool orders was 135.9 in September as compared with 112.8 in August and 91.1 in July.

Sales of cotton cloth have been steadily increasing since June. Average weekly sales in September amounted to 72,000,000 yards, as compared with 47,000,000 in August, 45,000,000 in July and 32,000,000 in June.

Residential building is showing increased activity. Contracts awarded in September totalled $99,000,000 as against $83,000,000 in August. Preliminary reports indicate a further increase in October.

Bituminous coal mining has been on the increase since June. Production in September totalled 38,580,000 tons as against 35,661,000 tons in August.

The output of electricity per week for the week ended October 18 totalled 1,710,000,000 k. w. hours, as compared with the 1930 low of 1,565,000,000 k. w. hours for the week ended July 12.

Foreign trade is showing expansion. Exports in September amounted to $313,000,000 as against $298,000,000 in August and $267,000,000 in July. Imports in September showed an increase over August.

Commercial loans have been on the increase since the end of September. For the week ended October 15, loans of reporting member banks amounted to $8,806,000,000 as against $8,452,000,000 for the week ended September 24.

Wholesale commodity prices on the average have shown little change since July, indicating that the bottom has been reached.

COTE AND THOMPSON, NOANK MEN, AT NEW LONDON ON THEFT CHARGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 30. — Emile Cote and Wilfred Thompson, both of Noank, were arrested at that place this evening by State Police Officer William E. MacKenzie, charged with theft, at the request of the police of South Norwalk. The young men were brought to New London and locked up. They will be delivered to a Norwalk officer tomorrow. Cote and Thompson, it is claimed recently stole an outboard motor and it is believed that they are guilty of other thefts, possibly from stores in the vicinity of Groton. Although vigorously grilled, Cote and Thompson denied all knowledge of thefts other than for which they were arrested.

Miss Rose Hirsch, of the force of clerks in the tax and assessors' office, municipal building, will be relieved of her duties tomorrow. The dispensing of Miss Hirsch's services is due to the consolidation of the two offices a few days ago when Assessor Frederick C. Burrows was retired and Tax Collector J. Hull Manwaring appointed in his stead. Mr. Manwaring will supervise the work of both offices. Miss Hirsch has been employed by the city about two years. The other young women clerks, Misses Martha Moore and Mabel Corkey will be retained.

NEARLY 3000 OWNERS FAIL TO FILE PROPERTY LISTS

But two days, Friday and Saturday, remain for property owners to file their tax lists at the assessors' office in the municipal building. Many property owners have neglected to file lists, nearly 3000 men and women neglecting to do so. There are about 8000 property owners in New London and to date but a few in excess of 5000 lists have been handed in. The time limit to make the filing expires at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon and owners neglecting to do so are subject to a penalty of 10 per cent increase in valuation as provided by statute.

Key In Lock For Burglars

The police found two more business houses insecure last night. Patrolman George McCaskey discovered the entrance to Darrow's printing office, corner of Green and Pearl street unlocked and was able to secure it. Automobile Patrol Officer Augustus Ray found the entrance to Feldman's grocery store, 453 Montauk avenue unlocked and with the key in the door. This store was also made secure.

Donald Toohey of Main street was arrested this afternoon by Patrolman Joseph Sullivan, charged with driving while his license is under suspension. The license was suspended several weeks ago. Toohey will be in the police court tomorrow.

Complaint was made to the police this evening, residents of Walbach street being annoyed because of youths persisting in ringing door bells. It is believed that the annoyance was mere anticipating of Halloween pranks.

Work has been started painting the lobby of the post office. It is expected that the job will have been completed by next Tuesday or Wednesday.

Several windows of the police substation at Ocean Beach were smashed recently and during the storm of Tuesday night and Wednesday rain entered through the openings. Repairs will be made tomorrow.

Hunger Impelled Break

Undoubtedly prompted by hunger, a thief gained entrance to the store of the National Economy company, corner of Manwaring and Hempstead streets last night. The break was discovered this morning when the store was opened and empty cracker boxes and sardine cans were found on the floor, indicating that the thief appeased his hunger and that he did not enter the building to steal other than that which he ate. Entrance was gained by means of an open rear window.

Automobile Patrol Officer William Corcoran had an unusual experience this morning and one of which he does not seek a repetition. The officer went to the police signal box, corner of Broad and Williams streets, at 3:30, to report at headquarters. He no sooner removed the receiver from the hook that he got a severe shock, sufficiently powerful to throw the officer to the ground and render him partially unconscious. The shock was the result of a short circuit that existed and today repairs were made.

The city has one less restaurant. "The Busy Bee," North Bank street, suspended business after having existed about two years.

Everything is in readiness for the annual Halloween parade tomorrow evening and it is believed that fully 1,000 children will march. The parade will start from the Y. M. C. A. at 7 o'clock and will move to State street, to Bank, to Truman, to Jay, to State and disperse at the Association building, corner of Meridian and Church streets.

FUNERALS

Mrs. Nathan Beebe

The funeral of Mrs. Isabelle W. Beebe, widow of Nathan Beebe, was held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Smith Memorial home, the services being conducted by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ. Relatives acted as bearers. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Frank Furness, a patient at Lawrence Memorial hospital, was discharged today.

Benjamin Denehy, who has a long police court record, will be in court again tomorrow for he was arrested this afternoon by Sergeant Samuel Hick and Patrolman Henry Sylvia, charged with vagrancy.

John Lamontague, a youth residing in Bridgeport, was arrested late last night charged with being a runaway. He was detained at police headquarters overnight and this forenoon was delivered into the custody of his father.

EO. WESLEY SURRENDERS— JAILED IN DEFAULT OF BAIL

George Wesley, residing on Main reet, was in the police court this orning, charged with assault and eft of an automobile, the case beg continued until Wednesday next. default of bail of $1000, Wesley as committed to jail. Wesley visit the home of Anna Ayers, who also colored, at 17 Hill street last Suny and while there he and the woan engaged in a brawl. During a rsh exchange of words, Wesley atcked and brutally beat the woman or both of her eyes were discolored nd one of them closed, and she also eceived numerous blows on the ace that disfigured her. After adninistering the beating, Wesley went to the street and departed in a Hudon brougham automobile. The woman did not report the attack made upon her or the alleged theft of the automobile, for she claims she owns the car, until Monday, because, she said, Wesley threatened to kill her if she sought his arrest and she awaited the arrival of her brother from Bridgeport before going to police headquarters. The police throughout the state were on the lookout for Wesley, but no trace of him was found until 9 o'clock this forenoon when he surrendered, going to police headquarters. Wesley, who claims to be the owner of the automobile, has been arrested many times, principally for frequenting disorderly houses, also on charges of assault with intent to kill, breaking and entering and breach of the peace.

Case Nolled

Angelo Di Maggio, 23 Moore avenue, a waste paper collector, was charged with breach of the peace, upon complaint of another paper collector, John Novellino, a youth residing at 158 Shaw street. Di Maggio's case was nolled.

A man charged with intoxication was given suspension of judgment, as he has not been in court before in several months.

Forfeit Bonds

John F. Donovan, Greenfield, Mass., was charged with speeding and as he did not appear in court his bond of $25 was forfeited. Donovan was arrested yesterday by State Police Officer John Smith when the driver operated his car through Bank street at a high rate of speed.

Francis P. Compston, West Shore, R. I., was charged with violation of the city's traffic ordinance and as he did not appear in court his bond of $2 was declared forfeited. Compston was arrested by Patrolman Joseph Sullivan yesterday when the driver parked a truck in such a manner as to obstruct traffic on State street.

Harry E. Harmon, Portland, Me., also charged with violation of the city's traffic regulations, failed to appear in court and forfeited his bond of $2.

At a meeting of Cecilia Sweeney post, No. 124, American Legion auxiliary, Tuesday night, the following officers were elected: Commander, Miss Alice Harrington; vice commander, Miss Winifred Nagle; adjutant, Mrs. Ethel Fargo; finance officer, Mrs. Lucy Pfannenstell; historian, Mrs. Elsie Moon; chaplain, Mrs. Loretta Elwood; sergeant at arms, Miss Rose Rieger; publicity officer, Mrs. Florence Hermanns.

Miss Marian Gammons returned to South Manchester this evening, having visited relatives here for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Tucker have returned to their home on Broad street, after having spent six weeks in Honolulu.

WEDDING

Carter—Nevins

William Carter, of Deep River, and Miss Catherine L. Nevins, of 37 Federal street, were married last evening at the rectory of St. Mary's Star of the Sea church by Rev. Dr. Timothy M. Crowley. The bride wore a brown transparent velvet dress with hat to match and carried talisman roses. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Alice Healy, of South Windham, who wore blue velvet with hat to match and carried butterfly roses. The best man was Edward O'Neill. Following the ceremony a reception for about 30 was held at the home of the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bobsein, of Waterford. Mr. and Mrs. Carter will reside in Deep River upon the termination of a wedding trip. Mr. Carter formerly resided in New London and is employed by the state as a landscape gardener.

MOHAWK'S OWNER FINED BY CUSTOMS OFFICIALS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 30.—J. J. Collins, owner of the big speedboat, Mohawk, which hails from New York, was fined $100 by United States customs officials late yesterday when a hearing was held on the charge of the speedboat having been operated without lights and upon complaint of United States coast guard officials. The boat had been held here a week and this morning cleared from port and headed westerly, presumably for New York. The Mohawk was seized on the night of Oct. 22 by the crew of a coast guard patrol boat and was in the vicinity of Montauk Point. The craft was observed proceeding without lights displayed and was in the vicinity of a rum-runner. The speedboat attempted to get away, but was overhauled after a long chase.

A large number of members of Trumbull lodge, Knights of Pythias, attended the anniversary meeting of Woodbridge lodge of Salem tonight. The trip was made by automobile.

About 100 attended the annual Halloween dance at the Harbour club last evening. Cider and doughnuts were the lunch. Ernest M. Cobb had charge of the arrangements for the event.

Mrs. H. J. Minault, Crystal avenue, is in Greenfield, Mass., where she is being entertained by her son, Francis Minault. Mrs. Minault will be absent from New London a week.

Mrs. Kollif Soltz, 83, who has been seriously ill at her home, 50 Federal street, is gradually improving and her recovery is now assured. Mrs. Soltz is mother of Dr. Thomas Soltz.

Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Kane, of 40 Garfield avenue, are spending a few days in New York, making the trip by automobile.

Uneasy About Outcome og Congressional Elections

bering that Massachusetts and Rhode Island voters preferred him to Herbert Hoover two years ago, addressed his supporters in those states on behalf of the democratic tickets. Now he is back in New York, ready to continue speaking in the Empire State for reelection of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt. The governor put him up for the presidential nomination at the Houston convention in 1928.

Idaho's Borah has abandoned his own campaign temporarily for a dash into Nebraska and Minnesota, there to acclaim his fellow independent republicans, Norris and Schall. Last night he was at Lincoln, advocating reelection of the former. Time and again the three friends have stood shoulder to shoulder in the senate, voting against legislation supported by the administration. Incidentally, the Idahoan predicted another effort in congress to write the debenture plan of farm relief into law. He and President Hoover parted company on that question last session.

Unless the democrats should realize their hopes to increase their senate strength to 49, a majority, the outlook is for another senate in which such independents as Borah, Norris and Schall hold the balance of power.

The democrats say they expect, more than hope, to add at least 53 house seats to their present 165 and get the 218 that is a majority. Contrasted with this is the republican claim that they will maintain "a workable majority" in the new house, which will not meet until a year from December. The seats now republican number 269.

Along with decision of that question, the electorate waits to find how a number of state situations will turn out. Prominent among these are the gubernatorial contests in New York and Pennsylvania and the senatorial contest in New Jersey. Two men whose campaigns have been followed particularly closely are Gifford Pinchot and Dwight W. Morrow.

Running for governor on the republican ticket, Pinchot has been bolted by a number of republicans prominent in the state. Senator Borah said he had been told utilities interests were spending money to defeat Pinchot, and would demand an investigation if this were substantiated.

Also both Pinchot and Borah have been mentioned as possible leaders of a national movement to defend prohibition in event that question should become an issue in 1932. And Morrow, who advocates return of liquor control to the states, has been cited as a potential leader of forces favoring repeal of the 18th amendment. He disavowed any aspirations for presidential nomination in 1932, however, coming out for reelection of Mr. Hoover.

Republicans are counting Morrow elected. The campaign has been given a family touch by a series of receptions to voters on the front porch of his Englewood home, the last of which takes place tonight. Friendship also has played a part in his campaign against the democratic nominee, Alexander Simpson. Walter E. Edge, who resigned as senator to become ambassador to France, has returned from Paris to aid Morrow—who resigned the Mexican ambassadorship to try for the senate.

As for the chances of democratic control of the senate, a setback was sustained yesterday by Senator Dan Steck being taken ill. Stricken in a Des Moines hotel, he was so weak he had to cancel the remainder of his speeches. Iowa is normally republican, and Steck's position already was threatened vitally by that party's nominee, L. J. Dickinson, now a representative.

The republican radio campaign went ahead last night with Patrick J. Hurley, secretary of war, on the program. He was the fourth cabinet member so called upon in Washington this week. The others are Secretaries Wilbur, Stimson and Mellon.

Tonight the republicans continue their broadcasting with the presentation of Senator Watson, of Indiana, floor leader on Capitol hill. He talks from Chicago over the National system at 10 p. m., E. S. T., on "Republican Construction vs. Democratic Destruction."

The only two remaining nation-wide radio addresses on the democratic side are being saved for election eve. They will be delivered by Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the minority floor leader, and Jouett Shouse, executive chairman of the national committee.

Broadway Theatre

When, right on the eve of his wedding, a young man learns that he has just become a father . . . it isn't hard to imagine what hilarious consequences may follow.

That is the situation in "Little Accident," Universal's sparkling comedy-drama, coming to Warner's Broadway for an engagement of four days starting Saturday.

"Little Accident" is replete with laughs from start to finish. The plight of the hero, with a three-weeks-old baby on his hands and entanglements with three prospective wives in the offing, furnishes the motif for what bids fair to be the fun smash of the season.

The picture has one of the most distinguished casts ever assembled for a screen play. It includes such names as Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Anita Page, Slim Summerville, Sally Blane, Zasu Pitts and Joan Marsh who are featured and Roscoe Karns, Henry Armetta, Myrtle Stedman, Albert Gran, Nora Cecil, Bertha Mann, Gertrude Short and Dot Farley.

"Little Accident" was directed by William James Craft, who has produced many of Universal's most popular comedies. The picture is based on the sensationally successful stage play of the same name, written by Thomas Mitchell and Floyd Dell.

Whale Exhibit

Far from the sunny Pacific waters in which she disported her huge bulk only one year ago, "Aimee," a gigantic whale captured off the Catalina Island, will be in town Monday and will be on exhibition on the New Haven tracks between Depot Square and Ferry street, remaining until Wednesday night.

The whale lies under a glass case in a specially constructed railroad car in which it is being taken on its transcontinental tour. Perfectly preserved by an expert use of the embalmer's art the emmense creature shows no sign of the terrific battle that preceeded her capture in September 1929 by a crew of the Pacific Whaling Co.

Travelling with the whale on tour is Captain Lew Nichols, "Whalebone Lew," aged seafarer, who is to tell spectators strange and thrilling tales of his exploits as a whaler. From "Whalebone Lew," it is learned that there are usually thirty two men on a whaling ship, with four officers. Four boats are lowered, for deep sea whaling, when a whale is sighted three hundred fathoms of line being let out with each boat. The boats contain bombing guns, harpoons, knives and hatchets, two kegs of water and two cases of hardtack, also flint for fire.

Captain Lew Nichols and his crew of lecturers tell some very interesting tales. Then there is the octopus, or devil fish. It is the biggest that has ever been exhibited. The pilot fish, flying fish and sword fish with all kinds of whaling weapons are also shown.

Palace Theatre

Winnie Lightner, the girl with personality, pep, punch and individuality, is the star of "The Life of the Party" which comes to the Palace theatre tomorrow where it will be shown through Tuesday of next week.

Winnie, who is a tomboy on the stage as well as in real life, got a lot of fun out of making her latest picture. She has amused thousands with her roles in her pictures, some of which are "Gold Diggers of Broadway," "She Couldn't Say No" and "Hold Everything."

As Flo in "The Life of the Party," Miss Lightner is given a chance to actually cut loose and do her stuff. Besides enacting the role of a New York song plugger who turns professional gold digger, in which characterization the tomboy of the talkies literally revels, she is given a chance to ride in a horse race. She gets a rough ride and is thrown head first into the mud. Onlookers enjoyed the picture making more than Winnie did herself.

Today, the Palace will present a double-feature bill including "One Night at Susie's" with Billie Dove and an all-star cast and "Ladies Must Play," a comedy drama with Dorothy Sebastian and Neil Hamilton. This double-feature program will be shown for the last times today. It is one of the finest bills that has ever been presented in Norwich and theatre patrons should not miss the opportunity to see Billie Dove in her most perfectly executed role.

GREENEVILLE

The Euphemian circle of King's Daughters of the Greeneville Congregational church held a very successful food sale recently at the drug store of Pitcher and Service on Central avenue. The successful affair was in charge of Mrs. William L. Clark, who was assisted by Mrs. James Service, Mrs. Frank Waters and Mrs. Thomas Haslam. The proceeds will be added to the circle's treasury.

Mrs. Herbert E. Ring has returned to her home at Schenectady, N. Y., after spending a few days with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Riordan, on 213 Central avenue.

Halloween Party Enjoyable

Under the auspices of the Sunday school teachers and the Ladies' Aid society of the Greeneville Congregational church, Thursday evening, a Halloween party was tendered the children of the Sunday school. About 125 children and adults participated in the masquerade. A grand march opened the evening's amusement with the first prize won by Mrs. Howard Rydholm as a wounded soldier. Miss Alice Quinley was awarded first prize for the prettiest costume, while little Herbert Buchanan was the winner of the cutest, he being dressed as a cowboy.

Many games were played which caused merriment for the adults as well as the kiddies, such as grabbing the chair, pinning the tail on the donkey, blowing out the candle, eating crackers the fastest, etc. The winners of the prizes for the games were: Grabbing the chair, girls, Miss Janice Service, boys, Clayton Smiley; pinning the tail on the donkey, Ruth Sutter; blowing the candle out, Charles Buchanan; eating the cracker contest, Mrs. Howard Rydholm.

Following the games refreshments were served by the teachers of the Sunday school, which consisted of assorted cookies and ice cream. The music for the grand march and games was provided by Miss Natalie Service on the piano. The affair proved very successful and all present returned home happy, and they more than enjoyed the evening. The committee in charge was: Floyd Thompson, Natalie Service, Miss Florence Tilly, Margaret West, Miss Ida Luther, Mrs. Campbell and Mrs. Jennie Young. The hall was very prettily decorated with streamers of black and orange crepe paper hung from the center of the assembly hall and draped back to the four sides of the room. Corn stalks, paper pumpkins, black cats, witches and other Halloween symbols were placed in proper places to add to the effect of the season.

MRS. GEORGE M. CHARBONNEAU ENTERTAINED AT BRIDGE

Mrs. George M. Charbonneau of No. 160 West Thames street entertained a large party of friends of the West Side section of the town, Thursday afternoon, at her home. Bridge whist was played and refreshments were served.

Mrs. Leslie L. Brewer, member of the republican town committee, addressed the women and a very pleasant afternoon was spent. Prizes were won by the following: Mrs. Charles Slosberg, Mrs. Leslie L. Brewer, Mrs. James Rutherford, Mrs. A. Ableman, Mrs. Friedman, Mrs. Charles Wheeler, Mrs. Krieger, Mrs. Silverman, Mrs. Beit, Mrs. Donald Bullard and Mrs. Millman.

DIVORCE ACTIONS AND DAMAGE SUITS ARE FILED IN COURT

Four new divorce actions were filed Thursday in the office of the superior court in this city. They are:

Moxie Hahn of New London vs. Winifred Manchester Hahn of New London; grounds, desertion since October 1, 1922; date of marriage, June 6, 1917.

Ernest H. Wartenberg, of Groton vs. Mary E. Wartenberg, formerly of New London, now of Bangor, Me. Grounds, desertion since October 10, 1927. Date of marriage, August 24, 1927, at New York city.

Edward Eugene Fisher, of Groton vs. Lucile L. Houle Fisher, of Rochester, N. H.; date of marriage, April 6, 1930, at Portsmouth, N. H.

Edwin Walter Gardner, New London vs. Ada Merrill Hunt Gardner, of New London; grounds, desertion since January 1, 1927; date of marriege, January 1, 1921, at Springfield, Mass.

Auto Driver Sued.

Christina Whaley of Stonington has brought suit in the superior court against Burge M. Seymore, of No. 730 Fifth avenue, New York city, and Thomas E. Fahey, of No. 79 Edwin street, Dorchester, Mass., asking damages of $3,000. September 1st, the plaintiff and her husband, Donald B. Whaley, were riding, according to the complaint in Mr. Whaley's machine on the state highway between Pawcatuck and Stonington. The defendant's automobile collided with their machine and she was injured. The Whaley machine was considerably damaged and Mr. Whaley seeks damages of $1,000

Struck Horse Drawn Saw.

Damages of $1,000 are asked by Berusake Dembrowski, of Waterford, in a suit he has brought against Fred W. Baxter, of Montville. Plaintiff alleges that October 26, 1929, he was driving his horse-drawn portable wood-saw on the New London-Norwich turnpike. The defendant's automobile collided with the rear of the portable saw. The plaintiff was injured and the portable saw badly damaged.

Woman Sues Husband.

Hermine Krebs of Montville has brought suit for $3,000 damages against Sebastian Krebs, formerly of Montville, now of New York city, and Rose Eidelberg, of New York, the papers in the action having been filed Thursday with the clerk of the superior court in this city. The plaintiff charges that she and Sebastian Krebs, whom she married in 1913, own land and buildings in Montville. She claims he deserted her in 1926 and that on February 17, 1930, her husband assigned all of his rights, to his daughter, Rose Eidelberg, the transfer being made to defraud the plaintiff.

Mrs. Krebs has also started suit for divorce from Krebs, on charges of desertion. She asks that she be granted the custody of her 16 year old daughter, Hilda Krebs.

Carl Zimmer, of Montville, has filed suit against Krebs for damages of $750. He claims this is due him for work he performed on the farm as a laborer and caretaker.

Foreclosure Actions

Two suits have been filed in the court office by the Eastern Connecticut Bond and Mortgage Co. Both are foreclosure actions. One is against Mary Freedman and Barney Belgrad of New London. A note for $3,400 and mortgaged land in New London are involved. The other suit is against Rosena M. Brockett, also of New London. The note in this case is for $1,632 and the mortgaged land is located in "Ridgewood" in the town of Waterford.

Philip and Beckie Meizler of Colchester and the Jewish Agricultural Society, Inc., of New York, have been made the defendants in a foreclosure suit by Bernard Schulman of West Hartford. The property involved is located on the Chestnut Hill road in Colchester. The agricultural society alleges that it holds a $1,500 mortgage on the property.

Another foreclosure action has been brought by William Marvin of Lyme, as administrator of the estate of Frank S. DeWolfe, late of Salem, against heirs at law, representatives and creditors of Charles Puglisi, formerly of Salem, and Sam Kosovitch, of Long Island, N. Y. The latter has a $3,100 mortgage on the property, which comprises a farm on the Colchester-Lyme turnpike, in Salem.

The United Thrift club of New London is suing Samuel Zabarsky, New London, and Philip and Harry Koss of East Lyme for a balance of $2,376 alleged to be due on a $8,000 note given the Thrift club by Zabarsky and endorsed by Philip and Harry Koss.

The Winthrop Trust Co., of New London, has filed suit against Harry H. Adams, Samuel T. Adams and James R. May, all of New London, claiming damages of $1,450. The plaintiff bank alleges that Harry H. and Samuel T. Adams gave them a note for $1,000, March 3, 1929, and that the note, endorsed by James R. May, has not been paid.

Joseph E. I. Underwood of Waterford has filed suit for $1,000 damages against Joseph A. Schmidt of East Lyme. The action is brought on the common counts.

In an action against John M. Mallon, Jr., of New London, administrator of the estate of Fadey Rotsko, late of New London, and Matrona Rotsko of New London, guardian of Fred Rotsko, a minor, Audokia Truken of New London seeks to correct an alleged error in a deed in order to show her interest in property at No. 11 Richards street, New London.

Sues To Collect For Services

Audokia Truken has also brought suit against John M. Mallon, Jr., administrator of the estate of Fadey Rotsko, late of New London, to collect $3,000 damages which she claims for services rendered the deceased. She claims that on or about March, 1928, Rotsko entered into an agreement with her, by which she was to be paid for services rendered. She claims that she has never been paid $25 a week for 36 weeks for services and labor as a waitress and cook in the restaurant at 101 North Bank street, New London; for 60 weeks' board at $10 a week furnished the decedent Rotsko and for $135.09 advanced for funeral and hospital expenses of the decedent.

AUTO DRIVERS NEGLIGENT IN GIVING INFORMATION

According to an announcement made Thursday by the state motor vehicle department, the chance for automobile owners to secure the same registration numbers for next year as they have this year will end November 5th. The announcement says that applications for special numbers may be made to the main office at Hartford, or any branch offices. Applicants should take care to comply with all the requests for information on the application form. In particular, care should be exercised in getting the correct engine number of the car. Sometimes the casting, or makers' serial number, is confused with the engine number.

The department also finds that many times persons who make report of accidents, as required by Connecticut law, give incorrect information or fail to give particulars as requested in the report forms. This negligence causes bother and annoyance to the person making the report and to the department, as the report must be returned each time incorrect information is supplied, or when facts are missing.

CONN. EPISCOPAL WOMAN'S AUXILIARY MEETING NOV. 5

The Connecticut branch of the Woman's auxiliary to the National Council of the Protestant Episcopal church will meet in Hartford Wednesday, Nov. 5, and an invitation has been extended to all women of the Episcopal churches to attend. This is the 50th anniversary of the Woman's auxiliary of the diocese of Connecticut. Following is the program:

9.45 a. m. — Holy communion, Christ church cathedral. 10 a. m.—Annual business meeting, assembly room, Christ church cathedral parish house. 2.30 p. m.—Fiftieth anniversary, Bushnell Memorial hall; speaker, Right Rev. James DeWolf Perry, D. D., presiding bishop.

MOTHERS' CLUB HELD SOCIAL IN WOMEN'S LEAGUE ROOM

The Mothers' club of the Central Baptist church gave a delightful Halloween social Tuesday evening, with 36 attending. It was held in the Women's League room, which was artistically decorated with orange and black crepe paper and Halloween cut-outs.

Mrs. George D. Phillips was chairman of the social, and arranged of number of entertaining games. Dainty refreshments were served at the close.

A program of the year's work has been printed and sent to all members and prospective members. Interesting speakers have been obtained for each meeting, held the fourth Tuesday every month, and topics chosen of particular benefit to mothers. Mrs. Emery H. Davis will conduct a "Child Study Period" at each meeting before the main program.

Halloween Social.

A spirit of youthfulness and joyousness characterized the gathering of members and friends of the Salem Lutheran church on Hickory street last Wednesday evening. Despite the unfavorable weather, a large group accepted the invitation of the Luther league to gather for a Halloween party. Following a short devotional song service in the church proper, the crowd repaired to the basement for games and refreshments. Committees in charge of arrangements consisted of Edna Hanson, Russell Pearson, Dorothy Pearson, Mrs. Bjork, Astrid Benson, and the pastor. The chairman of the league is Elmer Pierson.

ASSESSORS OFFICE OPEN UNTIL 9 P. M., SATURDAY

In order to give taxpayers every possible opportunity to get their tax lists filed in time and avoid the ten per cent addition for late lists, the Norwich board of assessors is to be in session to receive lists up to 9 o'clock on Saturday night.

The lists from Norwich taxpayers have come in fairly well but there are still a good number who have neglected to visit the office of the assessors and these officials want to save every property owner the ten per cent addition, if possible.

RECOGNITION SERVICE BY TRAINING SCHOOL

In connection with the closing sessions of the Norwich Community Training school which has been held this week in Noyes parish house of the Central Baptist church, a recognition service for the teachers and pupils is to be held this (Friday) evening at 8:15 sharp, in the assembly room in Bushnell chapel. Part of the programme which friends of the teachers and pupils will enjoy is expected to be a demonstration by the pageantry class. Friends of the pupils will be welcome at the service.

PHILADELPHIA MISSIONER AT BALTIC CATHOLIC CHURCH

Rev. James Seidel, a Redemptorist Father from Philadelphia, is conducting a mission in English at the Immaculate Conception church in Baltic this week. Every evening the church is filled, not only by Baltic people, but many from Taftville and Norwich are attending. The sermons are especially interested and brilliantly delivered by Fr. Seidel, who is not a stranger in this locality, having conducted a mission in Taftville recently. The morning masses also are drawing out large congregations.

TAFTVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Humes, of Jewett City road, have moved to Central avenue, Greeneville.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gaudreau, of Norwich avenue, are occupying one of the apartments in the Wilbur E. Baldwin property, which has recently been rebuilt after a disastrous fire of several months ago. Others who have leased apartments there are Mr. and Mrs. Michael Murphy and Mr. and Mrs. James Sellers.

The annual meeting of the Taftville chapter, American Red Cross, was held Wednesday evening in their rooms in the Ponemah community building.

Edward Fenley, of Providence, R. I., was a business caller in the village Wednesday.

Rev. Henri Chagnon, former curate at Sacred Heart church of this village, who was recently transferred from All Hallows church, Moosup, to St. Ann's church, Bristol, has been in town this week calling on friends.

A Rocknook Well Child's conference under the auspices of the United Workers is to be held this (Friday) afternoon at the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah community building.

The members of the Dramatic club held a meeting recently to complete plans for the presentation of their annual play, which is usually given in connection with the annual fair of the Taftville Congregational church. Parts will shortly be assigned to those who show up best in the "tryout" The play this year is "Some Little Fixer," and is to be produced under the direction of Miss Flossie M. Meyer.

James E. Welch, of Worcester, Mass., has been calling on friends in town this week.

The members of the minstrel troupe being organized by the Men's club of the Taftville Congregational church held a meeting and rehearsal Wednesday evening in the church vestry, with Clayton Sharples in charge.

Master Carl Johnson celebrated his fourth birthday Sunday afternoon at his home on Baltic road by entertaining a number of his little friends at a party. The decorations were in keeping with the Halloween season, and there was a birthday cake surmounted by four candles. Refreshments were served to the young guests, who expressed their good wishes to the host and presented him with a number of pretty gifts.

Saturday afternoon 14 members of the Versailles Methodist Episcopal church choir motored to Providence, R. I., where they attended a theatre, dining together later in the evening.

WEDDING.

Trudelle-Lussier.

One of the prettiest autumn weddings took place Thursday morning at 8 o'clock, when Miss Therese Lussier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Lussier, of Terrace avenue, became the bride of Arthur Trudelle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Trudelle of the Old Canterbury turnpike at a nuptial high mass celebrated at Sacred Heart church by Rev. Oscar Normand, cousin of the bridegroom. As the wedding party moved up the aisle the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin was played by Miss Alice Frechette, organist at the church. After the Children of Mary sodality ceremony conducted before the altar of the blessed virgin by Miss Cecile Lussier and Miss Beatrice Morin acting as delegates of the society, the bride was escorted to the main altar where the marriage vows were exchanged preceding the mass.

The bride had for her maid of honor, Miss Viola Michon. The best man was Philip Lussier, the bride's brother. The bride wore a gown of white satin and carried a bouquet of Bride's roses with a shower of lilies of the valley. Her bridal veil of tulle was caught up with rhinestones and pearls. The maid of honor wore orchid satin with hat to match and carried orchid chrysanthemums. At the home of the bride's parents, a large number of guests attended the wedding reception and breakfast following the church ceremony. The bride received many beautiful gifts including silver, china and money. Late in the afternoon the happy couple left on a wedding trip which will take them to Woonsocket, R. I., Spencer, Mass., and Thompsonville. Mr. and Mrs. Lussier have many friends locally who extend them their best wishes for a prosperous and happy married life.

BALANCE OF COMPENSATION IS AWARDED CHILDREN

A supplemental finding has been made by Compensation Commissioner Albert J. Bailey in the case of Mrs. Ethel B. Riley Chase, guardian of Louis A. and Doris L. Riley, dependent children of the late Harold W. Riley, against Harry L. Lathrop of Norwich and the Aetna Life Insurance company.

As the result of the death of Harold W. Riley, Dec. 26, 1926, from injuries received Dec. 3, 1926, in Norwich, while in the employ of Harry L. Lathrop, an award was filed in this case Jan. 20, 1927, which provided for the payment of all medical, surgical, hospital and funeral bills of the deceased. The award further provided for the payment of compensation during the period of disability following the injuries, also for the payment of compensation to the widow for a period not to exceed 312 weeks at the rate of $10 a week from Dec. 27, 1926. It is found that compensation has been paid to September 7, 1930, and on Aug. 10, 1930, Mrs. Riley re-married, so that the two minor children are now entitled to the balance of the award.

CORONER TAKES EVIDENCE IN CORMIER FATALITY

Evidence from a number of witnesses was taken by Coroner Edward G. McKay at a hearing held Thursday afternoon at his office into the death of Philip Cormier, 43, late of Framingham, Mass., who was killed in an automobile accident here Oct. 21. The Framingham man was an occupant of a machine driven by Edward J. Cormier, 38, of Hartford, which crashed into a telegraph pole and upset on Washington street near Harland corner.

The two men, at the time of the collision, were on their way to the funeral of Richard Elmer Cormier, late of Norwich Town, who was killed in an auto accident a few days previous at Northfield, Vt. Since the arrest of Edward J. Cormier on a charge of manslaughter he has been held in the Norwich jail in default of bonds of $2,500.

HALLOWEEN CELEBRATION AT NORWICH TOWN TONIGHT

Should the weather be at all doubtful for the Halloween celebration this (Friday) evening at Norwich Town or should the Green where the celebration is scheduled to take place be extremely damp, following the recent rains, the events will be transferred to the Samuel Huntington school, as a precaution against risking illness. In case of such a change some one will be stationed on the Green to give directions to any persons who might assemble there.

Fined On Three Charges

In the city court Thursday morning the case of Frank Podgiewski, 24, of Norwich, charged with intoxication, breach of the peace, and resisting an officer, was tried. He was found guilty and fined $20 and costs. The accused, arrested Wednesday evening on the West Side following a disturbance, resisted Officers Michael Pouch and Patrick Shahan.

From Colds Where
You Want
Super Help

Coughs from colds that hang on call for super help. Don't take the chance with anything less than Creomulsion. That combines seven major helps in one. See label. It does the utmost for such coughs.

But wise people use it for milder coughs—use it to be safe. It costs a little more than lesser helps based on a single factor. But it costs nothing if it fails to bring you prompt relief. Your druggist guarantees it. Is it not worth $1.25 to have supreme help for a trouble that breeds danger?

WOMAN'S CITY CLUB HELD ROUND TABLE

The music department of the Woman's City club, of which Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham is chairman, held the first round table of the season in the club room Tuesday evening. The good-sized audience was most appreciative of the program on early American music, which had been arranged by the committee in charge, Miss Annie L. Taft, Miss Harriet R. Trumbull and Mrs. Charles Schwenck.

Miss Trumbull read an interesting article on early American music, tracing it step by step from the Puritans to the Civil war period. She made special mention of the Bay psalm book published in 1640 which contained only the words of the metrical psalter a few tunes being added when the ninth edition appeared in 1698. With the rise of singing societies and choirs came the stirrings of the creative impulse. A unique figure among the early composers was William Billings (1746-1800), a Boston tanner, who made up for a lack of education and a grotesque personal appearance by a genuine musical enthusiasm. Beginning by chalking his original tunes on the side of hides in his shop, he launched these compositions on the public in 1770 in The New England Psalm Singer, a collection which, with only the most superficial knowledge of the rules of structure, he boldly wrote in four or five parts, naively proclaiming that "Nature is the best Dictator."

Then there was that Massachusetts carpenter, Oliver Holden (1765-1834) who became a music teacher and is best known for his tune Coronation.

A valuable promoter in Philadelphia was Francis Hopkinson (1737-1791), eminent as a lawyer and a signer of the Declaration of Independence who yet found time to gratify his musical enthusiasm by playing the harpsichord and writing songs which entitle him to the place of our "first native poet-composer." In 1759 his song "My Days Have Been So Wondrous free" was written.

A leading organizer whose work lay in the early 19th century was Dr. Lowell Mason (1792-1872) of Medfield, Mass., whose boundless enthusiasm contributed immeasurably toward awakening popular interest in music. As choir master, conductor of the Handel and Hayden Society of Boston, collector of choral music, founder of the Boston Academy of Music and introducer of music into the Boston public schools his work is of the greatest importance.

Stephen A. Foster (1826-1864), a native of Pittsburgh, Pa., is immortalized through his large number of songs of which he wrote both words and music. Louis Moreau Gottschalk (1829-1869), who was born in New Orleans and studied the piano abroad, fascinated audiences throughout Europe and America by his magnetic personality and playing and by the original charm of his piano pieces.

The music discussed during the evening was also illustrated, a quartet composed of Mrs. James A. Bidwell, Mrs. Charles Schwenck, Mr. Lyle Fillmore and William Lund giving the following songs of Stephen Foster: Old Dog Tray, Hard Times Come No More, and My Old Kentucky Home. Mrs. Bidwell sang Hopkinson's My Days Have Been So Wondrous Free, Foster's Beautiful Dreamer and Gottschalk's Oh Loving Heart Trust On. Mrs. Schwenck sang Gottschalk's Sleep Be Thine, Oh Baby Mine. Two books of old songs and dance music were on exhibition and the whole program proved most instructive and entertaining.

RAILROAD INVESTIGATING ALLYN'S POINT FIRE

The investigation of the cause of the fire which on Tuesday did damage estimated at $10,000 to the coal-unloading tower, known as No. 2 digger, and its equipment, at Allyns point on the Thames river, was being continued Wednesday by the New Haven railroad. No report has been filed.

The fire broke out over a boiler in the tower, which is of wood construction. The tower and property where it is located are owned by the railroad but are leased by H. N. Hartwell & Son, Inc., of Boston.

SURPRISE SHOWER FOR MRS. FLORENCE ORME

A delightful kitchen shower was given at the home of Mrs. Emma Orme in Baltic Wednesday evening by the choir of the Baltic M. E. church in the honor of Mrs. Florence (Firth) Orme.

Games were enjoyed, a solo was given by Jack Faulkner and group singing was also enjoyed. A delightful exhibition of dancing was given by James Orme. New members in the choir were also initiated.

A delightful luncheon of pork, pies, assorted cakes and coffee was served by Mrs. James Orme assisted by Mrs. Ella Orme, Mrs. Eva Wilson and Mrs. Ethel Firth.

Those present were Frieda Froemel, Edith Hinchliffe, Florence Barnes, Martha Houghton, Annie Collins, Anna Busch, Constance Charon, Sadie Stewart, Esther Firth, Eva Wilson, Ella Orme, Emma Orme, Ethel Firth, Marie Heibel, Lois Shaw, Henry Froemel, James Orme, Harold Wilson, Harold Sargent, Jack Faulkner, Fred Whitehead, James Hallas.

GAVE ADDRESS ON EDUCATION OF BLIND

At the weekly luncheon meeting of the Norwich Lions club, Thursday noon at the Wauregan hotel, Miss Ethel L. Harvey, of Hartford, home teacher for the state board of education for the blind, gave an interesting address on the subject of "What the State Is Doing For Its Blind." Louis M. Crandall, the president, was in charge of the meeting, and Jean Kieffer was the song leader.

At the business session the club voted not to participate in a body in the Armistice day parade, which is being sponsored by Robert O. Fletcher post, No. 4, American Legion. This action was taken inasmuch as the majority of the members are to parade with other organizations with which they are affiliated.

In her address Miss Harvey said:

In 1893 a blind baby was left on the door step of a Mrs. Foster, Hartford. This was a beginning of work for the blind here, as from it originated the nursery and eventually the school for the blind.

The work is carried on under the direction of the state board of education for the blind, through nine departments, but we will only take up five.

First: The nursery which is located at Farmington takes infants, trains them until they are five after which they are transferred to the school department. However, if the child should prove to be normal he is often kept until the age of 12 when some other provision is made for his care.

Second: The school department located at 10 Holcomb street, Hartford, Conn., takes the child through the grammar and high school courses, thus preparing him for the battle of life. If the student proves his ability and wishes to go on the state often sends him to college, gives him a business course or special training to prepare him for a specific field of endeavor in the business, educational and social world.

Third: The trades department, located on Ridge road, Wethersfield, Conn., is a combination home, school, and work shop. It takes care of about 50 of the adult blind, who receive training in broom making, chair reseating, basketry, rug weaving and typewriting. Braille reading and writing. The work done by this department is very effective, but does not take care of the majority of the adult blind as it is not equipped to do so. Were it, it would be out of the question as many of our blind adults are incapacitated and would no more fit into institution life than a ditch digger into an office. To meet the need of the majority, a fourth department was created by the state board of education for the blind.

Fourth: In 1921 the home teaching department was opened with two teachers in the field who visited the blind in their homes throughout the state and taught them the various handicrafts, such as basketry, chair reseating, sewing, crocheting and knitting, reading and writing of Braille, typewriting, etc. Since that time the work of this department had grown so rapidly that two teachers had been added to the staff and the state has been divided into four districts with a teacher in charge of each. In this way the problem of giving occupation to the blind is met. The object of the department is four-fold: 1. conservation of vision by teaching the individual to use his hands instead of his eyes, thus saving the sight he has for traveling, etc.; 2. to give occupation in a small way in order to fill the long hours of the day, which would be almost unbearable as the hardest task the newly blinded person has is to sit with folded hands with nothing to do; 3. to give small remuneration for the work done but not with the intention of making the individual self-supporting; 4. the missionary aspect by giving inspiration, cheer, and encouragement through a social visit. This is the entangible part of the work and its results cannot be figured in dollars and cents.

Fifth: The sales department sprang into existence as a necessary outgrowth of the fourth. For if articles were being produced a market must be found for them. Therefore, a young woman, Miss Susan Todd, was given charge of this specific branch and through her unceasing efforts sales are being held in different parts of the state throughout the entire year. Last year over $12,000 worth of articles made by the blind were disposed of in this manner. Not one cent is taken for commission. Full proceeds go to the worker who eagerly watches the mail to ascertain if there might not be a check for him.

Ministers To Meet At Y. M. C. A.

The next meeting of the Norwich Ministers' association will be held Monday morning, Nov. 3rd, in the parlors of the Young Men's Christian association. The time of the meeting has been changed from 11 to 10 that ample time may be given all for the discussion of the interests of the ministers. The newly elected president, Rev. Theodore M. Shipherd, D. D., has announced that the discussion will be on the subject, "What Ends Should Be Accomplished In the Meetings of the Association?" Ministers of all creeds and denominations are priviliged to attend.

Synagogue Sisterhood Meets

The meetings of the Sisterhood of the Norwich Community synagogue were resumed Tuesday evening when members met with the Misses Shershevsky of Asylum street. A programme of activities for the year was discussed and plans were made for a rummage sale. A social hour and refreshments followed the business session.

Altogether, approximately 25,000 Icelanders have come to live in America.
